Let me go, Mr. Hill Author: Shallow South Chapter 2767

Chapter 2767

"That's amazing. Absolutely awesome."

Freya started sharing the first-hand information she got with Charity. "You can't even imagine what's going on now. This issue raised a heated discussion among the wealthy families in Canberra. All group chats are talking about it. The Tanner family has gone crazy from anger. Lillian brought her two brothers to the hotel to catch them in the act early in the morning. I heard that she caught Monte red-handed. He wasn't even wearing clothes."

That scene was within charity's expectations. "I deliberately had the editor show the hotel's address on the bed frame in the video. It wasn't hard for the Tanner family to find out."

"But... You arranged a woman like that." Freya let out a tsk and said, "People in the circle are shocked. Is what they said about that... true?"

Charity did not understand, "what is it?"

"HIV," Freya said. "That woman revealed that she has HIV. It shocked Lillian until she was eager to break off the engagement with Monte on the spot."

Charity was confused.

Freya continued saying, "Your arrangement was amazing. Suppose Lillian simply caught Monte in the act, the marriage might've continued if the Patterson family gave the Tanner family some benefits since the Tanner family wants the benefits from this arranged marriage as well. This farce would've only ruined Monte's reputation. But he got infected with HIV this time... Which eligible woman will dare marry Monte in the future?"

Charity was stunned.

Freya said, "Since you arranged such a play, you must've handled it cleanly. The Patterson family won't suspect you, right?"

"Monte must know it's my doing after he woke up. He asked me out to the restaurant last night. After that, my people knocked him out at the hotel, which led to the things that happened afterward. Although the hotel's security footage has been deleted, Monte definitely knows."

Freya blinked. "Then... Ryan told me it won't be a problem if you've erased all your traces. If the Patterson family finds out that you caused Monte to be infected with HIV, Monte's father will be a tough opponent. It's said that he has blood on his hands from when he was young. Monte is his only son."

Charity frowned. "I really don't know that woman or about her having HIV."

"Seems like it's an accident, then. You should be careful," Freya said. "Although the layout for Hugo's scheme is done, the amount of money involved isn't too big. Even if the Patterson family is caught, they might be able to settle the issue with just some money. Actually, you shouldn't have done what you did last night. We already had a plan set up anyway. The fall of the Patterson family is just a matter of time."

Charity rubbed the spot between her brows. "Monte kept appearing in front of me and disgusting me. I just wanted to teach him a lesson."

"Never mind. What's done is done. You must be careful, though. Bring a bodyguard with you wherever you go," Freya said. "If you don't have enough personnel, do you need me to ask Ryan to lend you some people?"

"Don't," Charity said. "You haven't even gotten married to him. Don't keep troubling him. It's okay. I'm aware of the situation."

After hanging up, Charity called Steven in. "Where did you find the woman last night?"

Steven said, "From a brothel. The women there are poor. They'll do anything after giving them money."

"That woman has HIV," Charity said after a moment of silence.

Steven scratched the back of his head. "Well... That's normal. It's easy for women involved in that business to be infected with those diseases. That's still considered okay. At least it's not some dirty disease."

There was some logic to that.

Steven said, "Besides, you were the one who said that ... a scumbag like Monte doesn't deserve an expensive woman."

Charity was taken aback. She laughed helplessly. "Forget it. Be extra careful during this period. It's said that Monte's father is ruthless. We crossed the line this time and left traces behind. The Patterson family will surely get their revenge. We're not afraid of open attacks, but there might be hidden attacks."

"...Okay." Steven nodded. "Don't worry, I'll definitely protect you well. However, do you want to look for Max to deploy more people over?"

Upon hearing that, Charity raised her head and gave Steven a complicated gaze. "Don't tell Max."

Steven was confused. "Why?"

"He has his own matters. Don't keep troubling him," Charity said with a stern expression. "I know you two have a close brotherly relationship, but since you're here to protect me, you just have to do your job. You don't have to tell him everything in detail."

Steven felt awkward.

He did tell Max many things.

Max knew what charity did every day very well.

"Steven, I know Max is concerned about me." charity softened her tone. "He has always treated me well, but everyone has their privacy. Besides, his duty is to protect the prime minister. It'll affect his promotion if he keeps worrying about my issues."

