

A WARRIOR UNDEFEATABLE/

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3961-“This disciple of mine, whom I took under my wing in Imperial Fox City, turned out to be incredibly talented,” Dario exclaimed before hastily departing.

He was merely there to handle matters in exchange for money and had no idea Jared was this formidable.

However, being too outstanding wasn't always a good thing, as the tallest tree often catches the wind. Jared's exceptional abilities could attract unwanted attention.

Meanwhile, at Dario's mansion, Jared was surrounded by Judd, Carla, and others, who were treating him like a hero.

“Hey, you're truly impressive! As your senior, I feel humbled in your presence,” Judd admitted. “These are the spirit coins we won from Thiago. Check and see if the amount is correct,” he added, placing two large bags of spirit coins before Jared.

These coins were part of the wager that Thiago had lost to Jared.

Jared didn't even glance at the bags. He simply took one bag of spirit coins for himself and handed the other to Judd. “Judd, please distribute these spirit coins among our fellow apprentices. They were all worried about me during the spar.” The bag contained over a hundred spirit coins. It was a generous sum that would be significant even for a larger sect.

Judd accepted the coins with trembling hands, nodding. “All right, I'll distribute them right away!” The other fellow apprentices were visibly thrilled, showering Jared with praises.

Some were even ready to bow to Jared. Many of them were disciples of the outer circle, holding lowly positions, and had never seen so many spirit coins before.

It was like going from rags to riches overnight.

Jared's gesture was strategic, aimed at winning hearts and ensuring he could navigate Violet Flame Sect with ease.

“You’re the first man I’ve seen who’s both powerful and generous, yet still humble. You don’t know how worried I was during the sparring. I thought you might not make it,” Carla said, holding Jared’s hand with apparent concern.

Carla’s soft, delicate hand continued to caress Jared.

Upon seeing this, Judd felt a twinge of jealousy but could only watch in silence.

Despite his secret feelings for Carla, he knew better than to confront Jared, especially since it was Carla making the move.

After all, Judd valued wealth more than romance.

There was no way he would offend Jared for the sake of Carla, especially considering it was Carla making the move.

Meanwhile, Jared gently withdrew his hand and said, “Carla, I’ll be counting on your guidance in Violet Flame Sect.”

“Rest assured. If you ever need anything, just come to me. If capit handle it, Judd will stepin. No one will dare to bully you with us around,”

Carla declared, patting her chest confidently.

“That’s right! We’ll have your back from now on,” everyone chimed in in unison.

“Thank you!” Jared smiled, pleased with their unified support.

“You probably don’t have a place to stay yet. Mr. Barclay’s mansion is full of his disciples, so there might not be any empty rooms. If ypy don’tmind, you,can stay at my place. My master is currently detained, so I’m in charge of the entire mansion. Plus, we could have some heart-to-heart talks anytime...” Carla’s offer was a blatant invitation extended to Jared to stay with her, but none of the others mocked her for it.

Given a man like Jared, they would have done the same if they were in her shoes.

“Carla, I can vacate my room for him.

There's no need to trouble you," Judd interjected. "Besides, my master Will likely return soon and will want to speak with him. It wouldn't be convenient for him to stay at your place."

This was Judd's attempt to stop Jared from moving in with Carla.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3962—"Hmph, how petty..." Carla shot Judd a disdainful look. Just then, Dario returned. Upon seeing him, Carla hurried forward and asked, "Mr. Barclay, did the council discuss my master's situation this time? He only exchanged a few words with Mr. Garrido, yet he's being punished with thirty years of confinement.

That's way too harsh!" "There's not much we can do. Harlan is very adamant about it. However, some of us will continue to plead for Mr. Moreau's case. You all should head back for now," Dario responded.

Carla nodded and led the other disciples away.

Once she had left, Dario dismissed Judd and the others as well, leaving only him and Jared in the hall.

"You've caused quite a stir. People will take notice of you. Learn to keep a low profile. That way, you won't attract unwanted attention," Dario warned Jared.

"Don't worry, I know my limits," Jared assured and nodded.

Dario didn't question Jared's identity or strength.

Having accepted payment, Dario knew what to ask and what not to ask.

This was a matter of principle.

Accepting money to solve problems meant adhering to certain rules. Only by doing so could future cooperation be ensured.

