

A WARRIOR UNDEFEATABLE/

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3716-“Haha! Don’t let your wife hear you talk like this, Mr. Jensen. Otherwise, you’ll be in for it.” Dillon burst out laughing heartily.

“I was only joking. You wouldn’t rat me out, right, Mr. Sawyer?” asked Rory Jensen with a laugh.

“Well, I don’t know. If you want to shut me up, you might have to pay up.” Dillon was joking around with Rory.

Seeing Dillon engrossed in a lively conversation with Rory, Jared didn’t want to waste any more time. Hence, he asked Dillon, “Mr. Sawyer, now that I’ve arrived, I won’t bother you any longer. Could you tell me where the reception of Lunarius Palace is? I need to make some inquiries.” “Mr. Sawyer, who might this be?” Mr. Jensen sized up Jared.

Dillon quickly introduced Jared by saying, “Oh, this is Mr. Chance. He’s the one who successfully treated the illness of Mr. Sutton’s daughter.” Dillon specifically brought up the matter of Moses’ daughter because Rory had a close relationship with Moses.

The young Rory could assume the role of a branch sect leader in Southedge City at such a tender age, thanks largely to Moses’ recommendation.

Although Southedge City was desolate at that time, he still served as the branch sect leader. For a young man, this represented boundless opportunities.

With the emergence of Lunarius Palace, Southedge City had become more prosperous. Consequently, Rory’s wealth and Pathfinder Sect’s status had risen to the point where he could then afford to joke around with Dillon.

“What? Mr. Sutton’s daughter has recovered from her illness?” Rory was surprised.

Dillon nodded. “Yes. It was Mr. Chance who cured her. In gratitude, Moses even gave Mr. Chance a token.” Upon hearing Dillon’s words, the way Rory looked at Jared became significantly more respectful.

“Mr. Chance, I’m Rory Jensen. I’m in charge of this branch sect of Pathfinder Sect. If you need anything while you’re here, feel free to reach out to me at any time,” Rory uttered with utmost politeness.

“Thanks a lot, Mr. Jensen. Right now, all I want to do is to register at the reception of Lunarius Palace. Do you happen to know where it is?” All Jared wanted was to swiftly reach Lunarius Palace and get the Demonia Stone. If his identity were to be completely exposed, things would become even more difficult for him.

Rory informed Jared about the location and intended to take him there.

However, Jared flatly refused.

Jared planned to find a secluded spot to alter his appearance. Having Rory trailing behind him would be very inconvenient.

After bidding farewell to Dillon and Rory, Jared found a secluded spot to alter his appearance subtly. However, this time, Jared did not transform into a bearded old man.

After all, most of the cultivators journeying to Lunarius Palace were young. If Jared were to take on the appearance of an older man, he’d stand out far too much.

Jared simply transformed into a rather ordinary-looking young man and headed toward the reception of Lunarius Palace.

Before Jared even reached the reception, he saw that a crowd had already formed ahead.

The line of people extended for several hundred meters, stretching as far as the eye could see.

Just as Jared was finding himself in a bit of a pickle, a cultivator with a goatee and squinty eyes started walking toward him.

Jared nodded. Although he wasn’t in search of a partner, he couldn’t exactly tell this guy that he was here to get the Demonia Stone.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3717-“Could you really take me to Lunarius Palace?” Jared scrutinized the goatee, disbelief evident in his gaze.

The man with the goatee stroked his beard, saying with an air of confidence, "Of course. I've spent my whole life here. I know the way to Lunarius Palace like the back of my hand, and it's completely safe. Let me be honest with you. I'm well-acquainted with an elder at Lunarius Palace. If you're generous with your spiritual coin, I can even get you into the inner court without a hitch." "All right. Lead me to the inner court. Hopefully, I'll get a chance to meet the head of Lunarius Palace!" After he finished speaking, Jared immediately pulled out a dozen purple spirit coins from his Storage Ring and tossed them to the man with a goatee.

"Purple spirit coins?" The man was stunned as he stared at the purple spirit coins in his hand.

It took quite a while before he could regain his senses. The moment he looked at Jared, his gaze transformed into an irresistible charm.

He hadn't expected that Jared would turn out to be a wealthy tycoon, casually doling out dozens of purple spirit coins.

