

A WARRIOR UNDEFEATABLE/ Read A Man Like None Other Chapter 3391

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3391-She swung her sword, beheading those severely injured Skywolf Sect members. Their heads soared into the sky before dropping to the ground.

In the Ethereal Realm, no one showed mercy, and kindness was a rare commodity. Every moment in the Ethereal Realm seemed like a reenactment of the story "The Farmer and the Viper." Gratitude was a concept unfamiliar to many, especially in the face of absolute interests. Having slain the members of the Skywolf Sect, Rosetta felt a sense of relief as she exhaled out loud. Jared urged, "Let's go. I'm afraid someone will come soon." Right after Jared and Rosetta departed, a swirling black mist approached, transforming into a massive hand that ripped the void open.

Following that, an aura surged forth before a figure walked out slowly from the void. That figure was none other than Pablo, who had come here after hearing the explosion. By his side was Dimas, looking visibly pale.

After Dimas escaped using the Blood Escape Technique, his cultivation level directly dropped to the Third Level of Tribulator. His aura had weakened significantly, and he resembled someone who was severely ill.

"Mr. Quimar, the explosion sounded like something powerful blew up. What could be that terrifying?" Dimas inquired.

Pablo remained silent, surveying the chaotic scene and the scattered, broken weapons. The weapons were already damaged in the first place, so the explosion had rendered many of them utterly useless.

"Check those corpses. See who they are," Pablo instructed Dimas after seeing the bodies. Dimas nodded and examined the bodies. By studying their clothing, he identified the dead people.

He carefully reported, "Mr. Quimar, they are from Skywolf Sect. Some were killed by the impact of the explosion as their internal organs were shattered.

Others had their heads severed." Glancing at the dead people, Pablo observed the scene and slowly closed his eyes. He swept his hand across his forehead gently.

A radiant light emanated from Pablo's forehead, revealing an additional eye.

Witnessing this, Dimas swallowed nervously.

The eye on Pablo's forehead began to blink, and the world swiftly turned grey in Pablo's eyes.

In this grayish world, everything that had just occurred left residual images.

"Nethersky Eye?" Dimas was dumbfounded. The Nethersky Eye was a forbidden technique of the demons and had been lost for ages. Dimas couldn't fathom how Pablo possessed it.

Nonetheless, Dimas had made up his mind to follow Pablo closely and serve him well.

Perhaps, after the closure of the Celestial Battlefield, Pablo could help him recover.

After a moment, the eye on Pablo's forehead slowly disappeared, and he slowly opened his eyes.

"So, it was done by that Jared guy. He has struck gold. I wonder what magical items he obtained and stashed away before making his escape," Pablo said coldly.

"Jared did this?" Dimas was surprised. "Mr. Quimar, what exactly is Jared's cultivation level? How could he kill so many members of Skywolf Sect?" "I couldn't see the process of their fight. However, Rosetta was the one who beheaded those cultivators," Pablo explained. "It seems I need to enhance the power of the Nethersky Eye quickly. The time I can observe is still too short." Pablo furrowed his brow slightly. If only his Nethersky Eye were more powerful, he could have witnessed the details of Jared and the others' battle, thereby unraveling the secrets of Jared's victory over the Skywolf Sect members.

"What should we do next?" Dimas asked.

"Go after him, of course. We have to catch up to him. He must be hiding other secrets!" With that, he led Dimas in the direction where Jared and Rosetta had disappeared.

Meanwhile, Jared and Rosetta were running as fast as they could, fully aware that danger lurked behind them.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3392-Jared brought Rosetta to a quiet location and effortlessly drew an arcane array to recover rapidly.

Without hesitation, Jared brought out all the resources kept within his Storage Ring. In the blink of an eye, he absorbed various spiritual stones and mystical herbs with Focus Technique. Despite that, he needed more time if he wished to recover fully.

If he had enough celestial energy at that moment, he could achieve full restoration in a short period, but he didn't know where to locate dense celestial energy.

As he considered his options, his sight inadvertently wandered toward the spirit beast egg.

The spirit beast egg had absorbed celestial energy for thousands of years, so if he ate it, he was sure he'd be able to recover his strength immediately. Hence, he stared at the spirit beast egg thoughtfully, wondering if he should consume it.

