

My Dreamy Old Husband

Chapter 138

In reality, Stanley was screaming while looking at the computer screen, “Manager, please add more credit for computer no. 23 and send me another bottle of Coke.”

This Sirius character doesn’t look like someone who is easy to deal with. I need to give this a further thought and plan this battle thoroughly.

Sophia also took the chance to speak, “By the way, please add 10-dollar credits to computer no. 24.”

Stanley controlled his game character to walk toward the Battle Arena, but he somehow felt uncomfortable using the computer today, especially the keyboard, so he quickly typed in the words, ‘Please wait for a while. I need to change my computer. I’ll be back after a few minutes.’

Sirius233 replied to him, ‘Fine.’

Then, Stanley exited the game and said to Sophia, “Sophia, I’m going to battle someone soon, so I’m switching to the gaming area. You don’t need to inform me if you want to leave. I will fight till the end tonight.”

Sophia was looking at the computer screen absent-mindedly. “Alright.”

After he was gone, Sophia stared at the computer screen as she tried to find that familiar ID among the spectating crowd.

Inside the game, if one character died, it would regenerate into a new character after ten minutes.

Call Me Taylor should have regenerated by now... Will she be back?

Meanwhile, Stanley hurriedly switched to the gaming area. The computers in the gaming area were specially designed for gaming. The keyboards used were specialized black-switch keyboards, and the display was smoother, which made it even more suitable for gaming.

The gaming area was only used for gaming. 8 out of the 10 people playing there were playing the 'Swordsman Game', and 6 of them were connected to the Bayside Server, which showed how small the world was. When Stanley hurriedly logged into the game, the person beside him recognized him immediately.

"Oh, my God! It's Snow Fox! It really is Snow Fox! My God! It's Snow Fox. Everyone, come check this out!"

The internet cafe was located right at the gates of Bayside University, and it had the best equipment, so lots of students from the university would choose to play their games here. Coincidentally, today was the day the Esports Club of Bayside University came here in a group to play games, but they didn't expect to be completely destroyed by Sirius in one move while spectating using combat mode. After seeing Snow Fox now, they immediately circled around to watch with excitement.

"It really is Snow Fox! Wow! It turns out that the legend is just a young man! Looks like he is a student of Bayside University. He is even a top student!"

"Oh, my God! Isn't that Stanley? He is a freshman in the game design department of the School of Computer Science!"

"Good luck, Stanley. Kill that monster, Sirius!"

The moment everyone heard that Snow Fox was in the internet cafe, all the people who were playing 'Swordsman Game' immediately circled around Stanley to watch. In an instant, the whole internet cafe was buzzing.

However, in another room, Sophia didn't seem to notice everything happening around her because she was wearing her headphones with maximum volume. When Snow Fox was switching his computer, she was looking around for Call Me Taylor.

Suddenly, she saw a familiar ID sending a friend request to her.

Call Me Taylor: 'Hubby, I've regenerated!'

Sirius was excited as she exited the empty Battle Arena and walked toward the crowd.

When the monster, Sirius, arrived, the onlooking crowd was so scared that they cleared out a path for her automatically. On the other end of the path stood a new character with no gears, weapons or experience. She was a female monk with the ID—Call Me Taylor.

Sirius: 'Taylor!'

Call Me Taylor: 'Hubby.'

Without hesitation, Sirius added her to her friend list, and at the same time, she realized that Taylor had sent a request to her, asking to be her wife.

However, Sirius was hesitant. 'Taylor, everyone now calls me a monster. Are you still willing to be with a man like me?'

Taylor looked at her affectionately as she was crazy about her. "Hubby, I believe that that isn't the real you. No matter what you become, I will never leave you."

'Taylor...'

'Hubby...'

The surrounding crowd irked. 'Urgh! Now is not the time to be lovey-dovey. Fight!'

Siris was moved in her heart, and suddenly, she said to the crowd of onlookers and Snow Fox, who just came online, hurriedly, 'Everyone, please wait for a minute. I need to propose to my beloved wife, Taylor, again!'

In reality, a group of people was ridiculing her.

"What the hell? Who is this Sirius?"

"This is so disgusting. This is not the time for romantic matters!"

"How can he torture us singletons like that? Snow Fox, we need justice!"

Stanley was rendered speechless by that group of people, but he actually wanted to see who Sirius was by tracing the network cable.

Under the scrutiny of the crowd, Sirius and Call Me Taylor officially became a couple, and they began their marriage ceremony in front of the other swordsmen.

In this wedding, there were no wedding gown, grand ceremony, blessings, or even a wedding hall. Only the criticisms and scorns of the crowd could be heard.

However, a group of female players felt that they would die without any regret if they got to marry a man like Sirius.

As soon as the marriage was done, Sirius vowed in the name of God, "I, Sirius233, swear to be together with Call Me Taylor for the rest of my life. If I ever break my oath for her, let me be struck by lightning!"

Call Me Taylor seemed to be very happy as she kept on typing emojis.

After it was done, Sirius233 flew onto the Battle Arena with full energy and life points. She then said to Snow Fox face to face, 'Let's do this! Today, either you die or I die!'

Without saying anything else, the two master players started their battle.

In the room, Sophia brought out her fastest speed with her hands while focusing her full attention on the computer screen. The series of moves on the screen correlated with the crackling sound of the keyboard.

At the same time, Snow Fox was also very skilled himself. Stanley's godlike skills drew the admiration of the other onlookers.

"He really is a godly character. He is so awesome!"

"Come on, Snow Fox!"

"Oh, my! Look at these incredible skills. I'm already on my knees!"

"Wow! Sirius' skills are also amazing! Come on, Snow Fox!"

In the midst of chaos, the two godly characters were evenly matched. After half an hour, the first round ended, and Sirius won by a small margin!

In the internet cafe, a group of people was massaging Stanley and serving him drinks while some girls even became his personal cheerleading squad. Everyone in the cafe who played the 'Swordsman Game' was now watching this epic fight that represented the peak level of the players of the game. The moment the boss of the internet cafe knew that Snow Fox was present in his store, he immediately projected his computer screen on the huge screen in the cafe lobby. He initially planned to have a competition between the players, but now, they got to watch the match between Snow Fox and Sirius!

The second round started, and it was still difficult to distinguish who the victor was. Both Sirius and Snow Fox were highly skilled, so the audience kept on cheering excitedly.

Even though Sirius was a f*ckboy and a monster, her skills were truly amazing.

In the second round, Snow Fox won by a small margin.

It was a draw!

Both of them settled with a truce for the moment.

Sophia chewed a gum to calm herself down. This was the first time she ever fought in a match like this, so it was natural for her to feel nervous.

There was one last match left, and Stanley was unavoidably nervous because lots of people were watching the match online and offline. He hurriedly drank a mouthful of Sprite and prepared himself for the third match.
