

A WARRIOR UNDEFEATABLE/

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3891-The Women Fight Jared was gazing at Fire Lady's intense flame when, without warning, he opened his mouth and astonishingly swallowed the flame right into his belly.

This time, it really gave Fire Lady a fright.

At the same time, the trio was taken aback. They were well aware of Fire Lady's capabilities, and yet, they hadn't expected Jared to be able to absorb her demonic fire.

In shock, Fire Lady looked at Jared and asked, "Who exactly are you?" "My name is Jared Chance," Jared replied casually.

"Jared Chance?" The corners of Fire Lady's brows slightly furrowed.

Suddenly, the burly man recalled something and exclaimed, "I know him! He's the guy that the Demon Seal Alliance has had a bounty on for a hundred-year offering! We've struck gold today!" Upon hearing these words, the four of them became thrilled and completely surrounded Jared.

The old man, holding his cane, said, "So, you're Jared. I didn't expect you to be the one who made Demon Seal Alliance offer a hundred-year offering! It's clear that you're extraordinary. However, you're unlucky enough to have crossed paths with the four of us. Don't even think about leaving today." With a casual smile, Jared asked, "Do you all really plan on ganging up on me?" The young man, holding a hand fan, said with an expression of sheer excitement, "Indeed! We are using our numbers to our advantage. As long as we capture you, the four of us can retire immediately!" "Don't you feel ashamed for ganging up on someone?" Jared asked intentionally.

The burly man let out a hearty laugh. "Ashamed? Hahaha! We, the Four Hunters, have always been known for outnumbering our opponents, never once feeling any shame in it. If you surrender now, we can promise you a swift death." "Since you all seem to enjoy ganging up on people, let's see how it feels when the tables are turned." Jared then addressed the airship by saying, "Everyone, come down and stretch your legs!" As those words left Jared's mouth, the airship's cabin door slowly swung open.

Igor and his companions all emerged from the airship.

Soon, dozens of people had surrounded the Four Hunters.

Upon witnessing the scene before them, the four individuals were dumbfounded.

They never could have imagined that there were so many people in the airship, all seemingly together.

“There seems to be a misunderstanding...” Upon seeing the situation, Fire Lady quickly rushed to Jared’s side. She hoped that her figure would help Jared calm his anger.

Watching Fire Lady flirtatiously prancing around in front of Jared, Catina and Feenix couldn’t help but seethe with anger.

The two of them then joined forces, relentlessly attacking Fire Lady in unison.

“You f*cking seductress! How dare you try to entice our man? You’ve got some nerve!” Catina and Feenix showed no mercy, leaving Fire Lady with a battered and bruised face.

Upon witnessing this scene, Jared was somewhat at a loss for words.

Unexpectedly, these female cultivators from Ethereal Realm fought just like the women from the mundane world.

“Mr. Chance, what should we do with the remaining three?” Igor asked.

“They must be taught a lesson for daring to obstruct our airship,” Jared declared.

With Jared’s order, Igor and the others swarmed in.

As the airship gradually ascended, slowly disappearing into the distance, the Four Hunters lay on the ground.

Each of them was gravely injured, likely unable to engage in highway robbery ever again.

The airship continued its journey forward, with everyone on board engaged in lively chatter and laughter.

Cloud was at the helm of the airship, continuously adjusting its course.

As dusk was drawing near, suddenly, several figures appeared in front of the airship.

Cloud hurriedly halted the airship, expressing his frustration, “This airship really stands but too much!

Why do we keep running into robbers?”

Everyone’s gaze was drawn forward, where they saw seven individuals lined up in a row, standing defiantly in front of the airship.

Those individuals were all dressed in attire from Pathfinder Sect. One of them shouted, at the airship, 'Who are you people? Why are you piloting an airship on Pathfinder Sect's territory?'

Have you grown tired of living?"

