Chapter 701 Black Moon

You're saying it as if I'm trying to harm you. They wanted to deal with the beginning. I just used their mentality to set them up, Laina said.

Then you must ensure my personal safety, Tom said.

Why? Are you afraid of death? Laina asked.

you

from

I'm not, but I'm heavily injured and can't fight against them, Tom said somewhat exasperatedly.

Before, he wouldn't have been afraid.

But this time was different. He was still heavily injured. If he encountered an assassination attempt, he would have no means to defend himself.

Don't worry, I'll send someone to protect you, Laina said.

Okay then. Tom nodded.

Laina couldn't stay at the hospital all the time, so she arranged for some security measures near the hospital before leaving.

Tom, I never thought you had such a tragic life, Aria exclaimed after Laina left.

Yeah, I have a deep feud with Skyarch Palace. I'll definitely get revenge one day, Tom said fiercely.

You

are alone now. How are you going to fight against Skyarch Palace? Aria asked.

My family has a peerless treasure blade passed down through generations. As long as I can retrieve it and master the technique, getting revenge will be easy, Tom answered.

What? Your family has a treasure blade that's been passed down? What does it look like? Aria asked curiously.

It's called Black Moon. It has a long and wide blade with immense killing power, Tom replied.

Why does it sound so cumbersome? Is it easy to use? Aria asked.

To unleash its full power, it requires a special blade technique. But I've only mastered the first segment of the Black Moon Technique Scroll. I still have a long way to go, Tom said.

Your family even has a blade technique scroll that's been passed down? It sounds impressive! Aria's curiosity about Tom's background grew.

Of course. The Black Moon Technique Scroll has a total of seven segments. I've only learned the first, but it's already very powerful. Even my father only mastered three segments. With just that, he can deal with many strong opponents, Tom said proudly.

So where's your Black Moon? Aria asked.

She really wanted to see for herself just how powerful Black Moon truly was.

Someone took it when the martial artists from Skyarch Palace attacked us, Tom said, feeling somewhat discouraged.

Ah, what a pity! I wanted to see how powerful this blade really is. It's frustrating that it was taken away, Aria exclaimed indignantly.

Yeah. Black Moon has a long history. I'm afraid I won't be able to finish telling you even after days, Tom said.

Really? Well, I'm not sleepy anyway. Why don't you just tell me? Aria asked.

She was a little sleepy at first, but hearing about the blade technique piqued her interest.

In short, this blade is very powerful. Black Moon is most powerful on the night of a full moon. It can absorb the energy of nature and condense it into a fierce beast. This blade has changed hands many times and was finally obtained by my ancestors.

However, this blade has been stained with too much blood. My ancestors found it very ominous, so they always kept it hidden in a secret chamber.

This also resulted in no one in our family being able to use this blade. When the martial artists from Skyarch Palace attacked, Greenton was wiped out, Tom explained tirelessly.

I didn't expect such a mystical origin. It's really beyond

Chapter 702 Top Secret Beheading Operation

Even if Tom recognizes them, it doesn't matter. They can't find the whereabouts of Skyarch Palace, Zane said.

The intelligence network of Task Force Rose is extensive. As long as there's a clue, they'll conduct a widespread search.

If they find out that Skyarch Palace is connected to us, Lord Caspian will definitely know about it. We'll be accused of rebellion, and then we'll have no way to defend ourselves. Our entire family may be doomed, Jerry said solemnly.

Dad, don't scare me. Is it really that serious? What should we do, then? Zane was frightened and at a loss.

You were too careless. I have no idea what to do either. Jerry shook his head)

How could I have known that Task Force Rose would be around Tom? If I had known, I would've sent innate grandmasters over! Zane retorted.

It's too late to say anything now. We can only hope Tom didn't recognize Wyatt and Lanson, Jerry said.

How about this? I ll send some innate grandmasters to take care of Tom. This way, we don't have to worry anymore, Zane suggested.

It's too late now. Sending people over won't help. Besides, Task Force Rose will definitely send more people to protect Tom. If we send people now, it'll be like walking into a trap, Jerry said.

Then let's launch a coup tonight! Zane gritted his teeth.

