

A WARRIOR UNDEFEATABLE/

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3821-Give It A Try After glancing at the swarm of beasts at the foot of the mountain, Bianca said, "Mr. Chance, we've left the array's range, and our spiritual power is back. Let's run quickly!" However, Jared did not make a move. After observing the terrain, he quickly began to etch array runes on the ground.

Jared knew that if he allowed these demon beasts to storm up the mountain, the polar stones on the mountain would be almost impossible for them to obtain.

There were so many demon beasts, and the amount of polar stones needed was immense.

They had gone through hardships to find these polar stones. Now that they had found them, Jared couldn't just let these demon beasts take them away.

Jared carved many offensive arrays.

The reason why Jared carved arrays here was also to gamble that once these demon beasts entered the array at the foot of the mountain, they would become ordinary beasts and rely solely on brute force to harm people Boom!

The horde of beasts that had emerged from the chaos dimension surged forward, reminiscent of a wild horse that had broken free from its reins, swarming in great numbers.

Roars echoed, revealing the excitement of those demon beasts.

Bianca and the others looked at the black tide approaching from below, their faces turning increasingly grim.

Everyone unsheathed their frost swords, gripping them tightly in their hands.

This time, it seemed like a tough battle was inevitable. At this point, the ones who were most terrified were still the multitude of cultivators within the arcane array.

They didn't believe Jared's words, but now they found themselves in this perilous situation.

If they couldn't break through the arcane array before the beast tide arrived, their death would be truly gruesome.

Everyone was scrambling up the mountain, some even resorting to using their hands and feet to climb. All sorts of methods were employed, and any semblance of a cultivator's dignity was long gone.

They were just ordinary people now.

When faced with life and death, the only instinct was to flee for one's life.

Holden was also supported by several juniors as he continued to race up the mountain.

However, the beast tide was drawing closer, and these cultivators still had quite a distance to cover before they could escape the arcane array's range.

These people looked at Jared and the others, and could only desperately cry for help. "Friends, help us, please save us..." These cultivators knew that Jared and the others must have run out of the array's range. That was why they stopped and were prepared to fight with their weapons.

Although they were crying for help, they also knew that no one would risk rescuing them for no reason.

Once inside this arcane array, even an ordinary person wouldn't stand a chance of surviving.

Simply put, it was their instinct to survive that led them to call out for help.

Jared gazed at the cultivators who were about to be overtaken by the beast tide, his eyes seemingly filled with resolve.

"Bianca, you guys guard here. If these demon beasts break through the array, you must retreat immediately and continue up the mountain!" he told Bianca.

"Mr. Chance, what are you going to do?" Bianca asked in confusion.

"I'm going to save these people..." Jared said.

"Mr. Chance, don't do anything foolish. How can you save them alone?"

Moreover, once you step into that array, your spiritual power will disappear, turning you into an ordinary person. What can you use to save them?" Bianca hurriedly tried to dissuade him.

"I have my own way. Let's see if it works!" With that, Jared held the Dragonslayer Sword in his hand.

"Nine Shadows!" With a swift swing of his Dragonslayer sword, Jared conjured a series of illusions.

Immediately following that, six identical Jareds stood together in a line.

Everyone carried the same aura about them.

This shocked Bianca and the others..

They simply couldn't discern which one was the real Jared.

Jared intended for the shadow clones created by the Nine Shadows to enter the arcane array, acting as a barrier against the beast tide.

However, he wasn't sure if this arcane array would exert any suppression on his shadow clone.

Logically speaking, there shouldn't have been any suppression, After all, have been any suppression. Afterall, the strengt of these shadow clones was supplied by Jared's original body.

As long as Jared's main body wasn't suppressed by the array, the spirituell pawner in his body would be used by these shadow clones.

And it was precisely for this reason that Jared decided to give it a try.

"Ah..." Some cultivators had already been caught up by the tide of monsters and were directly trampled to death.

With people being trampled to death, many cultivators became even more panicked.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3822-The Fierce Battle Jared's mind stirred, and several shadow clones instantly rushed into the array.

