

Triplet Alphas Gifted Luna By Samantha Doyle Chapter 21

Ch 21 Devastated

Alaric was sitting at Thea's desk, staring into space.

Kai was sitting on the floor, leaning against her bed. He had a black eye, swollen nose, busted lip. His knuckles were a bloody mess. So were his clothes.

Conri was on Thea's bed clutching her pillows, breathing in her scent, and sobbing.

They all turned and looked at her, pain in their eyes.

"What happened?" Thea said, worry in her voice. She thought maybe there had been a rogue attack and someone died.

Conri jumped off the bed, ran to her, spilled onto his knees, and hugged her as tight as he could. "Please don't leave us," he sobbed. "Please. I'll be better."

"What? I'm not going anywhere. What's going on?" She put her hands around him, trying to comfort him. She couldn't remember ever seeing him cry. He was impulsive and wild, but he wasn't acrier. °

Kai wouldn't talk. It was like the fight had left him. ‘

“We didn’t handle today very well,” Alaric said. His voice was full of pain. It hurt Thea to hear it. She could tell he was doing his duty because he always would, but he sounded like it was killing him.

“What happened?” Thea said.

“You left us,” Conri said. She could barely make out his words through his sobs.

She knelt down and held him. “What are you talking about, Con? I’m right here.”

Alaric stood up and walked to the door. “I’m glad you’re back safe,” he said.

“Ric?”

He left. Thea turned to Conri.

“You’re a mess, Con. Come on, let’s get you cleaned up,” she said. She coaxed him to the bathroom while he clung to her. She got his clothes off and him into the shower. She washed him, then held him.

He kept whispering, “Please don’t leave,” between sobs until he eventually calmed under her touch.

“Tell me what’s wrong, Con.”

“I don’t want to lose you.”

“You’re not.”

“You’re mine, Thea. I need you.”

“I need you too, Con.”

“Do you want to be with other people?”

“No! Con, I want to be with you forever. I missed you today. I couldn’t wait to come home and be with you.”

He nuzzled into her neck. “I missed you so much. My heart hurt with you so far away. It drove me crazy thinking you were going to kiss her. It wasn’t jealousy. I was afraid you would like it and leave us.”

“Con, I’ll never leave you, and I didn’t kiss her. I thought about it since you guys wanted me to, but the thought made me sick. I missed you guys too much. I don’t want to be with anyone else.”

“Really?”

“Yeah. The longer and further away I got from you guys, the more it hurt. The more I] wanted to come back and be with you. I love you, Conri.”
It was the first time she had said it.

He took her face in his hands. “I love you more.” She smiled. “All this because I was gone for a few hours?”

“It wasn’t just a few hours. You don’t believe we’re mates. We know Misty wants you. You have no reason not to date other people.”

“Except for one big reason. I don’t want to date anyone else,” Thea said.

Conri buried his face in her neck. “My dad was right. We’re weak without you.”

“He didn’t say you were weak. He said you’re stronger around me.”

“I felt weak. I felt empty. Like my chest was a gaping hole.”

“ve never seen you cry, Con.”

“I’ve never had a good enough reason to cry,” he said. “I can’t bear the thought of not having you. I wouldn’t want to live.”

“Don’t talk like that,” Thea said. “I need you alive and with me, okay?” She ran her hand through his hair. “Con, are you okay?”

“I’m better than I was. I still miss you.”

She squeezed him. “I’ll hold you until you don’t.” “Then you’ll be holding me forever.”

“I’m okay with that,” Thea said.

“Me too.” He nuzzled against her.

“Before we start forever, I need to check on Kai and get Alaric back.”

“I know.”

“Will you be okay without me for a bit?” Thea said.

“As long as you’re coming back.”

“Always.”

Kai was gone when they got out of the shower. They got dressed, and Thea put Conri to bed. She followed Kai’s scent to his old room, knocked softly, and walked in. She sat next to him on the bed. He was holding one of her pillows, breathing in her scent.

“I’m sorry, Kai. If [knew what this would do to you, I wouldn’t have done it. Maybe we all should have gone together.”

“I won’t stop you from living your life,” Kai said.

“I won’t fight with you anymore. I’ll be better, I promise. You deserve to be happy.”

“I’m happy with you, Kai. I like fighting with you. I love you exactly how you are. I don’t want you to change.”

“You love me?” Kai said softly.

“I’ve always loved you.”

“I didn’t drive you away?”

“No, Kai. Where is this coming from?”

“Why do you feel the need to spend time away from us?” ‘

“I don’t. [hate being away from you guys.]”

“Did you kiss her?”

“No,” Thea said.

Kai looked at her.

“I couldn’t kiss her when I was aching for you. I don’t ever want to kiss anyone else. The thought makes me ill.”

He put his hand on her leg. “I love you too,” Kai said.

“I never thought I’d hear you say that to me,” Thea said, a smile growing on her face.

