

My Accidental Husband is a Billionaire !

#Chapter 591 - Read My Accidental Husband is a Billionaire ! Chapter 591

591 Chapter 590

As soon as Keira spoke, everyone was shocked.

Susan looked at Keira in disbelief, "What did you say?"

Mr. and Mrs. Olsen also looked at her in astonishment. "Keera, what did you mean by that?"

Keira glanced at Susan and Ellis before lowering her eyes. "Mary has been pregnant for three and a half months now."

That statement left everyone extremely shocked.

Mr. Olsen couldn't help but tremble as he spoke, "Really?"

Keira just nodded.

Mrs. Olsen frowned. "How could this be? Over three months... Does that mean Mary didn't have the abortion?"

"That's right."

Keira sighed. "At that time, I accidentally discovered Ellis had bought abortion pills, so I switched them out."

Mrs. Olsen burst into a cry of laughter, "Why didn't you say it earlier?! We've been thinking this whole time that Mary couldn't forgive your brother because of that child..."

Mr. Olsen added. "Yeah, I've been so distressed over that child recently, but I didn't dare to say anything, fearing it would upset your brother."

Keira smiled, and Mrs. Olsen said, "I knew it! When Mary came back this time, her belly seemed to be showing. Your brother insisted she just gained weight and kept reminding me not to mention it in case it upset Mary. He's such an idiot..."

Her eyes were brimming with tears.

Any small bit of reproach she had toward "Keera" just vanished in an instant, and she even felt guilty for having blamed "Keera" earlier.

How could she have followed along with what Susan said and put the blame on Keera?

That really wasn't right!

Mrs. Olsen grasped her hand. "Keera, you saved that child. You saved Ellis's baby, which means you saved my grandchild. From now on, you are that second branch's lifesaver!"

After saying that, she wiped the tears from the corner of her eyes and turned to look at Susan and her brother. "I'll leave them to you to deal with. I'm going upstairs to see Mary... Ah, I have to prepare an extra meal for her tonight. Seeing how she had a good appetite usually, I worried she would gain weight, but it turns out she's eating for two people now. I won't ask her to go on a diet anymore!"

Mrs. Olsen considered Mary her daughter. After all, she never had a daughter.

Since Mary and Ellis got back together and moved back in, whenever she saw Mary eating, she felt nervous and even gently reminded Mary to keep an eye on her figure because her belly was getting rounder.

Mrs. Olsen went upstairs.

She was emotional and exchanged glances with her husband, both somewhat unsure what to do.

Their son must know this good news by now, right?

As the two were hesitating outside the door, inside, Ellis was also in a dilemma...

How was he going to tell his wife, "You've gained some weight around your waist"?!

Mary looked at him with expectant eyes. "Why are you silent? What's wrong?"

Ellis hesitated for a moment before speaking up. "Well, a bit of weight is nice."

Mary was dumbfounded.

Seeing her freeze, Ellis immediately changed his phrasing. "I'm not criticizing you. I mean, chubby girls are quite cute..."

Mary was speechless.

Ellis quickly added, "No, I mean, Mary, what do you want me to say? Maybe give me a hint? I really don't know..."

Mary didn't know what to say,

Mary couldn't help but smile wryly, finding Ellis such an idiot.

Just as she was about to speak, Ellis said, "Actually, I really can't have kids now, and I should divorce you instead. You like children so much, so you definitely can't bear a lifetime without kids. I shouldn't keep you from that... But Mary, after what happened last time, I think spouses should be truthful with each other. There shouldn't be any secrets, so whether to divorce or not is your choice. If you despise me... we can divorce..."

As Ellis said this, his stomach sank.

Seeing this, Mary couldn't help but smile wryly. She deliberately frowned. "Are you trying to abandon me and the child?"

Ellis immediately waved his hands. "I'm not. How could I possibly abandon you and... what?!"

Ellis finally caught on, looking down incredulously at Mary's belly...

What did Mary just say?

The child?!

He stared dumbfounded at Mary's belly, speechless for a moment before swallowing and asking, "Mary, does this mean..."

He placed his hands on Mary's abdomen, gently caressing it.

Mary nodded. "Yes, our child. It's not gone..."

Tears instantly filled Ellis's eyes.

He stared at Mary's belly and then finally said, "We are having a child..."

After saying that, he sighed, "Although we can only have one child, maybe for the rest of our lives, that's enough. Mary, though I wanted one boy and one girl, it's perfect now. Do you want a boy or a girl?"

Then he laughed, "No matter what we have, I'll love them... I don't have any preference for one gender over the other. In our family, we feel the same. Everyone will treasure a girl even more as if she were a rare gem."

