

Read Married At First Sight Chapter 2805

Married At First Sight Chapter 2805-Kevin knocked on the door, feeling that he was in the best possible condition right now.

Kevin said, “Hayden, it’s me, Kevin.”

Hayden had only just gotten out of bed when she heard Kevin knock on the door. She stayed in bed for two minutes before getting up helplessly and walking out of the bedroom to open the door for Kevin.

“Hayden, good morning.”

Kevin handed the bouquet of flowers to her with affectionate eyes and said affectionate words: “Hayden, this bouquet of flowers is for you. I hope you will be as beautiful as a flower every day and always smile.”

Hayden twitched the corner of her mouth, looked at Kevin, then looked at the bouquet of flowers in front of him, and finally, while reaching out to take the bouquet, she said to him, “You came here to disturb me so early in the morning just to give me a bouquet of flowers?”

Kevin said, “I came here to have breakfast with you and give you a bouquet of flowers. You said the flowers I sent were beautiful and fragrant, so I sent them to you every day. Don’t you like receiving bright and dazzling bouquets every day?”

Hayden turned around and walked back with the bouquet in her arms. As she walked, she said, “Even if I say I don’t like it, you will still give it to me every day.”

When it came to pursuing Hayden, Kevin wouldn’t listen to anything she said and would just do what he wanted.

At first, Hayden was so annoyed by him that she wanted to have someone put a sack on him and beat him up. But Kevin coaxed her parents first. With her parents supporting him, even the Queen Enterprise allowed him to come and go.

Hayden said: “You haven’t come over to have breakfast with me in the past, so I won’t eat as usual.”

She complained that Kevin was too domineering and would send the bouquet to her regardless of whether she liked it or not. She walked to the vase with the bouquet, inserted it into the vase, took two steps back, and admired the beauty of the flowers.

Kevin came in and closed the door. Seeing that Hayden was wearing pajamas, he quickly went to the cloakroom to get her clothes, handed them to her, and said, “The weather is getting colder now, especially in the morning. It feels so cold. Hurry up and change clothes; don’t catch a cold.”

Hayden didn't say anything. She took the clothes from his hand and said, "Sit on the sofa and wait for me. I'll go change clothes."

Kevin said, "Okay."

After Hayden walked away, Kevin thought of what happened last night and told her loudly: "The news about you wearing women's clothes last night spread throughout Jensburg. It will probably be on the headlines in Jensburg, and there will be a lot of entertainment reporters who are still staying in front of your company and the Greenrest Hotel. Do you want to take a day off? You won't go back to the company today."

The places where Hayden must go every day are the company and the Greenrest Hotel.

Entertainment reporters would definitely be squatting in those two places, waiting to interview Hayden and verify whether Hayden is a woman.

Most people would not cause such a big sensation if they disguised themselves as men for more than 20 years, but Hayden was the dream lover of countless girls in Jensburg. There were girls from all walks of life who admired her. She had always been called president of the Queen Enterprise and the eldest son of the Queen family.

With this identity and status, it was suddenly revealed that she was a woman, and entertainment reporters naturally asked for confirmation. This was explosive entertainment news, and it was very eye-catching to readers.

Kevin guessed that there would be paparazzi guarding the Fortress Hotel because he and Hayden were lovers, and Hayden often visited the hotel.

Hayden did not respond to Kevin.

Kevin didn't mind whether she responded or not, but she must have listened to what he said.

Kevin was still saying, "How about I ask someone to help you clear the place to ensure that you can enter the company safely? As long as you enter the company, they can't interrupt your work."

"No need." Hayden's voice came out.

Married At First Sight Chapter 2806-Hayden added, "They will stay on guard as long as they stay. My bodyguard team and the company's security personnel can ensure that I can enter the company directly without being disturbed."

This wasn't the first time she faced the entertainment reporter's squatting, so she didn't need to be so nervous.

Kevin said, “They can’t get the answer from me. I’m afraid they will pester you. Just pay attention.”

Kevin was her boyfriend. Entertainment reporters would not let Kevin go. They would definitely surround him and ask him if he has known her identity as a woman for a long time, so he suddenly pursued her publicly?

Kevin smiled and said, “What am I afraid of!? When they asked me, I could silence them with just one sentence. I responded, “Since I have not removed your underwear, how can I determine whether or not you are a man?” As for women reporters, they can’t ask any more questions.

Anyway, we were included on the gay team from the beginning. If I said that, what could they do to me? If they had claimed I was gay, wouldn’t they have accepted me as gay a long time ago? If they said I knew you were a woman, do they have evidence? I said I only knew it last night, and they just believed it.”

Hayden was silent. Kevin was the most eloquent. Those entertainment reporters had failed countless times in his hands. If he didn’t want to say something, even if they tried their best to explain, there was nothing they could do. After getting useful information from Kevin, it was easy for Kevin to change the subject.

