

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2609-The door to the secret room slowly opened.

David, who was waiting outside, immediately looked over.

He saw Sylvio and a young woman in her twenties walking out together.

There was a hint of heroism on this woman's delicate face.

He could still vaguely see Pebbles in her.

It was Pebbles, all grown up.

"Sylvio, how are you two doing?" David hurriedly approached and asked nervously.

Sylvio smiled and said nothing. He wanted to see how the two of them would get along.

Elora looked at David while David looked back at her.

The two were just staring at each other.

After a while, David could not bear it anymore and averted his gaze.

He did not know how to face Pebbles after she regained her memory.

After all, she must be much older than him.

David still preferred Pebbles as a child because he did not feel any pressure to get along with her.

He did not know that Elora was also feeling a little lost at this time.

As the only empress among the five Leila rulers, she had naturally developed a cold personality after being in such a high position all this time.

When she lost her memory and turned into Pebbles, her temperament changed completely.

Now that she had recovered, Elora was conflicted.

She longed to call him 'Davey' as she did before.

However, as Empress Elora, she was not allowed to do so.

After a moment of silence, Elora could not stand it anymore so she said, "David, didn't you say that you'll still be my Davey, no matter what? What is this then?"

"I don't know if you will still want me after you recover your memory," David replied with a bitter smile.

This powerhouse, whose soul power was already at Heavenly Overlord Rank and whose strength was at partial Heavenly Overlord Rank, seemed a little embarrassed.

"Am I no longer Pebbles after I recover my memory?" Elora continued to ask.

"How would I know? After you recovered your memories last time, you left without saying goodbye. Who knows what will happen this time."

"Fine, I was wrong last time and I apologize. Why don't you continue to be my big brother Davey? Although it feels a little awkward, it's a fact, isn't it?" Elora suddenly showed a charming smile.

She would never have smiled like this previously.

The cold and unsmiling empress was actually behaving like a little woman.

This showed how much her experience in The Spirit Cage had changed Elora during the past few years.

"Okay!" David replied with only one word.

Then he laughed too.

He was also afraid that when she recovered her memory, it would be like the last time.

David was emotionally invested in the time they spent together.

As Pebbles said, even after she grew up and recovered her memory, she would still be Pebbles.

“Okay, you can talk on your own later. David, let’s find a place to sit. I need to discuss something very important with you,” Sylvio interjected.

David knew Sylvio wanted to talk about Pebbles’ enemies.

If the little girl’s soul could be severely injured twice, the other party must be very strong.

The first time was fine.

However, the second time caused the little girl to be homeless for a few months and David would never forgive this.

“Sylvio, Pebbles, come with me.”
