His words made my breathing kick up a notch and I find myself gasping when his grip on my breast get more firm.

He groaned, drinking in my reactions to his touch. "You're perfect V," he whispered, eyes darkening as they flick down to my throat.

I arch into his hand, my spine crying out for help with how much I am pushing forward so I can literally plaster myself to him.

Heat curled in my body and I begin to roll my hips in a circle, searching for some ease of that throbbing in between groans, one of his hands gripping my waist hard.

"Are you trying to make me c*m before I get inside you?" He looked into my eyes with a fiery passion that I knew I was matching. I smirked, my hands gliding down his sweaty chest, my fingertips. gliding down the skin between his abs.

He shuddered and a shiver raced down my spine. I rolled my lower lip between my teeth, sinking it into the soft plushness as I looked into his eyes from beneath my lashes.

His pupils dilate.

"Didn't you want me to show you who you belong to?" I smirked, lowering my head to his and playfully biting his jawbone, just beside his chin. He groans,

“God V.” he said hoarsely, voice full of desire. “You’re driving me crazy.”

I grinned, hating that I also had some power over him too I graze my teeth over his jawbone, humming in pleasure with just being in his powerful arms. He shuddered when my teeth reach his earlobe and I playfully flick my tongue over the skin

This grip on me tighten and he curses under his breath “You’re being a naughty girl,” he warned, fingers digging into my skin

“Then make me pay for it.” I whispered, rolling my hips to tease him more he hisses, moving his hand to the button of my shorts and flicked it open so quickly I hadn’t realized he had until I felt his fingers. teasingly brush against my mound and drag down to my clit

I jerk with a gasp, rolling my hips forward. He prunts, his lips on my jaw. his teeth grazing the bone just as his finger slipped inside me. I shudder, moaning.

“So wet for me baby girl,” his voice drips thick and hot on my skin to tease me further he opened his mouth, his tongue sliding a wet trail from my jaw bone to my car. “Be a good girl and you’ll get something thicker soon.”

I gripped his shoulders my nails digging into his skin. He didn’t seem to mind, in fact with that untamed growl of hunger leaving his lips, I am more than certain he enjoyed it a lot.

“Xade,” I panted, my nipples hard and grazing against the fabric of my bra. “If you don’t,” I moaned, needing him.

So much for me teasing him. He’s the one who has me panting for more. I lifted my hips up desperate for some friction. “If you won’t f*ck me now then I’ll do it myself,” I grunted and started to ride his finger.

Xade pulled back to stare at me, his eyes glazing over with hunger as he watches me ride his finger. Then he adds another, making me buck and throw my head back.

My walls tighten around his digits, tugging and pulling them inside me as I move up and down. I tremble staring directly in his eyes as I bring myself closer to that mind shattering rapture.

His fingers wrap around my throat, not hard, but possessively. only allowed to c*m around my c*ck Avery," he growled, pulling out his fingers and lift them to his mouth.

They're sleek and wet with my juices around them and Xade makes a very hot sound at the back of his throat when his tongue licks every drop before he popped both fingers in his mouth and smirk.

I shivered at the mere sight, amazed that such a simple action is

He smacks my a*s. "Look at that pretty little p*ssy just waiting for me.

I gasp, jerking in pleasure and moaning. I turn back around to stare at him and the raw hunger in his eyes makes me tremble with anticipation, especially even more when he pulls out his c*ck and smacks it across my a*s.

I bit my lip, pushing back against him, begging him to take me. And he does just that, aligning his head against my folds, he pushes in, in one go. My lips part as he lift one of his leg on the bench and then angle his hips in a way that made the head of his c*ck press against that sweet spot inside me.

I hadn't realized I was squirting on the bench until Xade chuckled. "I haven't even started yet and you're already drenching the bench baby. At this rate you'll flood the entire room."

I could do nothing but moan, my thighs shaking as Xade tease me by

There's something about the way Xade runs his fingers through my hair while my head is on his broad warm chest that sent shivers down my spine.

After we got done in the gym, he brought me to his apartment right. away where of course we had a second round of tangled limbs and pleasure. So much pleasure.

