

The Almighty Lord Caspian by Cath Nitfisch

#Chapter 291 – 300

Read The Almighty Lord Caspian by Cath Nitfisch

Chapter 291

Chapter 201 The Golden Dragon Card Can Be Used Anywhere

Willow was dumbfounded,

She wondered if Kristian's mind was addled in some way. Why did he suddenly make such a proposition to her?

In fact, she was disgusted by the sight of him.

"What on earth are you saying? My husband's standing right here!" Willow snapped as she scooted closer to Caspian.

"What? Who's your husband? Him? Look at him, he's such a poor loser. He's not good enough for you!" Kristian snorted. "If you become my lover, I'll buy this gown for you!"

Everyone in the bridal boutique was flabbergasted.

Was there something wrong with Kristian?

Why was he still stirring up trouble after getting hit so badly?

"If you agree to be my lover, I'll give you 500 thousand every month as your allowance. How about it?" Kristian offered as he stared at Willow with a sleazy grin.

He figured money was all it took to get what he wanted.

Having fooled around with countless women, he had seen his fair share of beautiful women with conservative beliefs, but they all succumbed to money eventually.

Every single one of them ended up moaning beneath him....

Kristian thought Willow would be one of them too.

"Why, you!" Willow fumed. She could not believe the nonsense coming out of Kristian's mouth.

She was not going to sell herself for a few hundred thousand. In any case, as the CEO of Southlake Corporation, she had more than enough money.

"You're asking for it!"

A hand slammed against Kristian's face.

Kristian held his aching cheek with a look of shock.

He glowered at Caspian.

Everyone else in the bridal boutique was stunned too as they wondered who Caspian was.

He was bold enough to hit Kristian twice!

+15 BONUS

Seething with rage, Kristian wagged his finger at Caspian and screamed, "Got a death wish, fucker? How dare you hit me?"

"Bastards like you deserve to die. How dare you say such depraved things to my wife right in front of me? You think I'm invisible?" Caspian retorted icily.

Initially, Caspian did not want to let Kristian affect his mood, but Kristian brought it upon himself by shamelessly flirting with Willow to his face.

"You fucker! I'm going to fuck you up today! No one in Sealand dares to lay a hand on me!" Kristian roared.

In an instant, he charged at Caspian. He, a son of the Jennings family, had suffered such humiliation Kristian was determined to seek vengeance, Caspian smirked in derision.

As Kristian came charging at him, he raised his hand and slapped Kristian once more. This time, he did not hold back.

Kristian flew several feet backward before crashing to the floor.

He spat out a mouthful of blood, and out with it came a few of his teeth.

Once again, the crowd of onlookers was thunderstruck.

Kristian slowly climbed to his feet.

"How dare you mess with me, bastard? You won't be getting out of Sealand alive!" Kristian howled with a menacing expression.

The slap mark was clearly visible on his cheek.

"Get the hell out of here at once, or I'll make you crawl out of here!" Caspian commanded in annoyance.

Kristian cowered. After getting hit by Caspian multiple times, he started to feel fearful.

"So be it. You may be all high and mighty now, but just you wait. I'll get you for this!" Kristian threatened before fleeing with his tail between his legs.

If he stuck around any longer, he would probably get another beating.

Meanwhile, the boutique owner was stunned. She did not expect Caspian to be that powerful and merciless toward Kristian.

Once Kristian left, Caspian took out his Golden Dragon card again and said, "Settle the bill!"

"Yes, of course!" the owner replied with a nod as she took the card.

+15 BONUS

One of the shop assistants wrapped up the gown and handed it to Caspian. The owner had indeed underestimated Caspian earlier by thinking he could not afford the gown.

And now, she was terrified. Someone who dared to hit a person like Kristian had to come from a powerful background.

Even Caspian's card shocked her. It was unlike any card she had ever seen before, but she could already tell it had to be an extremely exclusive one.

Furthermore, Caspian had paid for a million-dollar gown without even blinking!

What kind of a person would be rich enough to own such a card and do such a thing?

"Sir, Kristian Jennings is a well-known wealthy playboy in Sealand. I think you and your wife should leave right away. If you stay here, he'll definitely get people to come after you," the boutique owner advised.

"Are the Jenningses as terrifying as you're making them sound?" Caspian asked with a frown.

After glancing around, the owner quietly stated, "The Jenningses run Sealand like a bunch of tyrants. Anyone who wishes to settle in Sealand or do business here would have to seek their approval first.

"If anyone ignores this rule, the Jenningses will find ways to take them down!"

Caspian nodded and said nothing. He simply led Willow out of the boutique.

"Hubby, why do you have so much money in your bank account? Why didn't you tell me about it?" Willow asked puzzledly after seeing the notification of the balance in Caspian's bank account.

"Well, you know about my position as a general officer in the army, right? The money is from all the bonuses I received back then," Caspian explained.

Willow did not know that he was Lord Caspian, the Diatoranian God of War. His debit card could be used anywhere in Diatoran.

She nodded and did not ask any further questions.

Meanwhile, the boutique owner shook her head as she watched them leave.

She knew that the Jennings family would not let the couple off the hook.

Once Caspian and Willow returned to Sealand Hotel, Sylvia came to see Caspian.

“Sylvia, look into the Jennings family of Sealand,” Caspian instructed.

3/4

+15 BONUS

“Got it!” Sylvia replied. She swiftly left the hotel.

After hearing what the bridal boutique owner said, Caspian got the feeling that the Jenningses were no ordinary people. They wielded full control over the entirety of Sealand.

Judging from Kristian’s behavior, he deduced that the Jenningses must have done numerous unscrupulous deeds.

As Lord Caspian, it was only right for him to step in and deal with the situation.

The Jenningses owned a massive villa in Sealand.

Kristian returned to Jennings Residence in a huff.

In all his years living in Sealand, no one had ever bullied him before.

He was determined to get even.

“You’re back, Kristian!” a young man called out as he approached Kristian.

Kristian glanced at the man before saying, “Oh. It’s you, Billy.”

Kristian and Billy were cousins.

In the past, Billy was the son of the master of Mahayan Pavilion, so the Jenningses of Sealand treated him with courtesy.

But when Mahayan Pavilion was wiped out, Billy fled to Sealand to look for his uncle.

Now that he was living under their roof and relying on them, the Jenningses were no longer as courteous with him.

Billy took a closer look at Kristian and noticed his swollen face..

“What happened, Kristian? Did you get into a fight?” Billy asked, puzzled.

“Fuck! Even talking about it makes me furious! Someone jumped on me today!” Kristian fumed.

Seriously? Who would have the nerve to do such a thing?” Billy exclaimed in shock. The Jenningses had full control over Sealand. Who was foolish enough to hit Kristian?

Chapter 292 Emboldened by Lust

“Who in Sealand would dare hit you?” Billy asked in shock.

+15 BONUS

1

“I’m guessing they’re not locals,” Kristian replied, still fuming. “I told them who I was, but that man...”

He gave Billy a summary of what happened.

“Let me take revenge on your behalf, Kristian. I’ll teach them a lesson!” Billy declared with a smile.

The next day, Rebecca’s photoshoot took place at Sterling Bay. It was Sealand’s most pristine beach. With blue skies and clear waters, it was indeed the most famous beach location in the area.

enemy. One

Just by standing there and taking in the view would feel at peace.

Starsphere Media was put in charge of producing the promotional material, and as the man in charge of the company, Keller had come to Sealand as well.

Soon, he and the other employees finished setting up for the photoshoot.

