Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 475

Feeling guilty, Sebastian had no choice but to turn toward the jewelry store boss.

“Bring me the store’s business license.”

“Yes, Mr. Hayes.”

The boss ran back to the store at once.

A few minutes later, Sasha saw the boss return with the business license in his hand while panting heavily.

When she saw who the legal owner of the store was, she was stunned.

My God! My name is right there!

By the time she left, she still felt giddy as if she was still in a dream.

When did he present me with a jewelry store?

Given how turbulent their relationship was and how much he used to hate her, she didn't even dare hope to receive a diamond ring, let alone an entire jewelry store.

So when did he prepare the gift?

Sasha was filled with turbulent emotions.

No matter when he had prepared the gift, she couldn't deny the ecstasy in her heart.

The sensation she felt was similar to getting an answer to a burning question she had for years. Every fiber of her body was filled with delight.

"Thank you." Beaming, she lowered her head in coy delight.

"Why are you thanking me? You are my wife after all. Isn't it expected of me to present you something? Just remember, whatever I have is yours, including my entire being."

His last sentence was the ultimate declaration of love.

Even Roxanne staggered backward in shock.

After that, she stared daggers at both of them before running away with a grimace on her face.

Solomon was equally shaken.

He felt as if he had just been brutally slapped in the face. Even though what he did to Sasha was unforgivable, he still harbored the fantasy that they could still be together.

After all, he assumed that he still had a place in her heart.

Moreover, given how much Sebastian had hurt her, their bond had likely been weakened.

But now, he was obviously proven wrong.

“In that case... why don't we go home? Why did you come suddenly? Aren't you supposed to be home?”

“I'm here for grocery shopping. This is the largest mall nearby and has the best selection available.”

“That's true.”

“Mmm-hmm. Shall we go together?” Sebastian pinched her nose affectionately.

She really is gullible.

Despite looking clueless, she sometimes surprises me with a stroke of genius. Nevertheless, I can't call her smart as she can be too easy to fool sometimes.

Is it because she lets her guard down when she's with me?

In the end, Sebastian and she left the mall holding hands.

Consequently, Sabrina stomped her feet in anger. “Damn it. Am I invisible to both of you? Why aren’t you inviting me to join you?”

Both of them ignored her as if they were oblivious to her presence.

Bursting a vessel, Sabrina had no choice but to leave on her own.

As for Solomon, he too left in a miserable mood.

“Mr. George, Sinch Enterprise has sent someone to see you. He is waiting in your office,” the receptionist informed Solomon when he returned to the president’s office at Hayes Corporation.

Solomon’s expression darkened in response.

However, he had no choice but to enter.

“Mr. George, you’re back. I’m here on behalf of the chairman and his wife.”

Just as expected, Solomon saw a bespectacled middle-aged Jetroinian man standing up to greet him.

However, he didn’t look like he came on friendly terms.

The chairman?

Mr. Tsurka?

Solomon’s expression grew solemn. Pulling out his tie, he threw it onto the table in frustration.

“What is so important that the Tsurka family needs to send someone as important as you over?”

“No, Mr. George, you have misunderstood. Mr. and Mrs. Tsurka are just worried that you are unable to cope with your role at Hayes Corporation. Hence, they have sent me to help you.

The man’s tone remained cordial.

Furrowing his eyebrows, Solomon lifted his gaze at the Jetroinian. “What is the meaning of this?”

“Mr. George, when Mr. Tsurka heard that your assistant was killed by Sebastian, he was worried about the foundation of your strength. Hence, you can leave this matter to me.”

After glaring ferociously at the Jetroinian for a long time, Solomon finally asked, “What are you trying to do? Hiro’s death was just an accident. You had better not mess around.”

“Mr. George, is it really? Hiro has served you for many years but died because of your desire for a woman. Mr. and Mrs. Tsurka agree that love and loyalty may be something good, but not to the extent of not knowing where the boundaries lie...”

The Jetroinian’s last sentence sounded like a dire warning which sent a chill down Solomon’s spine.

Widening his eyes, he glared at the Jetroinian with murderous intent.

“Ken, be forewarned. Don’t mess around with me, or I will make sure you regret it!”

Returning from the Dead: His Secret Lover Chapter 476

“Mr. George, your efforts would be better focused on the company’s shareholder meeting which is in ten days. That’s when the Hayes Corporation will announce its reorganization to the public. I hope you will not let Mr. and Mrs. Tsurka down then.”

