

Chapter 54

Even if I gave him everything I had, I still couldn't get his love.

I didn't want the love I couldn't get. I was tired of fighting for it.

He didn't say anything. The air in the bedroom was as cold as winter. I kept my head down so I didn't need to look at him.

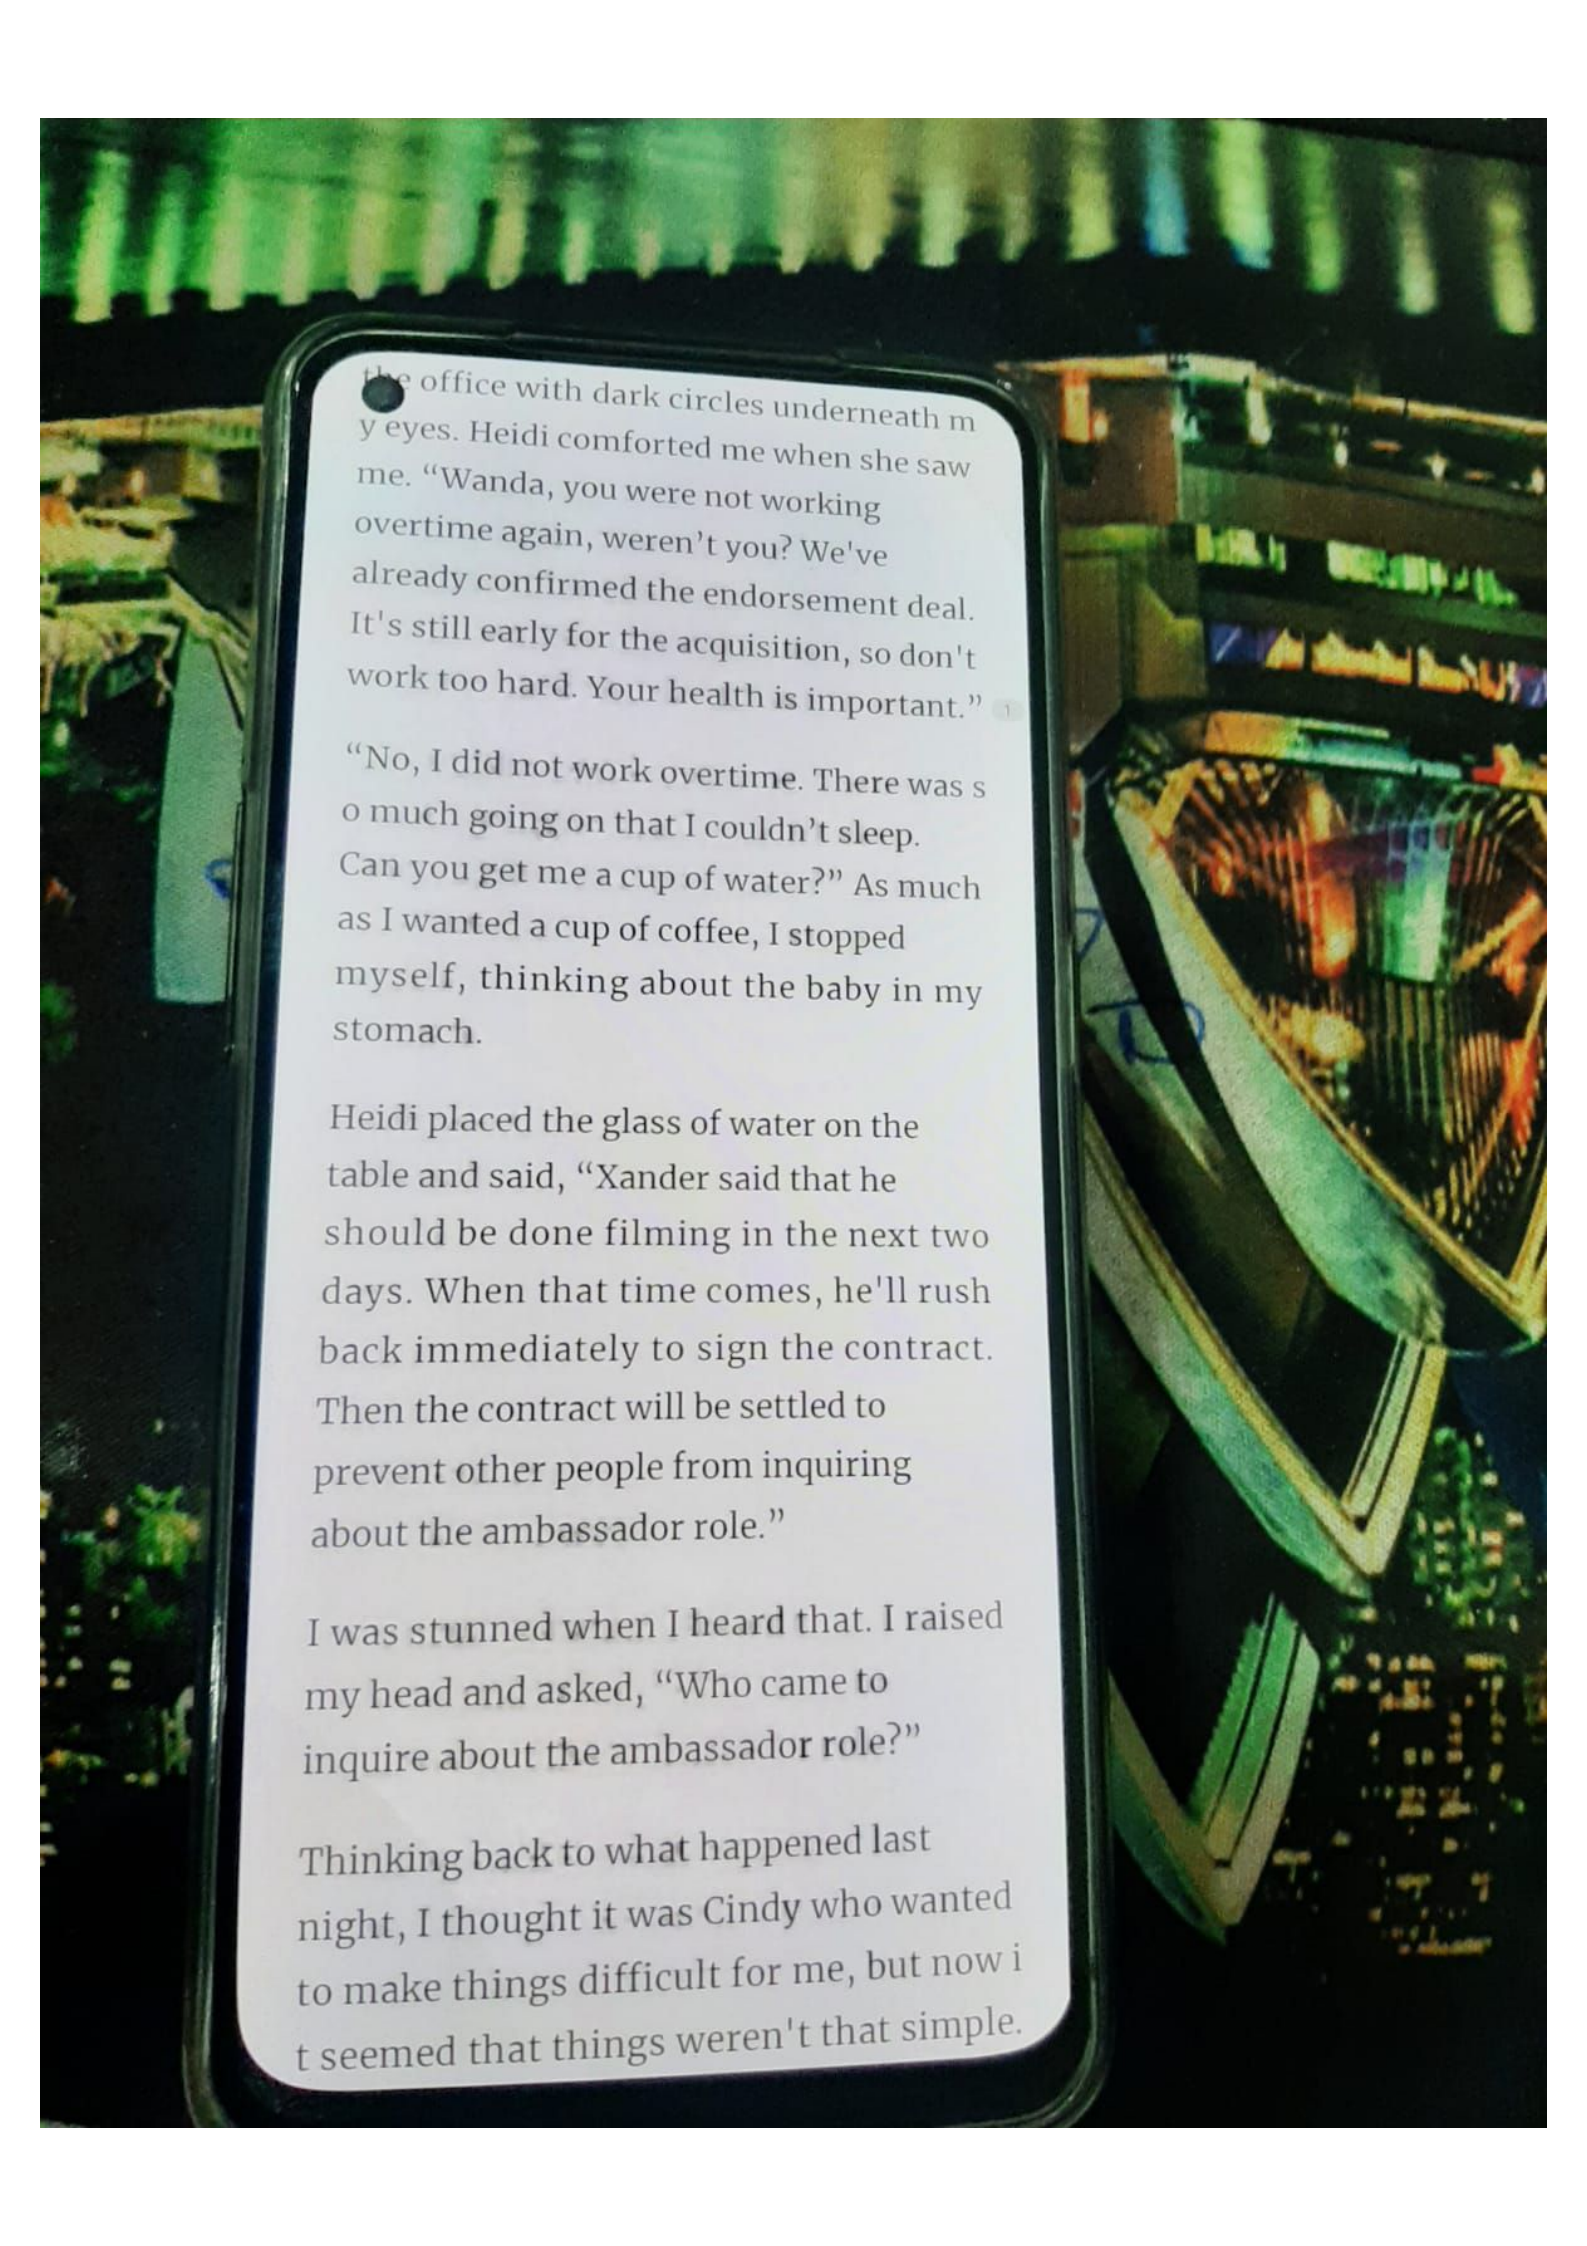

After a long time, he stood up and said softly, "Your emotions are very unstable now. I'll leave first. Rest well. We'll talk another day."

After saying that, he stood up and left without looking back.