“I’ve felt it forever. I’ve wanted to say it to you every day for years. Whether you were mad, happy, fighting me, or laughing with me. It was so hard to keep it in. I love you, Thea. You’re the only thing in this world that I want.”

“I used to think you hung out with me because I challenged you. You were driven to beat me. That was the allure.”

“I don’t want to beat you,” Kai said. “I want to be with you.”

She took the pillow from him, set it down, then maneuvered so she was straddling his lap.

“I’m with you. I’m right here,” Thea said. They wrapped their arms around each other. “What happened to your face and hands?”

“I picked some fights,” Kai said.

“You never get tagged in a fight. Did you purposely let people hit you?” Kai shrugged. “Why?”

“I wanted to feel something besides the pain of losing you.”

She pulled back to look him in the eyes. “You didn’t lose me.”

“It felt like it. We’ve made too many mistakes with you. Not letting other guys near you. Being too possessive. Waiting too long to tell you how we feel. I thought we messed it all up.”

He looked at her with sad eyes. She kissed his nose, then his forehead, cheeks, and chin, then worked her way down his neck, saying his name between kisses. His hands caressed her back then he hugged her tight.

“I can’t bear the thought of losing you,” he said. “ I’m willing to do anything to get you to stay. Pll be whatever you want me to be.”

“You’re all worked up over nothing, Kai. I’m not going anywhere. You don’t have to do anything except be yourself. I want you, just as you are, forever.”

“You love me ?”

“I love you, Kai.”

He nuzzled her neck. “I love you so much. I want to make you happy. I want you to want me.”

“I want you, Kai. Goddess, I go crazy thinking about you ending up with a mate that isn’t me. I couldn’t watch you be with someone else. I would have to leave the pack.”

He squeezed her tighter. “You’re not allowed to leave. Iwon’t let you. You’re my mate, Thea, and I’m yours.”

She ran her fingers through his hair and breathed in his scent.

“I really want to be,” she said.

“You’ll see when we shift.”

“Are you okay ?”

He nodded.

“Will you come back to our room ? You don’t belong in here anymore,” she said.

He stood up, keeping his hold on her. She wrapped her legs around his waist and let him carry her to her room. 2

“ I need to go get Alaric,” she said.

He nodded and set her down. She made sure he climbed into her bed before walking out the door. 2

Triplet Alphas Gifted Luna By Samantha Doyle Chapter 22

Ch 22 Worst Day Ever

ALARIC'S POV

Yesterday was amazing. We skipped lunch and made love to Thea. We kept our clothes on, but that's what it was— making love. We skipped the rest of school, relaxed in the woods, and talked about shifting. It was a fantastic day. Then we went home to find all our stuff moved into Thea's room. We were officially living together. We finally get to sleep together every night, be together every day. No reason to part. No space between us. She was ours.

Today, we woke up and watched Thea get ready for her day with Misty. She styled her hair and put on makeup. She never wears makeup unless it's a formal event. She doesn't need it, she's perfect without it, but if she put it on, it meant she thought the occasion was special. She wanted to impress someone. It hurt that she was doing it for someone else.

When I saw her in the turquoise dress, hair styled, makeup on, it took my breath away. She was always gorgeous. She was the most beautiful creature on Earth. No one held a candle to her, even though she always dressed in a way to downplay her feminine features. Seeing her in the dress that accentuated those features made me want to reach under it and do things to make her scream my name.

I could tell Kai and Conri were thinking similar thoughts.

She kissed each of us goodbye then left.

“When was the last time we spent an entire day away from each other?” Kai said.

“When we were kids. She went with her parents to visit her uncle’s pack back east,” Conri said. “She was gone a week.”

“We fought each other and everyone else the whole time,” I said, remembering.

“We couldn’t sleep without her. Mom had to drug us,” Kai said.

As soon as she got back, we relaxed, and things went back to normal. Our parents decided Thea couldn’t go anywhere without us. When her parents were sent on out-of-town assignments, we were assigned to keep Thea safe and happy since we were the reason she couldn’t be with them. “Why does she want to spend the entire day without us?” Kai said.

“She needs to see what else is out there. She’s never had anyone even show an interest in her because we scared them away before they had a chance,” I said.

“Why does she want to spend the day with that she-wolf?” Conri said.

“Misty confessed her love for her. We haven’t even done that,” Kai said.

“Of course Thea will be affected by that,” I said. “ She doesn’t know anything besides us,” I said. I couldn’t help but think we’d been pathetic mates to her.

“Neither do we. We’ve only ever been with her,” Conri said.

“No,” I said. “We’ve had girls throw themselves at us all our lives. We know we don’t want them.”

“Alpha Valko.” “Alpha Alaric.” So many girls had tried to turn me on by saying my name and title in what they thought was a seductive way. If only they knew how repulsive their voices were to me. Kai and Conri had the same problem. Girls would put their hands on our chests and try to trail their fingers up and down our abs. Again, they thought they were being seductive, but we felt like spiders were crawling on our skin.