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3892-Professionalism At Work In this region, all the airships operating were owned by Pathfinder Sect. So when a different airship suddenly appeared, Pathfinder Sect assumed someone was encroaching on their business, which was why they sent people to intercept it.

Upon hearing that the people were from Pathfinder Sect, Jared didn't worry at all. Instead, he flung open the cabin door and flew out.

Upon arriving in front of the members of Pathfinder Sect, Jared addressed them politely, "Fellow cultivators, I am a close acquaintance of Pathfinder Sect's Mr.

Sutton, as well as Mr. Sawyer. We are quite close with each other. This airship is privately owned, so it's not for commercial use. Everyone on board are my friends. We are heading to Southedge City and we hope for a smooth journey." The disciple from Pathfinder Sect asked, "If you claim to be a friend of Mr.

Sutton, then do you have any proof?" Jared hurriedly took out Moses' token. Only after seeing the token did the disciples from the Pathfinder Sect finally clear the way.

The journey that followed went off without a hitch. At the stroke of midnight, the airship gently landed in Southedge City.

No sooner had the airship landed than it was surrounded by people.

Someone shouted, "Surround this airship! Let's see who exactly is on board." This gave everyone inside the airship quite a scare.

Upon hearing the voice, Jared laughed. He then turned to the crowd and said, "Don't be frightened. This person is also from Pathfinder Sect. He is the branch leader of the branch sect in Southedge City. It seems Pathfinder Sect takes business competition very seriously." Jared was the first to approach the airship, then he turned to Mr. Jensen who was speaking and said, "Don't worry, Mr. Jensen. This is my own airship. I brought it because we have a lot of people to transport this time." Upon seeing it was Jared, the previously angered expression on Rory's face eased up significantly.

"So, it's you, Mr. Chance! What brings you and your large group of friends to Southedge City all of a sudden? There's really not much to see or do in Southedge City," Rory inquired curiously.

Jared broke into a subtle smile, but he didn't respond as he was unsure of how to reply, and he also didn't want the Mueller family to know that he had gathered so many people.

Upon seeing Jared's smile, Rory asked, "Did you bring them along to deal with the Mueller family? A couple of days ago, a large number of people started to pour into Southedge City. For such a remote small town to suddenly have so many newcomers, I suppose they were all brought here by you, weren't they?" Rory said.

Jared could only affirm with a nod. "I had no choice. The Mueller family is too powerful, and they have a large number of members. I heard that the Mueller family has rallied clanspersons from all over to deal with Lunarius Palace. I had no alternative but to try and gather as many people as I could." "I honestly didn't expect you to have such influence, Mr. Chance. You were able to gather so many people. These must be individuals from several sects and prestigious families. There are humans, demons, and those from the beast race.

Your influence really does span all three races, Mr. Chance!" Rory said with evident envy.

"I'm just lending a friend some help. You, on the other hand, came here personally to lead the team even though it's so late at night! That's quite the dedication to duty, Mr. Jensen!" Jared replied with a laugh.

Rory examined Jared's airship and said with a sigh, "Alas, with great power comes great responsibility. Since I've become the branch manager of this sect, I can't allow any airships other than those from Pathfinder Sect to appear in Southedge City. Your airship is quite sophisticated, Mr. Chance.

It's even more impressive than Pathfinder Sect's airship."

"To be honest, I have a friend who's also in the airship business. However, they operate in the northern region and have no financial entanglements with Pathfinder Sect," Jared replied.

Jared planned to gather everyone first thing the next morning and together they would head to Lunarius Palace.

It was necessary to set up various arcane arrays in advance at Lunarius Palace, while also assigning defensive duties.

Rory nodded in understanding. "That makes sense." After exchanging a few words, Rory left with his entourage. Jared too, escorted his people to get some rest.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3893-Everything In Place Nieva spent nearly every night sleepless ever since Jared left Lunarius Palace.

The retaliation from the Mueller family was unpredictable, and Nieva was constantly worried.

