

My Dreamy Old Husband

Chapter 719

All of a sudden, the audio of the video clip sounded out.

Following that, Irene's horrific scream was immediately heard before she took a few steps back, looking enraged yet frightened. The next scene was from a different video clip that was seamlessly incorporated into the first one—it was the video clip of Sophia and Irene trying to rip each other apart in public...

In that video clip, Irene was crying hysterically while yelling at Sophia. Throughout the entire process, Sophia did nothing but unemotionally stare at her.

"This vicious woman pushed me down the stairs hoping that I would die! You two-faced woman! Taylor will see through your true colors, sooner or later! It's just a matter of time! Contrary to what you want, I won't die! I'm going to live my life to the fullest! I'm going to see what other insane things you're going to come up with! And, I'm going to watch you expose your true colors to the world!"

"Well, well. Since you accused me of pushing you down the stairs, forcing you to lie during your press conference, and forcing you to commit suicide, you should report it! Go ahead and report me for my crimes! I should be punished for attempted murder!"

Seeing this, everyone instantly understood what a real plot twist meant. This was a completely unexpected turn of events.

In the same Twitter post, Taylor wrote in a sarcastic tone for the first time: 'It seems like Miss Weber had a pretty serious head injury!'

If her falling down the stairs was an accident that caused her to bump her head and become confused as to what happened, how does she explain this incident? How could she still take Sophia's glass and splash water onto herself to frame her if she had a head injury? She's incredibly sick! Just moments ago, she was still an innocent and aggrieved lady. In the next second, she splashed water on herself without batting an eye and pretended to be framed and frightened. Her malicious acting skills and perfect pretense truly made one's blood run cold. It was no wonder that she was able to deceive so many for such a long time. At that point, the video clip came to an end.

After processing the order of events, many realized that it was Irene acting up by herself all along, one drama after another. As for Taylor and Sophia, they had been refraining from responding. At first, many assumed that it was because they were guilty as charged, but looking at the evidence right now, their reluctance to respond was the last bit of mercy Taylor showed Irene, his first love.

He knew about the truth from the beginning. Possessing those video clips the whole time, he had been loath to post them on the Internet. He chose to wait patiently until Irene made a ruckus out of it by going to the police. That was the breaking point for Taylor.

This whole time, Irene had been digging a hole for herself.

The discussion on the Internet began to get heated up. After watching that video clip, Irene sat on the floor in a daze.

It's all over... I didn't know that Michael knew the truth the whole time and had those videos with him! How could I still act up pretentiously in front of him when he knew about what happened this entire time? I still thought I could change his mind. Little did I know that he had been looking at me like a fool! This is ridiculous. Truly ridiculous. Michael Fletcher, you are evil. Truly evil!

The entertainment industry could never be short of rumors and shocking news. After a couple of days, the public sentiment toward this news died down.

Meanwhile, Irene still made the headlines from time to time. For example: 'Army Singer Irene Weber Undergoing Mental Treatment Abroad'.

Regardless of whether or not she had a mental illness, treating herself as a mental patient was the only way out if she wanted to save the last bit of her dignity.

People who are mentally ill get away with murder. I'm definitely safe since all I did was accuse and frame Sophia.

However, she nonetheless had to pay the price by using mental illness as an excuse to get away with everything she did. For instance, she had to change her career right away as a mentally ill person was not allowed in the army.

Without her military status, she lost everything, including her military rank and other benefits.

Besides, a mentally ill person could no longer be in the art and literature industry. Also, it did not help that the entertainment industry was Michael's territory; there was no way she could remain there.

It saddened Old Man Fletcher to see how Irene turned out. Ever since then, he never saw Irene again, and Irene never had the audacity to return to the Fletcher Residence.

Fearing that this might have been a huge blow to Old Man Fletcher, Sophia took Nathan to visit him. When they arrived there, they saw that Old Man Fletcher was in good shape.

“Sigh. What can I do? I don’t understand young people’s affairs anymore.”

Old Master is right. He’s been through so much. Look how well he is even after establishing a career for himself at a young age and facing the death of a number of his children and grandchildren. While Sophia was lost in thought, Old Master Fletcher cornered her in that round of chess.

After that, Sophia learned about what happened to Irene. Claiming to have changed her career, Irene was actually fired from the army. Since she did not dare to return to the Fletcher Residence, she had to start making her own living. Word had it that she left the country to receive medical treatment, but she was actually using that as an excuse to avoid the consequences of everything she did.

Although Sophia did not dig further into this matter, she nonetheless kept herself updated on Irene’s news.

Since the beginning, Michael had had those video clips with him. Nevertheless, he chose not to release all the evidence so that he could allow Irene to continue with her plans and test his limits. It wasn’t until Irene made a ruckus out of the situation that he released the video clips to deal her a blow.

Michael had been a gentleman in showing his last bit of mercy to his ex. Although he had the evidence all along, he chose not to release it until he had to.

Then again, this could be interpreted as extreme coldness.

Irene began executing her plan by carefully testing the waters. She did not make any public statement herself but spread rumors everywhere behind the scenes. Whenever she faced Michael, she seemed cooperative while acting in self-pity.

As such, Michael was unable to bring himself to release the proof right away.

Had he done that then, Irene would have had room for maneuver by saying that she had never accused Sophia of pushing her down the stairs in the first place. She was even trying her best to defend Sophia to make herself look good.

Though, she never succeeded in defending Sophia. Conversely, Sophia always ended up being criticized heavily. However, Irene never got hold of any leverage. The hospital video clip did not hurt her; it was merely one less opportunity to cause a provocation.

Michael withheld the truth and let Irene perform all her acts. The devastating suicide attempt and the press conferences were all tests set up by Michael.

Knowing that Irene wanted to make a fuss out of everything, he never allowed that to happen. Every time she made a scene, he minimized its impact to slowly agitate her, leading her to a head-on confrontation with Sophia.

As long as she accused Sophia of pushing her down the stairs, every single word that she said would be a nail that could not be removed.

When he released the evidence then, Irene would have no way of escaping. Everyone would then know that she had falsely accused Sophia. In that way, she would be forced into an impasse!

Sophia never got along with Irene. If it were not for Irene's own act of testing Michael's limit, none of these would have happened.

Now, she lost everything, including the Fletcher Family's protection. It was a stark contrast with her life before this.

Though appearing merciful, Michael was extremely cruel.

Had he still had any hopes of getting Irene back, he could have shown her the video clips, in the beginning, to persuade her to stop. But, he did not do that. Step by step, he led her on until she walked into the trap that he set up...

After finishing another round of chess, Sophia went home.

Michael prepared many good dishes for Sophia that day. Meanwhile, Stanley and the others showed up after being invited.

So did Sam, who came because of the dogs.

After the meal, everyone gathered in the living room and chatted.

Michael was sitting on the couch. Looking at Sam, who was petting and cuddling Corrado who had just eaten poop half an hour before Sam arrived, he smiled happily.

“Look at how gorgeous and smart Corrado is. Master Sam, you have such good taste!” Michael complimented.

Looking proud, Sam responded, “Of course. Corrado is such a good dog.”

Sitting in the corner, Sophia dared not speak or move an inch.

The first thing she saw when she came home today was Corrado eating sh*t in the backyard. She quickly dragged it into the bathroom to wash its mouth. Much to her surprise, before she could finish washing its mouth, Sam showed up, then...