We can't. The King is going to meet the Five War Gods. They'll all be by His Majesty's side. If we act now, it's suicide, Jerry said.

What should we do, then? We can't just sit and wait for death. Zane was now completely out of ideas.

We can only wait. Send people to monitor Task Force Rose's activities. We'll react accordingly if they make any moves, Jerry replied.

Alright, I'll send someone now, Zane said.

The next day, Caspian received a call from Laina the moment he woke up.

He knew that Laina must have something important to report to him.

+15 BONDS

What is it, Laina? he asked.

Lord Caspian, someone tried to kill Tom last night, Laina said.

Is he alright? Caspian asked.

Tom had helped him before, so he was very concerned about his safety.

He
s fine. I happened to visit Aria yesterday and encountered the two assassins.
We killed them both, Laina said.

Why would someone want to harm Tom? Caspian asked, puzzled.

Tom is the son of Greenton s leader from West City. But Greenton was wiped out, and he managed to esc ape. Now, the other party wants to silence him, Laina replied.

Greenton? What does that have to do with anything? Caspian was now compl etely confused.

Laina then reported everything she knew to Caspian.

After listening, he had a general understanding.

Skyarch Palace has recruited many martial artists. Anyone who doesn t comply with them will be killed. They may have some secrets, Laina said.

Do everything you can to find this Skyarch Palace. Get to the bottom of this, C aspian ordered.

Okay, Laina replied.

Also, send more people to protect Tom. Don t let anything happen to him, Caspian instructed.

Yes, Lord Caspian.

Then Caspian hung up the phone. He had to go and meet Balthazar next.

Caspian went to the King s residence in Dhord City with the other four War Gods to meet Balthazar. Thi s was a top level meeting in Diatoran.

The meeting was only attended by Balthazar and the Five War

Members of Skyarch Palace aren't weak either. Several of them are innate grandmasters. They can definitely take down Caspian, Kelvin said confidently.

You youngsters always act impulsively. The Gods of War from Vadesia and Astronia both died at Caspian's hands, and he came back unscathed. From that alone, you can tell how powerful Caspian truly is, Jerry remarked.

Dad, Robert and Viktor weren't deserving of their reputation. They only knew some superficial skills. Everyone in Skyarch Palace is highly skilled. Also, we have Greenton's peerless treasure blade, Black Moon.

Kelvin continued, It's incredibly powerful. If we have an innate grandmaster skilled in using blades, we might be able to kill Caspian. I've heard that Caspian has a Diatanium dagger. We can make that ours too.

Who in Skyarch Palace is the best with a blade? Jerry asked.

The head of Raging Blade, Darren Everett. His blade technique is excellent, Kelvin replied.

Is he confident enough to defeat Caspian? Jerry asked.

I've discussed the matter of killing Caspian with him before. He admitted that he's not completely confident because he hasn't fully mastered Black Moon. Since he doesn't know the blade technique to master it, he can't unleash its full power, Kelvin answered.

If he's not completely confident, then we can't let him go assassinate Caspian. If Black Moon falls into Caspian's hands, it'll be troublesome, Jerry remarked.

We haven't found the Black Moon Technique Scroll even after digging through Greenton's place. It's possible that it's just a rumor and that the scroll may have been lost. We can't keep waiting like this, can we? Kelvin expressed his frustration.

He didn't know what to do next.

Is there a possibility that the Black Moon Technique Scroll is with Tom? Jerry asked.

I think it's highly possible that Tom took it with him. Zane nodded.

We only have one chance to assassinate Caspian. It must be flawless. If we fail, we'll be in dire straits, Jerry said.

+15 BONUS

Then I

will continue to have people go after Tom and threaten him to hand over the Black Moon Technique Scroll, Kelvin suggested.

We failed in our last operation, and they're probably on guard now. Caspian has likely increased security to protect Tom. It'll be a suicide mission if we go after Tom now. We can't act rashly for the time being, Jerry advised.

So, do we just wait? Kelvin asked.

Yes, we need to observe the situation first. Jerry nodded.

They absolutely couldn't act recklessly.

The next day, Caspian summoned Laina and Macy to the command center again.

Laina explained her plan to Caspian.

