

Medical Genius's Unspeakable Marriage Chapter 497

Julian scolded, "You're a bunch of fools! Didn't you bother to ask around? The president of Cunningham Pharmaceuticals, Sasha Cunningham, is the most beautiful woman in Eastcliff! She is Matthew's wife! Ugly? Blind? I think you people are the ones who are blind!"

They were stunned. One of them blurted, "That can't be. His wife is Sasha Cunningham? Are you pulling our leg?"

Another person asked, "Why? Do you know her?"

The first person shook his head. "No, but I've heard of her before. According to rumors, she really is the most beautiful woman in Eastcliff. Growing up, she was always the campus belle."

Once again, they were astonished. They looked at Matthew with only resentment in their eyes.

They just could not understand—what dumb luck did he stumble upon?

Not only did he marry someone wealthy, but she was also beautiful.

The most beautiful woman in Eastcliff married Matthew Larson?

On what grounds?

Grace was relentless. "D-Did you get it wrong? They might just have the same name."

That person shook his head. “If we’re talking about Cunningham Pharmaceuticals, there’s only one Sasha Cunningham. The Cunninghams were the founders of Cunningham Pharmaceuticals, but somehow it fell into Sasha’s hands. People in the medical field know that the company’s president is a beauty. She’s well-known throughout the whole province!”

The people there looked at one another. All that information was a big blow to them.

Julian scoffed, “I don’t suppose you still have more to say? Grace, ugly creatures like you shouldn’t be making a spectacle of yourself. And you, Elaine, stay further away. I feel nauseated whenever I see your face. You mingled with a bunch of slackers in school, and now you want to act all innocent in front of me? You’re fooling yourself!”

Elaine’s face turned a bright red. She stomped her foot in anger but was unable to refute since everyone knew about her schooling days.

Seeing that the crowd had been rendered speechless, Leo suddenly seethed, “People these days are so good with empty talk. They’re brave enough to pull such pranks. The most beautiful woman in Eastcliff? Hmph! I’ll have you know that the true beauty in Eastcliff can only be that one person. Sasha isn’t even worthy enough to fawn over her.”

Grace immediately turned toward him. “Who is it?”

In a boastful manner, Leo announced, “Leanna Sandel of the Sandel Family from the Ten Greatest Families of Eastcliff!”

There was an uproar. Leanna’s name carried more weight than Sasha’s did.

After all, Leanna already had a very high status.

“I’ve heard of Leanna Sandel. She’s almost ethereal.”

“Didn’t they say that she was so beautiful that she attracted several heirs from great families in Bainbridge? They rushed over here just to fight for her hand in marriage.”

“Her own capabilities are also outstanding. She has her own assets that have apparently surpassed the Sandel Family’s.”

“A beauty like her is truly deserving of the title of the most beautiful woman in Eastcliff. Sasha can’t compare to her!”

Everyone pitched in their opinions.

Grace had a look of yearning. “Leanna Sandel. My aunt has met her once before. She’s just breathtaking. It’s a pity I never had the chance to meet her!”

Leo looked proud of himself. “Then you really have terrible luck.”

She glared at him. “What are you boasting about? Have you met her before?”

He scoffed. “Not just that. I’ve also had a conversation and exchanged contact details with her!”

All of a sudden, they started to surround him while making a lot of noise.

“Is that true?”

“You have a means of contacting Leanna?”

“Can you give me her number?”

“Show me! Do you have a picture?”
