

Chapter 134

Hearing that, Nathan's face was filled with excitement!

He recollected all the humiliation inflicted by William and Felicity on him.

Viciousness was sparkling in his eyes.

"In a few days, he would see Felicity, that little b*tch, to kneel at his feet and be in deep remorse of what she had done!

And if he didn't shred William into pieces, he would never forgive himself!

These 50 million yuan were half of the Zhao family's assets.

Lincon was willing to take such a huge risk to wipe the entire Bai family and the Genuine Care Medical Center off the map.

For the next two days, Steven felt like he was living in Wonderland.

The Heption Herb that he had marketed took Qena City by storm overnight.

Everyone was talking about the Heption Herb.

Gradually, more and more people began to try the Heption Herb for the medicinal effect they claimed.

As a result, the price soared continuously.

From 1,000 yuan per kilogram, the market price, it quickly rose to 3,000 yuan per kilogram.

It had tripled from its original price.

The whole Bai family was ecstatic!

As they sat around the table, their eyes were gleaming with joy, as if they had hit the lottery.

Steven was crowned as the hero of this major success. He was surrounded by the crowd as if he was under the spotlight.

On the other hand, Felicity had been completely outshined by Steven. She sat in the corner with William, ignored by the Bais.

'Steven, you've done such a great job! As expected, you're the pillar of the Bai family!'" Yasmine praised him continuously.

Steven was on cloud nine.

The result of the advertisement had exceeded his expectations.

Not only did he bring honor to his family by making them more well-known, but he also made a fortune for himself!

Seeing that everyone was in the seventh heaven, Felicity sighed.

It might be the calm before the storm.

What could be the consequences of the Bai family's excessive marketing?

After the celebration, Yasmine voiced, "Steven, sell off all the Heption Herb by tomorrow. Then the profits will start reeling in!"

Everyone was thunderstruck.

Especially Steven, who was indulging himself in this merry moment. When he heard this, he immediately retorted, "Grandma, why are you in such a hurry? Look, it's only been two days, and the Heption Herb has already spiked to such a price. We should be patient. Let's wait for a few more days."

However, Yasmine replied seriously, "We'd better take the safer route. After all, this matter is never well planned and prepared, to begin with. I still feel a bit uneasy. And more importantly, have all of you noticed that many pharmaceutical companies have already begun to buy this herb in bulk? If we don't sell it now then it will be less rewarding when the competition starts."

Yasmine's explanation was reasonable and sensible. After hearing what she said, everyone nodded.

Steven was like a bear with a sore head!

"What the f*ck!" Steven cursed inwardly.

"I've worked so hard to put us in such a favorable spot. I haven't even begun to reap the benefit, and now I have to toss it away already!"

He glanced through the Bais. "Each and everyone here is so short-sighted without the courage to take a well-calculated risk!"

He hissed silently, "None of you should be mentioned alongside my name!"

Deep down, he was agitated. However, as Yasmine was the one with the most authority here, he could only nod his head in agreement. "I'll do as you say, Grandma."

Anyway, Steven had already made quite a lot of money.

He was confident that he could push the Heption Herb to greater heights since he had already found the way.

Most importantly, he was not short of money.

When the Bai family were counting the profit jubilantly, the storm had finally revealed itself the day after.

It had been raining cats and dogs in Qena City throughout the night.

And what came with this heavy rain was a piece of news that struck them like a bolt of thunder!

"This afternoon, more than a dozen critically ill patients were admitted into Qena City Hospital. It is said that they had consumed the Heption Herb which is advertised widely recently. The preliminary diagnosis is arsenic poisoning. All the patients are now in ICU with their lives on the line."

This news instantly ended the cheery atmosphere in the Bai family who was petrified by such news

The Heption Herb? Arsenic poisoning?

The Heption Herb was poisonous!

A heavy silence hung in the room of the Bai family!

It was raining heavily outside, gloomy and cold.

So was the current situation of the Bai family!

The Bai family was in a panic. Yasmine held an emergency meeting and reprimanded at the meeting, "How could the Heption Herb be poisonous? Why? Why didn't all of you do some research first?"

Yasmine had lost her marbles. Gone was all her joy.

Steven's face was as pale as a ghost. "D*mn! How would I know! This herb has been used as a medicinal ingredient all this while and has always been fine. Otherwise, it wouldn't have been grown in a plantation for so many years."

Steven was perhaps the most depressing one among all the Bais.

He was the one who bought the herb.

He was in charge of marketing the herb.

In his warehouse, there was still 5,000 kilograms left!

He thought it would be a meteoric success for him. Why would it turn out this way?

Felicity frowned and whispered, "The lurking danger has finally shown itself."

The Bai family was already in a mess, but when they suddenly heard Felicity's voice, it was as if they found their punching-bag in an instant.

Steven bellowed furiously, "F*ck! How dare you rub salt on the wound at this moment! You are the one who caused this fiasco! If you hadn't bought the Heption Herb initially, our family would not have followed in your footsteps! How dare you ruin us! You plotted this, you cold-hearted witch! It is unbelievable that you did this!"

The others also turned to look at Felicity, beginning to chastise her, their words as sharp as knives.

"Yes, Felicity is the root of this mess! If she hadn't bought the Heption Herb, we would not be in this mess!"

"This little b*tch has always been a troublemaker since she was a child! She was cursed with a loser like William, and now she has brought this chaos upon us. Is she a demon in our family?" Another member of the Bai family roared.

"Felicity will not be left unaccountable for this matter!" A voice exclaimed.

"Enough!" a cold voice rang out of nowhere.

It was William, who was in a corner.

As he held Felicity's hand, William could feel that her palm was ice cold, and her fingers were shivering.

This group of a*sholes!

Instead of coming up with a solution, they were going to play the blame game?

What a lovely family!

Unsurprisingly, William's words further agitated the Bais.

"Who do you think you are? How dare you bark around just because you're from the Genuine Care Medical Center! In our eyes, you are no better than a dog!"

A man rebuked and added, "These two are trash! Our family is in jeopardy because of them!"

Everyone pointed their fingers at William and Felicity, but they didn't notice Yasmine's expression. She looked like she was about to erupt in anger.

"That's enough!" Yasmine slammed the table.

She glared at Felicity and William and voiced, "You have to bear a certain amount of responsibilities. After all, it was your idea. Steven's bad decision was influenced by you. He has been working so hard to sell the Heption Herb these past two days.

09:00

So I decided..."

Yasmine rose from her seat. "I order you two to undersell all the remaining herbs before this news spreads everywhere!"
