Captivation Want Nothing But You Chapter 241 by Adolf Dunne

In the room of the Sue Garden.

Looking at the watch screen which showed that the phone had been hung up, Joey finally felt relieved. He threw back the covers and sat up, letting out a heavy sigh of relief. Get new chapter update on novelheart.com

At this moment, there was a sound of the mew outside the door, followed by the noise of its claws scratching at the door.

“Is it Katie?” Joey got out of bed. “Meow...” Outside the door, Katie seemed to hear his call and replied with a meow.

When Joey opened the door, he saw Katie squatting in front of the door and lowering its head to lick its hair. Hearing the sound of opening the door, it raised its head and meowed meekly.

“Katie, why are you here?” When Joey saw Katie, a happy smile appeared on his face. He picked it up and said, “I thought my scummy dad has taken you away and didn’t want you to play with me anymore!”

Katie didn’t understand what he was talking about. It just saw him lower his head. So it took the initiative to lick his cheek ingratiatingly.

The cat's tongue was stinging, and his face was soaked in dribble leaving a tingling sensation. But it was not a big deal compared to holding the cat he liked.

"Katie, where is my scummy dad?" As Joey spoke, he glanced around. The corridor was very quiet, and there was no trace of his father at all. 2

"..... Meow!"

Joey lowered his head to look at Katie. A white light flashed across his mind and he had the idea of strolling around the Sue Garden.

"If I walk around now, my scummy dad won't suspect me, will he, Katie?"

"Meow!"

When Katie heard him calling itself, it only meowed in a reflex action.

"Well, I think my analysis is reasonable. In that case, let's go." Joey made up his mind in his heart and nodded in agreement when he heard the cat's reply. Then he left the room with Katie in his arms.

Before he was seven years old...

The light in Lukas's eyes dimmed. He continued to roll up the sleeves for Joey in silence, stood up and steered the conversation away from it, “Well, it’s getting late now. Joey, go to bed early. Pay attention to the wound on your hand and don’t touch water. If you need anything, call me at any time.”

Joey sensed that Lukas didn’t want to continue. A trace of doubt flashed across his eyes, but he was sensible enough not to ask him for any more questions. He looked down at his cufflinks, which had been neatly clipped, and nodded.

Lukas smiled at him and was about to leave the room.

“Wait a minute, Mr. Smith.” Seeing that he was about to walk out of the room, Joey suddenly called out to stop him.

“What’s wrong?”

Joey pursed his lips and recalled what he had seen outside the baby’s room. After hesitating for a while, he asked tentatively.

“Mr. Smith, when I went to the bathroom just now, I saw the light in the room next door but one was on. Someone was inside.”

Next door but one?

Lukas didn’t react at once and it took him a while to realize what kind of room it was.

After a short pause, he heard Joey asked again, “Mr. Smith, what’s that room? And that room seemed to be a little different from other places. At that time, the door of that room was not completely closed. And I seemed to see a baby bed.”

“Did you see clearly who was in the room?” Lukas didn’t answer his question.

Joey blinked his eyes. It was obvious that Lukas cared about whether he had seen Victor or not. Joey thought for a while, shook his head, frowned and said with a hint of distress on his face.

“That man was standing on the balcony. He was too far away from me that I couldn’t see him clearly.”

Chapter 243 I Heard That You Are Going To Get Married

It was getting late. After saying that, Lukas left the room. Standing on the small stool in the bathroom, Joey looked at himself reflected in the mirror and pursed his thin lips gently. He couldn’t get rid of that sentence in his mind. Mr. Smith said that his scummy dad had been looking forward to his birth.

Looking down at his pajamas, Joey couldn’t tell how he felt. If what Mr. Smith said was true, how could his mommy be parted from his scummy father?

How could Uncle Quintin hate his scummy father so much? However, it didn’t seem to be false from Mr. Smith’s expression when he talked about it or the lonely figure of his scummy father in the baby room tonight. Joey’s mind was in a mess and he sighed deeply. In another room After leaving the guest room, Lukas walked a few steps and saw Victor coming out of the baby room.

He greeted, “Good evening, Mr. Sullivan.” Victor put Katie down and replied to him indifferently. Seeing that he had changed his clothes, Lukas asked, "Mr. Sullivan, are you going out like this?"

