

Married At First Sight Chapter 3002

Married At First Sight Chapter 3002-As long as she was obedient enough, Carrie thought Mr. Labbe would not scare her again.

Mr. Labbe was sitting on the sofa in the hall, holding a glass of wine in his hand, looking leisurely and content, taking a sip of wine from time to time.

Hearing the footsteps, he did not look at Carrie.

Carrie came over, put down her bag, sat next to him, and called out coquettishly, "Mr. Labbe."

Mr. Labbe turned his head and glanced at her. His eyes were as sharp as a knife, and Carrie was startled.

Did she do something wrong?

"Mr. Labbe, have you eaten?" Carrie didn't dare to sound coquetish anymore and asked him cautiously.

Mr. Labbe hummed lightly. He leaned back and said, "The invitation on the table is for you to attend the banquet tomorrow night."

"There, I bought you several sets of evening dresses and several sets of jewelry. Wear whichever one you like."

Mr. Labbe looked towards a single sofa.

Following his line of sight, Carrie noticed that there were several exquisite bags and several bright red brocade boxes placed on the single sofa.

Carrie first picked up the invitation letter, opened it, and looked at it.

After closing the invitation, she stood up and walked over to look at the evening gowns and jewelry.

The evening gowns were all beautiful, not to mention the jewelry.

Carrie had seen and used good things before, but she still couldn't help laughing when faced with Mr. Labbe's generosity.

Carrie said, "Mr. Labbe, thank you; you are so kind to me."

Mr. Labbe's net worth was estimated to exceed that of Zachary and Callum. If Carrie helped Mr. Labbe accomplish something, got Mr. Labbe's praise, and gave birth to a baby, as a mother is more valuable than a child, maybe she would become Mrs. Labbe in the future.

She would be better than Serenity and Camryn.

Facing the gift from Mr. Labbe, Carrie immediately ignored Mr. Labbe's terror.

He wouldn't always strangle her neck with murderous intent; he would just give her a warning.

Mr. Labbe smiled and asked her, "Do you like it?"

Carrie said, "I like it. I like it very much. Mr. Labbe, don't worry; I will definitely perform well tomorrow night, and I will never show any flaws."

Mr. Labbe waved to her.

Carrie came over, Mr. Labbe stretched out his hand to hold her, and she fell on his lap, and then he poured the unfinished glass of wine into her mouth.

Carrie was choked and coughed, but she didn't dare to resist, so Mr. Labbe drank half the glass of wine.

The drinks were hot.

Carrie's face turned red.

It was red from coughing.

Mr. Labbe was very satisfied with her results.

He let go of Carrie and said, "Don't underestimate the two women you hate the most. They are both very smart people. Your blind sister has already become suspicious of you. The eldest young lady of the York family has been there for you for the first time. Appearing in front of her as Mrs. Labbe made her suspicious."

Carrie was stunned.

Carrie said, "I've changed my face; how could they suspect it?"

Mr. Labbe said, "It's your voice that hasn't changed yet."

Carrie had only learned how to change her voice for a short period of time, so she still had no way of deceiving Camryn.

Serenity probably thought that her figure was similar to Carrie. But Camryn was very familiar with her voice.

Mr. Labbe didn't speak; he just looked at her.

Carrie's heart trembled, and she quickly said, "Mr. Labbe, I will change my voice and habits."

Mr. Labbe said, "If you have this kind of voice in front of them, there is no need to change it. If you change it, it will more easily arouse their suspicion."