Danger lurked in every corner of the Celestial Battlefield. If he failed to recover in time, he would be in deep trouble if someone targeted him.

Just as Jared was lost in thought while gazing at the egg, the spirit beast egg swayed slightly as though it could sense danger. Then, a massive amount of celestial energy burst forth from within the egg.

Jared was taken aback for a moment before smiling. He didn't expect the spirit beast egg to possess intelligence and could read his mind even before it hatched.

That turn of events roused Jared's interest in the spirit beast egg. He couldn't help but wonder what kind of creature was hiding within the egg.

Jared ravenously absorbed the celestial energy emitted from the spirit beast egg, recovering speedily. However, during that process, he abruptly detected a terrifying aura approaching. An expert's here!

Unfortunately, before he could do anything, the enemy had already arrived at his location. They were none other than Pablo and Dimas.

Upon spotting Rosetta and Jared, Dimas growled with gritted teeth, his eyes filled with contempt. "I finally found you, brat! Today, I will tear you into pieces, and then I'll have my way with Rosetta!" Ascending to a higher cultivation level after becoming a Tribulator cultivator was extremely difficult. Previously when Dimas used his Blood Escape Technique, his cultivation level dropped all the way to Third Level Tribulator, so it would be difficult for him to ascend further in the future.

That was why he bore such intense hatred toward Jared and Rosetta.

Meanwhile, Pablo remained silent, instead staring intently at the arcane array Jared had set up.

He narrowed his eyes and commented, "To think a mere First Level Tribulator cultivator could establish such a perfect arcane array. It seems you truly are special." "No need to waste time talking to them, Mr. Quimar! Let's murder Jared here, and once we leave the Celestial Battlefield, we'll massacre the whole of Blood Spirit Valley with my people from Bloodroot Peak!" Dimas was eager to act.

Other than his personal grudge against Jared, there was another reason he wanted Jared to die a horrific death quickly—he wished to capture Rosetta as soon as possible and force himself on her.

He had been enamored with Rosetta for years, yet she only ever had eyes for Dalton, so he had had no chance of winning her heart.

At that moment, neither Dalton nor the others from Blood Spirit Valley were in the Celestial Battlefield, so he could do anything he wanted to her.

He started salivating as he thought about how he would enjoy himself with Rosetta later. His disgusting demeanor spurred Rosetta's intense desire to murder him. Pablo shot Dimas a cold look. "Are you ordering me?" The icy glint in Pablo's eyes had Dimas shuddering in terror.

"N-N-No, I'm not. I would never dare to..." Hastily, Dimas shook his head before moving to stand off to the side and zipping his mouth shut.

Once again, Pablo turned his attention back to Jared, a cold smirk curving his lips.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3393-In the next instant, the aura surrounding Pablo's body swelled and swirled around him like a raging wind. The sky darkened as the air seemed to roil. The sheer force even pushed Dimas back several steps.

"Break!" roared Pablo as he waved his hand. It was clear he aimed to shatter Jared's arcane array by force. In truth, the easiest way to crack an arcane array was by destroying its core.

However, Pablo wished to destroy the arcane array through brute force because he wanted to show off his strength before Jared.

A dark mist gathered within the void, which swiftly manifested into a gigantic palm. As Pablo lowered his palm, his massive attack also landed on his enemy.

Following that, the void trembled. Jared frowned and activated his Golem Body.

Golden light appeared, forming a protective barrier around the arcane array.

"So you do have some skills," Pablo sneered as he stared at Jared's golden Golem Body. Meanwhile, Jared wore a grim expression because he could tell that Pablo was extremely powerful. The latter was at least an Eighth Level Tribulator cultivator, despite his relatively young age.

to so suddenly possess such might.

In the past, Pablo couldn't even defeat Dalton, which was why he was tossed into Demon Devouring Cave by the latter.

Yet, at that moment, even Igor probably couldn't hold up against Pablo, much less Dalton.

In other words, Pablo must've encountered a miracle in Demon Devouring Cave. Unfortunately, Jared did not know the details.

Regardless, that must've been the reason for Pablo's incredible growth in such a short time.