Immediately after, he swung the Dragonslayer Sword. Sword energy soared into the sky, blocking the surging tide of beasts.

Just as Jared had predicted, his shadow clones were not restricted within this arcane array.

Holden and the others were taken aback when they suddenly saw multiple Jareds appear, each exuding an intimidating aura that was truly terrifying.

However, they didn't have the luxury of time to be shocked at that moment. All they could do was to run for their lives.

With Jared holding them back, the remaining cultivators all managed to run out of the arcane array safely.

When their spiritual power returned, everyone was gasping for breath.

At that very moment, Jared's several shadow clones were also overwhelmed by the beast outbreak Jared hadn't given his all. He was conserving his energy to use on this arcane array.

Upon raising his hand, Jared set off a series of arcane arrays. These arcane arrays surged with lethal intent, seemingly ready to annihilate anything that dared to intrude.

Jared held the Dragonslayer Sword as the Golem Body covered his entire body.

A golden colossal dragon roared, encircling Jared. Walls of fire rose from the ground, blocking the path of the oncoming beast tide!

Bianca and her companions each held frost swords in their hands, their energies converging together as one.

This was going to be a fierce battle!

The beast tide was drawing nearer, the distinct scent of blood from those demon beasts was clearly discernible.

These demon beasts roared fearlessly, seemingly without any trepidation as though they had gone mad.

As the saying goes, “Men will do anything to succeed.” These demon beasts were risking their lives for the sake of the polar stones.

After many cultivators had recovered, they took off without so much as a backward glance, showing not the slightest bit of gratitude toward Jared.

However, some of the cultivators brandished their weapons, seemingly ready to join forces in resisting this onslaught of beasts.

A junior from the Holden family asked helplessly, “Mr. Holden, what should we do?” Facing tens of thousands of beasts, they were all scared and wanted to escape as soon as possible.

But Holden remained still, and they dared not move either.

Holden glanced at Jared, then took in their surroundings. His voice was icy as he stated, “Prepare for battle. Even if we flee to the mountains, we won’t be able to escape these beasts unless we deal with them first.” Holden led many juniors from the Holden family who had also successively drawn their weapons.

Jared’s body hovered in the air, countless spiritual lights bursting forth as all the arrays were activated. Walls of fire stood in the way of the demon beasts, yet, these beasts charged fearlessly.

Bianca and her companions were unleashing frost blades, reaping the lives of the demon beasts. Frost blades filled the sky, descending like a snowstorm.

Numerous cultivators had also taken to the skies, ceaselessly brandishing a variety of weapons in their hands.

A multitude of demon beasts fell in droves, yet the ones behind continued their relentless charge forward.

These demon beasts seemed to have been restrained by the arcane array, unable to utilize various techniques. They could only rely on brute force to charge.

The horde of demon beasts, as relentless as the tide, quickly broke through the first few lines of fire walls with overwhelming force.

The fire nascence star within Jared had significantly dimmed.

Those recent walls of fire had nearly drained Jared's fire nascence to exhaustion.

Immediately, radiant light illuminated, and the Death Trap Formation laid out by fareg had already been activated. The charging beasts were all slaughtered.

However, there were too many beasts. Even though there was a Death Trap Formation set up, those fearless beasts kept rushing in relentlessly.

At the same time, these demon beasts regained their abilities, each one spewing a white mist. An endless chulkformed a wall of fog, rolling relentlessly toward Jared and his companions.

Underneath the chill fog, Jared's Death Trap Formation was swiftly breached.

Seeing the situation, Jared swung his Dragonslayer Sword with all his might.

The Golden Dragon roared, spewing streams of fire from its mouth.

One after another, demon beasts were engulfed by the flames. At the same time, when the fire made contact with the chilling mist, it transformed into countless raindrops that fell from the sky.

As Jared swung the Dragonslayer Sword, he fiercely waved his hand.

One after another, demon beasts were engulfed by the flames. At the same time, when the fire made contact with the chilling mist, it transformed into countless raindrops that fell from the sky.

