

Chapter 171

Captivation Want Nothing But You Chapter 171 by Adolf Dunne

Perhaps it was because Rachel was exhausted after dealing with Wallace and Tara the last few days that she slept in and only woke up when the sun was setting. She opened her eyes but was still in a daze. As she roamed her eyes around the room, she could barely make out something out of the darkness. A low growl came rumbling from her stomach. It was especially loud in the quiet room, and only then did Rachel snap out of her stupor.

Rachel straightened herself to sober her mind up before leaving the room and going downstairs to find something to eat in the kitchen. Her stomach was complaining too much that she could not stand to ignore it anymore. "Miss Bennet, you're awake. I was just about to check if you're already up." Lukas came out of the dining hall and bumped into Rachel. He was glad she saved him from going up the stairs and waking her up himself.

"I slept in. If my stomach hadn't complained, I probably wouldn't have been standing here." Rachel nudged her nose. 1 "You didn't come down at noon, so I asked the cook to prepare some food just in case. Now you're here, and it's almost dinner time. How about having some snacks first?" "That's a good idea." "Miss Bennet, please have a seat in the dining room while you wait. I'll ask the kitchen staff to bring some desserts."

Then, Lukas pivoted and walked towards the kitchen, not waiting for Rachel to reply. In no time, a servant served some desserts to Rachel. Rachel could not eat more after gobbling up a few slices of cake. The desserts were delicious, but they were too sweet. It was not good for her health. And also, now that she was with child, it was hard to guarantee that she would not regurgitate everything she shoved down her stomach.

“Take these away,” Before she could even finish her words, Lukas’ voice reverberated from the hallway. “Mr. Sullivan, Miss Schultz.” ‘Miss Schultz? Is Alicia here again?’ Rachel’s brows were slightly creased together. Deep inside, she did not want another unnecessary encounter with Victor, nor did she want to talk to Alicia. She stood up and was ready to go back to her room. “Lukas, bring me the first-aid kit.” As soon as Rachel took a light step out of the dining room, Victor’s voice that was void of warmth resonated in the halls. ‘The first-aid kit? Is anyone injured?’ As if hypnotized by some random potent enchantment,

Chapter 172

Captivation Want Nothing But You Chapter 171 by Adolf Dunne

Perhaps it was because Rachel was exhausted after dealing with Wallace and Tara the last few days that she slept in and only woke up when the sun was setting. She opened her eyes but was still in a daze. As she roamed her eyes around the room, she could barely make out something out of the darkness. A low growl came rumbling from her stomach. It was especially loud in the quiet room, and only then did Rachel snap out of her stupor.

Rachel straightened herself to sober her mind up before leaving the room and going downstairs to find something to eat in the kitchen. Her stomach was complaining too much that she could not stand to ignore it anymore. “Miss Bennet, you’re awake. I was just about to check if you’re already up.” Lukas came out of the dining hall and bumped into Rachel. He was glad she saved him from going up the stairs and waking her up himself.

“I slept in. If my stomach hadn’t complained, I probably wouldn’t have been standing here.” Rachel nudged her nose. 1 “You didn’t come down at noon, so I asked the cook to prepare some food just in case. Now you’re here, and it’s almost dinner time. How about having some snacks first?” “That’s a good idea.” “Miss Bennet, please have a seat in the dining room while you wait. I’ll ask the kitchen staff to bring some desserts.”

Then, Lukas pivoted and walked towards the kitchen, not waiting for Rachel to reply. In no time, a servant served some desserts to Rachel. Rachel could not eat more after gobbling up a few slices of cake. The desserts were delicious, but they were too sweet. It was not good for her health. And also, now that she was with child, it was hard to guarantee that she would not regurgitate everything she shoved down her stomach.

“Take these away,” Before she could even finish her words, Lukas’ voice reverberated from the hallway. “Mr. Sullivan, Miss Schultz.” ‘Miss Schultz? Is Alicia here again?’ Rachel’s brows were slightly creased together. Deep inside, she did not want another unnecessary encounter with Victor, nor did she want to talk to Alicia. She stood up and was ready to go back to her room. “Lukas, bring me the first-aid kit.” As soon as Rachel took a light step out of the dining room, Victor’s voice that was void of warmth resonated in the halls. ‘The first-aid kit? Is anyone injured?’ As if hypnotized by some random potent enchantment,

Chapter 173

Chapter 172 Throw The Cat Out

Rachel frowned at what was happening. Seeing Victor’s tall figure approaching, she stepped back, unsure of what to do next. The sofa was right behind her, leaving no more room to retreat.