We had to be careful removing their hands from us. The knee-jerk reaction was to throw them off with our Alpha strength or beat them to a bloody pulp so they wouldn’t think about doing it again, but we were taught not to hurt people weaker than us. Even females that were touching something that belonged to Thea.

Eventually, it got to the point if we saw a girl approaching us, we’d stop her before she got to us.

Kai would hold out his hand and say, “No. Don’t even try. I’m not interested.” That’s all it took for him. He was the most intimidating guy at our school. People didn’t argue with him. Most people were afraid of him. He didn’t take crap from people, and he didn’t let anything go. Everyone knew he meant business, and no one could change his mind. He won every argument, every fight, everything. The one exception was Thea.

Conri would get angry. “I’m taken,” he’d say. Sometimes the girl would argue. I’d seen it happen.

“No, you’re not. Thea doesn’t have romantic feelings for you. You need to move on. Why not with me? I can make you happy.” Things along those lines. It only angered Conri further.

“Stay away from me,” he’d say. If the girl pressed further or touched him, he’d jump away and get mean. “You disgust me. Your touch is repulsive. I could never want you.” Things like that. «

People knew not to touch us at this point. The only person who got to touch us was Thea.

When a girl approached me, I’d shake my head ather. If she didn’t get the message, I’d look her dead in the eye—the challenge of an Alpha, where you either submit or we fight to the death. Of course, she’d submit and bare her neck to me, acknowledging that I was stronger and could kill her easily. She’d have to do whatever I told her after that. I’d say, “Go away. Stay away. It’s never going to happen.” It wasn’t an Alpha tone command. It was a simple statement letting them know my boundaries. Goddess help the she-wolf that tried to call me Ric. Thea gave me that nickname when we were kids. I loved it when she called me Ric. No one else got to call me that. I was Alpha Alaric or Alpha Valko to anyone else. ‘

Word got around, and some girls made it into a challenge. They’d follow us into the restroom.

We’d be standing there, minding our business as one does while urinating in a public toilet. Then hands wrap around our waist and try to grab our dicks. “Let me give you a blow job.” Their touch would instantly make our dicks soft. Those girls got thrown out of the bathroom and reported. Other times girls would ambush us. Wait somewhere they knew we’d go. Naked or in lingerie. Some would wear peach perfume or be holding a peach in their hands. Everyone knew we loved peaches. We walk in, see the girl, then immediately turn around and leave before she jumps us.

“What if she likes being away from us?” Conri said, bringing me back to the present.

“She’s always been fine without us,” Kai said. “ She leads. We follow. She forges ahead without us, and we’re left playing catch-up. What if she likes this she-wolf?”

“We’re going to lose her,” Conri said.

“She’s our mate. We can’t lose her,” I said. “ She’ll come back to us once we shift, and she feels the pull of the matebond.”

“I can’t wait for that!” Conri said. “I can’t watch her be with someone else. I can’t.”

Conri got up and went to his room. He started throwing things, breaking things. It wasn’t long before his old room was in splinters. We always said he was the most in tune with his wolf. It was his strongest Alpha trait. He acted like an animal. Pure instinct. All emotion.

Once there was nothing left to break, Conri returned to Thea’s room and curled up in a ball on her bed, holding onto her pillows, breathing in her scent, and crying.

Neither Kai nor I could get Conri to move. He wouldn’t eat. He got worse the longer Thea was gone. No wonder he constantly held onto Thea’s shirt. He was keeping her within his reach because he can’t be far from her.

Kai watched Conri implode until he couldn’t take it anymore. I couldn’t take it either. Kai left Thea’s room, and I followed. Kai wandered until he saw some people training. They were sparring. He went straight to them.

“Let’s go,” Kai said.

« Alpha ?”

“Yeah, we’ll make it a fair fight,” Kai said. “All of you against me.”

The group was nervous, but they couldn’t disobey their future Alpha.

“Come on,” Kai said.

He jumped into the fray and hit a few of them, but he was pulling his punches. He wasn’t trying to put any of them down. The guys tried to psyche themselves up enough to hit their Alpha. One of them threw a punch, and Kai dodged out of the way. He let the next guy hit him. And the next.

That encouraged them to get more aggressive. I watched as Kai let the group pummel him to the ground. He didn’t even try to block the hits. He didn’t want to fight. He wanted to get beat up. He wanted the physical pain to distract him.

This is why my father forbade Thea from leaving us all those years ago. Nothing had changed. We hadn’t grown up. We were destructive without her. I realized the stories of Alphas and their mates were true. If they never found their mate, they went feral. If they lost their mate, they went crazy and died. That’s what happens when the other half of your soul is missing. As Alphas, we’d be worse than everybody.

“Alright, that’s enough,” I said, stepping in. The guys all backed off. I held out my hand to help Kai up. He glared at me, mad that I stopped the pain, but he took my hand, and I pulled him up. He threw a punch at me, and I ducked. He tried again and again and again. He wasn't going to stop. I threw a punch I knew he could block, and he let my fist connect with his face. He stumbled back a few steps.