Captivation Want Nothing But You Chapter 244 by Adolf Dunne

Victor put his pendant Beloved back into his pocket and drank up the glass of wine in his hand.

Seeing this, Carson leaned back and said, "I know the groundless news online is unreliable. If you really plan to marry Susan, in the past four years, you wouldn't have been..." "Next Wednesday." Victor lowered his voice, seeming a little drunk because of the red wine. Carson was stunned. After a long while, he came to his senses and turned to look at Victor, "... What?"

"The wedding of me and Susan will be held next Wednesday," replied Victor expressionlessly "....." For a moment, the surroundings became particularly quiet. Not knowing how long it had passed, Carson finally understood what Victor had just said. He just realized that Victor was not joking, but really prepared to hold a wedding with Susan.

"You..." Looking at Victor's side face, Carson's lips twitched two times. He wanted to say something, but he seemed to have lost the power of speech. He suddenly didn't know what to say. His good friend finally figured it out and was about to build a new life out of the past. He should be happy about it. After all, this was what he had been hoping for in the past four years.

However, when he really heard from Victor that he was going to marry another woman, Carson found that he didn't seem to be as happy as he had imagined. Because he knew very well that Vic didn't get himself out of the ordeal. Instead, he was getting more and more depressed and became numb.

Moreover, when he heard that Victor was going to marry Susan, Rachel's face appeared in his mind at the first time. Her eyebrows and eyes were always stubborn, which was incomprehensible. With her gender advantage, if she compromised, behaved obediently and acted like a spoiled child, she could win the hearts of many men who were even willing to help her.

But she refused to submit to them. Even if someone put a knife on her neck, she was also unwilling to admit defeat. In the past, he thought that woman, Rachel, was unruly and irrational.

The next morning. The servants had dried Joey's clothes and sent it back to the guest room. Joey had a good sleep last night and woke up when he felt a little cold. He changed his clothes and was about to go downstairs. A servant, who was cleaning the room, was surprised to see Joey. "Kid, why are you up so early?"

"The breakfast is not ready yet." "It's okay. I just want to take a walk." "It is a big house, let me accompany you in case you get lost." The servant volunteered. Joey took a deep look at the servant. Even though the servant hid it well, he still clearly noticed the suspicion in her eyes.

It was obvious she was just on guard against him. "Okay." He agreed decisively. Anyway, he didn't really plan to do anything and didn't mind her following him. Then, the two of them walked out of the living room one after the other. However, when they were about to go down the stairs, they saw a car slowly coming from a distance and then stopped at the gate.

"It's Mr. Sullivan." The servant's tone was full of excitement and nervousness. When the car stopped, she hurried down the steps to greet Victor, completely forgetting that she was showing Joey around. Joey raised his head and looked at the car. Victor got off the car with his long legs.

Different from the surprise he first saw Victor last night, maybe it was because what Lukas said changed his impression of Victor a little. He actually felt that he didn't seem so bad. Lukas said that Victor had been looking forward to his birth. Joey pursed his lips and had an impulse to ask Victor if he really did look forward to him.

Victor was still wearing the same clothes as he did last night, and his sleeves were rolled up, leaving obvious wrinkles. Moreover, there was faint smell of red wine on him. 'Did he go out to drink yesterday?' Thinking of this, Joey suddenly saw someone else and heard a familiar voice before he could say anything.

Noticing that Victor was looking at him up and down, Joey paused for a moment, then tilted his head and blinked his eyes, asking innocently. "Victor, did I say something wrong? You look... You look unhappy." "You didn't say anything wrong." daily latest chapters only www.novelheart.com Said Victor in a low voice, withdrawing his look at Joey.

"Oh." Joey raised his head and smiled at Victor, revealing his cute baby teeth. His smile made Victor absent-minded for a moment. Lukas was informed that Victor was home and rushed out soon. Victor told Lukas to call a doctor to check the wound on Joey's arm before Joey left the Sue Garden. After giving the order, he went upstairs to get the documents. Then, he got into the car and left.

The car slowly drove towards the Sullivan Group. Susan turned her head and looked at Victor carefully. Since he got on the car, he had been closing his eyes, looking as if he didn't want to talk to anyone. She hesitated for a moment and called him softly. "Vic."

