

Medical Genius's Unspeakable Marriage Chapter 402

Everyone was elated to hear Matthew's announcement. Truth be told, the revenue of Cunningham Pharmaceuticals had already reached over three billion even before the medical conference.

If Matthew was capable of doubling that amount, they could expect a six billion revenue after this. With such a staggering amount of revenue, the company would surely make a great fortune this time.

As the shareholders of the company, their assets would be boosted again!

Jefford exclaimed excitedly, "See, I told you that nothing would go wrong by supporting Mr. Larson! Gentlemen, I believe all of you should be very much convinced right now. I've known that rascal, Theodore, for over twenty years.

When he told me he wanted to terminate his contract with our company, I wasted so much time trying to change his mind and got so smashed that I threw up twice during a drinking session with him. In the end, that scumbag still insisted on doing the same thing.

Now he's trying to beg us to take his contract back when we no longer need his business. Hmph, tell that scumbag to dream on because Cunningham Pharmaceuticals won't do business with him anymore!"

Everyone else nodded along, feeling exhilarated. Matthew chuckled and said, "This time, Theodore's problem isn't just about whether we want to do business with him or not. His company is situated in Eastcliff and Stanley now has full control over all the medical resources in Eastcliff.

If Theodore can't work with us, he won't have anyone else to do business with either. In other words, his problem now is preventing his company from going bankrupt!"

Everyone was shocked to hear that. "Could it be so serious? How is his business affected?"

Matthew nodded and explained, "Stanley is going to expand Carlson Group. The next thing he will do is restructure the entire medical industry in Eastcliff. By then, the less competitive companies will surely be ousted by him. Knowing Stanley, I don't expect many companies will be able to survive in Eastcliff."

All the shareholders glanced at each other in consternation.

Suddenly, Jefford commented joyfully, "If that's the case, Cunningham Pharmaceuticals is going to hit it big this time! President Carlson is also one of our shareholders, so the more extensive his company becomes, the more revenue we will get from him. Gentlemen, it seems like the revenue of the company will increase even more than two times!"

Needless to say, everyone looked overjoyed to hear that more money was coming in. Sasha was pleasantly surprised too because it had never occurred to her that they could actually enjoy so many benefits from Matthew's victory in the medical conference.

Just as the atmosphere inside the private room reached the merriest, the door suddenly opened, revealing Tiger who bowed and stepped inside.

"Mr. Larson, President Cunningham, gentlemen, I'm sorry for being late. I'll have three glasses of wine as punishment!" Without hesitation, Tiger downed all three glasses before sitting down amidst the joyful clamor.

After a few bites, Tiger announced, "Mr. Larson and President Cunningham, I came here directly from Stanley's place. The man has been keen to buy you a meal too but he has too much on his plate lately.

He's been having a lot of business discussions with the representatives from the rest of the five states and he really can't find the time. However, he asked me to bring a message to all of you here. He has come up with two ways to thank you all."

Instantly, everyone put down their glasses and paid Tiger their full attention. This was what they cared about the most. Tiger glanced at Matthew, who signaled for him to continue with a nod.

"The first option is that all of you sell your share of medical resources directly to Stanley. He will pay for them at seven times your capital. Simply put, if your capital is ten million, you will be able to get back seventy million in return!"

Everyone looked ecstatic, their minds busy calculating how much they could gain from the first option.

Tiger then continued, "As for the second option, you may choose not to sell but have to continue working with Stanley, offering your medical resources to him as an investment.

He promised that whatever you guys invest in him will increase by fourteen times within a year's time. In other words, if your capital is ten million, you will get back 140 million!"