Although she repeatedly claimed not to fear the Mueller family's retaliation, deep down she was still worried.

Having reached Ultimate Realm, Nieva was not afraid of the Mueller family. If worst came to worst, she could simply flee to save herself.

However, her concern was that Lunarius Palace, which she had painstakingly built up, would face disaster.

The disciples from Lunarius Palace were not particularly strong to begin with, and the expedition to the polar region had resulted in the loss of numerous holy maidens and outer circle disciples.

Currently, aside from Nieva herself, the strength of Lunarius Palace was likely not even on par with a second-rate sect.

If the Mueller family were to seek revenge, how could we possibly stop the attack? And what about that polar stone mine? After all the trouble we went through to find it, are we really just going to hand it over to the Mueller family?

Nieva gazed out the window, her eyes filled with concern.

"Is Lunarius Palace fated to be obliterated? Can't we ever rise in glory?" Nieva murmured to herself.

At that moment, Bianca walked in and asked, "Ms. Nieva, haven't you rested yet?" "Is everything set up?" Nieva asked.

"Yup! I've also placed several arcane arrays on the front door. Now, Lunarius Palace is as secure as a fortress! No one can possibly get in!" Bianca declared with utmost confidence.

Nieva merely shook her head with a smile. Only she knew that these defensive arcane arrays, when faced with the Mueller family's attack, were likely to crumble with ease.

"Go get some rest. Inform all the disciples to seize the moment for training. It won't be long before we might have to face a fierce battle," Nieva said.

Bianca nodded in agreement. "Understood!" Although Bianca was unaware of what the fierce battle would entail, she could sense an impending danger emanating from Nieva.

At the same time, the lights were brilliantly lit at the Mueller residence too.

Nolan hadn't yet emerged, and everything was being managed by Terrence.

Keiran and Selma had died, and everyone in the Mueller family was clad in white.

Hundreds of people stood solemnly in the Mueller family's square. These individuals represented the entirety of the Mueller family.

All the siblings were summoned as well.

A disciple of the Mueller family stepped forward and said, "Mr. Stinton, all members of the Mueller family have been gathered and are simply awaiting your command." With a wave of his hand, Terrence commanded the attention of everyone from the Mueller family, who were all awaiting in the square. "Everyone stay put! The head of the family will likely be able to come out in a day or two." These individuals remained motionless, showcasing the strict hierarchy within the Mueller family.

It was evident that, despite not being a blood relative, Terrence was able to manage everything in the Mueller family. This clearly showed the level of trust Nolan had in him.

The following morning, Jared personally sought out representatives from the Five Great Sects, the Summers family, and the Soul Demon Sect.

Suddenly, within a grand mansion in Southedge City, there was an overwhelming crowd of thousands.

In the grand hall of the mansion, Igor, Hanes, Tyler, Serena, Lauden, Keelan, Lion Archon, and leaders from various prestigious families and sects, had gathered together.

As Jared gazed upon the people before him, he felt an overwhelming sense of gratitude welling up within him.

Even though these individuals had once received favors from Jared in once received favors from Jared, in Ethereal Realm many Were driven by self-interest, their hearts clouded by personal gain.

Jared facilitated introductions among the major sects and families, aiming to prevent any potential M chrapticibattles. He wanted to ensure that everyone knew each other to avoid any accidental harm due to unfamiliarity.

At that moment, within this residence, it was the first time am collaboratign between humans, demons, and beasts had been achieved.

Despite Jared having assisted them, there were still plenty who betrayed and abandoned him.

And all of this started because of Jared.

Jared once again recounted the situation to everyone in a simplified manner and offered everyone another chance to back out.

After all, many were bound to lose their lives following the battle with the Mueller family.

If anyone were to back out at this point, Jared wouldn't hold any grudges against them.

