

THE DIVORCE PRESCRIPTION

Chapter 521

Lucy and Hayden looked at Sonia. "Mom, are you really abandoning Carly at a time like this? Aren't we a family?"

Tracy grew restless. She sure as hell wasn't planning to go down with Carly.

"What do you mean? Carly was the one who stole Celine's identity. Over the years, she enjoyed all those benefits from Mr. Alvarez, and you two took everything for yourselves without sharing with the rest of us. Why should we suffer with her now that she's exposed?"

Wayne and Hazel quickly chimed in, "Yes, Tracy is right. We won't go down with you. Mr. Alvarez, your score is with Carly, not us."

Lucy was so furious she almost coughed up blood. "You people are unbelievable!"

Hailey and Robin watched the scene unfold with satisfaction. It was best when these scoundrels turned on each other like this.

Years ago, Lucy abandoned Celine and left her to survive in the countryside alone. Now, she was finally tasting what it felt like to be cast aside.

Hailey smirked. "This is karma. You reap what you sow."

Robin added, "Mr. Alvarez, these people were responsible for Celine's father's death. If you hadn't been shielding them, Celine would've taken her revenge long ago. Now that you've seen their true colors, it's time they face justice."

Sonia tried to plead, "No, Mr. Alvarez! Please spare us!"

Adam looked at them coldly. "You guys deceived me in the past. Now, it's time to settle everything. Whoever was involved in Aaron Tate's murder must go to his gravesite and atone for their sins in three days. This is the only chance I'm offering you guys. Don't force my hand."

With that, he turned and left.

Hailey and Robin sneered at the defeated Tate family. "What goes around comes around. You all have this coming for you!"

After that, they left as well.

Sona's legs gave out, and she collapsed to the ground. "It's over. It's all over I thought today would be a day of triumph for the Tate family, but instead, we've fallen straight into ruin. Now that Mr. Alvarez knows the truth, Carly's last bargaining chip is gone. What do we do now?"

Tracy turned to her. "Grandma, hurry up and think of something. We don't want to go down with Carly. Why should we get dragged into this?"

Lucy's face was ashen, her fists clenched so tightly that her nails dug into her palms. This was all Celine's fault.

This had been her plan all along. The surgery had been a lie. Sending them all to ruin had been her real goal.

Why hadn't Celine died in the countryside back then?

Lucy's expression darkened as she yelled, "Enough! Stop arguing! Even without Carly, you're all guilty of Aaron's murder. Celine wouldn't spare you anyway. Her goal is to wipe out the entire Tate family."

Sonia and Tracy fell silent. There was no way to resolve their feud with Celine, after all.

Their fates were tied to Carly's. If she went down, they would all fall with her.

Sonia turned to Lucy. "Then tell me, what do we do now? Carly is still in Mr. Alvarez's hands. Her heart condition is worsening, and she doesn't have much time."

Lucy thought for a moment before shifting her gaze to Hayden. "Honey, what do you think?"

Hayden kept his silence with an unreadable expression.

Lucy's voice grew urgent. "Honey, Carly was in pain just now. She was covered in cold sweat. She can't wait any longer. Are you really going to just watch her die? You know there's a way to save her!" '

Tracy was confused. "What way? Carly is in Mr. Alvarez's hands, and with Celine against us, what can you possibly do?"

Hayden continued staying quiet.