Boss Your Wife's Asking for A Divorce Again Chapter 275

Chapter 275 The Commencement of the Press Release, Boss, Your Wife's Asking for A Divorce, Again!

Toby nodded emotionlessly. "That's right. All of them!" Tom's lips twitched. "President Fuller, wouldn't that be too much? I just ate breakfast not long ago—" "Eat!" Toby interrupted. At this moment, Tom looked like he was about to cry as he held the breakfast with a portion enough for two. Revenge. This is definitely a revenge for what he said earlier! If only I knew how petty he was, I shouldn't have said so much! I really miscalculated this time! While he stared at the paper bag that he held, he couldn't help but shake his head bitterly. As the time slowly passed by, it was soon 10:00AM. When Sonia finished dealing with her documents, she gave them to Daphne before turning to the computer and contemplated whether she should watch Toby's press release.

After hesitating for a moment, she finally decided to take a look. I mean, why not? It would be a waste if I miss out on watching the cancellation of Tina's engagement. With that, Sonia navigated her mouse toward Fuller Group's official website. In the livestream, Toby was standing on the podium of the meeting room with a microphone in his hand while he stoically stared at the reporters below him. Meanwhile, his gaze had intimidated all of the reporters present, which rendered the initially noisy meeting room quiet almost immediately. On the other hand, the entire barrage screen was filled with comments that complimented him for his looks as well as those who were curious about the context of the press release.

Still, many of the viewers had already figured that the press release would be related to Tina. After all, it was obvious as to why Toby held a press release almost immediately after what had happened to her yesterday night. "Have you guys finally decided to shut up?" Toby finally asked as the reporters below him bobbed their heads up and down like elementary kids, causing all of the online viewers to laugh. It was a well known fact that reporters could be really annoying and courageous and they would risk everything including their own life for juicy information. Yet, they looked like they were mice that had seen a cat when they saw Toby. As expected, nothing was invincible in this world.

“Since everyone is silent now, I shall now explain why I have decided to hold a press release today, which is related to my engagement with the Gray Family. I hereby announce that my engagement with Miss Gray has officially ended from today onward!” Toby declared in a calm manner as he stared at the camera. As expected, none of the reporters or the livestream viewers were shocked as it was something predicted. It was normal for Toby to call off the engagement because of what happened to Tina. It was already hard for a man to accept the fact that his significant order was assaulted; it would even be exceptionally arduous for elite families due to their reputation. Hence, none of the audience members thought that it was wrong for him to revoke the engagement.

Still, there were a few who thought that he went overboard as he shouldn't have called off the engagement when she was in such a situation. It would've been devastating for her to additionally deal with the pain of her engagement being called off. Nevertheless, these people were quickly shut down by the other netizens who were more level-headed. At the same time, Sonia, who was watching from her laptop, understood at that moment that Toby was no longer associated with Tina from now on. However, she couldn't help but feel like laughing as Tony and Tina were engaged in a highly prolific manner only three months ago. Although she had ruined their engagement ceremony in the end, the entire world was still aware that Toby and Tina were officially engaged.

Now, the same couple that used to flaunt their relationship everywhere became everyone's laughing stock. The news of Tina being assaulted became everyone's gossip material and she probably wouldn't want to leave her house anymore. As for him, no one dared to make fun of him because of his status. However, they would definitely laugh at him behind closed doors for being cheated on. At this moment, Sonia had a gloating look in her eyes as she played with her pen. On the other hand, Carl, Charles and Zane were all watching the livestream at their respective houses as well. Upon hearing Toby's announcement that he was calling off his engagement with Tina, all of them were not elated with the news—even though the three of them had different expressions. They all really wanted Toby to be trapped with her forever.

However, they also knew that it was impossible, so they could only watch as he called off his engagement with Tina. At the press release, one of the reporters asked, “President Fuller, are you calling off the engagement on your own accord? Or, have you discussed it with the Gray Family?” Toby glanced at the reporter. “What's the difference between those two? Stop asking questions that are wasting everyone's time. Next!” Immediately, the reporter's face flushed before he sat down. Another reporter then stood up as well. “President Fuller, I've heard from my sources that you've been wanting to call off the engagement with Miss Gray for a while now. Is that true?" As soon as that question came forth, everyone's eyes brightened. President Fuller already had the intention to call off the engagement with Miss Gray previously?

