An Understated Dominance by Marina Vittori Chapter 2280

Chapter 2280

“Yes, brother! I just bet all my belongings and now I’ve lost everything. What do you want me to do?”

“It’s all your fault! If you hadn’t commanded blindly, how could we have suffered such a heavy loss?”

“That’s right! You We must compensate for our losses today!”

The gamblers became more and more excited as they talked, and they all changed their focus and began to question the man in gray.

“Blame me? Did I let you go all-in?”

The man in gray said angrily: “You smile when you win, and you rely on me when you lose. How can there be such a reason in the world? Besides, I I didn’t say that I would definitely win. It’s because you are greedy and insist on betting with me. Do you think you’re the only one who loses? I’ll lose completely too!”

As soon as these words came out, the questioning voices around him suddenly became quieter.

Although it was unacceptable, the man in gray was indeed right.

The other party didn’t force them, they insisted on following the bet, and they couldn’t blame others if they lost.

“Damn it! A bunch of white-eyed wolves, I won’t play with you anymore!”

The man in gray roared and walked away.

All the gamblers looked at each other and sighed.

But no one noticed that when the man in gray left, he looked at Wang Hao on the ring.

“So that’s it, it’s really a good idea.”

Dustin murmured to himself, with a smile on his lips.

Before, he didn’t quite understand what Huang Yinyin’s plan was to ensure that he would make a profit without losing money.

After what happened just now, he suddenly realized.

It turned out that Huang Yinyin had already planned it.

In other words, Huang Yinyin had already arranged everything before the gambling game even started.

First, place some of your own people among the players in Group C.

These people deliberately hide their strength, waiting for opportunities and obeying orders.

Then, he created a guiding light, the man in gray just now.

By winning several consecutive games, he paved the way for the man in gray to build momentum, and at the same time attracted gamblers to blindly follow him.

When the man in gray is popular enough and his words are authoritative enough, he can close the net.

To put it simply, the so-called gambling game is a well-designed trap from beginning to end.

Whether it’s the man in gray or Wang Hao who just won, they are all Huang Yinyin’s people.

Lose or win, it all depends on Huang Yinyin’s thoughts.

It is precisely because of this that Huang Yinyin is confident and does not worry about the gamblers winning at all.

As long as she wins a game, she can get her money back with profits.

To put it bluntly, all the gamblers present are the leeks she harvested.

It all depends on her preference when to do it.

“One failure is nothing. Come on, come on, keep betting, and sooner or later you will win it back.”

Huang Yinyin shouted and continued to solicit business for herself.

There are many people watching today. After harvesting a bunch of leeks, there will be another bunch.

Moreover, many gamblers will not admit defeat. As long as they lose, they will want to make up their losses.

Although I am penniless, I can still borrow it, so there is still value in harvesting.

“Senior sister, you should still have spirit stones in your hand, right? Lend me some, and I’ll return them to you immediately after you win!”

At this time, Xu Yang suddenly looked at Liu Rushuang next to him, his eyes full of eagerness.

It was obvious that he was on top.
