

My Dreamy Old Husband

Chapter 132

After Sophia read the content, she was so furious that she slammed the table and rose to her full height. Nate is such a young child! It's already enough that he is ruined by Michael, but these fujoshis still included him in their wild imaginations! I can't tolerate this anymore!

Then, she quickly contacted Hale. "Ask someone to delete the post in Bayside University's forum with the ID1315455. Damn it! What the hell was that?"

After calling him, Sophia kept refreshing the forum page while waiting for the 'Taylor Murray x Nathan Fletcher' post to disappear.

Hale had no interest in reading any homosexual fanfictions. Since it was rare for her to order him to do something, he took a glance at it after finishing the mission, curious at the thing that caused so much hate in Harry and Michael.

With that, Hale opened a new wormhole that he never knew existed...

In the fanfictions, a few of his bosses were engaged in different actions. To him, it was something he had never seen before, so it was rather interesting to be reading about it. The more he read them, the more interested he was—until he saw a fanfiction titled 'Taylor Murray x Bodyguard'.

Some pictures were also attached to that piece.

The pictures were taken a while ago by fans when Hale held an umbrella for Michael. Back then, Michael's character was a mafia boss, so he was dressed in a fierce attire with a cigarette in his mouth as props. On the other hand, Hale was dressed in all black while holding up the umbrella for him. At that instant when they were photographed, Michael was saying something to him with a frown, looking unhappy.

Hale lowered his head, looking as if he had done something wrong and was aggrieved.

That picture spread like wildfire on Taylor Murray's fan page, becoming the basis of dozens of fanfictions...

Finally, he had personally experienced the terror of being one of the characters in the fanfiction.

Sophia stayed in front of the laptop and continuously refreshed the page, finally breathing a sigh of relief when the post about Nathan had disappeared. She turned to look at him—he was sound asleep in his blanket with a frog printed on it

Seeing his chubby and pinkish cheeks, he was undeniably cute, no matter from which angle she looked from.

Oh, how can someone simply be so cute? I just want to cuddle him and pinch him on his cheeks.

After looking at his sleeping face for a long time, she decided to protect him as his mom.

Even if she had to sacrifice herself, she also wanted to protect him from being ruined by Michael, that Beast.

After her firm resolution, she continued to monitor her stocks—her goal was to earn as much money as she could until she was financially stable to protect Nathan.

Suddenly, her iPad chimed as she received countless friend requests on Messenger.

After clicking to open all of them, a handful of friend requests sent by Sophia's classmates flooded her page—including the ones from Sean and Sarah, whom she had encountered at the army training. She accepted their requests happily.

Apart from them, one of the requests had surprised her.

It was from Xyla, whose profile picture was an intimate selfie of her and Richard. Her alias was 'XylaxRichard', as if she couldn't wait to tell the entire world that she was now dating Richard.

Sophia simply accepted the request with her real name as her alias.

However, as soon as she accepted it, Xyla flooded her inbox with many messages. 'Sophia, it was because of my immaturity in the past that I've done many wrong things to you. I'm sorry and I hope you will accept my apology.'

After glancing at it, Sophia did not bother to reply and placed her iPad aside. Then, she continued to look at the stock market and housing prices. The few stocks that she had invested in gained returns and construction was about to be started on the piece of land that Michael had invested in. Its Feng Shui was appraised by Daniel, who claimed that it will bring good luck upon them. On top of that, the location was very strategic and she would definitely profit from it once the construction had been completed.

Sophia looked at the stocks happily while eyeing her iPad from time to time and noticed that Xyla had sent her many weird messages.

'Sophia, Richard and I are about to be engaged. How are you recently? Let's hang out soon. He wants to see you.'

On Xyla's profile page, she even posted many pictures of her and Richard, as if she wanted to intentionally show off her relationship to a certain someone.

How disgusting. Sophia ignored her, but her iPad kept vibrating from the silly GIFs that Stanley sent her.

'Sophia; dear Sophie, where are you? Let's hang out together! I'll bring you to speed down the road! Come on, let's have fun!'

She ignored him, so he stopped after sending a few more messages.

Suddenly, she received a text message notifying her that a huge amount of money with multiple zeros had been deposited into her bank account. Michael had concurrently messaged her. 'Chica, keep the pocket money that I just gave you and take care of our son.'

Holding the phone, she bowed three times in the direction of the filming crew. Michael is as generous as usual!

Apart from giving her a limitless credit card, he would also give her money that was worth six to seven digits on a monthly basis without any excuses. How good would it be if he is not a psychopath! Based on the money that he's given me, I'll have to force myself to slightly love him.

Sophia counted the money that she had in her account at the current moment. She usually wouldn't spend a lot and stayed in Michael's house, where he handled all of her expenditure on food. All the clothes and cosmetics that she needed, she would obtain them from the butler in bulk. Even when she played her games, she would ask Hale to buy more credits for her and claim it from Michael.

All of the money that Michael gave to her was used to invest in stocks and real estate. The money that she had with her at the moment was worth tens of millions.

However, compared to him, she was nothing at all.

Sophia still did not know exactly how much Michael was worth. At that moment, she was only aware that he was the secret person in charge of Asco International, a Fortune 500 company, and one of the biggest customers of Audistin. He was also the anonymous name that all the millionaires in Bayside

City feared. Apart from that, officially speaking, he was the stakeholder of many corporations as well as an Academy Award-winning Best Actor, whose pay was worth a staggering amount of money. He was even knighted by the Queen of the United Kingdom and listed on the list of top 20 richest celebrities.

Aaaah! His power is so immense that it's unreasonable!

It will still take such a long time to be able to be on par with him, let alone to protect Nate!

With that, Sophia was trapped in a dilemma sullenly...

The freshmen of Bayside University had returned to campus.

Every year, when the school reopened for another academic semester, everyone would be excited, turning the entire campus into a very lively place.

Bayside University buzzed with activity at such an early time in the morning.

There was a hive of activity in Economics I of the School of Economics and Business Administration since the morning.

After enduring a month's worth of training, everyone in the class had unknowingly and slowly built up a friendship with each other. On top of that, they even had a meal with Taylor Murray and even took a picture with them as a result of their company, Company 49, being awarded with the Best Company Award. Hence, everyone was beyond excited.

The class representative had printed out the group photograph and sent it to everyone, making them even more excited and causing them to discuss this loudly in the entire classroom.

After sending the photographs to everyone, there was still one left. Looking at the remaining picture that no one collected, the class representative felt rather disappointed. It belonged to Sophia. Although she was not in the picture, he still took the initiative to edit her into it.

If it hadn't been for her, Company 49 would not have been nominated as the Best Company. Yet, she did not have the chance to receive the glory with the rest of them.

In the final session where students commented on each other's performance, since everyone knew that Sophia was expelled from the training, all of them gave her the highest score. Surprisingly, none of them had given her any negative comment.