

Read Married At First Sight Chapter 2839

Married At First Sight Chapter 2839-Mr. Bucham over there just handed the phone to Mrs. Bucham.

Mrs. Bucham took a look at the phone and said, "That br@t has hung up the phone."

"That kid actually hung up on me."

When Mr. Bucham saw that the call was actually hung up, he cursed angrily. Then he sighed again, "I'm really worried about this br@t. I arranged so many blind dates for him in the past, but he didn't like them. Only then did I realize that there was something wrong with him. Finally, someone was able to save him. He does things neatly, but his mother-in-law is procrastinating.

How difficult is it to confess, propose, get married, and have a baby?"

It's true that the emperor was not in a hurry, and the eunuch was in a hurry.

Mrs. Bucham said, "Julian has never been in love and has no experience. He is also exploring now. He is different from others. Anyway, he is guarding Yonsburg. There will be no other men around Kiera. Don't worry.

Marriage is a lifelong event, and I really can't rush it. They have to be willing to do it, and then they can be happy after marriage. Our family can't use force to get married; otherwise, it will be either a marriage or an enmity."

The Caron family was not as good as the Bucham family, but the Caron family martial arts gym had been in Yonsburg for so many years and had taught many students and disciples. Naturally, there were also people who were very good at it. If the two families become enemies, no one will benefit.

What's more, they couldn't afford to offend their in-laws.

Kiera could remarry without Julian, but Julian couldn't remarry without Kiera.

Mrs. Bucham: "Husband, do we want to go there?"

Mr. Bucham glanced at his wife and said, "That br@t hasn't confessed his feelings yet. We could only pretend to travel in the past, but we couldn't do anything. There's no point in going there.

We can pretend to go on a trip and then show up in front of our in-laws to let them know that our family is kind, and we can add some points to Julian in the future. After all, our son is an old man, and Kiera is still a little girl.”

If their daughter was only twenty-four years old and wanted to marry a 35-year-old uncle, they would also hesitate.

Mrs. Bucham said, “You’re right. Let’s go over there and bring the gifts we prepared. Isn’t that br@t shameless enough to live in someone else’s house? As parents, we should always thank them more. I guess the br@t won’t give them rent money, so it’s normal for us to give them some gifts, and they won’t be too eye-catching. I’ll pick some ordinary, not very expensive gifts, and let’s go there.”

If the gift is too expensive, they’re afraid the Caron family won’t accept it.

But after Julian hung up the phone with his father, he leaned back on the black swivel chair and turned the chair back and forth. He wanted to confess to Kiera that he actually liked her and didn’t want to be her buddy.

He just wanted to be her husband.

He didn’t know if Kiera would accept his confession?

If she didn’t accept it, he might be kicked out of the Caron family and could no longer live in the Caron family.

He quite liked the atmosphere of the Caron family; it was very lively, and the whole family loved each other.

“Ring ring ring...”

Julian’s cell phone rang again.

He thought it was his father calling, so he quickly sat up straight. When he saw clearly that the caller ID was Kiera, a smile appeared on his face, even if Kiera couldn’t see him smiling.

“Kiera.”

When Julian called Kiera, he was in a happy mood. Kiera didn’t even need to look to know that he was smiling.

“I’m in such a good mood; I signed a big deal. We just concluded a big business deal, which can bring tens of millions in profits. I’ll invite everyone out for dinner tonight to celebrate.”

Married At First Sight Chapter 2840-Kiera smiled and said, “No need. It’s the same thing as buying more food and cooking it at home. It costs a lot of money to go to a big hotel for a meal. My mother feels bad for her. She always talks about how we young people are lavish. It means that if you use the money from a meal in a big hotel to buy food, you can prepare a full banquet.”

Julian knew that Mrs. Caron was always a nag. If he really invited her to a big hotel for dinner, she would run faster than anyone else, dress up more than ten years younger, and stand with Kiera like a pair of sisters.

He smiled and said, “It’s okay. I’m already immune to Auntie’s nagging. You have to spend the money you earn. If you earn more, spend it more freely. Don’t treat yourself badly.”

He had lived with the Caron family since he came to Yonsburg. At first, everyone thought he was only staying for three or five days. Later, he never left. The Caron family didn’t say anything. They just regarded him as one of their own. He couldn’t do that. In good times, Mrs. Caron would also nag him.

Julian: “Can I help you?”

Kiera rarely took the initiative to call him. He usually called her.

Julian asked her concernedly, thinking that she had something to ask him for help with.

Kiera smiled and said, “It’s nothing. My students are just talking about you and asking you when you are free to come and play. They miss you.”

When Julian was in Wiltspoon, he invited Kiera and a dozen students out to play, treated them to delicious food, and gave them each a gift. After coming to Yonsburg, he would also go to the supermarket with them and treat them to food.

The children liked him very much and would talk about him whenever they couldn’t see him for more than three days.

“I’ve also taken care of things in the company. I plan to have a good rest for two days. I’ll go over to see them after getting off work. I’ll buy whatever they want to eat and invite everyone to eat together.”

The people in the martial arts gym were either her senior brothers or her students, and they were all the ones he wanted to favor.

They believed that anyone who was not blind could see his doting on Kiera.

In other words, Kiera regarded him as a buddy.

Julian: “How about treating them to a barbecue?”

Kiera said, “Okay, I told them, they will jump with joy; don’t let my mother know; she will talk about it again; and then prepare a big bowl of herbal tea for us. Now among the students in my martial arts gym, you are my favorite person.”

Kiera’s words were a bit sour.

Before Julian came, Kiera was the most popular teacher and coach in the martial arts gym.

When Julian came, he was very capable. Not to mention the inexperienced students; even her fellow students got along with him and often praised him in front of her.

Julian smiled and said, “That’s because they like to eat barbecue.”

Kiera actually liked to eat barbecue, but her mother was in charge of her family. She only dared to try it occasionally when the weather was cold in the spring and winter. That’s it. Her mother found out and asked her to drink herbal tea. She was afraid that she would get angry.

Julian: “I won’t let Auntie know. You don’t eat barbecue often, and it’s not good to eat it often. Then I’ll go over after getting off work.”

Kiera: “You don’t have to socialize tonight?”

Julian: “Need not.”

Kiera said, “I feel like you are quite leisurely. You go to work during the day, and I don’t even see you going out to socialize at night.”

Wasn't it said that the big boss socializes a lot?

Julian: I spend all my social time chasing my wife.

Chasing a wife was more important than socializing for him.