Surprisingly, these people were all in unison, obediently following Jared's directives.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3894-All Friends Seeing that no one was backing down, Jared led everyone toward Lunarius Palace.

However, as Jared led everyone away from Southedge City, a young man watched their retreating figures, a cold smirk suddenly playing at the corner of his mouth.

Quickly, the young man's figure vanished, and Jared and the others didn't even realize they were being observed.

A massive crowd of over a thousand people began their trek up the mountain, trudging through the accumulated snow.

On the way and above in the sky, cultivators were hurrying toward Lunarius Palace. As they approached Lunarius Palace, the guards inside had also taken notice of the scene, Watching the swarming crowd above and below, the numerous disciples of Lunarius Palace were stunned.

Immediately, the disciples from Lunarius Palace began to shout out loud, "Enemy attack! Enemy attack! Hurry up and alert Ms. Nieva!" Nieva received a notification and led her people to the front door. When she glimpsed the dense crowd in the distance, she was instantly stunned.

She never imagined that the Mueller family could rally so many of its members.

Some moved in the sky and others on the ground. It was absolutely breathtaking to see them cover the sun and fill the sky.

"M-Ms. Nieva?" Bianca watched the scene unfold, finding herself somewhat at a loss for words.

Nieva had a look of helplessness in her eyes. She let out a soft sigh and said, "Bianca, take all the disciples of Lunarius Palace and leave through the back mountain. The further you guys go, the better. If possible, I hope you carry on the legacy of Lunarius Palace. If not, then hide your identities and never again claim to be disciples of Lunarius Palace." Nieva had given up as she was truly at her wits' end. Facing the onslaught of so many, Lunarius Palace was likely to crumble into dust in an instant.

Therefore, it was simply not worth it to have so many disciples die together.

Moreover, the disciples of Lunarius Palace were too weak, and their foundation was not solid enough. If they wanted to promote Lunarius Palace, it was likely to be very challenging.

"I'm not leaving, Ms. Nieva! I want to stay with you!" Bianca shook her head and voiced her disagreement.

All the disciples from the vast Lunarius Palace yelled with unwavering determination, "We won't leave, Ms. Nieva. We choose to stay with you! We're ready to go down alongside Lunarius Palace!" "There's no need for that. If you all leave, then Lunarius Palace will not be completely destroyed. Perhaps it will reemerge many years later. If we all die here, then Lunarius Palace will truly be done for." Nieva let out a sigh, then commanded in a firm tone, "I order you all to leave Lunarius Palace immediately. If you delay, it will be too late!" Bianca wanted to say something else, but looking at Nieva's resolute expression, she eventually gave a helpless nod.

Just as Bianca was about to lead the other disciples of Lunarius Palace away, Yuliya suddenly cried out excitedly, "Ms. Nieva, look! It's Mr. Chance! It's Mr.

Chance!" Upon hearing this, Nieva and Bianca hurriedly looked over. They found a figure rapidly approaching from the front, and it was indeed Jared.

Jared was worried that the crowd would startle everyone at Lunarius Palace, so he rushed ahead to forewarn them.

Although Jared had not engaged in any intimate acts with Nieva, they had kissed before! This had subtly altered the dynamics of their relationship.

Upon seeing it was Jared, a smile finally graced Nieva's face.

And Bianca, overcome with emotion, started crying.

"Open the door!" Nieva ordered the palace doors to be opened, and then led her people to welcome the arrivals.

Taken aback, Nieva looked at the dense crowd behind Jared and asked in astonishment, "You. Why have you come back? Who are those."

"I brought them all here. I knew that the Mueller family would never let Lunarius Palace off the hook, and Lunarius palace is no match for the."

Mueller family, so I reached out to a bunch of friends to come and help,”

Jared said with a laugh.

people?”

Jared gazed at Nieva, offering a slight smile as he said, “I’ve returned again, Ms. Nieva…”

Visit En.novelxo.com to read full content

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3895-Do Not Talk Nonsense “Friends?” Nieva was taken aback.

