

Medical Genius's Unspeakable Marriage Chapter 355

Ever since both of them came into the room, Matthew only gave them a glance. After that, he completely ignored them.

Upon hearing Travis' words, Matthew put down the tea cup in his hand. "Travis, you're the one who came to the wrong room. This room is for Eastcliff Representatives."

Travis flew into rage. "Bullsh*t! Eastcliff Representatives are just nonsense. How can you have an individual room? Please have some self-awareness. You only deserve a toilet to sit in!"

Beside him, Crystal was dumbfounded.

When they were outside, Travis behaved like a gentleman who spoke politely and scholarly.

Unexpectedly, he cursed and lashed out right after coming into the room.

Did that mean he was just pretending to be a gentleman when he was outside?

At that moment, all the good impressions she had of Travis vanished at once.

She tried to free her hand from Travis's grip but he held her even tighter, completely hugging her now.

"Miss Harrison, tell him whose room is this," Travis said with a sneer.

Crystal looked extremely awkward. “Young Master Hughes, Mr. Larson is also from Eastshire...”

Travis burned with anger. “Shut up! He’s not from Eastshire at all. He’s just a pathetic loser. How can you mention him and Eastshire in the same breath? Are you humiliating me?”

Crystal paled in fright. She had no idea about the grudge between Matthew and Travis so she didn’t know how to settle this.

Matthew chuckled. “Travis, we’ll settle our issue between ourselves. Why do you have to make things difficult for a girl?”

Matthew’s words caused Crystal to change her mind about him.

Travis laughed. “I’ll make things difficult for her as I please! She willingly came up to me to be humiliated anyway. What can you do about it? Matthew, let me tell you something. After today, not only will she lie meekly in front of me, but so will your wife!”

Crystal’s expression changed again. She had no idea that Travis’ true colors would be so terrifying.

Taking a step back, she tried to yank her hand away.

Unexpectedly, Travis clenched her wrist tighter and twisted it, almost fracturing it.

“Ouch! L-Let go of me. You hurt me!” Crystal scolded angrily.

With a ferocious face, Travis turned to her and slapped her across her cheek while cursing furiously, “B*tch, shut up and stand still! Otherwise, don’t blame me for being rude!”

Crystal had never met someone like him in her life and she was so terrified she couldn't even make a sound.

Matthew knitted his eyebrows. Although he didn't like Crystal, she was Mr. Harrison's granddaughter after all.

Also, Mr. Harrison did do him a lot of favors in the past and he would always keep that in mind.

"She's just a girl. What's the point of making things difficult for her? Let her go. We'll settle our issues on our own!" Matthew said coldly.

Travis sneered, "We definitely have to settle our issues. However, you don't get to tell me what I should do! This b*tch asked for it so why should I let her go? Get the f*ck out now. After I'm satisfied, I'll settle accounts with you!"

Crystal shouted angrily, "Travis, wh-what did you say? Who did you say asked for it?!"

Travis burst out laughing. "Is that incorrect? B*tch, don't tell me that your grandfather really asked you to welcome me! You're just a sl*t that came up to me shamelessly, trying to carry on with me so that you can ride on the coattails of an heir from the Ten Greatest Families of Eastshire. Do you really think I'm so stupid that I'll have any woman?"

At once, Crystal's face flushed red.

Her grandfather indeed didn't tell her to welcome Travis and she had done it on her own.

In retrospect, she only got into this situation because she wanted to establish a connection with an heir from the Ten Greatest Families of Eastshire.