

My Dreamy Old Husband

Chapter 480

“10 million? Is that all you get for selling my god-granddaughter?”

After realizing Cooper’s daughter was insulted, the old man kept on pounding his chest in anger. Suddenly, he pointed at Stanley, who was enjoying the drama. “Stupid dog, why didn’t you save her? Not only is she your Uncle Cooper’s daughter, she’s my god granddaughter!”

Stanley acted innocently. “Have you ever considered if I’m able to restrain my Uncle Michael? He’s so brilliant that Eddie is now completely charmed by him. What else could I do?”

Daniel quickly advised the old man, “Old Master Fletcher, what’s done is done. Besides, both of them have such a great relationship together. I think you should just accept it.”

Old Master Fletcher was now fuming, but there was nothing he could do. What’s done is done. What else can I do, except for accepting this fact?

On the way back to Bayside City, Michael and Sophia wore couple t-shirts while having fun the entire day before returning to the hotel just now. They had planned the whole travel route, and now, it was coming to an end. Tomorrow, they would return to Bayside City. Today, they had fun at an old town near Bayside City. Sophia wanted to visit here a long time ago, but she didn’t have the money nor the time. Now, she had finally fulfilled her wish.

Just when she was happily buying every souvenir on the road, Michael received a call from Old Master Fletcher. “Brat, if you come back now, I promise I won’t kill you!” These were his first words.

Michael knew that this would happen. Even though he was unwilling to tell the old man about his relationship with Sophia, the old man already knew about it, so he could only go with the flow. He smiled and opened a bottle of pure milk. As he drank the milk, he told him, "Grandpa, if you kill me, Cooper's daughter is going to be a widow."

The old man was rendered speechless. Michael continued, "Didn't you hope most for Cooper's daughter to get married to a Fletcher? Now, you finally got your wish."

The old man grunted as he didn't want to speak. I would rather have her married to Claude, Caleb, or even that stupid dog, Stanley. Why is it Michael who got her at the end? How could an old man like him marry someone so young? There's an age gap of at least ten years between the two of them! But at this point, I can only accept it.

"I've heard that the Murrays and the Mitchells are troubling you. Don't worry. You have me to back you up!"

For a moment, Michael felt a warmth in his heart, but he still advised the old man, "Grandpa, this is between us young people. You shouldn't keep worrying about me."

Old Master Fletcher informed him again, "I'll ask Stan to send Nate back in two days. Even though he is a rash kid, he is still your sister's son. You don't need to intimidate him too much. It was my idea to set Sophie up with that blind date. He didn't have much to do with it."

When Sophia returned to Bayside City, Bayside University was already two weeks into the new semester. As soon as they got back, Stanley immediately brought Sean to Michael's house to have a meal.

"Uncle Michael, look at how skinny you've become after the shoot. Hurry up and open a bottle of fine wine to replenish your body!" The moment Stanley arrived, he kept on pestering Michael.

When he came, he also brought Nathan along back home. After over a month of devilish training, Nathan had already become a human stick. Not only that, his skin also got so dark that he looked pitiful. As soon as he saw Sophia, he instantly came crying to her. “Mommy!” Nathan cried embarrassingly.

Immediately, Sophia hugged the little ball of meat and coaxed him. Looks like he still isn’t done with his one hundred exercises. After coaxing him for a while, she advised, “Later on, remember to apologize to Daddy. If you make him happy, he’ll probably allow you to come back.”

However, Nathan pouted his lips and wiped his tears away while remaining silent. According to his cold personality, he would never bow down to Michael. Sophia knew that this would happen, so she advised him, “Your daddy is a bad man who only knows how to bully children. Nate, you can’t bow down to bad guys, but beggars can’t be choosers. Why don’t you pretend to apologize to him first? Are you fine with that?”

After giving it a thought, Nathan nodded his head with agreement.

At the moment, Sean was explaining Natasha’s situation to Michael.

“She was rescued after they paid the 3 billion ransom, but they didn’t want the incident to be exposed to the public, so she is now still locked inside her room. I haven’t seen her for a few days. At the moment, the whole Mitchell Family is a mess. Some of them want to bring Cooper back, but the other thinks that he is a traitor to the family, so they are adamant that he mustn’t be brought back. Overall, the Mitchell Family is now in peril as they are no longer harmonious, so there’s no chance for Natasha to cause any trouble. However, she still insists that it was you in her room that night. The Mitchell Family can’t afford to embarrass themselves, so they want you to take responsibility no matter what. After this incident, they’ll definitely come for you and force you to admit to the public that Natasha is your real wife. They will retain her reputation at all cost.”

While listening to him, Michael poured some wine for himself and Stanley. Hale also received lots of calls from the Mitchell Family, but he simply deflected all of them. From now on, they were going to use a more aggressive strategy. To deal with an actor, they had lots of ideas in mind...

"I'm preparing for pregnancy, so I'm not drinking." Michael took a sip of milk.

After taking a sip of red wine, Sean informed him, "Their first step is to halt the verification of 'War Dragon'." If the movie couldn't pass through the verification process, the movie would never make it to the cinemas.

Then, the Mitchell Family would be able to shut down Taylor and force him to admit to his marriage with Natasha! However, when explaining their plan, even Sean felt that it was laughable.

'War Dragon' has the backing of the military! Most of the confidential weapons used in the movie were real; otherwise, how would they be able to use it without the backing of the military?

Stanley quickly took two sips of the wine and reminded, "Uncle Michael, I think you should prepare yourself. The old man is now very angry at you for insulting Uncle Cooper's daughter. He will come for you sooner or later."

However, Michael remained silent. What else can the old man do to me, except for accepting reality? He has no other way.

Then, Sophia came over while holding Nathan's hand. Even though he seemed to be unwilling to do this, he still had no choice but to walk to the front of Michael with his head down. "Daddy, I was wrong," he uttered while pouting his lips.

This apology was probably touching Nathan's limit, so Michael chose not to mess with him as he caressed his head. "Good boy. Your mommy has brought a puppy back for you. Are you happy about it?"

Nathan was now carrying the puppy that Sophia brought back while his face had traces of satisfaction. "Yes, I am." After the humiliating apology, he immediately went back to Sophia, as if he was ashamed by what he just did. He was now squirming in her arms because, afraid to look at everyone else.

After being gone for a few days, Michael's house had quickly become a breeding center for orange cats as they were scattered everywhere like chickens. At the moment, Sophia was whispering to Nathan while he carried the puppy. Every inch of space in this big house was filled with warmth.

Michael took a sip of milk and filled his throat with sweetness. After placing down the glass, his eyes became serious as he spoke to Sean, "Let the Mitchells play their little game first, but remember to inform me if anything happens."

Now that news about Cooper being alive has already been released, the Mitchell Family will definitely start an investigation on it, so they may find their way to Sophia. Therefore, she must be fully prepared for what's to come.

However, Sean was still a little excited to see the outcome of Alex using every method possible to force out Michael. By then, he will know what it's like to hit a rock with an egg.