“The scenery here is beautiful. Once you’re done shooting for the promotional material, Willow and I will have our belated wedding photoshoot here,” Caspian said to Keller.

“Got it, Mr. Lynch!” Keller responded with a nod and a smile.

After giving the instructions, Caspian led Willow over to a lounge chair on the beach. They both lay down on it.

Caspian could feel the wind against his skin and hear the waves crashing on the shore. As he held Willow in his arms, he felt as if he had reached the pinnacle of life.

Amid his enjoyment, he heard a shout.

“We’re taking photos here. Get the hell out of our way!”

A group of burly men approached.

They all bore ferocious expressions. It was obvious from their mannerisms that they were not to be messed with.

“We started setting up for our photoshoot yesterday! Since we got here first, we should get to go first,” Keller said irritably.

The team had selected the spot last night. Early this morning, Keller brought the staff over capture the best photos.

+15 BONUS

Yet out of the blue, a bunch of people came over to snatch the spot from them.

“So what? You got a problem with that? Scram! If you don’t, I’ll knock out all your teeth!” the bald man in the lead retorted as he eyed Keller with a smirk.

“We’re not going anywhere! We came here first. What can you do about it?” Keller retorted.

As the head of Starsphere Media, he wasn’t a nobody.

He had seen all kinds of people in his day. Plus, he was responsible for supervising all of the company’s celebrities during their work schedules. How could he possibly hold his head up high if he were scared off by a bunch of hooligans?

“You’ve got a death wish, don’t you? I’ll show you what it means to get a good beating!” the bald man threatened.

“What do you think you’re doing? Are you trying to start a fight? I’ll call the authorities right now!” Keller yelled.

He had been preparing for this shoot for a long time now. He even checked the weather to ensure nothing would go wrong. He was not going to back down even when he was being threatened.

“Get them, men! Let them know what we’re capable of,” the bald man instructed.

The burly men rushed forward to attack Keller and the others.

“What do you think you’re doing?” Keller exclaimed in shock.

Who were these people? What gave them the nerve to start a fight in broad daylight?

The beach was filled with tourists. Were these hooligans unafraid of getting arrested?

Keller was so caught up in his thoughts that he did not notice the bald man coming at him. The bald man kicked him, and he ended up flying backward.

He sputtered as sand got into his mouth.

“You overestimated yourself, punk! How dare you try to fight us for this spot? I told you to scram, didn’t I? Get the hell out of here! If you waste any more time, I’ll break your legs!” the bald man roared.

He gave Keller another kick in the chest.

Keller howled. He felt as if he had a few broken ribs.

“Hold it!” Caspian called out icily as he came over.

+15 BONUS

The burly men abruptly froze as the bald man tracked down the voice.

He noticed Caspian, as well as the two captivating women behind him.

Eyes narrowing, the bald man stared lustily at the women. He had fooled around with plenty of women, but compared to these two, all of those he had been with before seemed tacky and unattractive.

Instantly, the bald man felt an itch in his heart.

He did not expect to run into two drop–dead gorgeous women here. He desperately wanted to have some fun with them tonight!

“Mr. Lynch!” Keller cried out in discontent as he endured the pain and walked over to Caspian.

“It’s not your fault. I’ll handle this pesky fly!” Caspian said while patting Keller gently on the shoulder.

Caspian’s cavalier attitude infuriated the bald man. It felt as if Caspian was completely ignoring him.

“Hey! Who are you calling a pesky fly, huh? Anyone who wants to do any kind of photoshoot here has to get our approval first and pay a fee!” the bald man declared as he glared at Caspian.

Caspian replied, “You hurt my people, and some of the equipment has been damaged too! Shouldn’t you be compensating us?”

“Hahaha! You’re asking me to compensate you? You must have a fucking death wish!” The bald man guffawed.

He had never met such an arrogant person before.

Immediately following that, the bald man raised his leg to kick Caspian.

He was grinning smugly as he threw his weight into the kick.

All of his subordinates cackled.

They knew just how powerful the bald man, Sam Short, was. No one in this area could stand against him.

Alas, Sam had only just managed to raise his leg when Caspian roared, “You’re biting off more than you can chew!”

He aimed a kick at Sam.

A loud cracking sound rang out as the bone in Sam’s leg split into two.

Sam howled in agony, “My leg!”

Caspian slapped Sam twice, making him stumble and end up with a mouthful of sand.

+15 BONUS

“You fucker! Destroy him!” Sam bellowed in fury.

His men immediately charged at Caspian with ferocious expressions.

Caspian did not even blink as he threw out a few punches.

All of Sam’s men crumpled to the ground without even making contact with Caspian.

“Where are you from? Do you know who I am?” Sam demanded. Stupefied by what he just witnessed, he glared at Caspian while his body trembled uncontrollably.

“You’re not qualified to know who I am, and I don’t care who you are. Get lost, and take your people with you!" Caspian ordered.

Sam was dumbstruck.

Still, he dared not say anything. He quickly got on his feet and left with his men.

"Mr. Lynch, the equipment fell onto the ground, but thankfully, they're not damaged," Keller reported. He was still in shock.

"Well, don't just stand around, then. Carry on with the shoot," Caspian said.

The entire event was merely a small hiccup to him.

Keller nodded. Since Caspian had given the word, he felt a lot more confident.

"Go and get changed, Rebecca," Willow said.

When Rebecca came back out in her attire for the photoshoot, she drew the eyes of many.

Her tight-fitting outfit highlighted her stunning figure perfectly, but Caspian only took a fleeting glance at her.

"Does she look sexy?" Willow asked.

"She's nowhere near as beautiful as my wife. My wife would look a hundred times sexier than her!" Caspian declared solemnly.

Today's Bonus Offer

Chapter 293 Stunning Figure

"Hah! Don't even think about it. I'd never wear something like that," Willow huffed at Caspian.

Caspian shook his head helplessly.

"What's the matter? You look disappointed," Willow remarked puzzledly.

"Honey, I've been waiting for this day for so long now. I wanted to see you in a bikini, but alas ..." Caspian sighed sorrowfully.

Willow pursed her lips and giggled.

Lowering her voice, she said bashfully, "You've seen every side of me—including when I'm naked. Well, I brought one of those outfits with me. I'll put it on for you when we're alone."

She had never worn such a revealing outfit before.

Even though she had a good figure, she did not feel safe to be clad in so little.

"Hahaha! Okay. My wife looks good in everything!" Caspian said with an approving nod.

Willow had a point. Caspian had indeed seen every single inch of her, but he was looking forward to seeing her in a bikini anyway.

"You're such a perv!" Willow huffed with an embarrassed smile.

She then turned her attention to the photoshoot.

Even though Rebecca was a celebrity with a sultry figure, Caspian did not even look at her. In she was far less attractive than Willow. his eyes, Nevertheless, as one of Diatoran's hottest female celebrities, Rebecca's appearance and bearing were indeed exceptional. The captivating photos of her would surely help Southlake Corporation's reputation soar to new heights. After a while, Keller exclaimed, "How wonderful! It's perfect!"

The team captured a series of flawless photos to use in their promotional materials.

Everyone thought the photos would surely garner a great deal of attention. When the time came, Southlake Corporation would be known nationwide. Once the photoshoot was over, everyone started packing the equipment and getting ready to leave.

"Hubby," Willow called out.

Caspian, who was lying on the lounge chair, did not respond.

He had fallen asleep!

Everyone, including Keller, was dumbfounded.