“Vic...” “Ah!” Alicia’s piercing scream echoed across the room. “Meow!” A shrill yowl followed after. Before Rachel could figure out what was going on, a snow-white figure hit the corner of the tea table and fell to the floor. Then, it let out a weak cry. It was the cat! Rachel quickly picked up the kitten and stroked its fur soothingly, completely ignoring Victor.

“Meow!” The kitten raised its head and looked at Rachel with teary eyes. After recognizing that it was in a safe place, it nestled in her arms comfortably but continued to tremble in fright. Seeing its poor state, Rachel felt sorry for the kitten. It must have been subjected to so much pain. “Victor, look...” Alicia’s face turned pale and her eyes were filled with tears. Only then did Rachel notice that there were several scratches on Alicia’s arm. Her skin had several cuts and blood was slowly oozing out.

After hearing the commotion, the servant in charge of watching the kitten hurried to come in. She immediately cowered in fear at the sight of Victor’s menacing scowl. “Who let the cat inside the house?” Victor asked angrily. The servant trembled and knelt at his feet, lowering her head in shame and not daring to make a sound.

“I did.” Rachel helped the servant back up and handed the kitten to her. “I took it in because I thought it was feeling lonely outside.” A dark light suddenly flashed across Victor’s eyes, and his aura was cold and intimidating. Rachel knew that her cat had hurt Alicia, so she took full responsibility for the incident.

Chapter 174

Captivation Want Nothing But You Chapter 174 by Adolf Dunne

Chapter 174 Blood (Part one)

Suddenly, Rachel felt a spasm and a sharp pain in her lower abdomen. Her face turned pale and she covered her belly instinctively, in an attempt to reduce the pain. In no time, a thin layer of sweat appeared on her forehead. Noticing the pained look on her face, Victor’s heart missed a beat. He couldn’t help feeling sorry for her. No matter how he felt seeing her that way, he couldn’t get the picture of Rachel in Roger’s arms out of his mind.

Every time he thought of it, he got into a blind rage of anger and jealousy. “Rachel, leave Roger!” he thundered. Holding in her pain, Rachel raised her head to look at Victor with disdain in her eyes. Then, she suddenly burst into laughter. “Never,” she whispered in a scary way when she was done laughing. Rachel stood up slowly stared him down as best as she could, as though she was challenging him. “Don’t you want to know how much Roger pays me?”

Chapter 175

Captivation Want Nothing But You Chapter 175 by Adolf Dunne

Chapter 175 Blood (Part Two)

The cuff link pierced Victor's back. His blood oozed out, and even Rachel's fingertips got stained with it. Victor loosened his grip as he felt the pain. Rachel quickly pulled out the cuff link and scurried away from him. Her face was deathly pale, and the hand that held the cuff link trembled slightly.

The blood dripped from the silver tip to the marble floor. It dazzled the senses. Victor looked at her cautious eyes filled with hatred, and he felt a pain deep in his heart. It was a thousand times more painful than the wound in his back.

Chapter 176

Captivation Want Nothing But You Chapter 176 by Adolf Dunne

Chapter 176 Blood (Part Three)

Rachel was taken aback. She knew that Victor meant what he said. The fact that that the Jimenez family and the Sullivan family were a perfect match wasn't news to her. Bringing the downfall of the Jimenez family was a challenge to Victor. But that did not mean that it wouldn't face trouble. The most important thing was that Roger and his family had nothing to do with this fiasco. They were innocent. They shouldn't have been caught in this mess.

Rachel put the cuff link down. "Fine," she said. Her voice was hoarse. He should be screaming with joy now that Rachel had agreed to come up with a compromise. However, their situation only made Victor's heart hurt even more. The suffocating pain in his chest grew every passing moment as he gazed at the pale smile on Rachel's face. It felt as though someone had grabbed his heart in an attempt to crush it. He had really lost her.