With internal conflicts and Harlan eliminating dissenters, Dario was uncertain how much longer he could remain in Violet Flame Sect.

Seizing the opportunity to make money was his primary concern now.

"It's good you know your limits, but be cautious of Thiago. He's not known for his forgiveness. There's also news that inner court disciples are now required to undergo a month of harsh training at Reflection Cliff. This was just announced.

I'm not sure if you will be exempt from this. I will do my best to exempt you from it. Reflection Cliff is said to be a place for rigorous training, but it's more like a brainwashing site. Some come out of there mentally impaired," Dario warned.

"A month of harsh training?" Jared was taken aback. He couldn't afford to waste a month here, especially with his ongoing bet with Aiden. Staying in Violet Flame Sect for a month was out of the question.

"Mr. Barclay, since I'm now an inner court disciple, I'd appreciate it if you could arrange a meeting with Mr. Ortiz as soon as possible," Jared requested.

"I will arrange it. However, Harlan has tightened security around Mr. Ortiz. Even his family members struggle to see him. If possible, I'll arrange for you to meet Mr. Ortiz's daughter first. If she knows fire tribulation, you might not need to see Mr. Ortiz. Finish your business quickly and leave Violet Flame Sect. Being here too long will draw attention and trouble," Dario advised.

He didn't want Jared to linger in Violet Flame Sect for too long. After all, he had accepted money to bring Jared in. If someone investigated, it could be troublesome for him.

"Very well, I'll follow your arrangements, Mr. Barclay." Jared nodded.

Having reached this point, Jared had no choice but to follow Dario's guidance.

After all, even if he did meet Gael, he wouldn't recognize the latter.

After Dario left, Judd entered the room, curiosity written all over his face. "What did Master tell you?" "Nothing much," Jared replied with a smile. "He just advised me to keep a low profile and mentioned that he wants me to meet Mr. Ortiz's daughter."

"What? Master wants you to meet Juliet?" Judd's eyes were wide with astonishment. "You have no idea!"

Juliet is a fair beauty, and she lives a very secluded life. Even among the disciples of Violet Flame Sect, few have ever seen her.

I've heard that one look from her is enough to steal a man's soul. I've never had the chance to see her?

myself. I can't believe that you, having just entered the inner court, get to meet her. I wish I could see her too!"

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3963-"Juliet? Is she Mr. Ortiz's daughter?" Jared asked with a hint of curiosity.

"Indeed she is! She's Mr. Ortiz's only daughter and has inherited his profound teachings. Many sects and prestigious families from the central region have come to seek her hand in marriage, but Juliet has turned them all down. There are even rumors that she doesn't fancy men at all, suggesting she might prefer women..." Judd explained, lowering his voice conspiratorially.

Jared chuckled at that.

It seemed that her aloof demeanor had led to such wild speculations.

How ridiculous!

"Judd, I'm feeling a bit tired. I'd like to rest now. Could you show me to my room?" Jared said, uninterested in more gossip from Judd.

As for whether Juliet Ortiz was a lesbian, Jared didn't care in the least as it had nothing to do with him.

"Sure, I'll take you to my place. You can stay in my room," Judd agreed and nodded.

Judd led Jared to his small courtyard. Being a deacon, Judd enjoyed better accommodations compared to regular inner court disciples.

The courtyard, though modest in size, was meticulously designed and filled with various spiritual plants, creating a rich spiritual energy.

Additionally, the courtyard was surrounded by array runes circuit, indicating that Judd, as a deacon, enjoyed privileges far beyond those of ordinary disciples.

"While my courtyard may not be as luxurious as Thiago's, it's considered good among the other deacons of Violet Flame Sect. You should stay here. I'll go stay with other juniors," Judd said.

“Judd, there are several rooms here, more than enough for both of us. Why go through the trouble of finding another place? Let’s share this courtyard,” Jared replied.

“Even though there are enough rooms, living together might cause disturbances that could affect your cultivation. I’ll be fine staying with the other disciples,” Judd said with a smile before leaving.

Jared, seeing no reason to argue further, closed the door and prepared to rest.

Once settled, Jared began to refine the two types of fire sources he had recently absorbed.

Particularly, the violaceous flame of the Violet Flame Sect, which he had absorbed from Thiago. It was weak because Thiago himself didn’t have much of it, and Jared had to absorb it discreetly.

Jared slowly nurtured and refined the two types of fire sources, gradually strengthening them.