+15 BONUS

Rebecca, one of the hottest celebrities around, had been dressed provocatively throughout the photoshoot. But Caspian had somehow slept through the whole thing. Meanwhile, countless others had gathered along the beach to stare at Rebecca.

Caspian's eyes flickered open as he asked, "Is the photoshoot over?"

"That's right. I'm going to change into the wedding gown now to get ready for our photoshoot," Willow informed.

She was in a good mood as she walked off to get ready.

Caspian smiled. He could already imagine how beautiful Willow would look.

Soon, Willow was ready. She was dressed in a wedding gown that cost a million dollars.

True enough, as soon as she appeared, the limelight fell on her.

Everyone was staring at Willow.

Rebecca had indeed looked gorgeous and sexy during her photoshoot, but she was nothing compared to Willow.

Willow was an ethereal beauty!

Even Caspian could not tear his eyes off her.

See, Willow? Mr. Lynch fell asleep while I was walking around in a bikini, but look at him now. He's staring at you with such hungry eyes!" Rebecca chuckled.

"Don't be silly, Rebecca," Willow retorted with a shy smile.

"Hurry up and get on with your wedding photoshoot," Rebecca said enviously. Willow walked barefoot across the beach. One of the staff helped her by holding up the hem of her gown.

Everyone who saw this scene was stunned.

Caspian and Willow weren't the only ones having a wedding photoshoot at Sterling Bay.

All those who saw Willow immediately looked at her with envy. Many were familiar with the gown she was wearing.

An advertisement had been made for the gown before, so they knew it cost a million dollars!

Everyone loved comparing with others, and that often led to intense jealousy.

2/4

+15 BONUS

After spotting Willow, a woman in heavy makeup turned to her partner and snapped jealously, "Look at her! She's wearing a gown that's worth a million dollars! What about me? This is just a rented gown that only costs five figures! I don't want to take the photos anymore!"

Her partner had already noticed Willow. Considering how spellbinding Willow looked, it was hard not to.

Still, as his wife was right beside him, he had to pretend he wasn't ogling.

"Darling, do you think someone would actually spend a million dollars on a wedding gown? It's only going to be worn once! I'm sure that woman's wearing a replica, or maybe she rented the gown!" The man scoffed derisively.

The woman nodded. Her husband made a good point. Thus, she began to eye Willow in scorn.

Once the couple were done with their photoshoot, they purposely approached Caspian and Willow.

"Why bother trying to flaunt? Do you think we can't tell that you're just wearing a fake?" the woman mocked.

"Hey, man. You didn't pay much for the fake gown, right? Look at the embroidery. The gown's obviously a fake!" the man declared with a smirk.

“Since you recognize the design, you know which boutique it’s from. Why don’t you head over there and check for yourself?

Don’t waste your breath here!” Caspian snapped impatiently.

“Hahaha! Even if you didn’t tell me to, I would’ve done so anyway! I’ll let you in on a little secret. I spent 20 thousand on my wife’s wedding gown! It’s far more valuable than your fake one!” the man declared haughtily.

Caspian did not respond. He could not be bothered to entertain such imbeciles.

He did not even want to dirty his hands by dealing with them!

Caspian and Willow threw themselves into the photoshoot.

As they held each other close, they looked like a newlywed couple.

Rebecca looked on in envy.

Even though she was a celebrity who had met quite a lot of people, no one ever made her feel like getting married.

But when she saw the look of bliss on Willow’s face, she found herself looking forward to meeting her own romantic partner.

She also wanted a man who would protect her and give her a sense of security—much like what Caspian did for Willow.

+15 BONUS

She, too, longed to have a wedding photoshoot with the man she loved.

Unfortunately, she did not even have a love interest right now.

Many had tried to woo her before, including wealthy scions, but the more she thought about them, the more unappealing they seemed to her.

Compared to Caspian, they were not even worth mentioning. None of them were as charismatic as he was.

The more Rebecca thought about this, the more upset she became.

“Get down on one knee, hubby. Let’s take a photo of you proposing. You never did propose to me, you know!” Willow abruptly said.

“Alright,” Caspian agreed with a nod.

He did as Willow said and got down on one knee.

Willow extended her hand, and Caspian clasped it in his. She instantly teared up as her emotions overwhelmed her.

Chapter 294 Out for Vengeance

Willow's tears made Caspian frantic,

This was a happy occasion. They were taking their wedding photos, so why was she crying?

Did he do something?

"Honey..." Caspian called out anxiously.

"It's fine. I'm fine. I'm just so happy!" Willow replied as she smiled through her tears.

Caspian suddenly recalled that he and Willow had gotten married without a formal proposal. Now he understood why Willow had gotten so emotional.

Soon, they were done with their photoshoot, and they went back to Sealand Hotel, Azure Hotel was Sealand's most luxurious hotel, and inside one of its lavish suites, Billy was busy sucking up to Kristian.

"Kristian, I've already sent people out to find out who hit you. I'm sure we'll hear the news. soon! Once we find him, I'll teach him a lesson he won't forget!

"How dare he mess with you in Sealand? He's got a death wish!" Billy declared haughtily.

"Stop boasting. Wait until you find him first." Kristian scoffed in disdain.

Billy nodded and smiled. Groveling was the only thing he could do now.

Just then, someone came rushing into the suite.

"Mr. Jennings!"

Kristian looked up and saw Sam limping over to him.

"What happened, Sam? Why are you limping?" Kristian asked in shock.

"Someone had the nerve to beat me up, Mr. Jennings!" Sam howled.

"What? Who's the ignorant fool who dared to hit you? Doesn't he know you work for me?" Kristian growled in anger.

Sam was Kristian's trusted subordinate who helped him collect protection money from the people in Sealand, especially from Sterling Bay. Due to its status as a tourist hotspot, there was always a steady stream of people. They got a lot of money from the beach.

Meanwhile, Kristian was taken aback. What was going on today? Not only did he get hit, but even his underling had been beaten up as well. What rotten luck!

+15 BONUS

Kristian, who had been doing his best to rein in his temper, was finally about to explode.

“Mr. Jennings, a few bastards were having a photoshoot at Sterling Bay. I tried to collect the fee from them, but some guy had the audacity to hit me...” Sam reported.

“You useless fool! You had your fucking men with you, didn’t you? Why didn’t you get rough with them?” Kristian cursed loudly.

“I did, but the other guy was stronger! He was far too powerful. He even broke my leg! I told him I worked for you, but he ignored me!” Sam explained helplessly.

Upon hearing that, Kristian was outraged.

When had he ever suffered such disgrace in Sealand?

“Who the hell is he?” Kristian asked as he stared at Sam.

“I don’t know where those people came from, but I saw one of their advertisements just now. It said Southlake Corporation!” Sam said.

“Southlake Corporation? I’ve never heard of it! What kind of lousy company is that?” Kristian remarked in confusion.

He had never even heard of the name before.

“What? Did you just say Southlake Corporation? Are you sure it was Southlake Corporation?” Billy exclaimed as his expression stiffened.

“That’s right. It was Southlake Corporation,” Sam affirmed while nodding.

Billy froze as all the color drained out of his face.

Resentment swelled up within him.

He had looked into Caspian’s background before and knew that Southlake Corporation belonged to Caspian’s wife.

Billy would never forget Caspian.

If not for Caspian, he would still be a member of the elite society in Easton!

He would not have fallen so far from grace!

“What’s the matter, Billy? Do you know Southlake Corporation?” Kristian asked.

