Coolest Girl in Town Chapter 349 - 350

Chapter 349

The policeman was also preparing to leave, but he could only stop in his footsteps and return to Elise when he heard her words.

"What do you want then?" His expression darkened.

Alexander appeared by the door. "Talk to my girlfriend's lawyer."

As soon as he finished his sentence, he had already arrived at the lobby.

After surveying the surroundings, he directly walked to Elise, who was standing at the corner, and leaned toward her. "Are you alright?" he asked gently.

She nodded her head. "Why are you here?"

"If I'm not here, should I let my fiancee be bullied instead?" Alexander grimaced.

At this moment, the policeman's phone began to ring.

When he looked at the caller ID, he was surprised to see that it was his boss.

He cleared his throat and walked to a corner before answering the call.

After avoiding the rest of the people, his tone immediately became respectful. "Is there anything I can help you with?"

"Hey, were you in touch with a woman named Elise Sinclair? Never offend this extremely important lady!"

The policeman froze upon hearing that. "What is her background?"

"That's not important. What you should know is that you can't afford to offend her. If this matter is not ideally resolved, both of us will be in trouble!"

The policeman frowned at his phone. You should have called ten minutes ago. How am I going to resolve the current situation now?

Chapter 350

On the other hand, after Jeremy left the automobile store, he met Johan, who was also out looking for girls. They hit it off with each other and booked a private room in a club.

Just as one of them had flipped a card, which was the Ace of Spades, the music of the room instantly came to a stop. After that, a group of uniformed police officers immediately switched on the brightest lights and interrupted their fun.

"Damn it! Who is it that doesn't know the rules around here?" Jeremy swore as he placed the glass of wine in his hands down. When he saw the police, he managed to stop himself from cursing any further.

"Which one of you is Jeremy Olson?"

"I am. What's wrong?" he replied in annoyance.

"Bring him away."

With that, two policemen went to subdue him. But of course, Jeremy refused to be treated in such a way as he was having a good time before this, so he shook them off and flared up. "Bring me away? What are the reasons for that? What crime did I commit?"

"If you are innocent, would we be here to catch you? Jeremy Olson, you are guilty of sexually harrassing Elise Sinclair and Miller Mikey. Please return to the police station with me for further investigation!"

Jeremy froze for a moment before he remembered the two girls back at the automobile store. Then, he furiously cursed, "B*tches!"

While narrowing his eyes, Johan stood in front of Jeremy and shook his head at Jeremy to indicate that he shouldn't be rash. After all, it would bring them no good to offend the policemen. When Jeremy saw that, he finally withdrew his hands and calmed himself down.

Johan finally turned around to smile at the officer, Kevin Summers, "Sir, we will follow you back." Things must be very interesting with Elise around.

Half an hour later, the sirens blared in front of the police station as a group of policemen hastily shuffled into the lobby.

Elise's eyes narrowed as she steeled herself to meet Jeremy's enraged expression. However, she saw Johan instead and sighed. What an unfortunate coincidence!

Then, Jeremy quickly walked into the station and placed his arms around Johan's shoulders as he spoke in Johan's ears.

What is going on here? Are they brothers?