After listening, Caspian nodded. Very well. The plan is perfect. We'll proceed according to your plan.

Okay, Laina replied.

Macy, do you think the plan is feasible? Caspian asked.

Lord Caspian, I have no objections. Captain Laina's plan is meticulous, and the two assassination plans are also viable. With this plan in place, I guarantee we can accomplish the mission. Macy nodded.

Good. Then proceed with the operation. You both depart now and carry out the beheading operation, Caspian ordered.

Yes, Lord Caspian. Macy and Laina replied in unison.

Caspian personally escorted the two to Southlake Airport and handed them the prepared identification documents.

I await your return. Caspian bade farewell as he watched them leave.

Rest assured, Lord Caspian. We won't disappoint you, Macy assured.

Chapter 706 The Beheading Operation Begins

Due to her extreme nervousness, Laina's palms were sweaty.

The hotel where she stayed was a bit far from Valorix's location. If there was any mistake, the assassination plan would likely fail.

She only had one chance. As long as she could kill Valorix, Estrya would suffer an unprecedented blow. The soldiers of Diatoran wouldn't need to sacrifice their lives anymore.

The burden on Laina's shoulders was heavy.

Right now, she could only try her best to calm down. The more nervous she was, the more likely she would make a mistake.

After taking a few deep breaths, she finally calmed down a bit.

Seeing Valorix about to get into the car, Laina was suddenly full of confidence. She pulled the trigger directly.

With a suppressed gunshot sound, a bullet flew toward Valorix's head.

It accurately hit his head, splattering blood everywhere.

Valorix died on the spot.

This specially made sniper rifle was incredibly powerful. The bullet pierced through Valorix's skull.

The sudden scene shocked everyone present.

They were all surprised that Valorix was killed in one shot outside the King's residence. It was such a heavily guarded place.

Valorix collapsed against the car door, covered in blood.

Many people were still in a daze, unable to snap out of it.

Call the medics now! Take His Majesty to the hospital! a high ranking official shouted.

The soldiers started searching for the direction from which the bullet came.

After seeing that she had successfully assassinated Valorix, Laina was extremely excited.

However, she knew she couldn't stay any longer. She had to leave now. Estrya's soldiers and guards would soon lock onto her location.

+15 BIONOS

Laina immediately dropped the sniper rifle and ran away.

By the time she left the hotel, the enemy hadn't caught up yet.

Valorix's assassination threw Estrya into chaos instantly.

The ordinary citizens didn't know what had happened yet, but they saw many soldiers panicking, seemingly searching for something.

The soldiers searched the hotels and buildings one by one.

By this time, Laina had passed through several alleys and then driven away.

After investigating, the soldiers found the hotel where Laina stayed. There was a sniper rifle on the floor of the hotel room. However, the room was already empty. The soldiers immediately reported the matter.

A high ranking official immediately ordered to seal off Estrya and arrest the assassin.

Unfortunately, Laina had already escaped according to her plan. It would be very difficult for Estrya's soldiers to find her.

By the time the medical staff arrived, Valorix was already dead.

With a bullet through his head, there was no hope of survival.

The news of the King of Estrya's assassination quickly spread. Since he was assassinated in front of his residence, it caused an uproar.

Most importantly, the assassin hadn't been caught, and there was no information about them.

However, many suspected Diatoran's involvement in the assassination. After all, who else would have a grudge against Estrya?

When Balthazar and Caspian knew that Laina had succeeded in the assassination, they were both extremely excited.

Laina indeed lived up to expectations, seeing as she had successfully completed the mission.

Laina truly lives up to being the captain of Task Force Rose, Caspian exclaimed.

Now that Laina had successfully completed her mission, he was somewhat hopeful about the situation on Macy's side.

As the captain of Phoenix Vanguard, Macy had gone through many battles.

+15 BONOS

Caspian prayed for her to complete the mission safely as well.

At the same time, in the capital of Filren, the King of Filren, Camden Hughes, had just finished a meeting and was preparing to return to his residence.

Chapter 707 Hunted Down

The guards of the King of Filren knew they might be in deep trouble this time. After all, they had failed to protect the King.

That general officer was furious and led his team toward the building where Macy was.