The presence of these five fire sources made Jared’s fire nascence star especially radiant.

With a gentle wave of his hand, Jared summoned five types of fire sources, each leaping around him in vibrant hues.

The different fire sources flickered brilliantly, casting a spectrum of lights that danced across his body. From the outside, it seemed as though his room was illuminated by a colorful, radiant glow.

Jared circulated the fire sources through his body, allowing them to flow through every part of him. Relaxing his mind, he let the flames scorch his flesh.

He intended to use these fire sources to temper his physical body. During his spar with Thiagg, Layedhad been able to withstand the fire source because of his extremus frost flame, which had prevented him from being burned.

However, his physical body wasn’t naturally immune to fire sources, and he aimed to change that by tempering his physical body with fire sources. If he could achieve a physical body that was truly impervious to fire sources, it would be an incredible feat.

However, as soon as Jared let his guard down and allowed the fire sources to sear his body, the intense pain almost made him cry out.

This process of using fire sources to temper his body offered no protection. It was like throwing an ordinary person into a blazing furnace.

Jared couldn't use his spiritual energy as a shield, nor could he deploy any cultivation techniques to lessen the fire sources' power.

He needed to endure the raw, unfiltered agony. Only through enduring the most brutal refinement could his physical body become truly impervious to fire sources.

Gritting his teeth, Jared felt as though his body was being charred.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3964-Sweat poured from every pore of Jared's body, and his vision was awash with the fiery hue. Despite the excruciating pain, he remained silent.

Tempering the physical body was an agonizing process, so much so that many cultivators, regardless of their cultivation levels, often focused solely on refining their cultivation techniques.

Their physical bodies remained fragile, for few were willing to undergo the torment of physical body tempering.

Jared, however, was different. From the very beginning, he had committed to tempering his physical body. As his cultivation level rose, so did the intensity of his physical refinement.

Each session was excruciating, but the rewards were immense.

With an indestructible physical body, Jared wouldn't need to resort to physical body reconstruction or soul transfer like other cultivators.

He lost track of time, eventually growing numb to the intense heat.

At that moment, Jared's bones had transformed, now crystalline and emerald like, radiating an aura of ancient nobility.

“You reckless fool, this is not how one should cultivate! Whether you’re tempering your physical body or practicing cultivation techniques, it must be done gradually, You used fire sources to refine your physical body for an entire day and night. If not for your extraordinary physical resilience, your physical body would have been incinerated, and your divine soul could have been utterly obliterated! If that had happened, what would become of me? You’ve kept me on edge for an entire day and night,” Vermilion Demon Lord scolded, his tone a mix of anger and concern.

“A whole day and night?” Jared was taken aback as he hadn’t realized he had been tempering his physical body for that long.

“Did anyone come by while I was tempering my physical body?” he asked anxiously.

If anyone discovered that he possessed five types of fire sources, especially the violaceous flame of Violet Flame Sect, it would spell trouble. The consequences would be dire.

“Rest assured, no one came. They probably think you’ll need several days to recover,” Vermilion Demon Lord reassured.

Upon hearing that, Jared breathed a sigh of relief. “Good.” Stepping out of his room, he noted that night had fallen.

The moonlight bathed Jared, giving his skin a faint, ethereal glow.

It was the outcome of the fire sources’ tempering.

“The desert of the central region is scorching by day, yet surprisingly pleasant at night,” Jared mused, enjoying the moonlight and gentle breeze that brought a sense of indescribable comfort.

With a relaxed demeanor, he decided to explore Violet Flame Sect, now that he was an inner court disciple with access to various restricted areas.

At the inner court, he strolled and encountered no disciples guarding, allowing him to wander freely.

Soon, Jared found himself in a tranquil courtyard where an extraordinary amount of spiritual energy, laced with traces of celestial energy, wafted through the air.

“This courtyard is far superior to Judd’s courtyard,” Jared muttered, pushing open the gate and stepping inside.

In the serene courtyard, a plethora of celestial flora flourished, surrounding a spiritual energy pool brimming with spiritual water, emitting a luminous mist that danced in the air.

The mist, infused with spiritual energy, revealed the spiritual energy pool’s abundance, enriched further by celestial energies.

Whose courtyard is this? To possess such a spiritual energy pool is truly opulent!

