A Man Like None Other Chapter 3140-The elderly man looked at Dalton and Rosetta with a smile on his face, as though he was at kindly grandfather.

Jared could not bring himself to think of the elderly man as a villain as he stared at his smile. Although the man was a demon, he was definitely not one of the bad guys.

The circumstances of one's birth were beyond their control. Nonetheless, it was within their power to determine the kind of person they aspired to become.

"Rise. I shall now impart to both of you the pure and complete form of the blood demon technique. My hope is that you'll be able to bring honor to the blood demons. Bear this in mind: While we are demons' and cannot alter our lineage, it doesn't grant us the liberty to act recklessly and harm others simply because we're demons. Otherwise, I shall pursue you even from the afterlife," the elderly man cautioned Dalton and Rosetta.

"Don't fret, sir. Despite the world viewing us as enemies, we won't harm another cultivator without just cause. It's also what our master instilled in us. I'll return this Bloodsoul Orb to you. Will it enable you to depart from this place?"

As Dalton said that, he quickly fished out the Bloodsoul Orb, intending to return it to the elderly man.

After all, the Bloodsoul Orb was the elderly man's elixir field. A cultivator would not be able to cultivate if they did not have their elixir field.

“No need. This is fate. The Bloodsoul Orb will only realize its true potential in your hands. I’ve remained trapped here for millennia. I should have perished, but I was fortunate enough to draw sustenance from the blood pool above, enabling my survival until this moment. Since I can impart the knowledge of the blood demon technique to you both, I shall pass on without regrets. Come closer,” he urged.

The elderly man beckoned at Dalton and Rosetta. The two slowly approached the elderly man. Then, the latter began chanting, which transformed into light that entered Dalton’s and Rosetta’s consciousness fields.

After what felt like an eternity, the elderly man eventually came to a gradual halt.

It was evident that he was immensely fatigued, as if he had aged in the blink of an eye. When Dalton and Rosetta opened their eyes, a look of surprise appeared on their faces.

“T-This is the pure blood demon technique? This is so different from what I’ve been cultivating. So what I’ve been cultivating was wrong all along. No wonder I developed bloodlust!”

Rosetta’s eyes were wide. It was only then she found out that the blood demon technique she had been practicing was wrong, fake.

“Cultivate this blood demon technique and do not teach anyone with an evil heart this, or else the world shall see its next bloodbath,” the elderly man warned the two.

“Don’t worry, sir. We’ll keep your words in mind,” Dalton and Rosetta hastily replied.

The elderly man looked at them and smiled. It felt as though he could see hope for the blood demon race.

He then turned to Jared and waved at him. “Young one, have any of your people gone missing since coming on this island?”

“Yes! I have a female friend who went missing,” Jared quickly said.

“Then you must now know why your friend has gone missing,” the elderly man uttered.

Jared nodded. “She must have entered another dimension, and that’s why it feels as though she disappeared from right under our noses. Still, how do we get into another spatial dimension to find her?”

Jared knew that this place was full of powerful soul remnants of immortals and demons who could create spatial dimensions of their own whenever they wanted. However, Jared was stumped about how he could enter someone else’s spatial dimension.

“I’ll give you a drop of soul blood. With it, you can travel between spatial dimensions to find your friend. However, there is a soul remnant, Bone Cliff, on the island. I don’t know how he managed to escape his restraint, but he has fled to the island.”

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3141-“Furthermore, he used the bones of the tiger beasts here to craft eighty-one Apex Spears. That guy is extremely ruthless. You’re not the first group to arrive on this small island. Over the course of thousands of years, more than ten groups of cultivators have discovered this island and ventured here. But they all became prey to Bone Cliff. I believe it won’t be long before he can reform his physical body and depart from here. Your friend is in great danger at this very moment. It’s crucial that you locate her quickly. This droplet of soul blood can help you track down Bone Cliff. You must eliminate him while he’s still weak, or he’ll present a considerable threat to everyone.”

As the elderly man conversed with Jared, a drop of soul blood gradually coalesced on his forehead. Just as the soul blood took form, the elderly man's presence grew increasingly faint before ultimately disappearing altogether.

“Sir! Sir!” Jared called out twice, but there was no response from the elderly man. The surrounding waters rippled, and at that moment, the spatial dimension slowly faded away.

The others, still enveloped in spiritual energy, were not far from Jared and his group. As soon as Jared realized that Quinley might be in danger, he quickly woke Cloud and the rest up before swimming toward the water's surface.

As for the others, Jared did not pay them much attention as they did not seem to be in any immediate danger. If they choose to immerse themselves in cultivation, so be it.

Jared's top priority was to rescue Quinley. If something were to happen to her, he would not know how to face Mason.

In no time, Jared and his group emerged from the Night Sea and swam to the small island. Once they reached the island, Jared instantly summoned that droplet of soul blood.

As the soul blood suddenly exploded, transforming into a blood mist, the area around the small island began to ripple. Shortly after, not far from where Jared and his group stood, a disheveled figure appeared.

The person was clutching a severed arm and voraciously devouring it, with blood dripping from the corners of his mouth.

Before this individual, the ground was covered in white bones. He must be Bone Cliff, the ruthless person the elderly man mentioned earlier.

Staring at the sight, Jared realized Bone Cliff's cruelty was beyond imagination.

