

My Dreamy Old Husband

Chapter 506

The Edwards Family thought that Sophia married a local rich man so they wanted to force her to acknowledge them as her relatives, in order to obtain the wealth of said local rich man.

However, Natasha knew that Sophia didn't marry a local rich man. She was basically the assistant who cleaned the toilets in Taylor's house! Let's see if she still can continue acting arrogant after being trapped by her poor relatives!

"Don't worry, Miss Mitchell. Sophia is a member of our Edwards Family so naturally, we will teach her a lesson. I hope you can help us so that we can enter The Imperial smoothly..."

Joe always wanted to enter The Imperial to recognize Sophia as his relative, but the security at the entrance refused to let them in. However, with Natasha's help, they could easily enter the premises.

Natasha chuckled. "Of course." Ha! I hope they continue to cause trouble. Hopefully the Edwards Family and the paupers from the Johnson Family will make a huge commotion!

At that time, Michael would definitely feel ashamed and drive Sophia away. Sophia looked at the smiling Joe and then at her greedy relatives. Suddenly, a bright smile appeared on her face and she enthusiastically held Liam as she said, "Uncle, Aunt, why are you here? I've missed you guys!"

Liam was overjoyed when he saw Sophia recognize him. After all, it meant that he had put himself under the patronage of a bigwig. "I've been looking for you for several years and I didn't expect to find you here! Where have you been all these years?"

"Auntie! Eldest cousin, second cousin!" Sophia happily recognized them as her relatives. After that, she left joyfully with the Johnson Family after saying goodbye to Linus, while Joe quickly followed.

Linus didn't know what happened but he obviously felt that Sophia was upset. She didn't seem to enjoy dealing with these people, so he hurriedly told Stanley about what happened just now.

"What? Sophia was taken away by the Johnson and the Edwards Family?" Stanley exclaimed.

When Stanley learned of this, he was so anxious that he immediately rushed around in circles. The Edwards Family had been scheming to trick Sophia and the Johnson Family definitely didn't have good intentions! He found out the true colors of the Johnson Family when he did a background check on Sophia back then!

Sean was also very anxious so he called Sophia, but she ignored the call. He then sent a Messenger text to her, to which Sophia replied, 'I need an identity.'

Sean looked at the message and pondered for a long time, not knowing what Sophia wanted. On the other hand, when Joe saw that Sophia had finally reconciled with them, he hurriedly asked her to return to the Edwards Family. Sure enough, the Johnson Family knew how to handle her!

She had never been raised by her father, so there was nothing they could do if she didn't acknowledge them as her relative. However, the Johnson Family had raised her for more than ten years. In any case, she was indebted to them.

In the Edwards Residence, Joe affectionately addressed Sophia as his 'daughter' and was extremely warm toward her. Liam and his family were so happy to see such a large villa like the Edwards Residence.

If they could win over such a generous family like the Edwards Family, they might even get a house in the center of the Bayside City, not to mention enough money to pay for his two sons' betrothal gift! Perhaps they could get work there too!

Meanwhile, Sophia and the family members were practicing Tai Chi. The atmosphere was harmonious and Joe naturally said, "Today, we are finally reunited as a family. I must see my son-in-law! Hurry up and ask your husband to come and meet us!"

As soon as they mentioned Sophia's husband, the Johnson Family was also excited. On the journey over, they heard that Sophia had married a dying rich local. He was wealthy and had only one son, who was only six years old.

The old man might die at any time, in which case Sophia would become a widow with an orphan. This could only mean that the enormous wealth of her husband would then belong to her...

"Yes! Hurry up and call over my niece-in-law so that I can have a look at him!" Liam also kicked up a fuss.

Sophia knew that they were targeting her husband so she said, "My husband went over to White Mountain these few days. The ginseng there is of great quality and can prolong one's life. The old man is getting old and is in poor health. He has to eat ginseng to nourish himself all the time, so he personally went there to pick some."

He has to eat ginseng all the time? He must be on death's door! Upon hearing that, Joe was frightened. This meant that they had to get things done quickly, otherwise they wouldn't get any benefits if the old man died!

Meanwhile, Michael had indeed bought a new batch of White Mountain ginseng. He sifted through the ginsengs one by one while watching Gemma's live broadcast of the Edwards' villa. Suddenly, he felt as if the ginseng in his hand was burning up.

He was just preparing to impregnate his wife! It wasn't because of his poor health at all! He wanted a chubby, cute daughter. Although the soil was important, if the quality of the seeds was bad, no good seedlings would grow! He was just preparing to get himself a chubby daughter! Why did everyone think that he was old?

On the other hand, the Edwards Family was talking about a key topic. Joe kept urging Sophia to recognize her relatives and return to her family. After she went home, they would confirm their father-daughter relationship legally so that some matters could be easily solved in the future.

Naturally, the Johnson Family wished that they would recognize each other right away, but Sophia had conditions.

"Dad, although I also want to return to our Edwards Family, I have my own difficulties. If you want me to recognize my family and return, I have two conditions."

"Go on." Joe looked eager.

Sophia then set out her own terms. "Firstly, I want you to hold a grand reunion dinner for me."

Joe agreed immediately, "Of course! Consider it done!" It was even better if they held a reunion dinner. The grander the occasion the better, as they would then have a good basis for reasoning when they took care of Sophia and her stepson in the future!

"Secondly, I want to have the same amount of shares as Faye."

Upon hearing that, Faye suddenly got up and objected, "No way!" Faye held only 5% of Edward Group's shares. How could Sophia, the b*tch, ask for the same amount of shares as her?

Joe also hesitated. His own daughter only had 5% of the shares, yet Sophia requested to have as much shares as her. Wasn't she asking for too much?

Seeing Joe keeping mum, Sophia deliberately frowned and said, "It's true that the old man married me. Although I'm his only legal wife, the old man secretly has a large group of illegitimate children. Goodness knows how many women are scheming to boot me from my position."

Upon hearing this, Joe became nervous. If Sophia was really usurped by those women, she wouldn't get any of her husband's wealth after the old man's death! Wouldn't that mean that Joe had done all this for nothing?

"What should I do then?" he hurriedly asked.

"They just think that I'm a pushover because I am young and have no parents nor any capital." Sophia drawled, "Dad, if you can give me 5% of the shares, they won't have the guts to target me."

Yes, the old man bought Sophia for 80,000 and married her. She was not pregnant nor had any children. Although she had a stepson, he was not her biological child.

She had no family and no money, so her position was indeed easily threatened. If they held a grand reunion banquet and Joe gave her some shares of Edwards Group in public, then she would be of a completely different worth...