"Rest assured, Sir. I, Alastair, have spent my entire life here. I'll certainly guide you to Lunarius Palace!" Swiftly, Alastair pocketed the purple spirit coins into his jacket, preparing to leave with Jared in tow.

"Alastair, you're up to your old tricks again. How many times have I warned you?" Just as Alastair was about to leave with Jared, a sudden delicate shout rang out.

A woman clad in green, wielding a magic sword, swiftly approached, her glare fixed fiercely on Alastair.

Upon seeing the woman, Alastair was instantly overcome with extreme awkwardness.

Quickly, Alastair shook his head and said, "Ms. Liemann, I assure you, I'm not scamming anyone. Please, don't make a groundless accusation!" "Hmph! I've been watching you for quite some time now. You're always using Lunarius Palace as an excuse to deceive others. Don't think for a second that I'm not aware of it." Yuliya Liemann scoffed and turned her attention to Jared.

"Sir, I'm in charge of the reception at Lunarius Palace. My name is Yuliya Liemann. Did this guy tell you that he could take you to Lunarius Palace and even get you inside for a fee?” Jared gave a slight nod and turned his gaze to Alastair. His eyes held a flicker of anger. This guy is a fraudster!

“Don’t let yourself be fooled. If you wish to visit Lunarius Palace, you must register at the reception first. Only then can we guide you there. If you recklessly ventured up the mountain on your own, you wouldn’t be able to locate Lunarius Palace at all. Instead, you would find yourself in a predicament. The conditions here are harsh, and there are demon beasts lurking everywhere. If you really want to go to Lunarius Palace, then please line up to register.” After Yuliya finished speaking, she glanced at Jared before quickly continuing, “However, you’re a Third Level Tribulator. I’m afraid you might not be able to visit Lunarius Palace this time. The minimum requirement for the registration for cultivators this time is to be at least a Fifth Level Tribulator. After all, this time the women from the outer circle are seeking partners to venture into the polar region with. You’ll die if your cultivation is too low.” Upon hearing Yuliya’s words, Jared was genuinely taken aback. He hadn’t expected Lunarius Palace to be so uniquely different. They want to find a partner for their disciples from the outer circle residing in the palace, and there are even requirements for cultivation level! This is hardly a search for a partner.

It is clear they are looking for an easy mark, someone to do the grunt work for Lunarius Palace for nothing in return!

Jared was just about to ask Yuliya if the head of Lunarius Palace was present.

He was hoping to establish a connection and see if he could gain entry into Lunarius Palace.

“What on earth is this? Is Lunarius Palace not doing anything to manage this?” “I’ve been waiting in line for ages. No one’s allowed to cut in!” People in the queue began to voice their dissatisfaction loudly.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3718-Yuliya turned her gaze toward a female cultivator not too far away, her voice stern as she questioned her, “Eira, what’s going on? Why is there a line jumper?” The female cultivator hurriedly came over and reported, “Ms. Liemann, this person is associated with Ms. Mueller.” With a stern expression, Yuliya voiced her displeasure by saying, “Didn’t I make it clear before? Regardless of relationships, we must adhere to the rules, right?”

Have you forgotten the rules of Lunarius Palace?” “Ms. Liemann, I...” The female cultivator’s voice trailed off as she lowered her head, appearing somewhat upset.

“Do I also have to follow the rules?” A male cultivator dressed in white was striding toward Yuliya, an amused smirk playing on his face.

When Jared caught sight of this male cultivator, he was instantly taken aback.

Isn’t this Keiran, the one whom Mr. Sutton had let go? When did this guy arrive in Southedge City? Could it be that he is also heading to Lunarius Palace?

Yuliya’s brows furrowed slightly when she saw Keiran. “Mr. Mueller, your actions are now causing displeasure among others. Besides, our hands are tied...” It was clear that Yuliya’s tone had softened considerably, and it seemed that she was also acquainted with Keiran.

Keiran glanced at Yuliya, his eyes brimming with a playful glint, and with a smirk, he asked, “Are you suggesting that I should wait in line?” “Yes!” Yuliya nodded in agreement.

“What if I don’t get in line?” It appeared as though Keiran was challenging Yuliya.

“Then I simply can’t register you!” Even though Yuliya spoke in a calm tone, she was incredibly resolute.