"That's more like it," Kai said. He came back and threw a punch. I barely dodged it. He was trying to get me to put him down. I knew he wouldn't stop. He never did when he wanted something. That was his strongest Alpha trait. Never back down. I may as well put an end to this.

I reared back, punched him as hard as I could, and knocked him out. I let him fall to the ground, then I picked him up, threw him over my shoulder, and carried him to Thea's room. I tossed him to the floor.

Some things needed to be taken care of, so I left my brothers in their pathetic heaps and went to do my duty. That was my strongest Alpha trait. Duty.

As the day went on, I felt heavier and heavier. Moving took more and more effort. I finished my work and went back to Thea's room. Kai was awake, leaning against the bed. Conri hadn't moved. I sat at Thea's desk and played with her things to feel closer to her. 1

I felt like I was dying inside. Like my heart was breaking. Without Thea, I was a shell. This is why most people die soon after their mates die.

Without Thea, life wouldn't be worth living. I don't know how long I sat there at her desk, staring into space, but eventually, she walked into the room. She took in the scene—all of us a wreck.

We turned and looked at her. Worst-case scenarios played through my mind. She wanted to see other people and see what was out there. She liked the she-wolf and wanted to be with her.

“What happened?” Thea said. I could hear the worry in her voice. Conri jumped off the bed, ran to her, spilled onto his knees, and hugged her as tight as he could. “Please don’t leave us,” he sobbed. “Please don’t leave us. I’ll be better.”

“What? I’m not going anywhere. What’s going on?” She tried to comfort him, putting her hands around him.

Kai wouldn’t talk. The fight had left him.

“We didn’t handle today very well,” I said since no one else could answer her coherently.

“What happened today?”

“You left us,” Conri sobbed. She knelt down and held him. “What are you talking about, Con? I’m right here.” I didn’t feel like watching her pay attention to someone else. I stood up and walked to the door.

“I’m glad you’re back safe,” I said.

“Ric?”

It hurt to hear the nickname. I left.

Triplet Alphas Gifted Luna By Samantha Doyle Chapter 23

Ch 23 Not Enough ALARIC’S POV

I went to my old room. I remembered the nursery we shared when we were very young. I remember the day they split us apart and put us in our own rooms. We all left our new rooms that first night and climbed into Thea’s bed. We didn’t sleep in our new rooms for years. We only used them to shower and change clothes. Otherwise, we were in Thea’s room.

I remembered when we started having wet dreams and morning wood. We were horrified. Embarrassed. It was difficult to hide. We didn’t know what was happening to our bodies at first, and we didn’t have control over it. We knew we had to hide it from Thea. At first, we tried waking up and getting out of bed before she woke up, but we didn't always wake up in time. I told my brothers we couldn't sleep with her anymore. Conri and Kai suggested we start dating her immediately. Then we could tell her about being turned on and what that made our bodies do.

Then we could still sleep with her.

I convinced them that we had to wait until she was ready. She had to make the first move. We were the future Alphas. If she wasn't ready, if she didn't have romantic feelings yet, she could feel like she didn't have a choice. She had to do what her Alphas wanted. It would taint our relationship. If we had to, we could wait until we shifted and the matebond kicked in on her end, but we wouldn't destroy our relationship before it had a chance to blossom.

I wondered if we started too soon. Maybe we should have waited until our birthdays. I don't know why we felt the pull of the matebond from day one, and she didn't. Just another reason I felt like I wasn't enough for her.

I was lost in my thoughts when I heard her knock on the door. Thea came in and laid next to me on the bed. It hurt to have her so close when I couldn't have her for real.

"I didn't realize this would have such an effect on all of you. Will you tell me what you're feeling?" she said.

I didn't know where to start or if any of it would make a difference, but she deserved an answer. It took a moment to sort my feelings.

“I’m feeling hurt. I feel like I’ll never be enough. You’re my world, and I’m not yours. I’m not important. I’m not the one you want.”

She sat up and looked at me. “Oh, Ric, you’re wrong.”

I met her eyes.

“Where is this coming from? Why do you feel that way?” Thea said.

“Maybe because I’ve loved you since I can remember, and you never seemed interested. For so long, I’ve wanted to kiss you, hold your hand, make you moan, hear you say my name when you’re turned on, and you never gave the slightest hint that you wanted that from me.”

“I did, Ric. I do. I’ve wanted you to kiss me, touch me, do anything to my marking spot,” Thea said. She bit her lip. “Do you know how many times I’ve touched myself thinking about you? I imagine us in bed together, you laying on top of me, feeling your weight on me. I thought I wasn’t allowed to have those feelings, so I hid them.”

“Really?” I studied her face. She looked sincere.