The thought has me jealous that he had shared himself so much with others. I pushed off his chest, resting my forearm where I could feel the soft thumping of his heart. The rhythm is soothing.

I frowned as I looked at him and he must've sensed the shift in my emotions because his eyes fix on mine and his brows furrowed. " Uh oh, I know that look. Did I do something to upset you?" A wicked, teasing look flashed across his eyes. "I can make up for it."

I let out a breath that came out like a sigh and noticing the pitch, he got serious. "What's wrong baby?"

I cast my eyes down to his chest, my fingers now drawing weird shapes on his sweaty skin. "I just-

The words die on my tongue, unsure if to voice my jealousy or not. Was it too early in the relationship to? Even though I had been with Kyan, what Kyan and I had is nothing compared to what Xade and I have now. Which was crazy to think considering Xade and I just made it official.

"Those girls you were with," my words rolled off my lips before I can even rethink them. "Were they more experienced?"

I cringe inwardly. Did that come out stupid? Afraid to look up into his eyes I pretend that his soft skin was more fascinating to look at. Though I will admit, his skin is enticing.....

Especially with that bite mark I left there.

"V," his voice is thick, so stained with regret that my belly twisted in an odd uncomfortable way, I looked up quickly, my cheeks taking on the color of a beet I am sure as I flushed in embarrassment.

"You don't have to answer that if you don't want to!" I reddening even more when his gaze softens more. He pouting. Hating that I had ruined such a calm moment between us.

"Baby," he sighed, his fingers touching my chin and pulling my head back to face him. I shyly snake my eyes up. "They never mattered and I never cared. If you're asking this because you have doubts, I will remind you that you're the only one who can bring me to my knees with just a look."

My heart flips and so did my stomach. He trace his fingers on my jawbone, up to my ear and then move some of my wild hair out of the way. He looked at me with such deep intensity, I shivered.

“You’re perfect. You’re my drug, my very undoing. With you, no one else matters, the past doesn’t matter,” his eyes searched mine. “You have no idea the kind of grip you have over me. You can tell me to jump off a cliff and I’d do it in a heartbeat.”

My stomach churn and I gasped, worriedly looking at him. “Xade! You can’t say that! You can’t love me to such great lengths.”

A smile curved on his lips. one that made the butterflies in my belly to flap their wings so close to my ribcage. “Ah but I love you more than my own life Avery,” he thread his fingers through my hair, tugging the strands teasingly. “I love you.”

I worried my lip between my teeth, stomach tightening with nerves. That’s what every girl wants to hear, but with me, I’d rather not hear he loves me more than himself. I didn’t think I deserved it.

I wasn’t that special or someone to die for. I was just me, Avery. Clumsy, madly in love with my best friend now turned boyfriend and someone who was a neat freak. I was normal, boring and just not good. enough for someone like him to give up his own life for.

He teasingly tugged at my hair again and used his other hand to rub the lines between my eyebrows. “Stop turning those gears in your head my love. Come back to earth, come back to me.”

“But-

I started but the words die on my tongue when he got up and place at chaste kiss on my lips. “I love you more than my life V. You’re the air I need to breathe, the thirst I can never quench. When in doubt, remember these words okay.”

I nodded, resting my forehead on his and with a sigh I breathed out in his lips. "I love you too Xade. With everything in me."

I felt it. The quick thrump under my palm as his heart skipped from hearing my words. I saw the way his eyes glazed over in disbelief and awe. He had not expected me to say it, not when just earlier it was difficult to push past my lips despite already feeling it.

"Christ V," he breathed out, his eyes staring at me fondly. "Say it again," he whispered.

I shyly look at him under my lashes, biting my lip. "I love you."

He rolled us over, me now under him and I squealed and let out a happy laugh. "Say it again," he insisted, eyes still staring at me in awe.

I smiled and cupped his cheek. "I love you Xade."

He closed his eyes, dropping his forehead on mine softly. "I can now die a very happy man." he chuckled, peeling his eyes open to stare at me with a passion that had me squirming under him. A grin spread on his lips as he lift and tilt his head. "Say it again." He teased.

"Hey you forgot something!" Xaden shouted from the kitchen, his head just popping up from the opened fridge.