The faces of Quinley and several other cultivators were deathly pale. They stood off to one side, trembling violently and seemingly deeply shocked.

Upon witnessing this scene, Cloud could not hold back his nausea and began to vomit. Even the other cultivators on the small island wore expressions of profound shock.

They had been on the island for several days and had never witnessed such a horrifying sight. It was unclear what Jared did, but it seemed he had opened up another world on the small island.

“Jared! Jared!” Quinley exclaimed in agitation when she saw Jared and the others. “Old Mr. Seizon, please save us!” A few disciples from Stellaris Sect, too, shouted in excitement when they saw Renault.

Jared rushed toward Quinley, but after taking just a couple of steps, he was forcefully pushed back by a powerful force.

Bone Cliff casually discarded the arm he had been gnawing on and wiped the blood from his mouth. He said, “I was planning to savor you all slowly, but I didn’t expect you to come to me. It seems that old demon told you how to break through my spatial shield and enter my dimension.”

“Hey, you! Release them, and I can guarantee you a painless death. Otherwise, I’ll ensure that your remaining soul experiences the torment of purgatory.” Jared clenched his teeth, his voice indifferent as he spoke to Bone Cliff.

Bone Cliff was momentarily taken aback before bursting into hearty laughter.

“What an ignorant brat. Do you know who I am? How dare you speak to me like this?”

“I don’t care who you are. If you dare lay a finger on my woman, I’ll destroy you utterly. Not even the gods can stop me then.” With a casual gesture, Jared summoned Dragonslayer Sword into his hand, and his aura surged and roared.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3142-As Jared referred to her as his woman, Quinley’s heart warmed instantly. It seemed that he had finally acknowledged her, affirming her decision to follow him from the far north was the right one.

“So you’re from the Golden Dragon lineage. No wonder you’re so arrogant.

Thousands of years ago, I slaughtered your ancestors without fear, so what makes you think I can’t deal with a kid like you? Today, I’ll kill you, eat your flesh, and drink your blood. Your bone and blood are far superior to the others!” After speaking, Bone Cliff shook his body gently.

Boom! Suddenly, a strange phenomenon began to manifest behind Bone Cliff.

The void shattered, and a deafening roar reverberated through the sky.

Behind him, eighty-one pristine Apex Spears manifested, each of these spears forged from the femurs of ancient tiger beasts.

The runes on the Apex Spears slowly lit up, illuminating the sky. With these Apex Spears behind him, Bone Cliff seemed like an immortal descending from the heavens.

The eighty-one Apex Spears emitted roars resembling that of a tiger. It was as if ancient mythical beasts had been awakened to unleash their boundless power!

Everyone’s expression turned serious when they sensed the sudden surge of power from their opponent.

Cloud, Dalton, and the others retreated, while Renault and Montane Daemon stood firmly by Jared’s side. Both of them began to gather their power, preparing to fight alongside Jared.

Hum! Suddenly, the void quivered, and one of the Apex Spears disappeared in an instant. Jared knitted his brows, swinging his Dragonslayer Sword forcefully toward the void before him while exclaiming, “Step back! I’ll handle him. He’s nothing but a soul remnant. There’s nothing to fear!”

Jared was currently a Top Eighth Level Body Fusion Realm cultivation level, so he was eager to discover just how powerful he had become.

As this strike landed, the entire void shattered. The missing Apex Spear reappeared, colliding violently with the light of Jared’s sword.

A thunderous explosion resonated, causing the entire small island to tremble.

Jared’s feet sank into the ground instantly, and his clothes were torn to shreds.

Rumble!

A terrifying aura relentlessly assaulted Jared, and the entire island seemed to be on the verge of collapse. Jared’s muscles bulged as he activated Golem Body, shimmering golden scales enveloping him.

“Break!” Jared bellowed before leaping into the air. In that instant, the menacing aura was dispelled. Jared, wielding Dragonslayer Sword and covered in the radiant Golem Body, was akin to a god of war adorned in golden armor.

Many onlookers could not help but envy Jared as they recognized his Golem Body was an extraordinary treasure.

“Kid, I didn’t expect your physical form to be this formidable, and you even possess a precious suit of armor. But this is just a warm-up. How does it feel?”

Bone Cliff asked with a smirk.

“It feels like child’s play to me. Don’t try to show off in front of me anymore,”

Jared replied with an icy tone.

As Jared finished speaking, a radiant glow suddenly emanated from his chest, and the Power of Dragons within the draconic essence began to surge.

Within his elixir field, the Power of Three, too, began to emit a brilliant light, and an inexhaustible aura started to spread.

At the same time, Jared’s nascence space opened wide, and the lightning nascence, fire nascence, and illusion nascence began to gleam.

While Jared responded to Bone Cliff’s taunts casually, he had not completely assessed the extent of Bone Cliff’s abilities. That was why he decided to muster all the power at his disposal. With each awakened nascence, Jared’s aura increased manifold.

Everyone was left dumbfounded when they sensed the activation of various nascences in Jared’s body. What’s going on? Jared is only in the Body Fusion Realm, and yet he has access to a nascence space and can even utilize several of them? How is this possible? It’s unbelievable!

Montane Daemon stared blankly at Jared, his mouth agape. Despite being a Tribulator, he had yet to activate a nascence space, whereas Jared, a mere Body Fusion Realm cultivator, had managed to do so. How did that happen?