Thunderclouds began to gather in the sky, creating a thunderous rumble.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3823-An Abundance Of Beast Cores
"Thunder Palm!" A massive palm slowly took shape, crackling with lightning as it descended with thunderous force. Bolts of lightning struck the demon beasts, instantly reducing them to ashes.

Many cultivators were quite astonished by Jared's Thunder Palm.

Now that they had regained their spiritual power, they could discern Jared's cultivation level.

He was merely a Third Level Tribulator, yet the power he demonstrated was truly astonishing.

Bianca and her companions were also fervently battling the demon beasts.

They were simply at the forefront, facing a horde of demon beasts that fearlessly charged at them. This relentless onslaught left Bianca and her companions feeling incredibly overwhelmed.

When Jared saw the situation, his nascence star flickered. He used the illusion nascence directly to set up an illusion array right in front of Bianca and the others.

Although the illusion arcane array didn't have much lethal power, it was capable of impeding the pace and speed of the demon beasts.

Sure enough, once these demon beasts charged into the illusion array, they all became sluggish in their movements, as if they were headless flies that had lost their way.

This also allowed Bianca and the others to catch their breath.

Holden, along with the Olsen family and other remaining cultivators, valiantly held back the onslaught of beasts.

Holden, possessing the power of a Ninth Level Tribulator, moved his palms in a dance. From the folds of his robe, countless shadows flew out.

Following this, the dark figures transformed into puppets, much like robots, and charged at the demon beasts.

Even when swarmed by demon beasts, no one backed down.

The ground was already littered with countless bodies of demon beasts. Blood flowed like a river, staining the once pristine white snow into a deep shade of red.

The overpowering scent of blood was so intense that even those accustomed to carnage were finding it hard to bear.

However, the sight of beast cores scattered all over the ground was enough to stir up people's greed.

Among these fallen demon beasts, some of their bodies burst open, with their beast cores scattering on the ground.

It was worth noting that each beast has a beast core inside its body.

With so many beasts dead, extracting the beast cores later would also be a considerable resource.

Many people fought to the death and refused to retreat, presumably for reasons like this.

Who wouldn't want to get some beast cores?

However, it seemed as if the demon beasts were endless. They simply couldn't vanquish them all.

This kind of battle undoubtedly consumed the most spiritual power. Some cultivators had no choice but to consume pills while desperately resisting.

The illusion array that Jared had laid out had momentarily slowed down the demon beast. However, the array soon reached its limit and could no longer hold up.

After all, the strength of the illusion array that was hastily set up wasn't particularly high. As the illusion array was breached, the pressure on Bianca and the other holy maidens dramatically increased.

Demon beasts began to charge into their line of sight, engaging in close combat with Bianca and her companions.

Some holy maidens had started to get hurt.

"Yuliya, what should we do?" Bianca was drenched in sweat, looking somewhat helplessly toward Yuliya.

At this moment, Yuliya was also desperate. How would she know what to do?

The seemingly endless horde of demon beasts felt as if they could!

never be fully vanquished. They were all nearly at their breaking point.

Even if they had the determination, their bodies had reached their limits. Without spiritual power support, their efforts were futile.

“Retreat, everyone retreat...” Hovering in mid-air, Jared could already see that Bianca and the others had reached their limits.

If they continued like this, they would sooner or later die under the iron hooves of those beasts.

Jared had underestimated the strength of these demon beasts.

Bianca and the others exchanged a glance, then began to quickly retreat.

However, those demon beasts were relentlessly pursuing them, forcing Bianca and her companions to fight while retreating.

Holden too, wore an expression of helplessness. With a sweeping m gesture of gig hand)he dommanded, “Retreat to the top of the mountain immediately!”

Holden knew that if they persisted, they would probably all perish.

Upon witnessing the scene, the other cultivators also started retreating one after the other. Aslfor the beast cores on the ground, they could only hope for another chance to retrieve them.

The dragon crystal on Jared’s chest flickered intensely, as all kinds of powers were desperately in motion.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3824-One Man Against A Multitude Of Beasts Palm prints descended from mid-air, striking those demon beasts. Jared had to momentarily halt these demon beasts, otherwise Bianca and her companions wouldn’t stand a chance of escaping.