Looks like there's more to this than meets the eye. Toby narrowed his eyes. "Where did you hear that from?" Instead of hiding the truth, the reporter answered, "I have a friend who works in Triforce Enterprise. He overheard it when President Gray was on the phone with someone else." At that, Toby raised his head a little. "You're right; I was already preparing to call off the engagement with Miss Gray before yesterday night's events." What he said immediately shocked all of the reporters as well as the livestream viewers. At the same time, they all couldn't help but wonder why Toby wanted to do so. Even Sonia was curious about it.

Although Tyler had mentioned that Toby was preparing to call off his engagement to Tina, he didn't mention the reason behind it, so Sonia was quite curious to know about it as well. Apart from her, Charles, Zane and Carl were just as inquisitive as they intently stared at Toby on the screen. "Could you tell us the reason why, President Fuller?" the reporter asked without bothering to mask his excitement Toby pursed his lips before he answered, "I can't continue being together with a calculative and vicious woman who takes advantage of me." This immediately caused an uproar. Calculative and vicious. These two words were enough for everyone to imagine all sorts of things.

At the same time, Titus, who was still in the hospital ward, was so pissed off that he almost threw the remote control toward the television when he heard that. Julia started to tear up. "How could Toby say that? Isn't calling off the engagement already enough? Why would he still say those words to destroy Tina's image? Is he trying to ruin her life?" Since Toby had publicly made his claim, most would definitely assume that his words were true—Tina was a vicious woman. After all, no one would believe that a president of a huge enterprise would lie in front of the public. Tina, who had been labeled as a vicious woman, would be placed under the spotlight right after. Even if the news of her assault would soon be forgotten, people would still remember her as a vicious woman and no one would dare to approach her.

Moreover, her familial education and her parents' attitude would be brought into question as well. People would start to keep their distance from the Gray Family and might even discriminate against them. While Julia, the family housewife, was worried about all these, Titus had already pondered the possibilities of it happening as he gritted his teeth and glared at Toby from the television screen. However, Titus didn't say anything and no one could tell what he was thinking about. At the same time, Sonia, who was still at Paradigm Co.,

never expected Toby to reveal that Tina was vicious in front of the public. Although he didn't reveal what Tina did, his accusation alone was enough to trigger everyone's imagination to wildly roam. What Toby just did had pushed Tina off the cliff, making it hard for her to rise in society again. Sonia thought, Why would he do that, though? Is it just because Tina has impersonated me? Even Zane was shocked. Still, a knowing smile appeared on his face after he overcame his initial shock. "You desire for the ones whom you love to live and the ones you hate to die. Toby Fuller, you're indeed a terrifying man!"

On site, the press conference was still going on. The reporter continued to ask, "President Fuller, why did you say that Miss Gray is heartless? Did she do something? Can you explain in more detail?" Reporters from the other media companies and the audience watching the live broadcast were all looking expectantly at Toby. For them, apart from the gossip of the entertainment industry, gossip about the wealthy was the next thing that interested them most. They were especially curious because such experiences were out of their reach. Toby pursed his thin lips.

"No. All you need to know is that this is the real reason I broke off the engagement. There's no need to know anything more. Alright. This is the end of today's press conference!" With that, he set down the microphone, placed his hands in his trouser pockets, and strode out of the conference room. The main reason why he didn't want to reveal Tina's revolting deeds to the public was because he didn't want to push Sonia into the limelight. Even if Sonia was the victim of Tina's actions, some people with ulterior motives would wonder whether Sonia had done something that made Tina treat her like that.

Toby's departure made things difficult for the audience watching the live broadcast and the media personnel at the press conference. He had aroused their curiosity by dropping a heavy bomb, but without showing them what was inside, he walked off instead. It simply wasn't a reasonable thing to do. However, they dared not stop Toby, so they could only turn their hopeful gaze to his assistant, hoping that he could give them an answer. When Tom saw the look in their eyes, the corners of his lips kept twitching. He could tell from a glance what these people were thinking. If he was being honest, he felt that his boss was being a little unreasonable too. He left during the climax of the situation and left Tom to handle the mess.

Nevertheless, Toby was the boss! After silently sighing, Tom picked up the microphone and started to deal with the media. Of course, the media wasn't going to get any information out of him. In the end, they were left with no choice but to leave the Fuller Group and head to Triforce Enterprise in hopes of interviewing Titus to see if they could dig something up. However, Titus didn't agree to being interviewed; he simply posted a video on his official page. In the video, Titus' eyes were red, and his expression was haggard, painting a proper image of the grief caused by the incident involving his daughter. Looking at the camera, he said, "Hello everyone, I'm Titus Gray. In the past two days, the matter of my daughter being bullied has been widely discussed on the Internet.