"....." Victor opened his eyes and glanced at her indifferently. Looking into his cold eyes, Susan's heart ached. She pursed her pink lips and said, "Victor, there were too many people at the airport yesterday. I really didn't know my assistant would say something like that to that child." Frowning, Victor still didn't say anything.

Seeing that he didn't say anything, Susan became more and more uneasy. She said in a trembling voice, "I really didn't say that to him. There were a lot of reporters there, you know how famous I am. How could I say..." "You mean he was lying?" Victor's eyes darkened. He looked into her eyes and asked.

"I..." Susan paused, "No, I didn't mean he was lying. I just..."
"Susan Salazar."

"Quintin."

Rachel called him through gritted teeth. Quintin immediately stood up and answered,

"Boss, let me explain..."

"Kneel down!" Rachel shouted angrily. With a dull thud, Quintin immediately bent his knees and knelt on the pillow without hesitation, "Boss, I didn't mean to lie to you. That brat also kept it from me secretly. By the time I found it, he was already in Apliaria." "You didn't mean to do that? Quintin, if I didn't come back earlier, how long are you going to hide it from me?"

Quintin raised his eyes and carefully looked at the expression on Rachel's face. Before he said anything, she asked again, "A week, or a month? Or, you're just going to keep it a secret forever? Anyway, when I come back, Joe will also come back. As long as you don't tell me, I wouldn't have known that he has come to Apliaria without permission, right?"

Rachel's tone was not heavy, neither fast nor slow, but it made people feel oppressed when they heard it. "Boss, how could I do like this?" Quintin gave an awkward smile. "You wouldn't do like that or you didn't dare?" Rachel asked with a fake smile. Quintin was speechless. He actually was afraid of doing it.

But now even if he dared not, he must do it. Joey was already in Apliaria. Rachel's temple throbbed two times. It had been an hour since she knew that Joey was in Apliaria, and she always felt a little uneasy. And she knew clearly why she was so uneasy. Because of his father Victor. In the past four years, Apliaria and Victor were two restricted areas in the hearts of Quintin and Rachel.

Chapter 248

Chapter 248 Odin Has Died

Before Joey could figure out the uneasiness in her heart, the Sullivan Group was already in a hell of a mess. It was a sunny day outside, but the entire edifice of the Sullivan Group had been overlaid with a certain gloom. The atmosphere became strange and oppressive. Everyone walked in a hurry, looking unhappy, and whispered something.

"Ding-dong!" The elevator stopped at the meeting room on the twenty third floor, and then slowly opened the doors on both sides. Seven or eight people came out one after another and went straight to the meeting room. They were all shareholders and members of the board of directors in the Sullivan Group.

In less than five minutes, the meeting room, which could accommodate twenty people, was full of people with different expressions. "At 10:23 this morning, a car accident occurred in Washington, Ustyas. Four people died and one was seriously injured and in a coma, all of whom are from our country. It is reported that one of the four dead men is the second eldest son of the Sullivan Group, Odin.

At present, the staff of our embassy are learning about it from the police in Ustyas and the case is being investigated.” In the front of the meeting room, there was a report from a Liquid Crystal Display television. There was suddenly a smack.

One of the senior directors smacked his hand down on to the table hard, frowned and looked at Ivan unhappily, “Ivan, where is Mr. Sullivan?” Glancing at the director indifferently, Ivan recognized him at a glance. He was one of Maria’s distant uncles, Yehuda, who was two generations away from Odin. Four years ago, Victor had reorganized the disobedient old fellows on the board of directors.

Chapter 249

Chapter 249 Odin Has A Child

Cold sweat broke out on Yehuda’s forehead, “I... I...” The others also lowered their heads nervously, afraid that the next second, Victor’s eyes would fall on them. Yehuda hemmed and hawed for a long time, sweat streaming down from his forehead. The meeting room fell into a weird silence.

“Mr. Sullivan, Yehuda just blurted it out, he didn’t mean it.” Alex glanced at Yehuda’s pale face and stood up, trying to ease the tension. Hearing this, Victor looked at Alex and squinted at him. He didn’t remember who Alex was for a moment.