“You won’t register me?” Keiran scoffed. “I’d like to see if you really have the guts to do that.” “Open your eyes wide. Do you see what this is?” Keiran was seen pulling out a token, which he casually flaunted in front of Yuliya. It was indeed the token of Lunarius Palace.

Yuliya fell silent when she saw the token.

“This is the token given to me personally by Ms. Mueller of Lunarius Palace.

What else dare you say? Let me tell you something. If it weren’t for the fact that you’re a disciple from the inner circle of Lunarius Palace, I would have dealt with you a long time ago. My aunt was the one who personally instructed me to come here, with the intention of giving me some experience in the polar region.

Otherwise, I wouldn't have willingly come to this godforsaken place." After Keiran finished speaking, he pocketed his token and headed straight for the reception room, completely disregarding the line.

The entire time, Keiran remained oblivious to Jared's presence. Jared had altered his appearance and suppressed his aura. Unless Keiran had deliberately probed, there was no way he could have detected him.

Yuliya watched Keiran's retreating figure. Her face was flushed with frustration, but she was utterly helpless.

The female cultivator fumed, "Yuliya, this Keiran has gone too far! He dares to speak to you like that, hiding behind his relationship with Ms. Mueller. Plus, this guy, flaunting his status as the pampered son of the Mueller family, has been messing with several of us from the outer circle. He also talked about balancing the forces of negative and positive energy, and the dual cultivation of ice and fire, claiming it could rapidly increase one's power. Many of us from the outer circle were deceived by his words, vying to be with him-" Before Eira could finish her sentence, Yuliya quickly shot her a stern look. "Eira, shut up!" [18:56, 4/14/2024] Nothing: After all, with Jared and Alastair there, it wasn't appropriate to discuss some of the scandals from Lunarius Palace.

Yuliya left with Eira without casting another glance at Jared.

In the eyes of Yuliya, Jared was nothing more than a mere Third Level Tribulator.

In her eyes, he didn't even qualify to sign up.

Seeing the situation, Alastair also turned around, ready to leave.

Seeing that Alastair was about to leave, Jared asked, "Sir, did you forget something?" "What have I forgotten?" Alastair feigned confusion.

"You forgot to return me the money." Jared reached out toward Alastair.

Alastair had already pocketed the money, and he wasn't returning it to Jared.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3719-With a cool smile, Jared responded, "You're robbing me." "Well, I did. What can you do about it? Let me tell you, wealth is but a worldly possession. Be careful, or you might lose your life over money! If you die, then-" Before Alastair could even finish his sentence, he realized that Jared had disappeared.

Immediately after, a dark figure flashed before him. Alastair felt his breath hitch, struggling to catch his breath.

Before anyone knew it, Jared was already before Alastair's eyes and gripping Alastair's throat.

Alastair's eyes were wide open, filled with an expression of utter disbelief.

Despite being a Fifth Level Tribulator, he had no time to react before he was completely controlled by Jared, who was merely a Third Level Tribulator.

"Nobody has ever dared to rob from me..." Jared's gaze was icy cold, while his hands ceaselessly emitted waves of aura.

Alastair was suppressed by this overwhelming aura, rendering him completely immobile. Moreover, he could feel his divine soul gradually being stripped away, bit by bit.

Alastair was thrown into a panic, and he realized he was dealing with an expert.

How could someone who casually spent over a dozen purple spirit coins possibly be an ordinary cultivator? Sh*t! Regret consumed Alastair, and beads of cold sweat continuously dripped down his forehead.

"Sir, please show mercy. I haven't deceived you. I genuinely know the way to Lunarius Palace, and it's absolutely safe. I can take you to Lunarius Palace and also return all your money to you. Please, Sir. Show me some mercy and spare my life," Alastair pleaded. "I have elderly parents who are hundreds of years old and children who are decades old. They all rely on me to provide for them..." As Alastair spoke, tears surprisingly began to fall.

Jared didn't intend to kill him either. After all, it wasn't worth it over just a handful of purple spirit coins.

"Do you truly know the way to Lunarius Palace?" Jared asked.

Since he couldn't register himself, Jared had no choice but to head to Lunarius Palace himself. If someone could guide him, that would be more than ideal.

"I do! If I were to lie, may the heavens strike me with thunder, let lightning end my life, and forever bar me from reincarnation." Quickly, Alastair made a solemn vow.