“Of course! Not only am I familiar with that company, but I have beef with them!” Billy declared through gritted teeth.

Kristian was shocked.

Who were the ones behind Southlake Corporation?

2/4

+15 BONUS

Billy used to lord over Easton, so what kind of grudge could he possibly have with Southlake Corporation?

“Kristian, the husband of Southlake Corporation’s CEO is the one who massacred Mahayan Pavilion!” Billy declared in fury.

“What did you say?” Kristian exclaimed. He was stupefied.

Even though Billy was nothing but a homeless loser now, Mahayan Pavilion was once the overlord in Easton.

Kristian never would have expected the ones behind Southlake Corporation to be powerful enough to annihilate Mahayan Pavilion.

“The people you ran into today, did they include a married couple?” Billy stared intensely at Sam and asked.

“That’s right...” Sam answered hesitantly.

“Were they called Caspian Lynch and Willow Stewart?” Billy checked frantically.

“Wait, Billy. I think I have a photo of them! I was going to use it to get back at them,” Sam quickly said as he took out his phone.

Before leaving Sterling Bay, he specifically took a photo of them.

Billy took the phone. True enough, the people in the photo were Caspian and Willow!

He clenched his fists. His body shook uncontrollably as rage swelled up inside him.

“Caspian! The grudge between us will never be settled!” Billy roared maniacally. He could not contain his wrath.

Kristian eyed Billy sympathetically. Billy was indeed quite pitiful.

Out of curiosity, Kristian looked at the photo as well. With just a single glance, his fury surged as well.

He instantly recognized Caspian as the guy who hit him earlier!

“What a fucking coincidence! It’s the same guy! This is the bastard who hit me. Billy, we have the same enemy!” Kristian snarled.

Billy’s eyes lit up. He was shocked to find that it was Caspian who hit Kristian. He had come to Sealand to seek the Jenningses’ help. He wanted to rely on their influence to seek vengeance against Caspian.

This was the perfect chance. Both he and Kristian had a bone to pick with Caspian.

That being said, Billy did not tell Kristian just how powerful Caspian was.

+15 BONUS

He knew that the moment Kristian found out about Caspian's true strength, he would be too frightened to do anything.

Right now, Billy wanted nothing more than for Kristian to take revenge on Caspian!

Meanwhile, Caspian had booked a sumptuous dinner at the hotel.

"Ms. Celebrity, there's no one else but your friends and coworkers around right now. Surely, you can take off your sunglasses, right?" Caspian said with a faint smile as he looked at Rebecca.

Being a top celebrity, Rebecca was used to having to disguise herself whenever she walked around in public.

"I'm starting to envy the lives ordinary people get to lead," Rebecca commented as she took off her sunglasses.

"Hahaha. That's not a problem. You can just join Willow's company and become a regular office worker," Caspian said with a chuckle.

"Huh?"

Rebecca was taken aback. She spent many years working her way up the entertainment industry. Now that she finally reached the top, how could she possibly go back to becoming an ordinary person? The atmosphere in the private room grew livelier.

Rebecca had always been an eloquent person who had a response to everything, but Caspian had just rendered her speechless.

All of a sudden, there was a loud bang as someone kicked the door open.
Today's Bonus Offer

Chapter 295 He's a Demon

The abrupt interruption gave everyone in the room a fright.

Willow and Rebecca both froze as they looked toward the entrance.

Frowning, Caspian looked over as well.

He saw Kristian coming in with a group of people.

"I've finally found you, you bastard! Let's see how you're going to escape now!" Kristian bellowed.

"Here I was wondering who's the idiot with a death wish. So, it's you!" Caspian said with a look of derision.

"Why, you!"

Caspian's arrogance enraged Kristian.

I Southlake Corporation get my permission before shooting their promotional material here? You're on my territory. If you dare disrespect me, I'll make you pay!" Kristian declared scornfully.

"Hah. Who do you think you are? Get the hell out of here, and take your people with you! Or else, you'll be the one who's going to pay!" Caspian growled in annoyance.

He had been in such a good mood after the wedding photoshoot, but these vermin had come to cause trouble again!

Kristian was gobsmacked. He was used to being the domineering overlord in Sealand who even disregarded the law, yet

Caspian seemed to be ten times more arrogant than he was!

"Caspian! How dare you be so arrogant? Do you know who you're talking to?"

He's Kristian Jennings, the son of Sealand's most prominent family!" Billy came forward and shouted.

"Oh, my. If it isn't Billy Jennings, the orphaned dog. I spared your life, but you chose to deliver yourself to me on a silver platter.

You're even more of a fool than your father!" Caspian remarked as he eyed Billy with a grim expression.

At the time, Caspian did not take Billy's life. He assumed the latter would go into hiding and lay low for good.

He was shocked to find that Billy had not learned his lesson at all and even wanted vengeance.

Did Billy truly think Caspian would not kill him?

The dark look in Caspian's eyes made Billy tremble.

+15 BONUS

He still felt fearful when he recalled the way he and Wylie had kneeled before Caspian to plead for mercy.

Alas, he and Caspian were mortal enemies now. The grudge between them could not be resolved until one of them died.

Billy was determined to seek vengeance! His heart was filled with nothing but resentment.

"In this city, what my cousin Kristian says goes, Caspian! No matter how powerful you are, you have to toe the line here!" Billy clenched his jaw and declared.

Caspian scoffed in mockery. He could not be bothered to respond to Billy.

Such vermin only served to disgust people.

"Stop wasting time!" Kristian snapped in fury. "Hey, bastard! I'm giving you two options. Either you get on your knees and beg for mercy, or I'll knock all of your teeth out!"

“You two really are such pesky flies. Get lost! If you continue spewing such nonsense, I won’t hold back any longer!” Caspian growled with a frown.

Kristian could not rein in his anger any longer.

“I’ll show you just what I’m capable of today! Get him, men!” Kristian instructed with a wave of his hand.

The crowd behind him rushed forward.

Sam, who was in the lead, was accompanied by nearly 30 burly men. These were all trained fighters groomed by Kristian.

They were the reason why Kristian dared to do whatever he wanted in Sealand.

These men were all hardened criminals who were willing to kill if necessary. Keller and Rebecca both frowned as fear set in. They could see that Kristian was not someone to mess with.

Gloating, Kristian declared, “I’ll give you one last chance. Get on your knees and beg for mercy, otherwise-”

He was cut off by a resounding slap.

Caspian had gotten up to put an end to his arrogance.

“How dare you fucking hit me again?” Kristian roared as he cupped his face.

Caspian had slapped him in multiple times now.

He had brought so many of his subordinates over this time, so what gave Caspian the audacity to get physical with him? Was he tired of living?

+15 BONUS

Seething with rage, Kristian could not hold back any longer. His anger exploded out of him.

“Fuck him up!” Kristian roared. “Beat him to death!”

Sam instructed his men, and they immediately marched toward Caspian to gang up on him.

Thanks to Caspian, one of Sam’s legs was in a cast right now. Sam was still hopping mad about that and was hellbent on getting revenge today.

Caspian’s expression darkened. He could not be bothered to waste his time on such vermin, but they kept trying to mess with him.

He knew that if he did not teach the nuisance.

a lesson, they would continue to be even more of a

Tightening his fists, he lunged at the men.

“Willow!” Rebecca exclaimed as she clutched Willow tightly in terror.

“It’s alright, Rebecca. Here, try this. It looks delicious,” Willow said with a breezy smile.

She was used to such situations.