Meanwhile, Macy was gliding through the air. She could already hear the roar of approaching armored vehicles.

Her expression stiffened as she prepared to quickly find a landing spot and escape.

After landing smoothly, Macy quickly located her vehicle parked on the street and drove away to escape.

Her vehicle was a Lamborghini sports car,

Chosen for this mission.

After a successful assassination, she needed to escape quickly, so a sports car would minimize her travel time.

These plans were all arranged in advance by Laina.

At this moment, Filren's armored vehicles had already arrived in the vicinity.

Macy was surprised as this situation was not part of the plan.

When the enemy soldiers spotted a Lamborghini speeding away, they immediately targeted it.

That's the car! Open fire! We must capture her! the general officer ordered.

Gunshots rang out, and bullets grazed past the Lamborghini.

However, Macy's expert driving skills allowed her to drift out of sight.

The sudden gunfire resulted in many casualties among the pedestrians on the street, leaving the general officer in panic.

Camden

's murder weighed heavily on him. Now that many citizens lost their lives due to his command, it was unlikely he would be able to remain in Estrya after this.

Cease fire and pursue immediately! Make sure to apprehend the assassin! the general officer commanded angrily.

With the streets crowded, continuing to fire would only lead to unnecessary casualties.

Filren

's soldiers immediately chased after Macy in their armored vehicles. Despite their powerful vehicles, they couldn't catch up to Macy's Lamborghini.

Macy drove at high speed, quickly outpacing her pursuers.

Convey my order! Seal off all the intersections and block the Lamborghini! We must capture the assassin! the general officer ordered.

His men immediately made calls to the relevant departments and proceeded to block all the streets.

Meanwhile, the general officer had to report Camden's assassination to the higher ups.

The sudden assassination of the King of Filren caused a stir.

Just hours ago, the King of Estrya was assassinated, and now the King of Filren too. The two assassinations seemed eerily similar, with no leads on the assassins.

After knowing this, the kings from various countries, especially Vadesia and Astronia, started to be afraid.

They had already linked this incident to Diatoran. After all, both Filren and Estrya were previously involved in the attacks launched on Diatoran.

However, no one expected Diatoran to retaliate so quickly. Another thing that surprised them was that the King of Diatoran would resort to such a risky method. of revenge.

The Kings of Astronia and Vadesia were now in a panic, fearing they might be the next target.

They remained holed up in their residences, avoiding any public appearances to ensure their safety.

In Diatoran, Balthazar and Caspian quickly learned about Camden's assassination.

While Caspian was initially worried about Macy's mission, he was relieved to hear of her success.

The news of the King/of Filren's assassination delighted the people of Diatoran.

Previously, Diatoran was surrounded by enemies, and everyone was frightened. Now that the enemy's high ranking officials had been assassinated, the people were naturally pleased.

However, they also wondered who could be skilled enough to assassinate both the Kings of Estrya and Filren.

Caspian, while pleased, was also concerned about Macy's and Laina's escape. He knew their departure would be challenging.

Whether they could safely return to Diatoran depended entirely on their ability to adapt to changing

Chapter 708 Macy Is Arrested

It's too late now. I'm completely exposed. They've even deployed helicopters. If I come to you now, it'll only put you at risk, Macy said.

Captain Osborne, you're saying that as if we're strangers. You successfully assassinated the King of Filren. You're our hero. No matter what, we'll get you back to Diatoran safely, Coco insisted.

You've been undercover in Filren for a long time. If you're exposed because of me, it'll be a huge loss. It's better for you to continue your mission and contribute to Diatoran, Macy reasoned.

But you're in danger now. If we don't help you, you'll be arrested, Coco urgently replied.

Even if I meet up with you, you won't be able to save me. I think it's best for me to face this alone. At least that way, I won't compromise your identities, Macy insisted.

Captain Osborne, time is running out. Stop hesitating and come over. We'll fight side by side.

At that moment, a helicopter hovered above Macy's Lamborghini.

However, the soldiers on the helicopter didn't dare to open fire recklessly. There were many pedestrians on the ground, and firing would risk hitting their own men.

They were now responsible for reporting Macy's position to the ground forces for pursuit.