Raising his hand, Pablo once again materialized a gigantic palm.

When the second attack landed, it cracked the ground, smashing Jared's arcane array into pieces.

Dimas stared at Pablo, shocked.

In the past, they were on the same cultivation level. Yet, at that moment, Dimas probably couldn't even withstand a palm strike from Pablo.

The instant Pablo broke the arcane array by force, Jared yelled, "Run!" Then, Jared flung Rosetta away with all his might. Only when Rosetta had left could he fight without reservations.

Upon seeing Rosetta's intention to escape, Dimas hurriedly chased after her. He was desperate to prevent Rosetta from escaping because it was a rare chance for him to fulfill his twisted fantasy. Seeing that Dimas was pursuing Rosetta, Jared waved his hand with an icy glare.

"Thunder Palm!" howled Jared furiously. Dark clouds gathered in the sky as lightning crackled through them.

That sudden change and the thunder prompted Dimas to turn his sight upward.

In the sky, he saw dark clouds forming a gargantuan palm before it smashed down on him.

Lightning could be seen flashing through the palm. That terrified Dimas because he had never seen anything on that scale before.

When Pablo witnessed that attack, he was also shocked.

He didn't expect a First Level Tribulator cultivator like Jared to possess such power.

"Save me, Mr. Quimar!" pleaded Dimas, consumed by fear.

A Third Level Tribulator cultivator being beaten so severely by a First Level Tribulator cultivator that he was calling for help was a rare sight.

With a wave of his hand, Pablo also summoned a giant hand to protect Dimas.

Boom!

The two attacks clashed against each other, creating a massive shockwave and kicking up dust.

Dimas dropped to the ground, blood spilling from his mouth.

While Pablo had protected him, the shockwave still injured Dimas gravely.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3394-As the dust gradually settled, Jared's figure was nowhere to be seen.

"Hmph, trying to escape from me? In your dreams..." The calm Pablo let out a snort before setting off in pursuit. Shortly after, Jared's figure came into his view.

Meanwhile, sensing Pablo's approaching presence, Jared couldn't help but furrow his brows as he realized that the former had managed to track him down.

"You're trying to escape despite being a mere First Level Tribulator? You had better resign yourself to death instead." As he picked up speed, Pablo's figure disappeared in a flash. In the blink of an eye, he caught up with Jared. Despite his use of Wind Walk, Jared just couldn't put any distance between him and his pursuer.

"F*ck, how powerful is this guy?" Jared grumbled with narrowed eyes.

The moment Jared came into view, Pablo reached out his hand and clenched his fist. Plumes of black smoke instantaneously morphed into metal chains that flew toward Jared.

Every single chain resembled a viper that was hissing with its tongue out. Soon, the chains came at Jared from all directions, cornering him.

However, right before he was about to be ensnared by the chains, a blistering white light flashed without warning.

Swoosh!

All Jared saw a pitch-black darkness before light quickly returned to his vision.

By then, he was miles from where he originally was, as if he had somehow teleported himself away.

The fact that he didn't know any such techniques made the sudden development even more astonishing.

"W-What in the world happened?" Jared was left stunned, clueless as to how he had appeared there without any warning. At the same time, Pablo's initial shock was soon replaced with a look of elation. "I'm surprised he actually knows teleportation magecraft." He had assumed that Jared used teleportation magecraft to travel through space and time, catching him off guard by reappearing miles away.

With that thought in mind, Pablo leaped into the air and landed near Jared, glaring at him. "Young man, I'm surprised that you actually know so many different forms of magecraft despite your low cultivation level. It seems I must absorb all of them from you for myself." No sooner had Pablo finished than he reached out toward Jared, who turned to flee as taking Pablo head-on was suicide.

While running, Jared began to contemplate what just happened. When an epiphany struck him, he reached out deep into his Storage Ring with his spiritual sense.

Focusing his attention on the gem-carved watch, he noticed that its hands had moved and were no longer in their previous position. Could it be that it's a time spell instead of teleportation magecraft?

Jared was filled with shock.

He was surprised that the watch would refuse to budge despite all his efforts, yet it moved on its own when it was left alone.