Rebecca was dumbstruck. Caspian was alone against nearly 30 men armed with batons and machetes. How could he defeat them by himself?

Yet, Willow did not seem at all worried. She remained in her seat as if nothing happened.

Was Willow merely a cool-headed person or was Caspian truly that strong? Rebecca did not even have the time to process that question.

In just slightly over a minute, all of the burly men ended up on the floor.

“Huh?” Rebecca gasped. Her jaw dropped as she realized just how powerful Caspian was “W—Who the hell are you?” Sam asked shakily as he stood there with a metal baton in hand. Terrified, his entire body was trembling.

In all his years, he had never met a single fighter as remarkable as Caspian. Armed with nothing but his fists, he single-handedly defeated nearly 30 men! Caspian could not be bothered to waste his breath. He kicked Sam’s other leg.

Sam howled in agony before fainting.

“What...

Kristian could not figure out what just happened either. He was stupefied. He assumed that Caspian merely knew how to throw a punch and did not expect Caspian to be Kristian turned around and glared at Billy.

+15 BONUS

Considering the grudge between Billy and Caspian, Billy must have known that Caspian was not someone to trifle with. But he had goaded Kristian into messing with Caspian anyway.

Kristian was furious. Was that bastard trying to get him killed?

“Billy, you bastard!” Kristian snarled through gritted teeth.

Billy could only play dumb.

Meanwhile, Caspian started approaching the two of them.

“Caspian! What are you trying to do now?” Kristian cried out fearfully.

a

“Looks like the beating you got the last time wasn’t enough to leave a lasting impression on you, so I'm going to make sure you learn your lesson this time!" Caspian retorted coldly. Stiffening, Kristian bellowed, "You'd better not do anything to me, or else the Jennings family won't let you get away with it!" Caspian snorted. He did not care about the Jennings family. He raised his leg and kicked Kristian. Kristian fell and immediately screamed in pain, "My leg! My leg!" Billy shivered as goosebumps lined his skin. He could not believe how vicious Caspian was. Did Caspian not fear the Jennings family's retribution? "And now, it's your turn!" Caspian remarked as he turned to Billy.

Chapter 296 Give It My All

n

Billy was stunned momentarily before he yelled, "Caspian! Just kill me! I'm no different than a zombie now. I'm better off dead!"

"You want me to kill you? You don't deserve it!" Caspian sneered.

Billy was relieved to hear that. Despite what he had said, he feared death more than anyone. He had just said that to appear nonchalant.

"Hahaha! I incapacitated you back then, but you seem to have not learned your lesson yet." Caspian chuckled.

Billy's face sank. Back in Easton, Caspian had almost made him impotent right in front of a crowd.

Billy had committed this to memory. He did not understand why Caspian had brought it up again, though.

"It seems that I was too light-handed!" Caspian aimed a kick toward Billy's nether regions.

"Ah!" Billy was in such excruciating pain that his face scrunched together, and he ended up kneeling on the floor. He lost all feeling in his lower body.

He had only recovered somewhat after putting in a lot of time and effort. But now, with Caspian's kick to the area, he was done for.

Kristian, who was still yowling in pain, was shocked into a cold sweat by the sight.

Caspian was truly merciless!

Kristian even felt glad that Caspian had only broken his legs. Unlike Billy, who took a kick to his nether regions....

Kristian was still lying on the floor. He felt anxious as he worried that Caspian would beat him up too.

Caspian was only standing there, but his bearing alone was intimidating enough.

“All of you, get out of here!” Caspian said blandly.

Kristian nodded. He shouted at his men beside him, “All of you are useless! Carry me out now! What are you waiting for?”

Sam got up from the floor despite the pain he was feeling.

Kristian and Billy were carried down by their subordinates. These burly men were all spooked. Caspian was simply too powerful, and they did not want to stay here for even a minute longer.

+15 BONUS

After those people got out of the room, Caspian headed back to his seat. At this moment, everyone, including Rebecca and Keller, looked at Caspian in a different light... They suddenly found him to be unfathomable.

“Why are you all looking at me? Have some food.” Caspian said to everyone. Everyone glanced at one another in surprise. Could Caspian still stomach food even in this situation?

However, for Caspian, the appearance of those guys was just an insignificant intermission in his day.

After Billy and Kristian returned to Jennings Residence, they hired the best doctors who gave them emergency treatment.

Kristian’s legs were mostly fine, but he might find it a bit difficult to walk.

Billy and Kristian were both feeling helpless. They had gone to exact revenge on Caspian with full conviction, only to end up like this.

Kristian had resented Billy a little for that, but Billy was fully impotent now and was no different than a walking corpse.

“Billy!” Kristian called.

Billy froze. He said, looking all serious, “We can’t just let Kristian?”
s po. can w

He was completely blind with hatred now. Caspian killed his father and also made him impotent. How could he not exact revenge when there was such a bloody feud between him and Caspian?

“Ah! Caspian is too powerful, and we aren’t a match for him! I don’t want my other leg to be broken too!” Kristian sighed.

He had thought that there was nothing to fear when it came to Caspian. Now, though, he was scared. Caspian fought too cruelly and did not hold back at all.

“Do you feel content, though, Kristian? You’re the eldest son of the Jennings family, and yet you were beaten up badly. If other people catch word that you were too cowardly to exact revenge, wouldn’t you become a joke?”, Billy said.

“Do you have any more great ideas, then? We can’t beat him in a fight! I don’t want it to end in this way, either!” Kristian said resignedly.

This was his first time getting involved in such trouble.

“Have your father fight him. He’ll surely help us!” Billy said with gritted teeth.

+15 BONUS

Kristian’s father was very powerful in Sealand, and no one dared to go against him. If he got involved, Caspian would surely be done for.

“It’s a no-go. My father isn’t in Sealand right now,” Kristian said, shaking his head.

“We can only depend on ourselves, then. This is my last solution...” Billy smirked derisively.

This smirk on his face made Kristian shudder. He realized that Billy had become a different man after becoming impotent. He was crueler, as if he had lost his rationality. He had nothing in his mind save for revenge.

“Tell me, then. What other solution do you have?” Kristian could not help but ask.

He desperately wanted revenge as well. He had never been humiliated in this manner before during his many years spent in Sealand.

As the eldest son of the Jennings family, how was he supposed to maintain his presence in Sealand in the future if word of this were to get out?

“We’re not a match for Caspian, but we can target his wives instead!” Billy laughed.

Kristian understood instantly.

“So you’re saying we should kidnap Caspian’s wife?” Kristian asked.

“Yes! Willow is just a woman unable to defend herself. She’s an easy target.

We can threaten. Caspian with her. He loves his wife, so with her we can deal with Caspian however we want!” Billy said with a big grin.

“Will this really work? Is a woman enough to make Caspian surrender?”

Kristian asked in disbelief.

For him, women were like clothes. He would just change them if he got sick of them. He did not think Caspian would bend down to them just because of a woman.

“Kristian, you have no idea. Caspian is different from us. He’s very close to Willow, so she’s his only weakness!” Billy said.

He had thought of various methods to exact revenge. He had investigated Caspian’s background as well for the sake of that.

That was why Billy knew the relationship between Caspian and Willow very well. He knew that Caspian would do anything for Willow.

“But...” Kristian was still hesitant.

For him, women were just tools used to vent his rage. It was not possible for a man to be so devoted to a woman. He found men like this laughable, even, for they let themselves be affected by women.

+15 BONUS

If he were the one in such a situation, he would not care about the woman who would be kidnapped at all.