Seeing that, Jared loosened his grip on Alastair.

Alastair was panting heavily and feeling relieved.

"First, I'll repay you the money. After that, I'll take you there..." As he spoke, Alastair reached for his wallet.

With a wave of his hand, Jared casually said, "No need. If you take me to Lunarius Palace, consider that money as your fee!" Alastair's eyes lit up instantly when he heard that. He patted his chest confidently and assured, "Sir, don't worry. I will definitely take you to Lunarius Palace, both swiftly and safely!" Alastair led Jared away from Southedge City, subsequently arriving at the foot of Demonia Mountain. There, it was a blanket of endless snow, stretching as far as the eye could see.

Alastair did not lead Jared up the mountain. Instead, they continued their journey south along the base of the mountain.

Jared was somewhat taken aback. Lunarius Palace is situated on the mountain, yet Alastair isn't taking me up there!

Alastair spoke truthfully because he was aware of Jared's prowess. He dared not hide anything from Jared.

If his identity were exposed, the ensuing complications would be immense.

The Decree of Execution from Demon Seal Alliance indeed caused a great deal of inconvenience for Jared.

Jared made a promise to himself. One day, mark my words, I'll crush Demon Seal Alliance!

At that moment, with his current strength, the idea of annihilating Demon Seal Alliance was nothing short of a pipe dream.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3720-Alastair nodded in agreement, and then he and Jared continued their journey southward.

Not long after that, Alastair halted, surveying their surroundings. With a wave of his hand, a gust of wind swept through, whisking away all the accumulated snow on the ground.

After the snow was blown away, a cave was startlingly revealed. However, this cave was quite small, requiring one to stoop to enter.

Alastair gestured toward the cave and said, "Once you enter this cave, it leads directly to the outer court of Lunarius Palace. This place is incredibly secluded and unknown to many, offering a great deal of safety. All this while, I've been making my money from this cave..." Jared glanced at the cave and scoffed. "You've probably killed many in this cave, haven't you?" Jared could distinctly feel the waves of deathly aura emanating from within the cave.

Alastair was taken aback, quickly clarifying, "Sir, please don't misunderstand.

Even though I've taken lives in this cave before, I would never dare to harbor any ill intentions toward you." "Even if you made a move, it would be utterly pointless!" With a casual smile, Jared then disappeared into the cave.

Stunned for a moment, Alastair then proceeded to follow inside.

The cave was shrouded in darkness, and Jared had lost track of how long he'd been walking. Suddenly, a light appeared before his eyes.

When Jared emerged from the cave, he found himself facing a scene shrouded in mist. Within this haze, a palace stood.

"We're now at the outer circle of Lunarius Palace. I can only take you this far. If you want to get inside Lunarius Palace, you'll have to figure it out on your own," Alastair said with utmost caution.

"All right, this is far enough. You don't need to worry about the rest!" Jared nodded and headed toward the outer court of Lunarius Palace.

From a distance, Jared observed the outer court, guarded by a few female cultivators. Each of these women was slender and elegant, their beauty stirring an undeniable urge in anyone who caught a glimpse of them.

Outside the entrance of the outer court of Lunarius Palace, there were a few male cultivators who seemed to be conversing with several female cultivators.

These few male cultivators were barred from entry, unable to get in.

Judging by the ragged clothing of those male cultivators, it seemed they had found their own way to Lunarius Palace. It was apparent that they had not had an easy journey.

However, the cultivators who ventured up the mountain on their own were not permitted to enter Lunarius Palace.

Only those who registered at the reception and were escorted up by someone from Lunarius Palace were permitted to enter.

Soon, another group of people was seen heading toward the outer court of Lunarius Palace.

However, this time, it was Yuliya who led the team, followed by a dozen male cultivators.

Keiran among them.

“Ms. Liemann, you’ve arrived...” A female cultivator from Lunarius Palace caught sight of Yuliya and hurriedly opened the door to welcome her.

“We’ve endured countless hardships to find this place and lost many on the journey. Please, allow us entry.” “Yes. If we head back like this, we’re definitely not going to make it halfway.

Let’s just go in.” “All we are seeking is a partner. We are willing to put in the effort for the sake of Lunarius Palace!” Several cultivators were desperately pleading with Yuliya. Some were even on the verge of kneeling down.