

When His Eyes Opened Chapter 961

Chapter 961

"Really? What a coincidence." Then, Tammy teased, "Could the both of you be going to the same place?"

Avery had no idea.

She had not asked Elliot where he was going on his business trip yesterday.

She was curious now, but she refused to ask him about it.

After all, what would it matter if they went to the same place?

By the time Avery washed up in the bathroom, changed her clothes, and walked out of the room, the twins had already left for school.

Robert was sleeping in the crib in the living room while Mrs. Cooper was busying away in the kitchen.

"I'm going on a trip tomorrow, Mrs. Cooper," Avery said when she arrived at the kitchen. "I'll be away for a week." Mrs. Cooper was stunned. "Why are you leaving so suddenly? The kids would miss you if they don't see you at home when they get back in the evening." "I'm going to attend a training course. I promised someone that I would go." "I see. The kids will understand since it's for work. Are you going alone or is someone going with you?" Mrs. Cooper was a little worried. "I'm going alone." Avery took a seat at the dining table, then said, "Don't worry. I think it's a restricted area, so it's pretty safe." "That's good, then." Mrs. Cooper placed breakfast on the table, then asked, "When are you leaving?"

"I'll book a flight after breakfast. I'll leave in the afternoon at the latest." Avery took a sip of milk, then asked, "Where's Mike?"

"He's still in bed."

Just as Mrs. Cooper answered the question, Mike sauntered into the dining room. "What are you two saying about me?!" Mike's blond hair was a disheveled mess as he took a seat next to Avery. "Just so you know, I'm leaving for a trip today. I'll be away for a week," Avery said. "Please watch over things at this house."

Mike was immediately awakened by the shocking news. "Where are you going? Do you want me to go with you?" "Sierra University. Have you heard of it?" Avery took a bite of her bowl of oatmeal and her stomach instantly warmed up. "The vice president signed up for a training course there but couldn't make it because something came up at home. So, he asked me to go in his place." "I see. I've heard of that place. It's a famous private elite university in Aryadelle. They're not known for the main university courses but for their affiliated training course for company presidents. Is that the course you're going for?" Avery was taken aback, then said, "You should go if you're interested! All you have to do is take notes and bring them back for the vice president." Mike refused without hesitation. "I hate training courses! I don't mind giving them, but there's no way I'm attending one!"

Avery was at a loss for words. "I don't think you should go either! It's a waste of time! Our company's successful enough as it is. You can consider it if they're inviting you over as an instructor but wouldn't joining them as a student be lowering our company's standards?". Avery sighed, then said, "I already promised the vice president to take notes for him. He said he signed up for the course so he could run our company better. I can't back out now that I've given him my word. Besides, what if I really do end up learning something?" "Go ahead, then! I'll take care of things here at home." "Alright, thanks. I'm curious, though. When exactly do you plan on moving out of my house?" A look of disbelief appeared on Mike's face. He frowned, then said, "I'll consider moving out after you and Elliot become a family!"

"Oh. I was just asking. What are you getting so worked up for? Elliot and I... Anyways, do you know where he's going for his business trip? Coincidentally, he's also going away for a week."

Chapter 962

Mike heard the meaning of her words and broke her fantasy mercilessly: "No matter where Elliot goes on business, it is definitely not the Hallstatt University you are going to. He is such a proud and pretentious person. How could he be willing to talk to you? Others share his successful experience? You search online, he has hardly ever given personal interviews, and with his character like gold, do you think he can stand on the podium and give lectures?"

Avery woke up like a dream. She clearly knew Elliot, why did she still make unrealistic fantasies? She blushed in embarrassment, and Mike didn't continue to laugh at her.

"Why don't you call Chad and ask? What if he really went to Hallstatt?" Mike didn't laugh at her, but he couldn't help laughing at Elliot, "Hallstatt is a good place, the environment on the mountain is beautiful and the air is fresh and a good place for leisure and vacation, what if he goes to the green hills to play in the name of a business trip?"

Avery's temple throbbed: "Whether he goes on a business trip or a vacation, it has nothing to do with me. I don't want to know that he goes Where, don't ask Chad, don't say anything."

She peeled a boiled egg and put it on Mike's plate.

"What time is your flight? I'll take you to the airport." Mike asked after biting into the egg.

Avery lowered her eyes and said, "I haven't bought a ticket yet! I'm a little confused. I'm totally unprepared. I was going to go to work today."

Seeing her gloomy, Mike comforted: "Hallstatt is a good place, but has not been developed, isolated from the world, especially quiet, you should go to retreat for a week!"

Avery said, "What image do I have in my heart? If there is no internet there, I promise I will leave as soon as I get there."

"How can there be no internet? That kind of CEO training camp where all the CEOs go, you won't stay without internet, and they can't stand it without internet." Mike teased.

"I can't stay there without the internet. I have to make videocall with my kids every day."

"Okay, don't be sad. The week is fast."

"Well, I'll go pack." She put down the dishes and finished the milk then go back to her room.

After she left the dining room, Mike took out his mobile phone and sent a message to Chad: Where is your boss on a business trip?

Chad was busy and didn't see any news from him.

After a while, Mike drove Avery to the airport.

Arriving at the airport, Mike's cell phone rang, and the company called him and asked him to go to the company immediately.

"Go back to the company! I'm fine now." Avery took the suitcase from him, and her mood was completely calm.

If Vice President told her about it yesterday, she would not be so bored this morning.

Mike reached out and touched her head, "Call me when you arrive, and come back if you're really uncomfortable! You don't have to stay there for a week. The vice president is not your father, so you don't have to do it for him."

Avery couldn't help but laughing: "Thank you for enlightening me, don't do this next time."

The vice president worked with my father for a long time, although he was only a small supervisor before, but later Tate Industry was rebuilt and he helped a lot.

Mike saw Avery enter the waiting room, and then left the airport. He drove in the direction of the company. On the way, Chad's phone calls.

"I'm so busy today! What are you asking my boss for?" Chad took a mobile phone in one hand and a water glass in the other, and took a sip.

"I didn't ask, it was Avery." Mike asked, "Why didn't your boss take you on a business trip?"