Noticing how hesitant Kristian was, Billy said on purpose, “Kristian! Why are you so hesitant? Don’t you want to see Caspian beg us for mercy while kneeling on the ground? How are you supposed to maintain a powerful presence in Sealand if you don’t exact revenge?”

“Even if we don’t do anything, Caspian will surely make our lives hell. We should strike instead of sitting here waiting for misfortune to befall us!”

Hearing Billy’s passionate speech, Kristian was awakened. They were in a dire situation now- they must avenge themselves.

“Fine! I’ll give it my all again, along with you!” Kristian said determinedly.

Today’s Bonus Offer

Chapter 297 Lord Caspian Flies Into a Rage

The next day, Caspian and Willow shot another couple of photos at the beach. After they were done, Willow changed back into her ordinary clothes and said to Caspian, Honey, I’m going to the restroom. Wait for me, and we’ll take a proper walk around Sealand.”

While Willow made her way to the nearest restroom, Caspian lay down on a bench and took a break, closing his eyes.

At a spot far away, several men monitored Willow carefully.

“Mr. Jennings, shouldn’t we do it now?” Sam asked Kristian while supporting himself on a crutch.

Sam had wanted to recuperate from his injuries, but Kristian had forcibly yanked him over here.

“Kristian! We should strike now. We can’t let the chance slip by us!” Billy turned to say to Kristian.

“Are you really sure you wanna do this? Why does this feel so risky?” Kristian asked in trepidation.

The thought of Caspian’s merciless actions filled Kristian with fear.

“What are you still hesitating over, Kristian? Waiting for misfortune to befall us is the dumbest move there is. I pissed Caspian off back when we were in Easton, and he ended up wiping out Mahayan Pavilion!” Billy said, gritting his teeth.

“Fine, I’ll listen to you. We’ll do it now!” Kristian exhaled a long sigh.

Sam and several other men tiptoed over to stand near the restroom. Billy looked at Caspian, who was taking a break casually, and hatred filled his heart.

“Caspian Lynch, I eagerly wait for the day you grovel in front of me!” Billy muttered.

Willow walked out of the restroom.

“Stand there!” someone beside Willow said in a cold voice.

Willow froze for a moment, only to realize that it was Sam.

“Hon-” Willow wanted to call out loudly for Caspian, but before she could, one of Sam’s underlings covered her mouth and nose with a handkerchief soaked in a drug.

Willow passed out immediately.

Sam grinned. He looked around, and when he saw that there was no one nearby, he quickly

+15 BONUS

Soon after, a few burly men carried her out.

The brooch on Willow’s clothes clinked onto the ground.

While in the middle of enjoying the sunlight, Caspian suddenly had a feeling that something had gone wrong. He seemed to have heard a sound just now.

The next moment, he glanced at the restroom, and a sense of foreboding rose in him. He quickly stood up and dashed toward the restroom.

“What’s wrong, Mr. Lynch?” Rebecca asked when she noticed how anxious Caspian was,

When Caspian arrived at the restroom, he saw a brooch on the floor. He grew murderous all of a sudden. He sensed that something had happened to Willow.

At this moment, a middle-aged woman entered the restroom. She gave Caspian a look and said derisively, “Why are you standing here? Want to take a peek?”

Caspian said nothing but instead gave her a sharp look.

The moment the woman met Caspian’s gaze, a full-body shudder went through her. Her throat tightened, causing her to feel suffocated.

“Get out!” Caspian tossed out one word, and the woman ran out of the restroom immediately. She dared not say anything more as she found Caspian extremely intimidating.

“Mr. Lynch, what’s wrong?” Rebecca came over and asked in confusion.

The moment she caught sight of Caspian, though, she was overwhelmed by the murderous air he was emitting. It made her tremble.

“Willow is gone,” Caspian said, holding the brooch.

“What? What happened? How did she disappear when everything was going fine?” Rebecca asked in surprise..

Caspian did not answer. Right now, his priority was to find Willow.

At this moment, Caspian’s phone rang.

“Billy Jennings?” he asked.

“You already know that it’s me? How?” Billy asked in surprise. Caspian frightened him all of a sudden.

“No one except for you would dare to touch my wife, you daredevil bastard,” Caspian said coldly.

Aside from Billy and Kristian, Caspian did not have many enemies in Sealand. Kristian was way

+15 BONUS

Billy, so Billy was the only one who would do something like this.

“You’re right. I’m the one who kidnapped your wife. If you don’t want her to be hurt, come to Jennings Residence alone. If I learn that someone else is with you, I won’t hesitate to make a move, and you’ll arrive only to see a sullied corpse!”

Billy ended the call without giving Caspian a chance to speak.

Caspian sneered derisively. Billy was welcoming his own death with how he challenged. Caspian’s limits again and again.

“Mr. Lynch,” Rebecca called again.

“I’m fine. You guys can leave first,” Caspian said expressionlessly.

“”

“I...” Rebecca swallowed the rest of her sentence. Noticing Caspian’s cold gaze, she could only leave.

“Sylvia!” Caspian called.

Sylvia appeared in front of Caspian right away.

“Caspian! It’s my fault. I was careless and didn’t protect Willow well!” Sylvia said fearfully, kneeling on one knee.

“I’m not blaming you for that, so get up. What we should do now is to think of ways to save her,” Caspian said, looking at Sylvia.

Caspian blamed himself for everything. Of course, he could not push the blame onto Sylvia.

However, Sylvia was worried when she saw Caspian’s expression. She felt like Caspian was going to fly into a rage.

“Sylvia, I had you investigate the powerful forces in Sealand. How’s that going?” Caspian asked.

“I can almost conclude my investigation. The Jennings family is the most powerful family in Sealand. Their leader, Hubert Jennings, is Wylie’s cousin.

to

“Billy came to Sealand in a bid for Hubert to take him under his wing, but Hubert happens to be away from Sealand now. Billy and Kristian are acting in Hubert’s name, and they’ve been terrorizing the place,” Sylvia answered.

“Got it.” Caspian was calm as always.

“Contact the Inspector General’s office in Sealand now. I’m going to pay the Jennings family a visit tonight. A family like this will create more harm if left to their own devices, so we might as well tear them down!” Caspian said coldly.

+15 BONUS

s not the

Caspian’s murderous intent was as sharp as knives. He knew clearly that Billy was Reaper. There were still limits to the Reaper’s behavior, and they would not hurt Willow.

Billy, on the other hand, was a thwarted man bold enough to do anything.

There was no need to exchange any words with this man.

Caspian would not give Billy any chance to turn his situation around again!

“Yes, Caspian!” Sylvia left.

“You don’t know your place. If you’re so desperate for your death, I’ll make it come true!” Caspian raged internally.

Chapter 298 Heavily Surrounded

It rained heavily in Sealand that night.

“What do you want to do to me? Let me go! My husband will surely come for me!” Willow was tied firmly to a chair. Her eyes were filled with tears as fear overwhelmed her.

She was already soaked and could not even open her eyes under the rain.

The only thing holding Willow up right now was Caspian. She could only pray again and again for him to rescue her soon.

“Honey, when are you coming? I’m so scared!” Willow called time after time in her heart.

Only now did she realize how fragile she was. Her tears blended into the raindrops that streamed down her face.

Billy stood in front of Willow, holding a knife. He disregarded the bad weather completely as revenge was the only thing on his mind!

“Your husband destroyed my family and made me impotent, you bitch! I must kill you both to quench the hatred in my heart!” Billy said, almost deranged.

He slashed Willow’s arm with the knife.

