In Love, Never Say Never Chapter 1053 - 1054

After everyone was seated, Louis invited everyone to begin eating. Emma sat right next to me and I spotted her gaze darting back and forth between Hannah and Kiki. "What a beautiful pair," she finally remarked, looking at John, "You guys were a family, right?"

John was stunned for a moment but quickly regained his calm. "You can say so," he admitted without shying away.

I thought Emma would be affected by John's forthright answer, but instead, she shrugged indifferently. "Serves you right. You should've treated them nicely when you still had them by your side. You only have yourself to blame since you're the one who had an affair."

Her comment took me by utter surprise.

John would have lashed out at her on usual days, at least that was what I expected, but I got it all wrong. John looked back at her nonchalantly and emulated her shrug. "If you say so," he replied shortly.

I really could not get my head around those two. How they interacted with each other was just beyond me.

Everyone stayed back for a little chat after the meal.

Kiki was already fast asleep and everyone was getting ready to leave when a loud ruckus sounded from the outside, so Louis asked someone to go check it out.

The housekeeper returned and walked right toward John. "Mr. Stovall, someone's looking for you."

"Me? Who is it?"

The housekeeper looked stumped. "It's the lady who came over with you last time, Ms. Wilde."

"I don't know her. Tell the guards to throw her out before she dirties this place," John replied coldly.

The housekeeper stared at him uneasily for a second and went back outside to do as John said.

Since it was getting late, Hannah and Chandler decided to make a move first. Louis asked John to send Emma back since Ashton and I was also leaving.

When all of us were at the front gate, we saw Yvonne outside, with a few security guards blocking her way. She looked frail and weak in her hospital gown.

She was wailing and shrieking at the top of her voice, accusing John of being cruel toward her. If a random stranger were to pass by, they might well mistake John for being a heartless brat.

As for Emma, I did not worry for her at all. I was sure she would not take Yvonne's behavior to heart.

What I worried about was Louis' reputation if Yvonne kept shouting outside like this.

"You should at least do something. Uncle Louis won't be able to sleep in peace tonight," I told John.

John pursed his lips impatiently as he walked outside, glaring at Yvonne, who was throwing a tantrum in front of the guards.

When Yvonne finally saw John, the dissatisfaction on her face disappeared and she quickly put on a pitiful look. "Please don't chase me away, John. I really can't live without you. I'll do anything you want me to, so just let me stay by your side. I know you'll marry a woman from a wealthy family, but I don't care. I don't expect anything from you. Just let me stay with you. I really love you, John, so please don't make me leave," she implored with tears welling up in her eyes.

I did not like Yvonne, but for what reasons, I was not sure myself. Maybe I started disliking her back when John and I helped her. She was materialistic and greedy. "You have no loyalty." I came forward and berated her, "You're with so many men at the same time, and you still cling to John shamelessly when you know he's already engaged. You came all the way here to make a huge fuss just so people think he's a jerk who has wronged you. Now you're telling me you love him? You've got to be kidding me, Yvonne Wilde."

I finally knew why I hated her. She did not deserve to be loved.

A glint of anger shone in her eyes when she heard my voice. "You again? What did I do to make you hate me so much? Why do you keep coming in between us over and over again? What did I even do to you? Why can't you just leave me alone?" she shouted at me.

"Watch what you're saying. It's true that you've done nothing to offend me, but neither have I done anything to break you and John up. You know full well that he doesn't love you at all, but you still can't get over him. It's your greed that's stopping you from letting him go. He's already compensated you enough, so you should just take the money and lead your own life. But of course, you can keep hounding us, but don't say I didn't warn you. You'll regret it when I decide to get rid of you on my own."

"What do you mean?" She glared at me, holding her arms as she shivered in her thin clothing.

"You know what I mean. The Stovalls are not people you want to mess with unless you don't want to live in K City or continue mingling in the rich circle anymore. By the way, didn't you run a background check on that little boyfriend of yours, Franklin, before you guys got together?"

Yvonne stared at me in fright and disbelief as her body shook more intensely.

Looking at her disconcertment, a gush of thrill welled up in my heart. "From what I gathered, he's a womanizer through and through. He hooked up with rich women and also those with questionable backgrounds. I heard he ended up having some kind of disease, so both of you have better have a heart-to-heart talk. You might want to do a thorough check at the hospital too. I think you'll need it."

"Scarlett Stovall! Watch your tongue!" she bellowed, "I don't even know who Franklin is!"

I shrugged indifferently and let her have her say before turning toward the guards. "Send her out. It's already late and everyone needs to rest. Call the police if she refuses to leave."

With that said, I left with Ashton and Hannah.

Hannah finally spoke when we reached the car park. "You did a background check on Yvonne?"

"Yeah. She's too greedy for her own good. The Stovall family will never accept someone like her."

"Thanks, Scarlett," Hannah said, her voice suddenly becoming serious. "I've wanted to discuss Kiki's custody with Uncle Louis because I thought John would marry her. I'd never let someone like her come close to Kiki."

A smile spread across my lips as she thanked me. "Don't mention it. The Stovall family helped me before, and John had supported me through my hardest time. Although I'm angry with what he's done, I still don't want his marriage to end on a bad note."

"I'll give John my blessing if he's able to meet someone suitable. Kiki is his child, and no one can ever change that. If he meets someone he likes and they have a family together, I'll still be happy for him," Hannah replied with a hint of resignation in her voice.

Ashton drove the car over and I bid Hannah goodbye before hopping on. I fell into slumber not long after the car drove off. It had been a long and tiring day.

By the time I woke up, we were already back at the villa. It was not until I saw Ashton packing his stuff that I remembered we were going to A City tomorrow.

"They have clothes and toiletries over there, so just bring our travel documents and ID," I said, squinting my eyes as I looked at him.

He turned around at my voice with a gentle smile on his face. "Did I wake you up?"

I shook my head and looked at the clock. It was already past midnight. "What time is our flight tomorrow?"

"Nine. What's the matter?"

"We still have time. Could you help me bring my ID? I need to renew my passport soon. I'll stop by J City and get it reissued after our trip to A City." After we got married, I changed my address to J City, so I would need to go back there to get my passport renewed. It would also be a good chance to go see Macy, grandpa, and grandma. It had been a long time since I last saw them.

“Where did you put your ID?” Ashton asked after a slight pause.

“Hm, good question. I can’t remember. It’s either in the drawer or in my bag. Oh wait, it should be in that pastel color bag. I remember using it during the donation event for Sasha’s mother. It should be there. That’s the last time I used it.”

He went over to the wardrobe and took out the bag, ruffling through the content. “I didn’t know you keep a journal.”

“Come on, a lazy bum like me will never keep a journal.”

Ashton took out a small journal and looked at me. “What is this then?”

I stared at the book in confusion before I finally recalled something. “That’s Sasha’s. Renee gave it to me when she was at the hospital. She said it belonged to her mother.”

“So this is Sasha’s diary?”

I nodded and Ashton flipped through it. I got out of bed and took a curious look. The journal seemed painfully ordinary, and I figured there would not be anything exciting. After all, it was written by someone who had already passed away.

“I don’t think there’ll be anything interesting. I should probably return this to Sasha’s mother. I think she will appreciate having something in remembrance of her daughter.”

But beside me, a frown settled on Ashton’s brows as he closed the book. “I finally know why Abe was suddenly in charge of Imperial Hotel after you saw him dead in Moranta. This is why Armond gave you all the evidence without holding back although he knew you were investigating him. The truth is, he already had everything planned.”