All the disciples in Lunarius Palace, too, looked on in disbelief.

In this world, everyone was out for themselves, prioritizing their own benefits above all else. Genuine friendships were rare, and everything was a matter of trading favors.

As such, everyone was left astounded when Jared suddenly called in so many friends.

“H-How do you have so many friends, Mr. Chance?” Bianca asked, feeling puzzled.

“These are just my friends from the southern region. If you include those from other regions, my circle of friends is even larger,” Jared said with a hint of pride.

It was indeed true that Jared could connect with many more individuals, such as Yuven, Emerald Cauldron Sect, and the Seizon family.

Those people would have risked their lives without hesitation for Jared upon his request.

Realizing that she was growing increasingly fond of him, Nieva gazed at Jared with a lovestruck expression.

If it weren’t for the constraints of the rules of Lunarius Palace, she would have given herself to Jared right then and there.

Such a man was truly worth every woman’s dedication.

Before long, Igor and the others had also arrived at the front of Lunarius Palace.

Jared was busily introducing these individuals to Nieva, one by one.

“This is Mr. Lothian, the leader of Blood Spirit Valley. This is Mr. Soulton of Soulless Hall. These are the leaders of the Five Great Sects, Mr. Delacroix and Mr. Cervantes.

This is Mr. Summers, the head of the Summers family. This is Serena and Faiyar of Soul Demon Sect. Among the three kings and four archons, there are Lion Archon, Monkey Archon, Leopard King, and Thousand Faced Demon Archon. This one here is Fox Queen.” After Jared had finished speaking, Catina stepped forward, addressing Nieva, “Welcome to the ranks of Jared’s women!” Nieva was taken aback, and then her face turned red.

Jared, on the other hand, coughed awkwardly.

He then shot Catina a glare and warned her, “Watch your words, Catina. Ms.

Nieva holds a prestigious position. You can’t just spout nonsense about her. She has her own set of principles.” Feenix chuckled from the side. “Stop beating around the bush, Master. There’s definitely something going on between the two of you! It’s clear as day in your eyes. You should trust a woman’s intuition.” “Exactly, you’ve been acting all elusive. If you did it, then so be it. And the young lady of the Summers family has been giving you longing looks all the way. Even though you two didn’t exchange a word, it’s obvious something happened between you two!” Catina then turned toward Jennifer and asked, “Am I right, Ms. Summers?” Jennifer’s face turned red, she quickly lowered her head, feeling quite embarrassed.

“There’s no need to feel shy. To be chosen as Master’s woman is a huge blessing! Master has many women, not just us few,” Feenix said.

Jared quickly interrupted Feenix by suggesting, “Ahem! Let’s go inside and talk.

We can discuss our strategy for dealing with our enemies.” He then ushered everyone into Lunarius Palace.

Jared was a hero, so it was only natural for him to be surrounded by beautiful women.

As everyone entered Lunarius Palace, Nieva immediately ordered the doors to be shut while Jared began to delegate tasks.

Jared instructed Tyler to have the Summers family members prepare a multitude of charms. Meanwhile, he himself was stationed at the entrance of Lunarius Palace, setting up an extensive array of defensive and offensive arcane arrays.

Even though the Mueller family hadn’t attacked Lunarius Palace just yet, no one knew when they might return. Therefore, it was crucial to prepare in advance.

If they had kept on talking, he couldn’t tell what those two women would have said. Every one watched as Jared found himself in an awkward situation, and they all burst into hearty laughter.

Nieva had brought out all the resources of the palace. After all, since those people had come to help, Lunarius Palace couldn't afford to be stingy.

While Jared was leading everyone in constructing extensive defenses at Lunarius Palace the members of the Mueller family were all quietly anticipating Nolan's return.

"Terrence, why wasn't I informed about such a major issue?" At that moment, a voice of reprimand echoed through the air.