“Ah!” Willow yelped in pain. Blood streamed from the wound on her arm without pause;

Billy looked at the blood on his knife maniacally. As the rain washed it away, he felt a sort of perverted glee. He wanted nothing more than for Caspian to die a violent death after being smashed into pieces. As Caspian’s wife, Willow would not be left alive either.

When he imagined how mad Caspian would get at the sight of his injured wife, Billy felt this vindicated glee.

“You bastard!” Willow cursed him while holding in her pain. She had already lost her composure.

“What on Earth are you doing, Billy?” Kristian asked Billy from where he was standing

They were in his territory, but Billy had acted on his presumptuous urges and injured Willow without regard for Kristian.

“What, Kristian?” Billy turned to ask, a maniacal grin on his face as he stood in the rain.

Kristian was helpless. Had Billy really gone crazy?

Ever since Billy suffered that kick to his crotch, he had gradually become more and more

Chapter 298 Heavily Surrounded

It rained heavily in Sealand that night.

“What do you want to do to me? Let me go! My husband will surely come for me!” Willow was tied firmly to a chair. Her eyes were filled with tears as fear overwhelmed her

She was already soaked and could not even open her eyes under the rain.

The only thing holding Willow up right now was Caspian. She could only pray again and again for him to rescue her soon.

“Honey, when are you coming? I’m so scared!” Willow called time after time in her heart.

Only now did she realize how fragile she was. Her tears blended into the raindrops that streamed down her face.

Billy stood in front of Willow, holding a knife. He disregarded the bad weather completely as revenge was the only thing on his mind!

“Your husband destroyed my family and made me impotent, you bitch! I must kill you both to quench the hatred in my heart!” Billy said, almost deranged.

He slashed Willow’s arm with the knife.

“Ah!” Willow yelled in pain. Blood streamed from the wound on her arm without pause;

Billy looked at the blood on his knife maniacally. As the rain washed it away, he felt a sort of perverted glee. He wanted nothing more than for Caspian to die a violent death after being smashed into pieces. As Caspian’s wife, Willow would not be left alive either.

When he imagined how mad Caspian would get at the sight of his injured wife, Billy felt this vindicated glee.

“You bastard!” Willow cursed him while holding in her pain. She had already lost her composure.

“What on Earth are you doing, Billy?” Kristian asked Billy from where he was standing

They were in his territory, but Billy had acted on his presumptuous urges and injured Willow without regard for Kristian.

“What, Kristian?” Billy turned to ask, a maniacal grin on his face as he stood in the rain.

Kristian was helpless. Had Billy really gone crazy?

Ever since Billy suffered that kick to his crotch, he had gradually become more and more

Chapter 299 A Madman Who Has Lost His Mind

Caspian's eyes were alight with rage. His voice held so much power that other people shivered when he spoke.

He made his way toward Billy. Water splashed with every step he took.

The special forces soldiers looked at him respectfully as he walked past.

"Honey!"

Tears streamed down Willow's face as Caspian appeared. All the fear in her heart was gone as she called out loud.

Caspian looked in her direction, and his murderous intent rose.

His precious wife, pampered and loved by him, was tied to a chair. Also, he could clearly see a wound on Willow's arm, and her clothes were stained with blood.

It didn't look that severe only because the rain had washed all the blood off.

"Sorry for being late, Willow. My carelessness is the reason you had to suffer."

Caspian felt unbearably guilty. Willow wouldn't have been kidnapped had he not dozed off on the bench.

Willow, who had not gone through any suffering before, ended up being hurt like this.

Caspian had promised never to make Willow feel upset. If he could not even protect the woman he loved, what was the point of being the Lord of Diadem Hall?

"You bastard! How dare you hurt Willow?" Caspian glared at Billy coldly.

Kristian's heart was filled with terror. He stumbled and knelt on the floor.

"Caspian, listen to me. I'm not involved in this at all. Everything was Billy's idea. He's behind everything!" Kristian said to Caspian in trepidation.

Caspian was still glaring at Billy, his eyes alight with rage.

Billy shuddered. Caspian's glare was way too terrifying.

"Was it you? The one who cut a wound on her arm," Caspian asked coldly.

Billy swallowed. He noticed that all the bodyguards and fighters had surrendered, and now he was at a loss for what to do.

The atmosphere became more charged.

“Hahaha! It was me, so what? I cut her with a knife! You killed my father, so I want to avenge at Caspian, his gaze full of anger.

1/4

+15 BONUS

He no longer was able to tamp down the rage burning in his heart.

Caspian chuckled indifferently. Billy did not know his place.

“You hurt my wife, so both of you will have to pay the price!” Caspian bellowed.

A hundred guns were pointed at Kristian and Billy.

“Please give me another chance! I’m really not involved in this at all.

Everything was Billy’s idea! He coerced me! If you’re mad, go after him! Don’t kill me, please, don’t kill me!” Kristian begged as he prostrated on the ground.

“You’re useless! Look at you! Are you behaving like the eldest son of the Jennings family?” Billy yelled at him in disdain and rage.

He had not expected Kristian to be so spineless.

“Why are you so spineless, Kristian? You’re so cowardly that you’re begging your enemy for mercy! Do you think Caspian will let you go if you beg so pathetically? You’re way too naive!” Billy pointed at Kristian and said in fury.

Kristian’s current state angered Billy greatly.

“Shut the hell up, you bastard! Would I be in this state if not for you?

Everything was because of you! You coerced and swindled me so that I could help you antagonize Caspian. You want to make y life hell! We’re cousins! Are you really that shameless?”

Kristian bellowed.

Kristian suddenly realized that Billy had sabotaged him, so he promptly shed all pretenses of cordiality.

“That’s because you’re as dumb as a rock! I just needed to play a small trick and you fell for it -hook, line, and sinker!” Billy sneered cruelly.

Billy had never thought of Kristian as someone capable. From his perspective, Kristian was merely a young master with no intellect to speak of. He could easily swindle Kristian just with some basic tricks.

It turned out he was not wrong, and Kristian had ended up being easy to manipulate.

“You...” Kristian was so furious his hands were trembling.

He finally realized that Billy’s respect for him was a pretense. Unfortunately, the realization

had come too late.

“I don’t have the time to listen to your inane words. I can give you one more chance, Kristian. Set Willow free now, and I’ll no longer hold a grudge against you!” Caspian said expressionlessly.

+15 BONUS

“Sure, sure! I’ll let her go now!” Kristian was overjoyed. He stood up immediately and got ready to untie Willow.

Billy got anxious when he saw Kristian stand up, and he roared angrily, “Stop!” He then dashed to where Kristian was immediately. He lodged the blade of his knife on Kristian’s neck.

The blade shone frigidly under the rain.

“If you dare let her go, Kristian, you’d better believe I’ll kill you right now! Don’t hold it against me for not showing you mercy!”

Billy glared at Kristian angrily. He had totally gone mad.

Kristian swallowed. He was rooted on the spot out of shock.

Billy had already lost his mind. No one knew if he would really do it.

“Billy, I’ve been nothing but gracious to you since you came to the Jennings family. And yet this is how you treat me?” Kristian said exasperatedly.

He should not have taken in Billy after the collapse of his family. Billy had gone mad long ago.

“Hahaha! I’ve thought of you as an eyesore long ago. You’re nothing but a feeble coward, and yet you put up the pretense of being powerful in front of me. Someone like you doesn’t even deserve to polish my shoes!” Billy screamed maniacally.