'There is now way in hell she would ever forgive me,' he thought. It felt as though something in his heart had gone missing. The foreign sensation brought about an anxious feeling in his insides. Her calmness put him on edge. "Do you really love him that much, Rachel?" he asked. Not a word escaped Rachel's lips.

Chapter 177

Captivation Want Nothing But You Chapter 177 by Adolf Dunne

Chapter 177 Blood (Part Four)

"My ankle hurts..." Alicia looked at Victor with a pitiful look. "It has gotten even more swollen than before. Do you think you could take me to the hospital?" With his brows furrowed, Victor glanced over at Rachel who was leaning her body against Lukas for support. Rachel had bit her lower lip to the point where she had drawn blood. He could see that her mouth was oozing blood, making her face look as white as a sheet of paper.

But even so, she kept quiet and didn't cry out in pain. Victor was feeling agitated and felt that something was stuck in his heart. He was both angry and annoyed at the same time. Was it so hard for her to show weakness in front of him just this once? "Lukas, prepare the car! I want you to take Alicia to the hospital now!" Victor ordered in a cold voice. There was a gleam in Alicia's eyes when she said, "Rachel doesn't look too good."

Chapter 178

Captivation Want Nothing But You Chapter 178 by Adolf Dunne

A Death Sentence

Inside the ward The sky was brightening outside. The glowing bright light shifted past the clouds and came in along with the cool autumn breeze. Lukas politely knocked on the door and went inside. He put down the bag he had brought with him and said, "Mr. Sullivan, I brought Miss Bennet her clothes." "Alright." Victor's voice was deep and hoarse from disuse. Lukas lifted his eyes and saw Victor's tired and disheveled appearance.

"Mr. Sullivan, you are still wearing the same clothes you wore yesterday. Why don't you change out of them and have a good rest first?" Victor made no move from his position by the bed. His intense eyes were fixated on Rachel, who still had yet to wake up from her coma. His white shirt was covered in blood. Over time, the bright red hue of the blood had turned his shirt into a dull red-brown color.

Chapter 179

Captivation Want Nothing But You Chapter 179 by Adolf Dunne

Chapter 179 Are You Scared

Victor's body froze, and his eyes moved slowly to the woman in the bed. Rachel felt that she was waking up from a long dream. Right from being abandoned at the orphanage gate to going through all kinds of things in her life. Finally, it seemed to be stuck on an image of a pool of blood. A slight pain woke her up. Her hand was clenched so tightly that it hurt.

Subconsciously, she looked towards it. Victor realized this and let go of her hand. "Miss Bennet, you're finally awake." The doctor walked to her bed. "Are you in any pain? Do you feel any discomfort anywhere?"

Rachel closed her eyes and was silent for a while. Finally, she said in a hoarse voice, "Water." Lukas, who stood a few steps behind the doctor, immediately went to fetch her a glass of water. For the next ten minutes, the doctor asked several questions as he checked Rachel. "Miss Bennet, you need to stay in bed and rest for some days. Don't make any sudden moves or exert yourself. Also, try not to get too emotional," the doctor said as he took off his stethoscope.

"Doctor, my baby..." Rachel unknowingly placed a hand on her stomach. The scene from before she fainted flashed through her mind, and her heart squeezed. "Don't worry. Your baby is doing great and is healthy." 1 "Thank you. Thank you so much." The doctor smiled kindly and said, "You're welcome. You have a good rest. I'll leave now." Lukas accompanied the doctor out of the ward and asked him about the precautions they needed to take. The ward turned silent. "Rachel..." Victor said as the light in his eyes dimmed. Rachel interrupted him.

Chapter 180

Captivation Want Nothing But You Chapter 180 by Adolf Dunne

After a slight delay, Victor gave Carson a look and then proceeded to walk on without bothering to answer his question. He was scared. Though it was obvious that the door was unlocked and that he could easily push it open with just a gentle nudge of his hand, to him, the door was like a huge barrier, with an invisible ditch that stood between him and Rachel.

He wasn't brave enough to push open the door and walk inside. He didn't have the guts to face Rachel's eyes when she looked up to meet his gaze. There was no hatred on her face, nor did there exist any affectionate love. She was calm from the inside out as if he was just a stranger to her. 1

Inside the ward