

My Dreamy Old Husband

Chapter 415

Faye's run-in with the lion was all captured by the filming crew's high-definition cameras. Fortunately, the production team managed to get some local guards and saved her in time. While Faye was rescued, she still suffered a huge shock. When her emotions finally settled, the director slyly asked her if she wanted even more fame.

Faye obviously wanted to be even more famous, or else she wouldn't have obstinately attached herself to Taylor Murray's name to leech off his fame.

And so, the director posted the video of her being carried away by the lion online. That clip successfully brought plenty of free publicity for both Faye and 'War Dragon'.

This shocking video immediately went viral the moment it was uploaded, and for a while, Faye dominated the front pages of the entertainment papers back home and over the globe. If she timed things properly and milk her misfortune, as well as post a daily Tweet about her recovery, she would be able to maintain her relevancy for a while.

No one else would be able to replicate this virality, that she was the first actress to be carried away by a lion during a film shoot.

It may have been the darkest minute of Faye's life. She could clearly feel the lion's fangs viciously digging into her flesh during that minute. If the doctor that the production team had on standby didn't stop the bleeding in time and gave her an emergency blood transfusion, her life really would have just ended then and there.

Meanwhile, the nation was going nuts over the 'Golden Couple'. They were the number one husband-wife actor combination in showbiz. So, what was Taylor doing while Faye had her accident?

The media noticed that Taylor had abruptly posted a Tweet in which he showed off his love not even half a day after Faye's incident. This was the first time that Taylor allowed a window into his private love life.

Two hands were in the photo he posted, fingers interlaced with each other and wedding rings clearly displayed on both hands. The rings were very eye-catching. Someone immediately recognized them as rings from Ido's 'The One' series of wedding rings. People could only buy a single ring, and they had to show their ID to buy it.

So, Taylor had actually rushed home to celebrate his wedding anniversary with his wife!

The fans who had been blindly fanning the flames finally understood; this whole series of events was simply a farcical relationship that Faye tried to play up. Taylor had been married to a different woman all this time.

And so, the 'Golden Couple' automatically dissolved, and Faye became the target of Taylor's fans all over the web.

So you tried to sensationalize things and ride my husband's coattails? So shameless! As expected, if you spread baseless rumors about Taylor, you'll wind up with misfortune! That's an iron-clad rule!

Sophia was relieved of her fury after scrolling through the entertainment news the whole day, all the while fully aware of who was behind this staged scene. The lion didn't go after anyone but Faye. That clearly showed that something was fishy here. Also, the production team had plenty of guards on hand who had cleared out the perimeter earlier. They wouldn't have allowed a lion to suddenly pop up and bite one of the cast members.

No matter how she looked at it, the lion in the video looked like the lion that Harry was raising at his mansion abroad.

Due to the rough lovemaking last night, Sophia remained at home. She didn't want to move the entire day, simply scrolling through Twitter and the news with her cat in her arms. Just like that, she spent the day lazing around. Meanwhile, Michael was down in the basement looking up something or other.

Old Master Fletcher only got to know that Sophia had been snatched away by Michael that morning, so he hastily called up Michael to blast him. "You impudent brat, are you trying to make me angry? Sophie was about to consider Claude as a fiance, so why did you have to pull that stunt?"

Michael still didn't want to reveal his relationship with Sophia to the old man. Currently, all Old Master Fletcher knew was that Sophia was Cooper Mitchell's daughter, so he was still receptive toward her. If the old man were to know that Michael and Sophia were married, he would blow a gasket. Also, if Old Master Fletcher found out that Michael had slept with Cooper's twenty-year-old daughter at the grand 'old' age of 34, he probably would have made himself go senile from fury.

The old geezer was still rather hale and hearty. Despite being nearly a hundred years-old, he was still very energetic.

"Grandfather, she's still young. She's only twenty, so she's still literally a child. I know that you like her, but let's leave the matchmaking for when she's a little older," Michael replied.

Old Master Fletcher was angry, but Michael did have a point. Twenty was a little on the young side, so he was indeed being impatient. All of a sudden, the old man changed the topic. "I heard that you claimed you're Sophie's father when you came to pick her up. Did you adopt her as your daughter?"

Adopt... A vein throbbed in Michael's forehead.

He looked very young, so how on earth did he look like he could be Sophia's father? He also didn't have the guts to take Cooper's place. All he wanted was just to be her husband!

Thus, he declined to answer. "You'll know in the future."

Old Master Fletcher then took the opportunity to ask Michael about his work, so he simply answered him.

"The parts to be filmed in Africa have all been done. The rest of the movie shooting will take place back here. 'Doctor Invincible' is still in post-editing. Faye Edwards is simply a colleague from work. She has nothing to do with me, and she certainly isn't my wife. Rest assured, lions won't be able to carry me off."

Once he asked Michael about work, Old Master Fletcher fell silent for a while before letting out a sigh. "Mikey, you haven't been back in ten years."

Even when Michael went to the hospital to take Sophia the previous day, he hadn't been willing to go back and see the old man.

Ever since Michael left the Fletcher home at eighteen, he hadn't gone back once. The last time Mark Fletcher saw Michael was years ago when his elder sister passed away.

"These old bones can't last much longer. I'll gladly take the chance to be able to see you again."

Michael wanted to see the old man, but he didn't want to face the Fletcher Family. As long as the Fletchers refused to acknowledge Elizabeth Murray, he would not go back.

Old Master Fletcher's word wouldn't be enough for the family to accept her. It would be difficult for a family like the Fletchers to willingly acknowledge a former C-list celebrity.

Even someone as open-minded as Old Master Fletcher had been unable to accept that his son would marry such a celebrity, despite the fact that Elizabeth had already made her name known all over the world.

Back then, Theo Fletcher wanted to marry Elizabeth, but their application was never approved. It was a military marriage, and Theo himself was special, so the marriage would have to go through strict checks.

Not only was Elizabeth a public figure, she also had complicated ties to other countries with her multi-citizenship. She had ties with diplomats and royalty from across the world, so she didn't pass any of the checks. Even when she died, Theo wasn't able to officially marry Elizabeth.

Prior to Theo and Elizabeth's death, Michael and his sister Celine were raised apart from the Fletchers. Theo would often come to see them, but Young Michael hadn't known anything then, and he couldn't understand why his father was almost never home. Until one day, Theo never made another appearance again.

Theo's body was sent back from the border and he was given a hero's burial. His body had been wrapped in a flag then.

All the men in the Fletcher Family had come to send him off and carry his coffin. Just like that, he was lowered into a grave at a heroes' graveyard with much fanfare.

However, Michael and his small family never got to see Theo's body. They didn't even get the chance to attend Theo's funeral, nor were they able to visit him at his grave. It took years for Michael to have the right to enter the Memorial Garden to see his own father's tombstone.

After Theo's death, Elizabeth brought the twins over to the Fletchers for the first time. It was also the first time the children saw Old Master Fletcher, but after Elizabeth brought the children to the Fletchers, she never showed up again.