He vented all the resentment that had been festering in his heart.

He had been the young lord of Mahayan Pavilion, capable of commanding respect and deference anywhere he went.

After the collapse of Mahayan Pavilion, Billy’s life was no longer glamorous.

The Jennings family in Sealand was trash and would be totally insignificant in Easton. Kristian, who previously had to defer to him, now had the nerve to order him around. If not because he had to use the power of the Jennings family, he would’ve left this place long ago.

“You... You...” Kristian was so furious he could not even string a sentence together.

At the thought of how Billy had been deceiving him from the beginning, the fury in his heart multiplied.

“You’re unscrupulous, Billy!” Kristian cursed loudly.

“Say one more word and I’ll kill you!” Billy gripped the knife tightly and pushed it harder onto Kristian’s neck.

Sensing danger, Kristian tensed up and quickly shut his mouth.

214

+15 BONUS

“Great, great. You’re so close you’re about to get into a fight with each other!” Caspian said sarcastically. “I don’t care about your relationship as cousins. Let Willow go or die!”

Caspian could not be bothered to engage in more inane talk. These two guys were merely bugs that he could kill after lifting his leg!

4/4

Chapter 300 Cut Each Other’s Throats

+15 BONUS

If they insisted on not letting Willow go, Caspian would order those special forces soldiers to strike.

“Let her go? Do you think that’ll happen? You’re just a guy who married a daughter of the Stewart family, Caspian.

“I don’t know how you became as powerful as you are now, but I’ll make you regret your actions for the rest of your life. I’ll kill the love of your life!” Billy sneered maniacally.

“You brought this upon yourself, so I won’t show you any mercy! Strike!” Caspian shouted.

All the soldiers behind him loaded their guns, which would surely put dozens of holes into Billy and Kristian’s bodies.

“No! No! Don’t fire! I’m not involved in this at all! Please spare me!” Kristian was so scared his legs kept on trembling. The stench of ammonia wafted—up from between his legs. He was so scared he had pissed himself.

“How embarrassing!” Billy said in disdain.

Kristian looked ashamed at that. He was the eldest son of the Jennings family, and yet he was no better than a bug in front of Caspian.

Caspian furrowed his brows. He was worried that Willow would be frightened, and that was the only reason he had not ordered the soldiers to fire yet.

A white Bentley sped in and parked outside the villa. Inside it, a man pushed himself against the window and begged, “Mr. Lynch!

Please spare my son!"

After that, the man opened the door, jogged toward Caspian, and knelt in front of him.

"I'm Hubert Jennings, the head of the Jennings family. I'm honored to meet you, Mr. Lynch!"

Hubert knelt on the floor in trepidation. He was trembling in fear right now. An hour ago, he received a call from the governor of Sealand, who told him furiously that his son and his nephew had pissed off a powerful figure.

Hubert dared not put it off and promptly returned to Sealand. He was worried that his family would meet their demise.

"Hubert, huh? Both your son and nephew are capable of great things!"

Caspian said blandly as he gave Hubert a look.

Hubert was even more scared now.

Hubert knocked his head on the ground thrice and said in fear, "Mr. Lynch! It's all my fault for you release my son, the Jennings family will be under your command!"

1/4

+15 BONUS

Hubert looked nothing like the leader of the most powerful family in Sealand right now. He was feeling very anxious.

Hubert had no idea about Caspian's identity, but he knew that Caspian was surely not an ordinary man. The governor of Sealand viewed Caspian with high regard, and he was also capable of commanding such a big group of soldiers.

That was why Hubert could almost be sure that Caspian was a powerful man.

He, on the other hand, was only the head of a family. He was in no place to speak when in front of such a powerful figure.

"Your son and nephew kidnapped my wife and injured her. Why should I let them go?" Caspian said coldly.

Caspian's words thoroughly shocked Hubert. How dare his son do something so despicable? How dare he kidnap the wife of someone so powerful even without knowing Caspian's true identity?

Was he trying to raze the Jennings family to the ground?

"Bastard! Are you trying to ruin the Jennings family completely?" Hubert cursed angrily.

However, when he saw Billy hold a knife against Kristian's throat, he was shell-shocked.

What the hell? What on Earth was Billy trying to do?

“Father! Everything was Billy’s idea! He put me up to kidnapping Caspian’s wife. I’m not involved in this at all. Billy is a madman!”

Kristian yelled frantically.

“Shut up!”

Billy pushed the knife inward with more force. The sharp blade cut into the skin on Kristian’s neck, and warm blood flowed out, only to be washed away by the rain.

Kristian froze. He dared not say another word, as Billy had already lost his mind and injured him.

“Billy! Have you gone mad? Let go of Kristian!” Hubert yelled in panic.

Had Billy lost his marbles? Why was he injuring Kristian?

Hubert would’ve been nicer to Billy if Mahayan Pavilion still existed. However, after Wylie’s murder, Billy was just a stray dog with nowhere to go.

How dare Billy act so arrogant in front of him?

“Let him go, you say? Sure, I’ll let him go now!” Billy said, removing his knife.

2/4

“Dad!” Kristian shouted as he made to run toward Hubert.

However, just as he stepped forward, he felt an excruciating pain in his abdomen.

+15 BONUS

He looked down, only to see that a knife had been stabbed through his body!

Kristian turned back to look at Billy in disbelief. “You!”

Halfway through his sentence, Kristian’s facial features scrunched together, and he spat out a glob of blood.

Billy had stabbed him despite being his cousin.

“I won’t leave this place anyway, so I might as well pull someone down along with me! We can die together!” Billy said vindictively.

He knew that he was not going to survive this, so he might as well pull Kristian down with him.

Kristian was overwhelmed with regret at this moment. He should not have listened to Billy and kidnapped Willow. More than that, he should not have taken Billy in!

However, it was too late now.

“Billy! If I have to die, you’re not surviving this either!” Kristian said with gritted teeth.

Billy said nothing. He yanked the knife out of Kristian's body, and a heavy stream of blood flowed out from the wound. With a muted thump, Kristian collapsed on the floor, the impact causing water to splash. His eyes were wide open, and he was no longer breathing. "Kristian!" Hubert roared in fury as he ran toward his son. "Kristian! Are you okay? You're scaring me!" No matter how loud Hubert's voice was, Kristian did not respond. He had already lost too much blood and thus, was dead. Billy had already lost his mind. He killed his cousin. Caspian watched calmly as everything unfolded. There was no hint of emotion in his calm gaze. "Billy Jennings! I'll kill you!" Hubert looked up abruptly and lunged at Billy. "Hubert, come! I'll send you down to the underworld where you can reunite with your son!" Billy said arrogantly. The two men fought against each other. "Do you need me to intervene, Caspian?" Sylvia asked in a low tone. "No. Let them go at each other's throats!" Caspian shook his head.

+15 BONUS

He studied the two men intently and discovered something—Billy seemed to have become much stronger than before. Hubert fell to the ground with a loud noise and spat out a mouthful of blood. "That's impossible! You're at the highest level of Tier Three!" Hubert stared at Billy in shock.

His useless nephew had become an expert at the highest level of Tier Three. Billy had always made a habit out of lazing around, so when did he become so powerful?

"Hahaha! There are many more things you wouldn't have expected!" Billy guffawed.

He had become a madman blinded by hatred through and through.

"I didn't want to fight you, Uncle. I wanted to reserve my strength for Caspian, but you just had to come at me!" Billy said while staring at Hubert vengefully.

Today's Bonus Offer

X

GET IT NOW