Thank you, but I can't endanger you, Macy said before switching off the communication device.

She drove on. Though she was fully aware of her predicament, she didn't want to drag others down with her.

Even if a few more secret agents were involved, it wouldn't change the current situation. Macy had already resolved to face her fate.

Captain Osborne! Captain Osborne! Please respond! Coco kept calling Macy, but there was no response.

The streets were filled with vehicles blocking Macy's path.

In a fit of anger, she stepped on the gas and rammed into the armored vehicles blocking her way. She'd rather die in battle than be captured.

+15 BONOS

Seeing Macy's vehicle approaching at high speed, the Filren soldiers were all terrified.

Open fire! Shoot out her tires! an officer shouted.

Numerous soldiers aimed at the Lamborghini's tires and began firing.

With that, a rapid succession of gunfire echoed.

Bullets rained down like hail. Even the Lamborghini couldn't withstand the onslaught of bullets. The tires of the Lamborghini were instantly blown out. Unable to control the vehicle anymore, Macy could only let it plow forward.

Just then, she quickly unbuckled her seatbelt. As she opened the car door, she jumped out of the vehicle.

But the car was moving too fast. After Macy jumped out, she rolled on the ground several times before finally coming to a stop.

The Lamborghini collided heavily with the Filren soldiers in the armored vehicle, triggering an explosion.

After all, the Lamborghini's fuel tank had been shot, and there explosives in the car.

were many many

The Filren soldiers were blown into the air. Limbs and body parts were scattered everywhere.

Since Coco couldn't contact Macy, she had to call Caspian via satellite phone. Though her superior was Laina, Laina was also on the run, so Caspian was her last resort.

The satellite phone connected quickly.

Lord Caspian, this is Coco Zeek. I'm undercover in Filren, Coco said directly.

Coco, what's the situation over there? Did you meet Macy? Caspian asked eagerly.

The situation isn't good right now. Captain Osborne has completed the mission, but she's been targeted, Coco replied.

Upon hearing this, Caspian was shaken. It was just as he had worried Macy was in trouble.

Why didn't you

After hanging up the phone, Caspian immediately boarded a private plane to Dhord City.

Macy had gone through so much to complete her mission and successfully assassinated the King of Filren. But she was now arrested.

Caspian was determined to do everything he could to rescue her. He needed to discuss this matter face to face with Balthazar.

Upon arriving in Dhord City, Caspian immediately met Balthazar, who was already aware of Macy's situation.

Caspian, what brings you here in such a hurry? Balthazar asked.

Your Majesty, Macy has completed her mission, but she's been captured. I've come to discuss with you a plan to rescue her, Caspian said without preamble.

Macy is a hero. Of course, I want her to return safely. But rescuing her won't be easy, Balthazar replied.

I have an idea, but I'm not sure if you'll agree to it, Caspian said.

Stop beating about the bush. Tell me your idea, Balthazar urged. Macy's successful assassination deserves recognition. We have to do whatever it takes to rescue her.

We're holding tens of thousands of people from Filren captive in West Aridlands. We can use them as leverage to exchange for Macy, Caspian proposed.

That's a good plan! Balthazar exclaimed.

I was worried you might not agree. Caspian was surprised by Balthazar's swift acceptance.

This is not a difficult decision at all. Keeping those people in Diatoran is just a waste of food. It's highly worthwhile to exchange them to get Macy back. My only concern is whether Filren will agree to exchange with us, Balthazar said.

Let's contact Filren and see if they agree. If not, we'll reassess our options.

Agreed, I'll contact the new King of Filren, Balthazar said.

Thank you, Your Majesty. The people of Diatoran are fortunate to have a ruler like you, Caspian praised.

The prosperity of Diatoran is also thanks to your contributions. Macy has made a great contribution. Rescuing her is the right thing to do, Balthazar replied. Balthazar then instructed the intelligence department to contact the new King of Filren.

Meanwhile, in Filren, they had already removed the silicone face mask Macy used for disguise. They had exposed her true identity as a Diatoran.

When Byron received Balthazar's call, he said furiously, Balthazar, you had people assassinate Camden! Why are you contacting me now?