Just as Jared was mired in confusion, he sensed a powerful attack coming from behind. Pablo had once again unleashed his chains at Jared in an attempt to trap the latter.

Unfortunately, Jared couldn't escape no matter how desperately he used Wind Walk, for the gap in skill between the two was just too great.

It was when he was gripped by panic that he noticed the markings on the spirit beast egg had begun to glow. Immediately after, a white light flashed on the watch's surface before its hand moved again.

Jared was left dumbfounded by the turn of events. He hadn't expected the spirit beast egg to be behind the watch's movements.

The very next moment, the dangerous aura behind him vanished. Upon turning to look, Jared saw that he had already left Pablo a few miles behind him.

A Man Like None Other Chapter 3395-Watching Jared disappear and reappear again left Pablo's mind blown.

How can a lowly First Level Tribulator use teleportation magecraft twice in succession? This is ridiculous! Teleportation magecraft is a technique that drains its user significantly. It's unbelievable how someone like Jared is able to use it twice.

Despite being baffled by the turn of events, Pablo didn't let up in his pursuit of Jared.

In response, Jared fled as fast as he could, hoping that the spirit beast egg would get the watch to save him once more.

However, even when Pablo was practically on his heels, the spirit beast egg remained inactive, leaving Jared in a state of panic.

Dude, can you please use the watch one more time?

Jared begged in his mind as he stared at the spirit beast egg. Right then, due to either the spirit beast egg responding to Jared's pleas or the fact that it had sensed the impending danger, the marks on its surface began to glow once again.

Filled with delight, Jared shifted his gaze to the watch, but this time, it didn't appear as if it was about to move at all.

"F*ck, what is going on?" While Jared was lost in bewilderment, Pablo's terrifying aura grew increasingly close.

With the watch showing no signs of saving him, Jared had no choice but to unsheathe Dragonslayer Sword in preparation for a showdown with Pablo.

The moment he did that, a thunderous roar was heard, heralding tremors on the ground and clouds of dust being kicked into the air.

Stunned, both Jared and Pablo looked toward the source of the commotion. All they saw were thousands of roaring demon beasts stampeding toward them, a sight that left both men horrified.

As the horde was bearing down upon them, Pablo swiftly backed off, but Jared couldn't do the same. By retreating, he would end up right in front of his enemy.

"D*mn it. I guess I don't have a choice." Dragonslayer Sword in hand, Jared covered himself with Golem Body, planning to slash his way out through the approaching horde.

Compared to taking Pablo on, facing the demon beasts was the easier option.

Yet, right before Jared started cutting them down, the beasts instinctively avoided him, passing him by to charge at Pablo.

The fact that the hordes of beast didn't attack him left Jared staring blankly at them. Upon regaining his senses, Jared quickly checked the spirit beast egg and noticed that it was glowing. Moreover, it seemed to be wiggling at him, as if to claim credit for saving Jared's life.

It became clear to Jared that the demon beasts were summoned by the spirit beast egg, and it was also the reason why they didn't attack him.

"Damn, what an amazing treasure!" Jared exclaimed as he stared at the spirit beast egg in delight. It's already this powerful in egg form. I wonder how much stronger it will be when it hatches.

As Jared's imagination began to run wild, his mind conjured up the scene of him roaming the Ethereal Realm on the back of a magnificent spirit beast, practically invincible.

Boom!

A sudden explosion knocked Jared back to his senses.

He was greeted by the sight of Pablo surrounded by a raging aura after letting out a roar. From amidst the air, a black aura swept down upon the demon beast horde, killing many of them in one fell swoop.

Pablo was outraged, for the demon beasts had circled around Jared and attacked him instead despite Jared clearly being the weaker one. Do they think I'm a pushover?

The sight of Pablo in a murderous rage caused Jared to flee as fast as he could with Wind Walk.

Pablo, in an attempt to give chase, was further frustrated by how relentlessly the horde of demon beasts were charging at him, a fact that triggered a furious roar from him.

Nevertheless, Jared couldn't be bothered and ran as fast as his legs could carry him.

After some time, Jared could no longer sense Pablo's aura around, even with his spiritual sense. Only then did he heave a sigh of relief.