My rushing feet slowed until I stopped behind the kitchen island, leaning my hand on the surface to hold myself from tripping over because of my abrupt halt. "What?" My brows furrowed as he went back to digging in the fridge.

pulls out the uncut pineapple and wiggled it with a mischievous smile. "This. There's an extra in the fridge if you want it-

He ducked as Xade came behind me and flung one of the kitchen utensils at his face. It crashes in between the milk and cheese. "Stop teasing my girl man. And don't you have something to do? Like leave?"

Xade's hand comes around my middle and his chin drops on my shoulder gently. He squeezed my waist and like a magnet, I leaned into him until we are glued together. He sighs on top of my head, planting a kiss.

Xaden straightens, lifting both his hands up in surrender, one hand still hold the pineapple. "I will. When you two give me peace to sleep at night," he rolled his eyes playfully as he push the pineapple back into the fridge.

"I know you two are like in your honeymoon phase right now, but do you mind giving this old guy some peace and stop humping like bunnies for hours? I barely caught a wink of sleep last night and the night before that," he turn to send a wink my way. "You got a good set of lungs on you V."

I flushed furiously, my cheeks extremely hot I peeled out of Xade's arms, needing to escape this embarrassing situation. "I'm late, we should head out" I told Xade over my shoulder who's grasping for my hips to return to him.

He nods I have class in a couple of minutes and I kind of slept.

in perhaps sleeping beside Xade was a bad idea seeing as we do more of tangling the sheets than sleeping when necessary.

"I'll see you later Xaden!" I said over my shoulder as my fingers wrap around the handle to pry the door open.

“Might not little V.” he hollered, rummaging through a set of pans I turn to face him confused “Today I’m heading back “His forehead smacked against the cupboard and he hisses out the word f*ck

“So soon?”

He nods, rubbing the area he had hurt “Yeah got some work to do and my little brother needs his space so he can keep humping you every chance he gets I’m getting too old to hear those sounds at night V” He snorted as he joked

Xade shoots him a hard glare while I frowned I’ll miss him I never get to see him much since we’re now so far from each other But he’s always been our big brother and protector

Ignoring his joke I rush over to him to surprise him with a hug “I guess I’ll see you

“When you’ll need me.” he said softly as he wrap his arms around me to give me a warm protective hug “In the meantime get a degree and try to not die from exhaustion from being pounded every single minute” choked on a surprised embarrassed sound now regretting I hugged him in the first place I should have known he’d turn this serious moment into a joking one. I move out of his arms and smacked him.

“Jesus girl.” he hissed, rubbing his chest arca. “My brother must have shared his abilities with you-

“Let’s head out baby, don’t want to be late.” Xade cuts in, sending Xaden a sharp death stare. I nodded, telling Xaden good bye and flushing when he promised me he’ll leave the pineapple in the fridge. for me whenever I’ll need it.

As Xade and I head on out, half way down the corridor he suddenly makes me squeak in surprise when he lifts me up and holds me in his arms. I quickly wrap my legs and arms around him like a monkey on a branch.

“Xade!” I scowled even though I made no effort to get down from his arms. His hand come under my butt and squeeze. “I car

He nods. “I know, but I won’t see you in a few hours and I need to imprint you in my mind some more.” He kissed my temple and I am too gushy in his arms to protest once more and demand him to put me down.

So even though we passed a few onlookers, I didn’t care as I let him carry me to his vehicle like a child. When he dropped me off on the campus, he was reluctant to remove his lips from mine.

I giggled, detaching my lips from his and wiped off some of the gloss I had manage to smear on his lips. “I’ll see you later.”

Xade had classes later on so it was unlikely that we cross paths again until we both were home. Home. Being with him always felt like home. He was my home.

My heart melted when I saw his pout and his sad gaze. “I don’t like it when I part from you.” He breathed with a bit of frustration in his tone.

O

I smiled “Since when have you become so clingy?” I joked, unable to melt by just the look of pure fondness he gave me “I’ve always been when it comes to you,” he pointed out truthfully, leaning forward and kissed the tip of my nose. “I just never knew it was possible to become even more.” His admission made me laugh.

