I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2711-“Miss Evie, what are you talking about? I am not forcing you, instead, I am helping you.

If you come with me, do you think I will stand by idly if something happens to the Elves in the future? I certainly won't, right? If you have the Loughty family's support, it will be useful for you and the Elves,” Ambrose said.

Of course, as the heir to the Loughty family, one of Leila's top powers, he had the status to say that.

Lyle did not dare to say the same.

The Berlin family was a small force compared to the Loughty family.

Evie knew she would not be able to leave.

So, she could only think of a way to make the other party retreat.

She finally came up with an idea.

She said, “Master Ambrose, I can go with you, but I have one request.

If you can do it, I will follow you wholeheartedly and serve you for the rest of my life.” “Oh? Miss Evie, just name your request.

There is nothing I can't do.” Ambrose looked confident.

Evie was the most beautiful and elegant Elven woman he had ever seen besides the Elven Queen.

If one looked closely, she even looked a bit similar to the Elven Queen.

Between the two, one was more mature and the other was younger, but both could arouse a man's desire to the maximum extent.

When he first met the Elven Queen, Ambrose was instantly stunned.

However, he also knew that the Elven Queen was not someone he could target.

So when he saw Evie, he wanted to take her away and make her his own.

Except for the Elven Queen, there was no one of the Elves that Ambrose could not take away.

“Master Ambrose, the Elves have a sworn hatred against the Vingean.

Back then, the Vingean even wiped out all the people in one of our locations.

Tens of thousands of Elven women were trafficked to various parts of Leila and suffered humiliation.

Among them were a lot of my good friends, so if you can help me avenge this hatred and remove the Vingean from Leila, I will agree to leave with you and promise to serve you for the rest of my life.” After Evie finished speaking, there was silence.

Even Ambrose, who looked confident just now, stopped talking.

He was just one of the heirs of the Loughy family, not the head of the Loughy family.

Moreover, they could not simply wipe out the Vingean just because they wanted to.

Even if the head of the Loughy family wanted to wipe out the Vingean, he would need to discuss it with other senior members to evaluate if it would be worthwhile since the Vingean had not provoked them in the first place.

They had to see if the effort and gain were directly proportional.

It was obviously not worth spending so much energy to destroy the Vingean for an Elven woman.

Even the head of the Loughy family could not convince the seniors of the Loughy family.

If the head of the family insisted on going his own way, Grandmaster Loughy could even directly remove him as the Loughy family’s head.

Among a top force, the only one whose words carried enormous weight was the partial Overlord.

Such a powerhouse was the backbone of the force.

As for the head of the family? He could not change it whenever he wanted, let alone an heir like Ambrose.

Ambrose did not say anything and Evie knew her plan had worked.

With the other party's identity, he obviously could not get rid of the Vingean.

If the Vingean were so easy to get rid of, how could the Elves allow them to survive to this day? The current Elves were not the same ones that would allow others to bully them.

Evie figured that since Ambrose could not fulfill her request, he should give up.

"What do you think, Master Ambrose?" Evie asked again.

"Miss Evie, I believe you know very well what kind of force the Vingean are.

Do you think I can destroy them just because I want to? You are making things difficult for me!" Ambrose replied after a moment of silence.

"Of course, I know that the Vingean are very strong, but this is the only wish I have in this life.

If you can't do it, please forgive me for not agreeing to leave with you." Ambrose smiled when he heard this and said with a hint of coldness, "I understand! Miss Evie, you never wanted to come with me, right? That's why you came up with such a request that I can't fulfill so that I will back out, right?" "Master Ambrose, don't get me wrong! I..." Evie panicked and was about to explain but Ambrose directly interrupted her.

"That's enough.

Miss Evie, since you're behaving like this, I don't think we should continue our chat.

As for whether you follow me or not, that's not up to you.

Come with me to see the Elven Queen! She will tell you the answer." "No!" Evie sternly refused.

I am a quadrillionaire chapter 2712-She did not want to cause any trouble for her mother and her clan.

Once she went with Ambrose, her mother would be in a very difficult position.

Of course, she could not offend the Loughty family, and she, the Elven Princess, could not be taken away.

“Do you think I’ll allow it just because you don’t want to? Take her away!” As soon as Ambrose finished speaking, two of his companions beside him immediately rushed out.

They were very fast and arrived in front of Evie in the blink of an eye, trying to take her away by force.

However, just as they were about to take action, they suddenly saw someone standing in front of them.

That person was now standing between them and Evie.

David had been watching the whole process coldly.

It was not until Ambrose tried to use force that he stepped forward to stop him.

“David!” Evie called out in desperation.

“Don’t worry.

As long as I’m here, no one can take you away,” David comforted.

“Wow, where are you from, kid? How arrogant of you! Do you know who this is? How dare you say something like that? Are you not scared of the consequences?” Ambrose said nothing, but on the other hand, Lyle on the side sneered.

He had long disliked David.

How could an ordinary person be worthy of such a stunning Elven woman as Miss Evie? Moreover, David did not seem like a person with a strong background.

This kid gave way when he saw him, so what powerful force could he have behind him? Lyle was humiliated in front of Ambrose and had nowhere to vent his anger, but now, he finally found his target.

He could not afford to offend Ambrose, but did that mean he could not offend this kid? "I'll settle accounts with you later," David said something unfathomable to Lyle.

Then he turned his eyes on the Loughy family.

"Get lost!" David was not speaking very loudly and his tone was flat, so the others did not feel anything.

On the other hand, the two guards from the Loughy family were stunned.

Their eyes looked blank and they only had two words in their heads.

"Get lost!" Then, they squatted and lay on the ground.

After that, they started rolling away uncontrollably just as David asked them to.

This scene shocked everyone.

Everyone looked in disbelief, their expressions indicating that they had never seen anything like this before.

Especially Ambrose, because those rolling on the ground were his team members.

As the son of the Loughy family, his safety was naturally very important.

So, anyone who could become Ambrose's entourage must be very powerful.

However, they followed a stranger's orders and immediately lay down on the ground to get lost when told to do so.

This was unfathomable to everyone on the scene.

If it were Ambrose who said this, no one would be surprised at all.

However, the person who said this was an outsider, so this baffled everyone.