With that, the Jetroinian turned and left.

Solomon was stumped.

After a long while, a loud bang was heard from the president’s office, as if something had been smashed onto the ground.

The noise terrified everyone outside.

Two days later.

Sasha had received the huge amount of funds that Andy had sent. In her excitement, she went to see Sabrina at once.

“I’ve gotten the money. Have you convinced your dad?”

“I tried, but he disagrees!” Sabrina replied bitterly.

Disagree?

Why would he do that? Does he really intend to lose Hayes Corporation to someone else?

Or perhaps, he is blinded by the trust he has for his bast*rd son?

Sasha fumed, "Why? Didn't you make it clear to him?"

"I did!"

"So why doesn't he agree? Isn't he going overboard with this? They are both his sons after all. Must he draw a line between them?"

"Huh..."

Sabrina felt equally indignant but had no other ideas.

As Hayes Corporation was a listed multinational, any transfer of shares required the consent of its largest shareholder.

So, what's the point in raising so much money?

Sasha felt disheartened.

"Perhaps, I can steal his seal and ID," Sabrina quipped out of desperation.

Steal?

That might work.

With hope burning brightly within her, Sasha's eyes lit up. "Is it possible?"

Sabrina knitted her eyebrows. "I'm not sure, but I can try. Why don't you come home with me? That way, you can keep a lookout."

Sasha fell silent as she wasn't sure whether to agree.

She had never stolen anything in her life before and was naturally worried about getting caught. We would be finished!

"I..."

"Look, you keep insisting that you're doing all this for my brother. But yet, why are you turning me down when I'm only asking you to keep watch? I'm the one that's stealing, not you. I would be the one held responsible if we get caught."

Before Sasha could finish, Sabrina ranted away.

Sasha's face turned pale in response.

I'm not afraid. I just think that this isn't well thought out. In fact, it might even jeopardize all the work that we have done.

In the end, both of them headed to the Hayes residence.

"Oh? Dad isn't home. What a coincidence!"

They were delighted to see that Frederick's Rolls-Royce wasn't there when they arrived.

Sasha heaved a sigh of relief.

In truth, she was afraid of entering due to her awkward status. Although she was a daughter-in-law of the Hayes family, her husband had been kicked out by them.

Hence, she quickly followed Sabrina inside.

The moment they entered, they were surprised by the atmosphere.

Unlike in the past where it would always be lively, the house was so quiet that it felt deserted.

“What happened here? Why is your house so empty?”

“Why are you even surprised? Robert and his mom moved out while my cousins have refused to visit after my dad chased Sebastian out. So, wouldn’t it naturally be quiet?”

Sasha was dumbfounded.

Sabrina meant Ethan’s children.

Sasha had assumed they were simply leeches who lived off Hayes Corporation.

Hence, she was surprised to see them stand by Sebastian’s side at the crucial moment.

Meanwhile, Sasha followed Sabrina inside.

She had assumed that they would be heading for Frederick’s bedroom. However, she was surprised when Sabrina led her past it and went to the backyard instead.

“Why are you going that way? Isn’t your dad’s stuff in his room?”

“Of course not. How can one leave something so important in the bedroom? It must be in the memorial hall.”

“Huh?”

Sasha was stunned.

Memorial hall?

Isn’t that the place where they keep items belonging to their forefathers? Why would those things be there?

Sasha didn’t get it.

However, she would have understood if only she knew that only a member of the Hayes family was allowed to enter.

Furthermore, the memorial hall wasn’t just an ordinary building. It was enclosed on all sides. Downstairs was where all the photos and portraits were placed while the upstairs was a lot more complicated than she could imagine.

Knowing her way around, Sabrina led Sasha toward the building entrance.

“Alright. It’s somewhere here. You keep a lookout at the door while I search the inside.

“Huh?”

The small building send a chill down Sasha’s spine.

My God, is she really going in there?

Aren't we not allowed to enter this place?

When she first moved in after she got married, Frederick had clearly forbidden her from going in there. Hence, no one was allowed to even straddle near the place.

Therefore, despite staying there for a year, she had never even gone near the small building.

But now, Sabrina was going to steal something from inside.

When Sasha tried to grab Sabrina by reflex, she was too late.