Hearing that, Mary couldn't help but smile. "Can't we have both?"

592 Chapter 591

Ellis was stunned once again. "What?"

He was usually quite calm, but today, he was shocked twice in a row.

He slowly looked up at Mary in disbelief.

Mary said, "Yes, we're having twins, and the checkup shows it should be one boy and one girl."

Ellis was flabbergasted.

After a moment of silence, he suddenly stood up, wanting to reach out and touch Mary's belly, but he hesitated, swallowed, and cautiously looked at her abdomen. "Twins?"

"Yes."

"Mary, are you a fairy sent from heaven to save me?"

Ellis rushed to the door, opened it, and was about to share the great news with everyone when he saw his parents tumble in.

It turned out the two had been eavesdropping outside the door all along...

A wave of jubilation swept through them.

But soon, they calmed down.

Mrs. Olsen looked at Mary. "Sweetheart, why didn't you tell us earlier? Ellis and I were both misled!"

Mary smiled and said, "At first, I didn't know how to break the news, and later, Keera told me not to announce it to the public yet for the safety of the children."

Upon hearing that, everyone's expression changed drastically.

Previously, Ellis was accused of being sterile, which was clearly a setup, and now Susan was trying to poison Ellis to settle matters once and for all.

If Mary had indeed announced her pregnancy the day she returned home, it was very likely Susan would have targeted her, not Ellis!

Mrs. Olsen immediately nodded. "You did the right thing! To stop Ellis from having children with his wife, they would normally poison Ellis because even if the wife is poisoned, he could still have children with someone else. But your situation is different..."

Mr. Olsen also nodded. "Then let's not announce it to the public. We'll just say she's not pregnant and that Ellis is physically unfit. Let him deal with those affairs."

Ellis couldn't help but smile bitterly. "That way, I might become a laughingstock in my circle."

Mrs. Olsen shot a glare at him. "What's more important, your ego or Mary and the children?"

Ellis didn't know what to say.

Mrs. Olsen then held Mary's hand. "Mary, you have to be careful."

Mary smiled at her. "Mom, I want to have ribs tonight. You won't stop me anymore, will you?"

This made Mrs. Olsen blush. "How could I? Of course not! I'll cook it for you myself! From now on, I'll prepare all your meals, and we'll just say we want you to lose weight..."

While the family of four was discussing, downstairs, Keira looked at Peter and Jenkins. "Don't announce the news of Mary's pregnancy. Understood?"

Peter and Jenkins immediately nodded. "Understood."

Peter then frowned and looked at Susan and her brother. "Keera, you shouldn't have revealed your identity in front of them..."

"It's okay."

Keira slowly crouched down, looking at Susan. "The two of them won't have a chance to pass on messages to the outside world anymore!"

Peter was startled, "How come?"

No sooner had he spoken than the butler strode in. "Miss, representatives from the authorities have arrived!"

Susan immediately became alert and looked at Keira. "You called the police? But even if they arrest me, Fox won't spare you! Just wait. Your father is going to die!"

Keira looked down. "Let me remind you, this is Crera!"

Susan narrowed her eyes. "So what?"

"In Crera, everyone must abide by the law, including Fox! That's also why she didn't dare to kill people with her own hands, even when plotting against Nara's family. Instead, she lured Gary's mother. She dared not leave behind any evidence of murder because murder leads to prison! I'm not sure what the South family trained me and Fox for, but if she goes to prison, Fox would lose, wouldn't she?"

Keira enunciated each word, making Susan's pupils shrink.

Keira knew she had struck a chord and smiled. "If murder was permitted, Fox could have simply killed all obstacles. There's no need for her to go through such trouble. Therefore, Susan, I'll ensure that you and Fox reunite in a Crera prison!"

As soon as she finished speaking, two people suddenly appeared in the doorway.

The two individuals who came over were from a special law enforcement department belonging to the Clance security office. Susan and Fox were involved in international cases, which required that department's involvement.

Holly was one of the responsible officers who had come over.

Back in Oceanion, after Keira's death, she had been in deep pain, unable to continue with anything at that sad place. Seeing her condition, her parents had her transferred over to Clance.

Holly looked at the ostentatious mansion before her, feeling completely unfazed inside.

Her best friend was dead...

That thought numbed her.

The amount of pain had paralyzed her.

"That's a coping mechanism," Holly thought, while her colleague couldn't help but complain, "With such a mansion, they must be rich. These kinds of families are most likely to cause fatalities. Be careful later; don't say the wrong thing and offend them."

Holly gave no reaction to her colleague's comments.

After all, she would only act according to the law.

With these thoughts, they entered the living room.