Jared pondered inwardly, surveying his surroundings. Yet, no one seemed to inhabit the space.

Not even a trace of another’s presence lingered.

“Since no soul dwells here, I shall indulge in a bath within this sacred spiritual energy pool” Jared declared, shedding his garments before gracefully descending into the spiritual energy pool.

Enveloped by the billowing mist, Jared experienced a profound sense of tranquility.

Without hesitation, he initiated Focus Technique, absorbing the copious spiritual and celestial energies.

Having stumbled upon this spiritual energy pool, Jared harbored no reservations in utilizing its gifts.

The ascension to even a minor cultivation level demanded vast resources, Hence, Jared was resolved to seize every opportunity available.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3965-Jared lay peacefully in the middle of the spiritual energy pool. The moonlight shone over him, making his body seem almost translucent.

Countless tiny whirlpools formed around Jared, ceaselessly drawing in the spiritual energy from the spiritual energy pool.

The dense spiritual fog was visibly diminishing.

If anyone were to witness the rate at which Jared was absorbing the spiritual energy, they would undoubtedly be astounded!

Jared gently closed his eyes, his body floating in the spiritual energy pool. Just when he was absorbing the spiritual energy, feeling completely relaxed, a few bubbles surfaced from the water.

Soon, a girl with long hair cascading over her shoulders emerged from the depths!

The girl's skin was as flawless as pearl, without a single blemish.

"How did the spiritual energy in this spiritual energy pond dissipate so quickly?" Looking confused, the girl emerged from the water and glanced around.

When her gaze landed on Jared, she was instantly stunned. Her mouth fell open and her eyes widened in astonishment.

At that moment, Jared was floating bare-bodied in the spiritual energy pool, his body radiating a faint white glow under the moonlight.

Jared's naked body was completely exposed in front of the girl!

Yet, Jared had no idea at all. He was still blissfully enjoying himself with his eyes closed.

"Ah!" Hearing the girl's sudden shriek, Jared opened his eyes in shock.

Raising his head, he glanced over and saw a completely naked girl as well.

The two individuals locked eyes with each other.

These two strangers, a man and a woman, found themselves in an unexpectedly candid encounter. The atmosphere was both awkward and intriguing.

As Jared gazed upon the girl's flawless skin and enchanting figure, his heart began to pound.

It should be noted that Jared was never short of women in his life, and certainly not of beautiful ones.

Jared could remain completely calm and composed when faced with women.

Yet, at this moment, Jared's heart began to race. His breathing became increasingly labored as well.

The girl's skin was simply too flawless. Even her face seemed to have been meticulously sculpted. Among the women in Jared's life, perhaps only Cecilia could compare to this girl in terms of beauty!

However, as Cecilia was in the mundane world, he hadn't seen her in a few months.

"Pervert! Jerk!" After locking eyes for a brief moment, the girl suddenly plunged into the water and aimed a slap at Jared.

He jumped directly onto the shore. As he ran, he hastily grabbed his clothes and started dressing on the move.

At this stage, there was no way he could explain himself.

He had the audacity to sneak into someone's yard at night and bathe in the spiritual energy pool, all the while being completely naked.

Everything he said would be futile.

Even though Jared had run away, the girl didn't chase after him.

It was only after he returned to his courtyard that he finally let out a sigh of relief. Thankfully, Xiaone had seen 10V himhf anyone had mistaken him for a lecher, it would have been utterly embarrassing!

He would probably not be able to stay in the Violet Flame Sect any longer, let alone learn the fire fusion technique.

However, as he recalled the girl's figure and complexion, a smile tugged at the corner of his lips.

Although it was unintentional, he still saw everything.

"Axel, you're still awake at this hour. Were you also woken up by the noise?" At that moment, Judd walked over and asked Jared this question.

When Jared heard that, he immediately caught on and answered with a nod, "Yes. I thought I heard something, so I came out to check!"

"Who's causing such a ruckus in the middle of the night? I'll definitely find out tomorrow. They won't go unpunished!" said Judd indignantly.

"Judd, perhaps the person was just letting out his repressed emotions at night, I don't think there's a need to be so harsh," coaxed Jared quickly.

He didn't want Judd to investigate this tomorrow. If the truth came out, he would have to leave.

"Axel, you're not only wealthy and capable, but you are also kind-hearted! Men like you are truly a rare find!" Judd praised Jared