“Mr. Sullivan, this is Mr. Green, he had worked with your father before. After your father passed away, he seldom attended the board meeting because of his poor health.” Ivan, who stood behind Victor, reminded him.

Poor health? It didn't look like that he was in poor health. It should be an excuse, Alex just didn't want to get himself into trouble. "The meeting can begin now." said Victor, withdrawing his gaze. Hearing this, Yehuda, who was standing still, breathed a sigh of relief and looked at Alex gratefully.

But Alex ignored him and sat down, which made him feel embarrassed. He curled his lips and sat down awkwardly. At the beginning of the meeting, Victor came straight to the point and said, "The vice president of the branch company has confirmed with the Embassy that Odin is dead." Odin was dead.

Chapter 250 Your Grandmother

In the Sullivan family. "Get out of my way! I want to leave here!" In the hall, with his big eyes glaring at the servants in front of him, Joey gritted his teeth and his face reddened. "You can't go anywhere without Mrs. Sullivan's permission." One of the servants lowered her head and said respectfully, "Please, sit." "Mrs. Sullivan?"

I don't even know a Mrs. Sullivan at all. This is child trafficking! If my mommy knows it, you will all be doomed! Let me go!" Joey ordered, frowning. An hour ago, he opened the door of the hotel room. daily latest chapters only www.novelheart.com He thought it was the afternoon tea he ordered, but he didn't expect that when he opened the door, there would be several tall men in black standing there. He immediately felt that something was wrong.

He wanted to close the door without hesitation, but it was too late. The leading man in black said “sorry” expressionlessly and then slapped on his neck. He felt a dull pain, and then he was knocked out. When he woke up again, he found himself in a strange room. He came out of the room and looked around.

His intuition told him that this was bad and wanted to leave this place right away. However, as soon as he went downstairs, he was stopped by these servants. When Mary, the housekeeper came out of the kitchen, she saw that Joey and the servants were in a stalemate, so she hurried forward and gave him a flattering smile, as if coaxing a child, “Kid, you misunderstood. Don’t worry. We mean no harm.”

Joey’s eyes were full of vigilance. “What’s wrong with you? I asked you to take good care of our guest, but you made our little guest misunderstand us! If Mrs. Sullivan knows it, you will all be in big trouble!” Mary turned to the servants behind him and scolded them with a long face.

Chapter 251 You Are Not My Grandma Maria Sullivan?

It was not until then that Joey realized who this person was. She was his jerk father’s stepmother. No, that was not exact. Joey was thinking about how to describe who Maria was. Suddenly, he thought of something and looked up at Maria with his eyes wide open. “What did you... What did you say just now?”

He was busy thinking about who she was that he didn’t pay much attention to the latter part of her words. When he realized what she said just now, Joey was stunned. “You said you were my grandma?” Maria nodded. Joey pursed his lips and thought for a while. What she said was right.

She was his grandma, only not bonded by blood. However, judging from the attitude of Maria towards him, it seemed that she actually thought he was her grandson by blood. Moreover, the most important thing was that he couldn't admit it.

"You are wrong, lady." Joey replied immediately, "My grandmother has passed away a long time ago. It can't be you." "I know you can't accept it in such a short time, but I'm indeed your grandmother and you are my grandson."

After saying that, Maria turned her head to look at Mary. Mary took out a photo and said, "Kid, Mrs. Sullivan didn't lie to you. You can see the person in the photo." Joey looked at the photo. It was a strange man's face.

"Four years ago, your mommy had an operation to keep a baby. This operation lasted for ten hours, and this is the record of that operation. In this record, there was a notice signed by Victor himself, when he was asked whether to keep the baby or Rachel's life... He chose the baby."

Joey heard Maria continue, "At that time, if he decided to give up on Rachel, Rachel would die at any time. The success rate of saving the child was only five percent, but the success rate of saving the mother was eighty percent." That was to say, knowing the success rate of these two choices, he chose to keep the child's life without hesitation.

He didn't care about Rachel's life at all." After going back to the hotel from the Sullivan family, What Maria said to him kept echoing in Joey's mind, as well as Victor's signature on the notice. He pressed his lips, trying his best to suppress his emotions. Suddenly, the doorbell rang again. Joey looked out of the window. It was getting dark. Who else would be here at this time? After a short hesitation, he walked to the door, grabbed the doorknob and pressed it down, then he opened the door...