“We’re so similar. Both of us were waiting for the other to make a move. I’ve been pining for you in secret for as long as I can remember. Your calm confidence is such a turn-on. You always know what’s right and do the right thing. I know I can count on you. I see and appreciate all you do for me, for the pack, for everyone. I trust you. I admire you. You’re so perfect. It means so much that you’re even interested in me. Being intimate with you makes me have all kinds of fluttery feelings inside.”

“Me too.” I couldn’t help smiling.

“You’re right, though,” Thea said. “I don’t show you enough what you mean to me. Maybe we need to start scheduling alone time. We’re always all together, but if we were alone, I could show you better what you mean to me.”

“That sounds nice,” I said.

“I want so badly for us to be mates.”

“I know we’re mates.”

“Okay,” Thea said. “If you say we’re mates, I believe you.”

“Just like that?”

“I trust you. I trust your judgment. You always do the right thing. You always know what’s right. I should’ve seen it before. If you believe it, so do I.” I needed to feel her. I pulled her on top of me.

“I love you, Thea. I need you. We fell apart today, I fell apart, and you were absolutely fine. Goddess, it felt like I was dying. That’s always how it goes. We need you, but you don’t need us.”

“No, Ric. I pretend to be okay without you guys. I thought I had to. It was practice for when you all got other mates. Being so far away from you all day was awful. Every part of me ached for you. I couldn’t stop thinking about you. I wanted you with me. I love you so much. I’m so sorry I caused you pain. I never want you to feel or believe that you’re not enough. You’re so much more than enough. You’re everything. It feels like my heart can’t contain the love I have for you, like it’s going to burst out of my chest.”

“Yeah?” Goddess, those words meant everything to me.

“Yeah.”

“I like this alone time thing. Tell me more,” I said. | “When I think about you, goddess, no, I can’t say it.” She blushed and hid her face in my chest.

“Tell me.” I needed to see her beautiful face. I lifted her head to face me. Her lips were so perfect. I traced them with my thumb.

“When I think about you, I want you to put a pup inside me.”

My heart skipped a beat. I rolled to the side and put Thea on her back. My hand went to her belly, where our pups would grow. Where we’d feel them kick. Thea closed her eyes and smiled. Sighed. It was the best sight and sound in the world.

“You think about that?” I said.

“Yeah. I think about how it would feel to have your pup growing in my belly. How it would feel to have you comforting me and helping me through labor. How your face would look when you hold our pup in your arms.” She opened her eyes and looked into mine. “Do you think about it?”

“All the time,” I said. “There are times I look at you, and I see a miniature version of you, turquoise eyes and chestnut hair, running around, jumping into my arms. She’d beat up her brothers, boss them around. I see her on your hip, holding onto you while you go about your business as Luna. I’ve seen her scrape her knee and come crying to us. We comfort her, wipe her tears, clean her up.” I put my forehead against hers. “You want to have my pups?”

She put her hand over mine on her belly.

“I want to have your pups. You’ll make the best father.” :

My heart fluttered. Goddess. Of all the people in the world, hearing that from Thea meant everything. She brought out the best in me. She made me feel like a man. I wanted to provide for her and keep her safe, healthy, and happy. My hand slid around her hip, squeezed, and pulled her closer to me.

“I want you so bad, Ric. I want you to make love to me.”

My heart raced. “What about waiting until we shift?” I said.

“We’re mates, right?” I nodded. “That’s what I was waiting for. I trust you.”

We were naked in no time, kissing hungrily. I had to touch her everywhere. Her hands were all over me, pulling me closer. It felt like she wanted me as much as I wanted her. I laid her down on her back and lowered myself over her. She looked up at me in the sweetest way. I kissed her, and she ran her legs up and down mine. She slid her hands around my back, following the contours of my muscles. It felt incredible to have her exploring my body, being turned on by it.

I broke our kiss, propped myself up on my elbow, grabbed my cock, and started running the head up and down her warm, slick folds. I almost came from that. My cock against her pussy, skin to skin. She was so wet, and it was for me.

“Please, Ric,” she begged.

She wanted me. I felt it, and my heart soared. I moved to her entrance, and our eyes locked. Goddess, she felt amazing. I started to push inside, and Thea winced. I froze.

“Are you okay?” I didn’t mean to hurt her.

She nodded. "I forgot the first time is going to hurt."

Oh yeah.

"Me too," I said. It was like someone dumped a bucket of cold water on me. I pulled out and dragged my cock up to her clit. Up and down a few times. I wanted her to feel good, not be in pain.

"That feels so good, Ric."

"Yeah. It does." Goddess, there were tingles wherever we touched. I was thinking a little more clearly. "We should wait for Kai and Con. It would break their hearts if they missed this. I'm sorry I got caught up in my emotions."

Thea sighed. "I'm sorry too," she said. "I accepted we were mates, and I lost my mind. You're right, as always. Kai and Con need to be here. Come here."

I laid next to her, wrapped my arms around her, and pulled her close. We cooled down, holding and caressing each other.

"How did today go?" I said after a while.