You were the ones who provoked us first. The conflict between us is far from over. I'll kill anyone I want. My people were able to assassinate Camden, showing our strength. You're free to attempt the same against me, Balthazar retorted.

Balthazar's confidence was evident.

Alright, I don't want to keep beating about the bush. I called to discuss something, Balthazar said.

What? Byron asked.

We've been holding 50 thousand people from Filren captive. Now, we're willing to exchange these people for Macy, Balthazar proposed.

No way! I must publicly execute her! Byron replied fiercely.

What? You won't trade 50 thousand lives for one? Balthazar was surprised by Byron's stubbornness.

I said no, and I mean it. Your secret agent committed a heinous crime. She must be executed, Byron insisted.

If it weren't for my agent assassinating Camden, you wouldn't have had the chance to take his place. You should be grateful for my secret agent. Balthazar spared no effort in trying to persuade Byron.

Cut that nonsense

No matter what you say, I won't spare her. I'll execute her publicly! Otherwise,

Some of the higher ups in Filren were deeply dissatisfied with Byron. They all harbored ambitions to seize power themselves.

Byron was only a king in name. He hardly had any military power at his disposal. So, he quickly sought help from Vadesia and Astronia, hoping these two countries could assist him.

However, both countries wanted nothing to do with him. Given the recent assassination of the Kings in Estrya and Filren, they were now only concerned about saving their own lives. They didn't want to get involved in anything else.

The Diatoran assassins operated stealthily, leaving no trace behind. No one knew who would be the next victim.

Thus, the Kings of Astronia and Vadesia remained holed up unwilling to show themselves.

Byron was at a loss. He had no idea what to do next.

in their residences,

At this moment, he regretted his decision to refuse Diatoran's proposal to exchange those prisoners of war for Macy. Yet changing his mind now would only invite criticism,

Faced with a dilemma, Byron ultimately decided to proceed with Macy's execution.

Likewise, Macy was filled with regret as she found herself a captive.

She wished she had ended her own life at the critical moment or perhaps crashed her vehicle into the enemy so that she didn't need to become a prisoner.

She might've even become a hero of the people.

Now that she had been captured and needed people from Diatoran to rescue her, she felt somewhat ashamed just thinking about it.

Filren had uncovered Macy's identity and knew she was the captain of Phoenix Vanguard.

Not only had Macy successfully eliminated Camden, but she had also inflicted heavy casualties on Filren's forces earning their deep seated resentment.

They subjected Macy to severe torture, but she remained tight lipped and didn't reveal anything.

+15 BONOS

Byron ordered Macy to be imprisoned in Filren's most renunciate Death Mountain Prison. She would be executed a few days later.

Situated deep within the dense forests of the westernmost part of Filren, Death Mountain Prison was heavily guarded by numerous soldiers..

Not only was it incredibly isolated, but it was also highly fortified and unused to some of the most dangerous criminals.

No prisoners in this prison had ever managed to escape. Once Mary was incarcerated here, there was no way she could escape.

However, she had no regrets. After all, she had successfully assassinated Camden and inflicted significant damage on Filren's forces.

Macy didn't think it was possible for Diatoran to rescue her. Anyone imprisoned here was doomed to die.

Even if Diatoran were to intervene, there wouldn't be enough time to rest. Macy also didn't want anyone else to suffer or die because of her.

By evening, the armored battalion and Phoenix Vanguard had arrived in West Aridlands.

West Aridlands had almost one million troops. Now, the number was bolstered with Caspian's armored soldiers and Phoenix Vanguard.

With a million elite soldiers poised, and ready in West Aridlands, all they need ed! was for Caspian to give the order and they would march toward Filren.

Caspian convened a meeting with Dax and the captain of the armored battalio n to discuss the next course of action.

He proposed dividing the million elite soldiers into three routes and advancing toward Filren simultaneously.

This plan garnered general agreement among the assembled officers.

Dax would lead a force of/400 thousand troops, advancing from the front. The remaining 400 thousand troops would split into two groups, advancing from th e left and right flanks.

Lord Caspian, don t the armored soldiers, Phoenix Vanguard, and I have a specific task? Sylvia asked, puzzled.

Caspian hadn t assigned them a task yet.