I was destined to have a sleepless night.

Even so, when the sun rose again, I would still have to face it to continue with my life.

I was not able to sleep for the entire night, and my head felt heavy. I arrived at the office with dark circles underneath my eyes. Heidi comforted me when she saw the office with dark circles underneath my eyes. Heidi comforted me when she saw me. "Wanda, you were not working overtime again, weren't you? We've already confirmed the endorsement deal. It's still early for the acquisition, so don't work too hard. Your health is important."

The image shows a smartphone screen with text on it. The background of the entire image is a blurred city skyline at night, with lights from buildings and streets. The phone is held in a hand, and the screen is the central focus. The text on the screen is arranged in several paragraphs, with some lines indented. The phone's black bezel is visible around the screen.

"No, I did not work overtime. There was so much going on that I couldn't sleep. Can you get me a cup of water?" As much as I wanted a cup of coffee, I stopped myself, thinking about the baby in my stomach.

Heidi placed the glass of water on the table and said, "Xander said that he should be done filming in the next two days. When that time comes, he'll rush back immediately to sign the contract. Then the contract will be settled to prevent other people from inquiring about the ambassador role."

I was stunned when I heard that. I raised my head and asked, "Who came to inquire about the ambassador role?"

Thinking back to what happened last night, I thought it was Cindy who wanted to make things difficult for me, but now it seemed that things weren't that simple.

“Many. Recently, Newlight Media, Skyward Media, and a few other companies' representatives have called to recommend their artists.”

It was no wonder that these companies were so enthusiastic. Not only had the Grant Corporation's endorsement fees been very enticing, but more importantly, it was a symbol of status in the industry. After becoming the Grant Corporation's ambassador, their status would skyrocket as well.

After pondering for a moment, I asked Heidi, “How long until the new product is released?”

“There are only a few months left, so we have to decide on the ambassador as soon as possible. There will be a series of promotions later.”

“I have a new idea to get both of these done together.” The businessman's suggestion last night enlightened me. There were all kinds of reality shows nowadays. Why didn't we try a similar show?

In this way, we could achieve the goal of promoting ourselves and also fulfill my promise to the businessman. As for who would be chosen as the ambassador in the end, he was not very clear on it, so it was up to me of course.

“How do we do that? We don't even have an ambassador, so there's no way we can promote it together!” Heidi was baffled.

“Didn't you say that many celebrities are interested in this endorsement? Let's do a television program similar to a competition. The final winner will become the appointed ambassador. This way, we can create enough momentum in the early stages and also pick an ambassador. We won't offend anyone.”

“That's great, Wanda!” Heidi gave me two thumbs up.

Heidi bit her lips and said hesitantly, “Wanda, why do you think President Grant asked you to be in charge of the ambassador selection even though he knows that it's going to be tricky this time? Isn't he trying to make things difficult for you?”

difficult for you?"

"It's not that difficult. The Grant Corporation is so big, and he can't be in charge of everything on his own. Perhaps he doesn't even know about the twists and turns in the middle. However, he has given me absolute power over this matter. I have the final say in this matter."

"But you're his wife. Out of all the people in such a big Grant Corporation, why did he give you the ambassador project to manage?"

I laughed and looked at her. "I'm indeed his wife, but in the company, we have a superior-subordinate relationship. As an employee, the boss has given me a task, so I can only accept it. I also have to think about the company and come up with a perfect solution. I have to do a good job and not offend anyone.

Heidi lowered her head and did not speak. It could be seen that she was a little unwilling to be transferred back to the headquarters.

"Alright, let's not talk about this anymore. Let's split up the work. You go and draw up a competition plan and ask and draw up a competition plan and ask Grant Corporation to sponsor it. Contact a television station and discuss how to schedule it. I'll go meet the celebrities who are interested in this endorsement and convince them to participate in our show. Help me arrange a meeting with Newlight's person-in-charge."

What happened last night made me suspect that it was Sandy's company. Although they used dirty tricks, it ultimately still came down to the matter of the ambassador. It was hard not to be suspicious.