Bianca and the others were desperately fleeing, not daring to hesitate in the slightest.

“What’s going on?” At the mountaintop, Selma looked in the direction of the mountain foot, her brows furrowed.

At that moment, she saw the unceasing roars from the foot of the mountain. The sky was filled with intertwining spiritual energy, along with all sorts of shimmering lights.

“Ms. Selma, there’s a beast tide attacking from below, and Jared is leading people to resist it,” Leighton stepped forward and said.

“This kid actually dares to confront the beast tide head-on. He doesn’t know chalk from cheese.” Selma chuckled coldly and then ordered, “Don’t bother with him; I doubt they’ll make it up the mountain alive. Right now, you need to gather your men and start collecting the polar stones immediately. Additionally, locate the entrance to the polar stone mine and gather as many polar stones as possible. If we wait for this wave of beasts to flood the mountains, we’ll lose our chance.

Selma knew that these beasts were definitely coming for the polar stones.

“Yes!” Leighton nodded and began to lead people to collect the polar stones.

At that moment, Jared was still fervently battling the demon beasts.

Bianca and her group had already managed to put some distance between themselves and the beasts behind them.

Holden and the others had also retreated to the top of the mountain.

At that moment, Jared was alone, wielding the Dragonslayer sword. Amidst the thunder and lightning that filled the heavens and earth, he was relentlessly slaying the demon beasts.

Everyone stared blankly at Jared, their eyes filled with surprise and shock.

One man against a multitude of beasts!

As a Ninth Level Tribulator, Holden didn’t even have such courage!

However, at that moment, only Jared himself knew that he too wanted to retreat, but he was held back by the beast tide, completely unable to escape.

Jared was no fool. He knew his place.

There was no way he could hold back this beast outbreak on his own.

At that time, Jared was deeply engulfed in a swarm of beasts, desperately trying to carve out a path of escape. However, the number of demon beasts kept increasing.

The overwhelming frost energy gradually obscured Jared's figure.

If Jared didn't have the demonic fire soul essence, he would have been frozen by this frost energy long ago.

This was the frost energy spewed out by tens of thousands of beasts.

The Golem Body on Jared's body had completely shattered, and blood streaks appeared on Jared's strong body "D*mn it, do I have to die like this?" Jared was at a loss for words.

He had just been saved by Mr. Sanders from the chaos dimension, and now he was trapped in the beast tide again.

This time, Mr. Sanders probably wouldn't save him.

Just as Jared mechanically wielded the Dragonslayer Sword, his various auras gradually weakened.

Suddenly, a flash of light burst from the Storage Ring.

The little Celestial Devourer yawned and ran out, obviously just waking up.

The moment the little Celestial Devourer appeared, the originally ferocious and violent demon beasts suddenly became quiet. The densely packed demon beasts all looked at the little Celestial Devourer in front of them.

Roar... Suddenly, the Celestial Devourer roared angrily!

This roar directly shook the heavens.

and the earth, causing the mountains to collapse. Amidst the thunderous roar of the Celestial Devourer, the tide of beasts astonishingly began to retreat.

Then they turned around and ran away. Tens of thousands of beasts were actually scared away by the Celestial Devourer's roar.

This little Celestial Devourer was very small, quite petite. Compared to those demon beasts that span several yards, it was practically an ant.

Despite its small size, the Celestial Devourer scared away thousands of beasts with a roar "What kind of roar is this? Is it a beast lord?" "So terrifying.

This roar almost shattered my heart.” “We’re done for. I’m afraid this might be the end for us.” Many cultivators’ expressions changed drastically when they heard the roar of the Celestial Devourer.

Holden and others also trembled, their eyes filled with horror.

Bianca and the others turned around, their eyes drawn to the frost energy enveloping the foot of the mountain.

They were all on edge, worried for Jared.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3825-You Cannot Afford It Jared heaved a long sigh of relief, his gaze fixed on the Celestial Devourer, overjoyed beyond words. This little one is already so impressive at such a small size. If it grows up, who knows how powerful it’ll become? However, it eats too much! It’s swallowing anything and everything, but it just wouldn’t gain weight.