"Really good. I got a lot of ideas for the bar. I need to visit more. Maybe next time you guys could come with me?"

"Sure."

"One of the bars was for men only. There was porn on all the walls of very specific types of sex. You should've seen the looks we got when we, two girls, walked in. It was so awkward."

"I guess their website didn't specify that?"

“No. In hindsight, if I had been aware of the type of porn I saw there, the name of the bar may have been a tip-off.”

“What was it?”

“The Anvil.”

I laughed. “We boys may have caught that one, my sweet, innocent Luna.” We laughed together, and she nuzzled against me.

“You know, you didn’t even ask me if I liked kissing her,” Thea said.

I didn’t want to think about it. “Did you?” I said.

“I couldn’t do it. I tried to consider it, like you said, but I only ever want to kiss you and Kai and Con.”

“You minx,” I said, mussing her hair. She smiled up at me. “I missed you today.”

“I missed you too. How was your day?” Thea said.

“It started uncomfortably. Con spiraled so fast. He destroyed his old room, wouldn’t eat, and then he wouldn’t leave your bed. He needed your scent to keep him relatively calm. Kai spiraled too. Picked fights with anyone who would hit him.”

“Is that why your hands are beat up?”

“Thad to stop him.”

“You never get to throw tantrums. You’re always the responsible one,” Thea said.

“Yeah.”

“Do you want to throw a tantrum sometime?” Did I? “I don’t know. I don’t know what I’d do.”

“Well, Pl hold space for you to lose control if you need it.”

My Luna. My mate. My perfect angel. I kissed her. Goddess, it felt so good to be able to do that.

“Will you do me a favor?” she said.

“Anything.”

“If you feel anything other than perfectly happy, please come to me. Please don’t pull away. I want to be the one to comfort you and make you whole. I don’t need you to be the responsible one all the time. I want to see the other sides of you, and I never want you to be unhappy. Please come to me. No matter what.”

I loved hearing those words come out of her mouth. I wanted them. I wanted to do it. It went against my nature, though.

“I’ll try,” I said.

“I told you we’re similar.”

She was right, wasn’t she? I kissed her forehead.

“We should probably head back to our room,” I said.

“Yeah.”

We got up, dressed, and joined Conri and Kai in Thea’s bed. Our bed. We all snuggled up to her, soaking in her warmth and her scent.

“This feels right,” Thea said. “This is what I’ve wanted all day.”

My brothers and I grunted in agreement.

“Us too, but you were better at hiding it,” Kai said.

“Will you stop hiding it? I want to know you want us,” Conri said.

“I’ll try,” Thea said. “Old habits die hard.”

Triplet Alphas Gifted Luna By Samantha Doyle Chapter 24

Ch 24 Calm Before the Storm

BACK TO THIRD PERSON POV

Thea woke up to three very horny triplets. It was late, and they were all emotionally spent last night, but this morning, the need to be close to her was powerful.

“Hi,” she said.

Three pairs of crystal blue eyes looked at her hungrily. Hands roamed her body, removing clothing.

“Goddess, this is the best way to wake up,” Thea said.

The triplets stripped down to their boxers.

“Keep going,” Thea said. “I want to feel those cocks against my skin. They’re mine, and I want to see them.”

“You’re right. They’re yours,” Conri said.

“I love it when you get possessive,” Alaric said.

“Darling, your wish is my command,” Kai said. He slid his boxers off.

Alaric and Conri did the same, and they all resumed their positions around her. Alaric with his head between her legs, Conri and Kai at her sides with their erections pressed against her and their mouths on her breasts.

“That’s better,” she said. After a moment, she pulled Kai up to kiss her. His hand took his mouth’s place on her breast. After a moment, she broke the kiss, propped herself up a bit with her pillows, pulled Kai to his knees, and guided his cock into her mouth.

He put a hand on the wall to steady himself, shock on his face. Thea swirled her tongue around his head while her hand stroked up and down his shaft. His hips rocked in sync with her movements. She pulled back enough to speak.

“I want to taste your cum, Kai,” she said, desire in her voice. Then she took him deep. His eyes went wide then his hand threaded into her hair. He gently thrust in and out while she sucked.

Pressure was building from Alaric’s ministrations. When Kai saw Thea bucking against Alaric’s face from her own climax, he came too. Seeing her getting off got him off. He tasted different than Conri, but just as delicious. It sent waves of pleasure through her to taste and swallow, like savoring caramel on an ice cream sundae.

Kai pulled out of her mouth, bent down, and kissed her, tasting himself on her.

“I love you,” he whispered.

“I love you,” she whispered back.

Conri pulled her up and set her on all fours, facing Alaric. She bit her lip as she looked at him. She wondered how good Alaric tasted.

“Come in my mouth, Ric? I need to know how you taste.”

He knelt in front of her. One hand on the wall to steady himself, the other gently holding behind her head, he positioned his cock at her lips. She kissed the tip then sucked him inside. He groaned and started thrusting.