Half an hour ago. In the CEO Office of the Sullivan Group. Ivan knocked on the door and put a U disk on the table. "Mr. Sullivan, the result of the paternity test has been sent here." Looking down at the U disk for a while, Victor didn't intend to take it. He just asked in a low voice, "What's the result?"

"The result shows..." After a pause, Ivan said slowly, "There might be a 99.9% chance that Joey is Odin's son." Then, Ivan turned on the test result he had copied on his iPad and handed it to Victor. Victor raised his eyes and looked at the result of the paternity test. His hand unconsciously tightened, but he didn't say anything.

Chapter 254 Staying In The Sue Garden

Lukas's eyes widened and he looked down at Joey. Joey looked into his eyes and nodded. Glancing at Joey indifferently and noticing that he nodded in agreement, Victor's eyes darkened. With a cold face, he walked into the house, leaving Joey and Lukas looking at each other,

"Mr. Smith, how long are we going to stand here?" Seeing that Victor had entered the house without looking back, Joey clenched his fists and asked after a while. www.novelheart.com Lukas came to his senses, he quickly concealed his astonishment and put on an amiable smile. "Mr. Bennet, I'll ask the servant to clean a room for you." Mr. Bennet? Joey was stunned for a moment when he heard what Lukas called him that.

"Mr. Smith, just call me Joe." He said. "But, Mr. Bennet, you are Mr. Sullivan's son, you are a Sullivan family member. According to the rules, I should be respectful..." Lukas was a person who valued the rules more than anything else, which was one of the important reasons why he had been working for Victor for so many years.

Half an hour later, in the dining room. Sitting at the dining table, Joey looked at the kitchen from time to time. From his point of view, he could only vaguely see a tall figure standing in front of the countertop. After a while, the person inside finally came out with a bowl of steaming noodles in his hand. Victor put the bowl of noodles in front of him and said, “Tomato and egg noodles. It’s too late. Eating too much is not good for your stomach.

With his dark eyes slightly darkened, Victor turned his head and saw a small hand clenching the corner of his clothes, which was a little tight. There were several scratches on the originally ironed corner of his clothes.

He didn’t like others to touch him, which was always the case. Besides, the boy in front of him was the son of Odin. He should have left without a backward glance. But when he looked at his little hand tightly clenching his clothes, he didn’t pull it away. Victor just frowned slightly and asked, “What else can I do for you?”

“Where are you going?” Noticing the indifference in his eyes, Joey pursed his lips and thought of what Maria had said to him. She said that his biological father, the man in front of him, had wanted to kill him and his mother with his own hands.

With a soft sound, the scallion that had just been picked out from the bowl fell into the bowl again. Frowning, Joey muttered, “I don’t like scallion. It tastes weird.” As he spoke, he began to pick out the scallion from the soup bit by bit again. Seeing this, Victor frowned and his eyes darkened. He ordered the servant behind him. “Dump the noodles.” Hearing this, the servant was stunned for a while.

Then she answered “okay” and walked towards Joey. Seeing this, Joey quickly covered the bowl with his arm and asked, “Why did you dump it? daliy latest chapters only www.novelheart.com I haven’t eaten yet!” “Since you don’t like scallion, you don’t have to eat this bowl of noodles.” Said Victor in a stern tone. “.....” Joey pressed his lips and looked into Victor’s eyes. After a long time of stalemate, no one was willing to give in.

When Lukas walked into the dining room, he was stunned for a moment when he saw the awkward situation. When he was thinking about how to ease the tension, Joey muttered, puffed his cheeks, picked up the chopsticks again and quickly put the noodles into his mouth. His mouth was immediately full of noodles. He muttered, “I’ll eat it.” Then, he lowered his head and ate up the noodles bit by bit.

Without giving any hint to the servant to take the next step, Victor took out his phone again to talk with Ivan about tomorrow’s schedule. While talking on the phone, he occasionally glanced at Joey. Since he had stuffed a lot of noodles into his mouth, he chewed slowly and he was like a hamster.
