

Arabella 113

Chapter 113

“Stop.” Oscar immediately interrupted, “Call the cops now. Whether these foods have issues or not, once it starts a commotion, it’s our company’s reputation that suffers!” “Oh? So, what’s your take on handling this?” Arabella looked at him with interest.

“As long as you apologize to Dave, we’ll pretend this never happened.”

Arabella found it amusing. She gave Dean a nod, and he immediately dialed the police.

“You.” Oscar was furious. This girl was playing dirty!

Well, if she wanted to call the police, they’re not scared’ Oscar knew some people in the police station; they could help!

That girl was too naive.

He took out his phone and sent a text.

After a while, a few police officers arrived; the lead officer was a stranger to Oscar. The officer listened to the story and ordered his men to take samples of the kitchen ingredients back for testing.

we appreciate your help with this minor issue!” The leading officer, Joe, was very polite: “Rest assured, if the test results show their ingredients are sub-standard, we’ll handle it by could be revoked, and in severe cases,

“Bro, are you new here? I didn’t at Oscar, sounding unimpressed. “He just accepting bribes. If you’re texting him for help now, you’re basically giving evidence to the police, and his charges would only get worse.” Hearing Captain Joe say this, Oscar’s heart sank. Damn, continuously wiping off the sweat from his forehead. He never thought his years in the business world said, by the police, or he would hardly get got you; don’t worry.” Oscar lightly patted his back, whispering, “Don’t admit to anything; better hurry.” Dave was uneasy, fearing the worst.

“Oh, no.”

“I know, relax.”

“Dave

Did she think the situation wasn’t chaotic enough and want to add fuel to the wears designer clothes and lives in luxury houses, but his account always shows that he's barely getting by and can't