

Married At First Sight Chapter 3739

Married At First Sight Chapter 3739 – Camryn said calmly, “Carrie came to argue with me, claiming she has no money. Trenton, do you really think she’s broke?”

Carrie didn’t fully understand how she became Mrs. Labbe, but she couldn’t let everyone find out about it.

Camryn hadn’t figured it all out yet, but one thing was clear—Carrie wasn’t short of money.

Just as Camryn finished speaking, a familiar car drove up—the same car Carrie used to drive.

After being released from prison, Carrie returned to the Newman family and only took this car. The other vehicles were locked away in the Newman garage.

“Camryn, come out! Camryn!” Carrie shouted as she got out of the car and walked in.

The two York family bodyguards noticed Carrie. They gave her a cold look but didn’t stop her from entering the store.

They knew Carrie still had some restraint when dealing with Camryn. Since Camryn hadn’t told them to keep her out, they simply watched, making sure Carrie didn’t cause trouble.

However, Carrie had faced setbacks before.

Though she appeared weak, Carrie was tough underneath.

“Second sister.”

Trenton hadn’t expected Carrie to show up right as they were talking about her.

“Trenton? You’re back? Is the company on break?” Carrie was surprised to see Trenton and quickly bombarded him with questions.

Without waiting for him to answer, she continued, “How’s the company? Is anyone keeping you in check? Trenton, remember, we all have shares in Newman’s business, and we’re also the bosses. We can’t let this blind woman take charge. You need to find her people and get rid of them one by one. Don’t let her run things.

And that traitor Mitchell? He needs to be kicked out of the company and blacklisted in the industry. If it weren’t for him, the company wouldn’t have fallen into her hands.”

Trenton frowned. He usually had a good temper, but Carrie always tested his patience.

“Second sister, the eldest sister’s eyesight has been restored. She’s no longer blind, so stop calling her that. She’s our eldest sister. She owns most of the company shares, so of course, she’s in charge.

I’m working over the winter break, but it’s not a full-time job. Brother Mitchell has been a great help. Without him, Newman Enterprises would have been in chaos.”

Dalton Mitchell was close to Camryn, and many of Newman’s business deals were handled by him with her input.

Because of her vision issues, Camryn hadn’t been able to manage the company herself before, so she relied on Dalton.

Trenton was grateful that Dalton was so loyal to Camryn. If the company hadn’t ended up in Camryn’s hands, Dalton wouldn’t have stayed, and Newman Enterprises would have been in serious trouble.