“Brat, don’t even think about taking my Celestial Devourer. I’ve restored my physical body, and I plan to ride it across the celestial realm.” Vermilion Demon Lord, aware of Jared’s thoughts, quickly spoke up.

“This Celestial Devourer is found by me. Your Celestial Devourer has been dead for a while now.” Jared didn’t believe that Celestial Devourer was actually Vermilion Demon Lord’s.

Vermilion Demon Lord was momentarily speechless. However, he realized it was indeed Jared who had found that little Celestial Devourer.

Thus, he began to discuss matters with Jared. “Brat, let’s make a deal. Until I recover my physical body, you can use it while you’re in Ethereal Realm. Once I’ve regained my physical body, you’ll have to return it to me. By then, you’ll have just ascended into immortals, penniless. You won’t be able to afford to keep it.” If others were to find out a Demon Lord was negotiating with a Third Level Tribulator cultivator, it would shock them to no end.

“All right then.” Jared nodded in agreement.

It seemed that Jared really couldn’t afford to maintain that Celestial Devourer.

Looking at the demon beast corpses scattered all over the ground, Jared was extremely thrilled. After all, each one of those bodies contained a beast core.

With so many beast cores, Jared had enough to use for quite a while.

Ignoring the Celestial Devourer, Jared bent over to start collecting the beast cores.

He started using Dragonslayer Sword to dissect the bodies of the demon beasts, retrieving the beast's core.

Suddenly, the tiny Celestial Devourer let out a roar, immediately followed by opening its enormous mouth.

Suddenly, the entire sky changed its color. The gaping mouth of Celestial Devourer was akin to a black hole, filled with a powerful pull.

Before Jared could react, the bodies of the demon beasts and their beast cores were swiftly devoured by the Celestial Devourer.

In just a blink of an eye, all that remained on the ground was the vivid red stain of blood. The bodies of the demon beasts, along with their beast cores, were nowhere to be found.

Jared was dumbfounded.

Celestial Devourer, having let out a satisfied belch, returned to the Storage Ring to sleep.

Jared couldn't help but let out a curse. "F*ck!" Despite risking his life to slay so many demon beasts, he shockingly received nothing in return.

Although the beast outbreak had been scared off by the Celestial Devourer, it had devoured all the beast cores. That was rather unfair in Jared's eyes as he believed some should've been shared with him.

At that moment, Jared was beyond words.

Vermilion Demon Lord looked at Jared's utterly despondent expression and burst into uproarious laughter. "I told you that you couldn't afford to keep it.

You're already fighting over things with it when it's this small." Jared could only sigh, slowly making his way up the hill.

At that moment, the chill mist had already dissipated. Everyone saw that the foothills were no longer under the assault of the beast outbreak, becoming incredibly tranquil.

Only the silhouette of Jared was slowly ascending the hill.

It was as if the outbreak of beasts had suddenly vanished. Upon witnessing the situation, Bianca and the others hurriedly rushed toward Jared.

Holden, along with the other cultivators, all hurriedly ran on downward. If the beast outbreak had receded, the scattered corpses of the demon beasts would then become a resource.

Every demon beast's corpse contained a beast core, after all.

However, when they ran closer, they realized there was no sign of the demon beast corpses on the ground, let alone the beast cores. They had completely vanished.

At that moment, everyone was dumbfounded, unable to comprehend how the demon beast corpses scattered all over the ground could just disappear without a trace. However, when they ran closer, they realized there was no sign of the demon beast corpses on the ground, let alone the beast cores. They had completely vanished.

Therefore, everyone's attention was directed toward Jared.

Bianca's group hurried over, expressing their concern to Jared. "Mr. Chance, are you all right?" Jared gave a light laugh and said, "I'm fine, I've just expended a lot of energy. A little rest should do the trick." "Sir, thank you for stepping in to save us. We are eternally grateful." Holden walked up to Jared, expressing his gratitude sincerely.