Conri’s hand was between her legs, fingers dipping inside her and dragging her juices up. He put pressure on her tight asshole until it started to relax.

“Can I slide my finger in, babe?” Conri said. Thea nodded. “Mm-hmm,” she said. She leaned into his slick finger, and it slid right in. Thea knew it was an erogenous zone, but she was convinced it didn’t matter where they touched her—it would feel amazing, and she’d crave it immediately. She moaned, and he slowly pumped his finger in and out while he stroked himself with his other hand.

“Relax, babe,” Conri said.

Kai reached under from the side and rubbed her clit, slick with all her juices, and she started to relax. Then he pumped his fingers into her core, rubbing her clit with his palm. ‘ “Yeah, babe, that’s it,” Conri said. He added another finger, stretching her out.

Thea was close. Her moans got louder and faster. The sound pushed Alaric and Conri over the edge, and they all three came. Conri shot his load on her back. Thea swallowed Alaric's with sounds of ecstasy. She didn't think cum could taste so good. Like her favorite vanilla ice cream. It must be the mate bond. Some kind of magic that made them each taste like heaven, like something she needed. The triplets pulled out of her, and she cried out then collapsed on the bed. Kai lifted her and carried her to the shower. Alaric and Conri followed.

"Goddess," Thea said when she was standing on her own two feet. "We haven't even had sex yet. How much better can it get?" The triplets smiled.

"We don't know, but we're excited to find out," Conri said.

"Maybe I need to do my own research. Learn how to please you," Thea said.

Alaric wrapped his arms around her waist from behind and kissed her neck. "You're already perfect, my love."

"Babe, you please us," Conri said. "You don't need to do anything but enjoy yourself." Kai took her face in his hands. "You're not lacking in any way, darling."

She smiled and sighed. "I love you. All of you."

"We love you too," they said in unison.

"You guys taste so good," Thea said. "Kai, you're like caramel. Ric, you're like vanilla ice cream. Con, you're like hot fudge." 2

"Your favorites," Alaric said.

"My favorites. I don't know if you actually taste like those things, but it's the sensation I get." After getting ready for the day, Thea wanted to check on the injured Delta team members. The triplets accompanied her to the infirmary. She asked the doctor how the men were doing.

“I released Ryder, Jayden, and Wyatt this morning,” Dr. Boman said. “Landon and Maverick are still recovering. Their injuries were more substantial.”

“Is there anything we can do?”

“I’m sure they wouldn’t mind a visit.” Thea knocked on the door.

“Come in,” Maverick called out.

Thea entered, trailed by the triplets.

“Luna, Alphas,” Maverick and Landon said. They tried to sit up to show respect.

“No, no,” Thea said. She walked over between their beds, put her hands on their shoulders, and gently pushed them back down. “Lay down. You need to rest and heal.” They obeyed her. She took in their visible injuries and sighed. They looked gruesome. The fight must have been bad for them to still look like this the day after. Shifted wolves healed fast. It looked like they nearly died. “I’m sorry you were injured because of me.”

“It’s our honor, Luna,” Landon said.

“It’s the best reason to get injured,” Maverick said.

She felt guilty and honored at the same time. She wanted them to heal quickly and not have any lasting scars. She could almost feel their injuries as if they were her own. A rush of emotion overwhelmed her.

“Thank you for going above and beyond your duty,” Thea said. “I hope you recover quickly.”

She squeezed their shoulders. “I’ll let you get your rest.”

She walked out of the room and down the hall, the triplets trailing her. She barely heard the two whispering as they walked away.

“Did you feel that?” Maverick said.

“Yeah. Do you think she’s aware of it?” Landon said.

“It’s only a matter of time if she isn’t.” Before she could wonder what they were talking about, the triplets and Thea turned the corner, and Conri grabbed Thea. He pinned her against the wall and kissed her, sending butterflies through her stomach.

“I know you don’t have feelings for them, but I don’t like it when you touch anyone else,” he said. More hard kisses. “Even if they saved your life.” His hand trailed down her side, grabbed her leg, and hooked it around his waist. “You’re mine.”

“You’re ours,” Kai and Alaric said.

Conri’s mouth moved down to her neck and found her marking spot. He sucked and nibbled on it, sending tingles throughout Thea’s body.

“I’m yours,” Thea moaned. “All yours.”

“Who do you belong to? Say my name.”

“Con,” Thea breathed. “I belong to you, Con.”

“Good.” He started kissing her marking spot, getting gentler. “Good.”

Thea trailed her hands up and down Conri's back. She started to come back to reality.

"Maybe I should make you jealous more often," Thea said. "That was hot."

He lifted her and carried her to the dining hall for lunch. He wouldn't let her go, so she sat in his lap, and he fed her while she caressed him.

When Thea spotted Lizzy, she grabbed Conri's face and put her forehead to his.

"Have you had your fill for now? I need to talk to Lizzy."

Conri huffed. "I'll never get my fill."