I'm sorry for occupying Internet resources. At the same time, I also hope that all the netizens would stop paying attention to this matter. My daughter is the victim. She's still in the ICU ward and has not woken up yet. If she wakes up and sees so many people on the Internet talking about her tragedy, she would be devastated!" At this point, he raised his hand, wiped the corner of his eye, then said, "As for what President Fuller said just now at the press conference about my daughter being heartless, that was completely slander. I admit that my daughter has some personality flaws, but she's definitely not heartless. Did she harm someone? Isn't everyone doing just fine? So, I urge everyone not to believe President Fuller's statements and to stop posting those cold-hearted comments on the Internet.

You should know that your comments may turn into a knife that could kill my daughter!" Taking a deep breath, Titus stared into the camera, as if he was looking at someone through the lens. "President Fuller, I don't know why you would say such things about Tina, but you've loved each other before. In some way, it's unfair for you to say that about her. Of course, I know that Tina being bullied has brought you humiliation, so you were eager to break off the engagement. I understand and I accept it. From now on, the Fullers and the Grays are no longer acquainted. Okay, that's all I want to say. Thank you everyone!" With that, he gave a deep bow at the camera, and the video ended.

Regardless of whether they were originally disgusted with Tina's behavior or were merely passers-by, netizens who watched the video changed their attitude toward the situation. 'That's right. Tina is the victim, and it's not like she wanted to be bullied. Yet, those netizens are still scolding her for being shameless and saying disgusting remarks such as 'it takes two to tango'. I really doubt whether they have any ethics. Aren't they worried that the victim would commit suicide after seeing these comments as soon as she wakes up?' 'These keyboard warriors aren't scared.

They just care about themselves. They don't care about how the victim feels.' 'I think that President Gray made sense. President Fuller called Tina heartless, but we didn't see her do anything evil. So, whether this is true or not remains to be proven. Not to mention, he and Tina were in love before, so whatever the case, him saying such things about her is considered quite lacking in class too.' Suddenly, there was a lot of discussion on the Internet. Some believed in Toby, while some scolded him. Nevertheless, all of them now sympathized with Tina.

In the president's office at the Fuller Group, Toby read these comments without the slightest expression on his face, but his body exuded an air of coldness. Standing behind him, Tom pushed his glasses up and said, "I have to say: Titus is quite skillful. He placed all the blame on you and the people who bullied Tina. They've become purely victims, not at all at fault." Originally, after Toby revealed Tina's true colors, people on the Internet seemed to believe that she was indeed such a person, so even though Tina was bullied, they weren't sympathetic and applauded Toby for breaking off the engagement. However, now that Titus' video had been published, the situation was reversed.

Netizens began to wonder whether Toby's statements were true, but most of them reckoned he wasn't telling the truth. It was mainly because they didn't see what Tina had done, so she was once again the victim of this incident. And people often subconsciously sympathized with the weak and the victims, so currently, all the bad comments about Tina on the Internet had ceased, and Triforce Enterprise's stock market had also risen. In short, Titus killed two birds with one stone! In fact, it was more like killing three birds with one stone! Titus had also retaliated against Toby for breaking off the engagement, because what Titus said just now clearly meant that Toby had deliberately slandered Tina.

As a man who defamed his ex-fiancee after breaking off his engagement, he would naturally trigger the netizens' malice. Now, many netizens were starting to scold him. As most people would say—the older, the wiser. Thinking that, Tom ruefully shook his head. Similarly, another person who understood all of this was Sonia. She was even more aware than anyone that the old fox, Titus, wasn't easy to deal with. Therefore, she couldn't lower her guard just because she had defeated Titus several times before, or else she would be taken out in a flash.

At this thought, Sonia slightly narrowed her beautiful almond-shaped eyes, her expression solemn. Meanwhile, Carl had turned off the computer and was on the phone with Tim. "When do you plan to release Tina's video? Titus has completely cleared her name." "There's no hurry," Tim replied, light reflecting in his eyes. "I'll make a decision after Tina wakes up. She'll definitely do something, so when the video is released then, she'll be pushed into the abyss again." Carl nodded thoughtfully. "All right." Then, Tim asked, "Have you taken care of the surveillance footage?"

"Yes. I'll send it to you in a while," Carl replied. Tim answered, "Okay." At the Fuller Group, after reading the summary of all their cooperations with Triforce Enterprise, Toby handed them to Tom. "Release a notice stating that, starting today, all cooperations with Triforce Enterprise are canceled!"