And there, upon seeing the person Holly had thought of day and night, she was instantly stunned.

593 Chapter 592

Holly stared blankly at Keira.

Her face was full of disbelief and confusion.

She even thought she was experiencing a hallucination.

She rubbed her eyes and looked again, but the person in front of her was still Keira!

Holly had tears in her eyes.

Keira hadn't expected to run into Holly here either.

The little prude was staring at her, her eyes almost brimming with tears. Keira knew she couldn't acknowledge Holly now, but she couldn't bear lying to the latter either.

As she was struggling with herself, she heard the other officer ask, "Who reported the incident?"

Keira immediately snapped back to reality and said, "I did."

Holly stared at her, clenching her fists. "Name."

"Keera Olsen."

Upon hearing that name, Holly's hands trembled. "Keira?"

"Keera, with two E."

Holly paused but still recorded it as such. Then, they conducted the routine inquiry with Keira. After getting the details, they saw the Olsen family's surveillance video, which revealed Susan's evidence of murder.

Susan had nothing to say in her defense.

Holly then asked Keira, "What was her motive for the crime?"

Keira frowned and suddenly said, "She was taking orders from someone else."

At this, Holly blinked in surprise.

She immediately grabbed her pen. "Who is that person?"

"Someone called Fox. Her real name is Vera, and she's currently living in the Martin residence."

Holly asked, "Is there evidence?"

"Yes."

Upon hearing that, Susan sneered. "What evidence could you possibly have?"

Keira looked at her. "Indeed, I have no evidence, but you should."

Susan scoffed. "Even if I had any, why would I give it to you?"

Keira looked at her. "Because only by giving it to me can you survive."

Susan was taken aback.

Keira went straight to the point. "You've been poisoned, haven't you?"

Susan's expression became panicked. "How do you know?"

"Since Jenkins mentioned calling the police, you've been very panicky, adamantly against it. Logically, even though you planned the murder, since no one was harmed, you won't face the death penalty, but you seemed as if you were facing imminent death. Plus, how could a person like Fox trust someone like you for no reason?" Vissit

Susan wasn't a particularly intelligent person, nor did she have any special talents. She was such a vain person; how could she be working for Fox willingly?

Unless Fox held some leverage or had control over Susan's life!

Ellis's medical report had been altered in the hospital, and Fox seemed quite familiar with the medical system. She had also had Uncle Olsen poisoned without anyone noticing...

Fox was an expert at using poison!

Therefore, Keira deduced that Susan was also poisoned.

If Fox wanted to keep control over Susan, it would be unlikely to poison Susan without providing an antidote, especially if Fox wanted Susan to do her bidding...

Then, the poison must require an antidote at regular intervals.

Keira thus inferred the truth!

Hearing that, Susan became completely dazed. She had never expected the usually reticent and seemingly inconspicuous "Keera" to be so clever. She had discerned the most critical thing based on just a few words!

Susan took a deep breath. "Since you already know, you should also know that I couldn't tell you who Fox is!"

"No, your only chance of living is to tell us who Fox is."

Susan blinked in confusion. "What do you mean?"

Keira squatted in front of her. "Shall we make a deal? You provide the evidence for us to arrest Fox, and I'll put Fox and you in the same cell. That way, you'll have a chance to make contact with her."

Only by making contact with Fox could Susan get the antidote!

Susan's pupils constricted. "Really?"

"Really."

Susan hesitated.

Keira stood up, looking down at her. "I don't know when you need your next dose, but if there's still time to hesitate, you can take your time to think about it. I don't mind..."

Susan clenched her fists tightly.

She stared relentlessly at Keira.

Tomorrow was the day the poison would activate, and she came here today to complete her task!

Now that she was caught, if she didn't get the antidote tomorrow, she would die!

Susan panicked and looked at Keira. "Okay, I'll tell you. I have evidence!"

She pulled out her mobile phone and said, "I have Fox's contact information! Although Fox always clears everything from my phone after contacting me, I recorded our chat logs, and they are saved in the cloud!"

Keira's eyes immediately lit up!

With that, they could charge Vera!

Once Vera was in jail, the Martin family could only rely on Keira. Given Scott's nature, he wouldn't want to make an enemy of the Olsen family.

In that way, wouldn't this predicament be resolved?

Keira took Susan's mobile phone, "Thank you!"

Susan stared at her. "I hope you'll keep your word! Remember to keep me in the same cell as Vera when the time comes!"

Keira smiled. "I only said I'd put her in the same cell as you, but it seems I may have forgotten to tell you something."

"What?"

"Before entering the cell, there seems to be a procedure, which is a body search, to prevent the criminal from bringing anything they shouldn't into the cell..."