The Lycan's Queen Book 1 – Chapter 4

Series

Niya and Diya were both standing there with looks of shock on their faces. Niya turned to her twin with a smirk. I looked at Carter and then at Diya and smiled.

I silently thanked whoever is responsible for the pairing of mates. My best friend deserved an amazing mate, and he got one. And my cousin got lucky with Carter

When I glanced at them both, they're still just staring at each other. Sighing, I pushed Carter toward Diya. He clearly needed a push.

Carter glared at me, and I laughed and pointed toward my cousin. Niya also gave Diya a little push before coming over to me. The new mates needed a little privacy it seemed.

Niya hugged me, and I told her she looked beautiful.

Our moment was interrupted by Sophia and Luke. "Well that's a nice surprise," Sophia said.

I nodded and smiled. I was very happy that Carter and Diya were mates. When I turned around, they were chatting and smiling.

Carter held Diya's hand, and they made such a cute couple. Maybe I'm biased.

"Well, ladies, I have to leave you. I need to talk to some of the others," Luke said, kissing Sophia on the forehead.

We waved goodbye to Luke, and Sophia dragged Niya and me to a booth. We got comfortable, and Niya started chatting about pack life. Daily Latest update

She told us how since she and Diya turned eighteen, the unmated males of her pack would follow them around everywhere.

They wanted to be mates with one of the twins because their dad was Beta of their pack

Niya told us how annoying it was and there was one pack member that wouldn't take no for an answer.

I told Niya they won't come near you today because you are with the lycans. I glanced at Sophia to see her reaction, but I saw the tension in her face.

Looking around, I saw many lycans looked tense.

They looked like they were trying to be happy, but it wasn't working. I could see that they were tensed, and I wondered why.

Turning back to Sophia, I was about to ask her, but the tension I saw before was no longer there. I glared at her happily chatting to Niya. Daily Latest update

After being friends for years, I knew she was hiding the fact that something was wrong.

Sophia avoided eye contact with me and then I decided to say something.

"Okay, what's the matter? Don't say nothing, Sophia, because I know you too well," I said, folding my arms.

– "I don't know whether that's a blessing or a curse," Sophia muttered.

I raised my eyebrows, knowing she was attempting to change the subject.

"Fine, I'll tell you," Sophia relented. Daily Latest update

"Well, there has been a big issue regarding the king. The councils of alphas voiced their displeasure about our king ruling without a mate. Daily Latest update

"This was only two days ago, but it was clear they had wanted to say this for a long time. They complained that the king isn't stable because he doesn't have a mate and mates keep each other grounded.

"No one is there for the king in the way he needs. It is getting so bad that when the king gets angry, he has to be detained.

"There is a special room where he is chained to stop his lycan from coming out, otherwise his lycan would wreck everything.

"The council said this was a hazard and it wasn't safe for the kingdom, so they proposed a deal. There is a female lycan whose mate is a werewolf, but he is dying

"Since they never marked each other, the council thinks that it is possible for the king and this female to mate, I don't think they know what they're talking about. After all, they are werewolves.

"Our king would be in a relationship that is forced. His lycan will never accept anyone but their mate and forcing them to mate could be more dangerous than the council thinks."

Sophia paused to take a breath.

I sat there in shock; the poor king. He is being forced to mate to someone else. Surely he could have just refused?

"But couldn't he have just said no? He is the king after all," Niya said, voicing my thoughts.

"No, he can't. If he did, then he would be ignoring the majority of the alphas, and that isn't how a king should be." Sophia sighed.

"I just don't understand how alphas can expect that of him." Niya shook her head.

"What annoys me is that the king's mate is out there, and she was born to be queen. This female isn't. All of us lycans are having a hard time coming to terms with the council's decision. You know we are very loyal, so we can't grasp the fact that our king will have to mate with someone other than his actual mate. It is crazy." Sophia shook her head.

"I feel so bad for the king. He is doing all of this just to appease the alphas." I sighed. For some reason my heart hurt.

Sophia nodded in agreement. She then briefly mentioned that the king hasn't been out of his room since the arrangement was discussed.

Sophia said he has the whole floor to himself but didn't come out of his room once.

She suspected he is feeling guilty about the arranged mating because he probably feels as if he is betraying his mate.

Niya said that she wishes he finds his mate soon. Sophia said that's one of the reasons these balls are held, so he can find his mate.

So far, he has had no luck, which means either his mate is too young, she's a human, or she isn't alive.

hoped fate wasn't too cruel to our poor king that his mate is dead before they even met. We changed the subject pretty quickly and began to talk about other things

Niya mentioned how she wants to find her mate as quickly as possible to stop her pack members lusting after her.

Since Diya found her mate, she would now move out and come to my pack. This means Niya will be left with the males of her pack.

I knew the girls wanted to ask about Hunter, so I told them that I didn't want to talk about it. Hunter had found his mate, and I was moving on with my life

Sophia asked if I wanted her to scare Hunter, and I laughed but refused. Suddenly the atmosphere changed; the tension was evident.

My wolf began to stir, so I looked around. All the lycans were focused on someone walking up the stairs.

My wolf began to get angry, and I had no idea why. I grabbed onto the table to stop myself from shifting

Never in my life have I felt this angry before, and never have I shifted because my wolf can't control herself and I can't control her.

"That's her. That's the lycan female, Savannah," Sophia whispered. Daily Latest update

I stared as Savannah calmly walked up the stairs as if she were oblivious to all the dirty looks and cold stares she was receiving

She was gorgeous though. Her long blonde hair was flowing down her back in waves, and she wore an amazing black dress that complimented her very well.

I felt my wolf stir again, and I took deep breaths to calm my wolf. Lycans stared at Savannah in disgust, but she held her head high as she disappeared.

"She's probably gone to see the king," Sophia said, sighing.

As soon as she said that, my wolf growled. I felt her anger take over me. I knew I needed to get out of here as soon as possible.

Quickly, I stood up and, without saying anything, rushed out of the palace into the cool air. I ended up sitting on a bench near the gardens. Daily Latest update

Closing my eyes, I tried my best to calm my wolf down. This was not the time nor place to shift; I needed to get my wolf under control.

After sitting there for a while, I managed to calm my wolf down. She was not happy with me. I knew that much, but what I didn't know is why she was acting like this.

I had a very good relationship with my wolf. I felt like we understood each other and had a good connection. This was out of character for her.

Maybe she was feeling upset and angry because of the king's situation, she might have picked up on the upset of Sophia's lycan.

They were close before she was a lycan as well, so maybe that's why she reacted so strongly.

I decided it was best if I stayed outside in the cool air. I didn't want to risk my wolf getting angry again. I wasn't sure if I would be able to control my shift if she got angry again.

Something just didn't feel right though. My wolf reacting that strongly didn't sit right with me.

What was wrong with me?