He didn’t lie, he was always clingy, but so was I. We never wanted to part from each other, always glued to the hip unless for classes and well. his dates and mine with Kyan.

“Text me when you get to your class safely, okay?” He whispered, giving me another kiss on my nose and then eyelids which cause me to swat at his face and giggle

It was not odd of him to tell me to text him when I get to class since. we’ve always done this. But this time, it feels different that I know he was my boyfriend. I grinned, my heart fluttering when he blew kiss and honked before driving off slowly.

As I watch his vehicle disappear. I can't help but feel a little nervous to walk into the campus alone. This time I had no one, not Melissa and not Kyan to keep me company when Xade wasn't here. It also didn't help that I was the talk of the campus.

With a sigh, I clutched my book bag and began walking to the entrance. But halfway my phone pings and thinking it was Xade being impatient to know if I had gotten to class on time or not, I pulled it out of my pocket.

The text that glint evilly on the screen made my stomach churn and I swallowed.

Kyan: You forgot your chain in my room the last time you got here. Come pick it up in ten minutes or it's going in the trash.

My dad's chain. The last thing I had of him before he died. The chain.

meant too much to me and mom for me to let it be thrown in the trash. Nervously my shaky fingers texted Kyan back, telling him that I will come to pick it up. The last time I saw Kyan, he was in the hospital bed, nervous to see him now was an understatement.

When life gives you lemons, you squeeze it in a mother f*ckers eyes. I wish life had given me lemons right now just so I could squeeze it in those eyes that pinned me heavily with contempt.

*Five minutes ago*

I nervously walked to the dorm room Xade once shared with Kyan. The door is parted a little, perhaps he's inside waiting for me. My insides twisted with nerves. The last we spoke to each other, it didn't end on good terms.

I gnawed on my lips, clutching my book bag close to me as though it was a shield. If the necklace didn't mean so much to me, I would never care to come here.

"I can't believe someone like her ended up with someone like Xade." A feminine voice made me stop before my hand can push the door open. I slid myself beside it, plastering to the wall as I eavesdrop.

"Do you have an eye on Xade to?" Kvan hissed under his breath.

"Of course not! You know I only eve wanted you baby," the girl squeaked "It's just that I'm surprised auch an ugly girl like her ended. up with the campus

"If you finish that sentence I'm kicking you out Corn" Kyan culs in sharply, his voice full of irritation and anger, resentment.

"Okay babe," she sounded defeated then her voice goes back to a chirp. "Anyway she's out of the way now so maybe we can finally stop sneaking around. I hated sharing you

I lean a little forward, sneaking a glance between the small crack.

I could see her, her eyes glossy with clear unshed tears. Then his bare back blocks my vision of her as he walks in front of her. My stomach twisted when his hand suddenly lurched forward and grab her chin roughly.

He laughed bitterly. "You can't possibly think a girl like you would be girlfriend material Cora," he taunted, his head leaning forward. "You're too easy. You're not that great and you're not that good looking either. Get that shit out of your head."

He used his other hand to press and poke at her temple.

She whimpered, and the sound broke my heart. Unable to listen further, I straightened my spine and hit my knuckles on the door hard. Hearing the knock, Kyan moved away from her and their eyes flick to the ajar door

Peeling off the wall to not look suspicious, I move to be in their line of vision.
The girl. Cora's eyes widen in surprise and she quickly lifted. her hand up to wipe away the tears that trickle down her blotchy checks.

I had already seen them and even though she hadn't been friendly in her words directed at me, I felt angry for her. She mumbles an excuse to leave and walks around Kyan and storms out of the room.

I try to not wince as her shoulder knocks into mine, causing me to stumble back a little. Kyan strides over, body stiff as a board, “You’re five minutes late,” Kyan spat and winced, lifting his hand to his split lip to touch. Xade had really done a number on him. He looked awful. From his swollen eye, purple stains decorating them to his yellow coloring on his jawbone he looked terrible. His nose also looked broken.

“I walked here.” I said stiffly, my eyes moving behind him. “Where is the necklace?”

Kyan’s dark eyes roamed over my figure and I squirmed, not liking the way they lingered on every part of me. He disgusted me. Why had I now only realized how much he repulsed me? I want to vomit at the very thought of ever having his lips touch mine.