Thea smiled, kissed his cheek, and ran over to her best friend.

"Lizzy, I need your help with something," Thea said.

Triplet Alphas Gifted Luna By Samantha Doyle Chapter 25

Ch 25 Help Me

"Lizzy, I need your help with something," Thea said.

"Sure. What is it?" Lizzy said.

"In private," she whispered just loud enough for Lizzy to hear. They went outside. "Lingerie. I don't know where to start."

“Oh, honey, you don’t need lingerie. All you need to do is show up.”

“That can’t possibly be true.”

Lizzy laughed. “My sweet, innocent Luna. You are quite the smitten kitten, aren’t you?”

“Yeah.”

“You’re adorable. Let’s go shopping after lunch.”

“And dresses. I need to add dresses to my wardrobe.”

“you hussy. Not even going to make them work for access anymore?”

“I want to make them happy.”

“Goddess, Thea. They’ve never been happier. They’re glowing. They never stop smiling.”

“Maybe the dresses are for me too. It’s annoying to have to completely undress all the time.”

“All the time, huh?”

“Oh, goddess,” Thea said, blushing.

“Hey, are you using protection?”

“We haven’t had sex yet.”

Lizzy raised her eyebrows. “We’ll stop and get you condoms too. It won’t be long before you do, and someone has to look out for you. You’re always the one looking out for others.”

“I love you, Lizzy.”

“Love you too, Luna.”

Thea went back to the triplets but sat on Alaric’s lap with her legs stretched out over Kai’s. She pulled out her phone and searched for books about relationships. She ordered every one she found, even got a few on audiobook to listen to as she trained, running laps or conditioning. She was naive and inexperienced in relationships, but she was determined to get better. She was going to be the best girlfriend she could be.

“Are you guys okay if I go to the mall with Lizzy after lunch?” Thea said. “I promise you’ll like what I bring back.”

“Can we come?” Conri said.

“No,” Thea said. Conri pouted. “It’s supposed to be a surprise.”

“Make it quick,” he said.

“Yeah, I don’t want a repeat of yesterday,” Alaric said.

“You know it’s difficult to believe you want to be with us when you’re constantly running away from us,” Kai said.

“I’m not running away from you,” Thea said. “I’m going shopping to get you guys treats. Doesn’t that tell you I want to be with you?”

“Hmm. I guess it all depends on the treats you bring back.” Kai leaned in and kissed her.

“Any requests?” Thea said.

“Surprise us,” Kai said.

After lunch, Lizzy and Thea headed to the garage. Lizzy drove, but they were stopped at the gate by the guards.

“We need you to wait, Luna, until a security detail comes to escort you,” the guard said.

“What?” Thea said. “We’re not going far. Just to the mall.”

“Sorry, Luna, Alpha’s orders. You’re not to leave pack lands without an escort.”

Thea thought for a second. “Oh, I forgot.”

“What?” Lizzy said.

“I went off pack lands yesterday, like far away. The security detail said there were people following me. I guess because I haven’t shifted, and everyone thinks I’m the future Luna.”

“They could kidnap you to try to hurt the pack. Right.”

“Life has suddenly become complicated,” Thea said.

“Do you want me to go alone and pick stuff out for you?” Lizzy said.

Thea thought. She didn’t want to make the warriors babysit her again, and she definitely didn’t want them seeing her buying lingerie or condoms.

“Do you mind?” Thea said.

“Goddess, no. This is going to be fun. I’ll bring a ton of stuff back, and we can have a fashion show tonight! If you don’t like something, I’ll keep it.” She winked at her. Thea was about to say something, but Lizzy interrupted her. “Don’t worry. I know your style better than you do.”

“I appreciate you.”

“You’re my best friend. There’s nothing I wouldn’t do for you.”

“What did I do to deserve a friend like you?” Thea said.

“Nothing but being yourself. You’re just loveable,” Lizzy said. ‘

Thea laughed. She dug in her purse for the pack black card and saw Lizzy’s fake ID. She handed both to her.

Alpha Ulric had given Thea her own black card years ago because it was easier than having her ask every time she wanted to get a pack member something. He trusted her judgment, and because she made it a point to know everyone in the pack, she knew what people needed.

It was rare for her to buy something for herself. Even the purchases she planned to make today were really for the triplets, like the books she just ordered.

“Thanks for letting me borrow the ID,” Thea said.

“No problem. Oh yeah, I need to hear all about that. Tonight. You want me to drive you back right now?” Lizzy said.

“No. I like running.”

Thea hugged her then got out of the car. She told the guard to call the security detail off, then started jogging back to the pack house. It was a neat 5k into the woods. She was fast. She could make it in twenty minutes on foot without breaking a sweat.

A few minutes in, she heard rustling off in the distance. She sniffed the air to see if she recognized any scents. She heard paws hitting the ground, gaining on her. She turned and saw a wild -looking wolf chasing her. She didn't recognize it, and she couldn't smell it.

It was a rogue.