The entertainment reporters would gradually awaken after Kevin had deceived them once more and leave.

In the past, when she and Kevin were the subject of questions and interviews by entertainment reporters, the reporters would guard her rather than surround Kevin. Even if Kevin seemed to talk better than her, they would not exclude interviews from entertainment reporters.

But entertainment reporters didn’t want to look for Kevin anymore. They always felt that Kevin was the monkey tricker, and they were the monkeys being tricked.

Hayden changed her clothes and came out of the bathroom. She was already in high spirits. She was the handsome young master Queen again.

If I were a woman, I would be enamored of you and love you to death, Kevin joked as he looked at the woman he loved.

Hayden glared at him.

Kevin chuckled, “I am such an excellent man, but when I stand in front of you, I lose to a fake man like you. Oh, how can I be so embarrassed?”

Hayden said, “Let’s go.”

“Where to go?” Kevin asked casually.

Hayden asked, "Why did you come here so early?"

Kevin stood up and said with a smile, "I will have breakfast with you and then send you back to the company. By the way, I will help you block the entertainment reporters who are surrounding you, as well as the rich ladies who once admired you. They will definitely come to you and ask you if you are a woman."

At the banquet last night, everyone was shocked. More people thought that Hayden was dressing up as a woman for him.

For the rich ladies who had admired Hayden, they would rather Hayden dress up as a woman for love instead of Hayden really being a woman. In that case, they would become collectively blind.

They had been admiring and pursuing a woman for so many years!

It's so shocking. When looking for a boyfriend in the future, did they have to verify their identity first and make sure the other person was a man before they could fall in love?

They're afraid that talking about a woman disguised as a man would be too irritating.

Married At First Sight Chapter 2807-Hayden and Kevin went downstairs together.

"Young Master, breakfast is ready."

The Butler stood at the top of the stairs and said to Hayden respectfully.

Hayden hummed, and she and Kevin entered the dining hall together, but the Butler did not follow.

Hayden didn't like people watching around when she was eating. If she needed something, she usually did it herself.

The Butler thought that a young master like Hayden was easy to serve.

Kevin said, "I think your Butler doesn't know that you are a girl."

Hayden glanced at him and said, "What do I need to announce to the world that I am a woman?"

Kevin chuckled. "No need; I just know."

Hayden said, "Eat breakfast; I have to go to work later."

Kevin said, "Okay."

He helped her pull out the dining chair and said, "I didn't come here early enough today. If I come earlier, I can cook for you myself. When my house is renovated, I will move in; I can make food for you every day from now on."

It took a long time to decorate a villa.

This was Kevin's home in Jensburg. He had very high requirements, so the decoration progress was a bit slow. It would be nice if it had been renovated years ago.

After Hayden was silent, she said, "You've been naughty to me; what should I do?"

Everyone knew that he was good at cooking.

Hayden also admitted that Kevin's cooking skills were really good. After eating the food he cooked, she always felt that the taste was a bit off when she ate in a hotel or at home.

Kevin chuckled. "We will be husband and wife and a family in the future. We will be together every day. I will provide for your three meals a day. I won't starve you."

"Kevin," Hayden suddenly asked him seriously: "If, I say, after we get married, I still stay in Jensburg and still take care of Queens' business, will you mind? Will your parents have any objections?"

"What do I mind? You just married me; you didn't sell yourself to me. You still have your freedom and your own private space. You can do whatever you want. Don't worry, I don't mind. Whatever you want to do, I will support you.

My parents don't have any objections. They have many sons. They will be like infinite light so long as their sons enter into matrimonial unions and do not spend their entire lives being humiliated and b*stard. My mother has wanted to kick me out for a long time. And my grandma also said that we are all pigs who don't know how to serve cabbage, and she was very disgusted."

Hayden's eyebrows softened, and she chuckled. "Elders are like that. They don't really dislike us. You see, my parents are the same, but the ones who love us the most and care about us the most are our parents."

Kevin said, "That's right. In short, you don't have to worry about the opinions of my elders. You also know how open-minded my elders are."

He looked at her with his dark eyes and added, "You mainly want to see me, your husband, and my attitude. I don't mind. After all, it's the two of us who live together, and we are the ones who have to live our whole lives."

Hayden blushed and scolded him: "I'm not even married to you yet, and you called yourself my husband!"

Kevin said, “I’m afraid you won’t be able to scream in the future. In fact, you can practice it in private. Others, whether they are male or female friends, will start screaming like husbands or wives.”

“Have a meal.” Hayden couldn’t be so disgusting. She saw that Kevin’s sisters-in-law also called their husbands by their first names. It seemed that when they wanted to ask for something, Serenity and the others would change their names in a flattering way.