Leaning his arm on the doorframe and crossing them over his chest, Kyan leaned forward a little. “You don’t honestly think I’m going to bring it to you?” He shifted and opened the door wider. “Come inside and get it yourself Avery.”

With the wolfish look in his eyes, I should have known I’d make a grand mistake in stepping into that room. If only I could have known

His words brushed against me in a cold taunting way. They're filled with mocking and hostility, not welcoming at all. But despite that, I stepped foot into the room, aimlessly looking around.

Now that Xade was no longer here, the room felt cold and unwelcoming, empty.

"Where is it?" I asked. I had the necklace on the night I slept with Xade for the first-time, I never realized it was gone. Perhaps I had been so busy and caught up in my feelings that nothing else mattered.

Kyan replied dryly. "Look-for-it yourself." I heard the door click t and I stiffen. I didn't want to show him that I was scared or anxious.

I frowned, turning to face him. "Is it even here or is this some kind of sick joke to get me alone so you can call me a whore again?"

His cold dead eyes cast me with taunting look as he sneered, folding his arms and leaning against the door. "Well aren't you a whore? Did I lie?"

I flinched, my brows furrowing even more into a frown. "You're so full of shit Kyan. Calling me a whore when you were cheating on me during the entire relationship with Cora."

He didn't look surprised that I knew, only looked bored. He must have figured I overheard them speaking. I shook my head in disgust. "It's fine though, I guess we can call it even and move on with our lives. It was best things ended the way it did or I would be fooling myself to think I actually like someone as vile as you."

He pushes off the door, his eyes angry as he storms toward me I back away until my back hit something hard. The closet door. I gasped, flinching when his palms hit the wood, both plastered beside my head. So close, caging me in.

His repulsive scent surrounded me and the mere heat radiating off his body felt like painful fire in my skin. I want to vomit and cry.

"You've gotten brave since getting f*cked Avery." He snarled, eyes darkening to a scary color of fury. I pushed closer to the door, wanting to merge my body with it just to escape Kyan.

"Back off," I said firmly, but my cowering form must look pitiful to him. My soul stirs uneasily when he takes a lick of my hair and twirls it around his finger. "So brave now." he sneered under his breath

His eyes narrowed into slits. Seeing that he was not responding. I gritted my teeth and spat. "Coming here was a mistake! I should have known you were onto some stupid game. Is my necklace even here?"

He looked at his bed. his eyes rolling to the floor. I shift my eyes to his line of vision and noticed the gold chain glistening on the surface of the floor.

Relieved that I would not have to spend anymore time here. I rush to it and bend over to retrieve the necklace. As my fingers wrap around the thin gold rings. something pressed on my bottom.

I jerked away, straightening and whirling around. Kyan stood before me, not a single emotion as guilt on his face. "What the hell Kyan!" I spat at him angrily.

"What?" He sneered under his breath, veins on his forehead more prominent. "You can give it freely to Xade yet waste my time and not give me not even a little taste?"

My heart pushes into my throat and I thought I'd soon have a heart attack or worse, die from lack of air in my lungs.

“Now is that any fair Avery?” He chuckle dryly. “Do you think it’s any fair you whore?” My feet felt like they were frozen here in shock as I try to grasp what he was saying. Was I hearing right?

He took a step forward and my mouth runs dry. I looked around skittishly. The door was closed and I wasn’t sure anyone would come to help me if I were to scream.

My heart thudded. My fingers tickle to grab my phone and call Xade.

“Don’t co-me any closer.” I warned in a stuttering breath. I inwardly cursed that I was unable to keep my voice firm and hard.

He smirked. “Stuttering now? Where did that bravery go to?”

I swallowed, looking for a way out. He was before me, blocking the view of the door. If I were to run I’d not be able to have time to open the door. He was way bigger than me.

Panic kicks in and my ears ring, alarm signs going off in my head. “You’re going to like my c*ck inside you V,” he mocked the name Xade had given me and that’s when I realized he had his phone in his hand. He pressed something and throw it on his bed.

“Your boyfriend is going to hear how loud you’re going to scream while I f*ck you.”