"I understand." Steven put on a serious expression. "I'll take note in the future."

"In the meantime, get two more bodyguards with good skills. It's impossible for you not to have any connections in the industry."

"Okay. I'll look for people now." Steven nodded.

On the top floor of Janee Group.

A hardcover book came flying at Monte once he entered. It hit his head, causing it to swell on the spot.

“What are you doing? Are you trying to hit your son to death?” Madam Patterson glared at Mr. Patterson. She wanted to go and check on her son’s condition. However, she had heard that Monte might have been infected with HIV, so she held herself back.

“If he wasn’t my only child, I’d hit him to death now.” Mr. Patterson pointed at Monte angrily and scolded, “I did an investigation. The woman you slept with is a prostitute. Anyone can have sex with her for 100 dollars. She does have HIV. I think you most probably have it too.”

Monte’s face was pale. “Dad, I was set up by Eliza.”

“I told you to behave yourself after getting engaged, but you didn’t listen!” Mr. Patterson said furiously. “She even dared to mess with Chester. You should’ve been cautious. That woman isn’t to be underestimated. You abandoned her back then, so she must’ve held a grudge.”

Monte had an ashen face.

He did not understand.

The Eliza he knew in the past was not like that. She was kind and could not even bear to kill a fish.

Eliza loved him so much.

“We have to avenge Monte,” Madam Patterson said angrily. “We must make her life a living hell.”

"It's not that easy." Mr. Patterson glared at her. "I've looked into Eliza. Not only is she the new president of Neeson Corporation and the major shareholder of Ferra Film Group, but she has also recently become Jewell Corporation's shareholder. Even Chester can't go against her."

Monte was puzzled. "This... How can this be? She's just an ordinary girl. If it weren't for me, she couldn't even have joined the entertainment industry." "You stupid thing. That only means that you don't understand her enough." Mr. Patterson let out a hmp. "Since she caused you to be infected with HIV, she has to take responsibility for this. If not, the Patterson family won't let her off the hook"

"What responsibility?" Madam Patterson said furiously, "Just get people to beat her up. Don't let her leave Canberra with her four limbs intact."

Mr. Patterson rubbed the middle of his brows. His wife's knowledge was too shallow.

It was probably due to her being used to living a luxurious life. Hence, she did not think too much of Eliza, an actress.

"Mom, doing that... Isn't that too inappropriate?"

Monte stammered, "It would've been fine if Eliza were the same as she was in the past. However, Dad said just now that she's the president of Neeson Corporation, Ferra Film Group's major shareholder, and Jewell Corporation's shareholder. Look at her last identity. Any one of Jewell Corporation's shareholders can be on par with Dad."

"Jewell Corporation is no longer the same as before," Madam Patterson said. "I heard Jewell Corporation's profits last month went down by half when I was playing poker."

"The rich are still rich even after suffering a blow. Jewell Corporation is still the leader in medical resources domestically," Mr. Patterson explained. "In the face of death, will you choose Jewell Corporation or other hospitals?"

Madam Patterson had no more words.

Mr. Patterson sneered. "However, the Patterson family isn't to be bullied. Since Eliza caused Monte harm, she should present herself as compensation and get married to Monte. Think about it. she has so many resources. Isn't she stronger than the Tanner family?"

Madam Patterson widened her eyes. "Are you joking? How is she good enough for our Monte? She's not even qualified to carry his shoes."

"What an ignorant woman!" Mr. Patterson said angrily. "After she marries into our family, won't everything that belongs to her become the Patterson family's possession? If she gives birth to a child, our grandchildren can all become Jewell Corporation's shareholders. Besides, everyone knows that Monte has HIV now. will the daughters of even slightly well- off families want to get married to him?" Madam Patterson was exasperated.

Of course, those poor women did not deserve to get married to Monte.

"Dad, I understand." Monte clenched his fists. Hatred filled his eyes. "I'll marry her. After that, I'll repay her with the treatment she gave me."

"Good. Impatience will ruin great plans." Mr.

Patterson patted his shoulders. "However, you should use some force before going with softer methods."

The next day.

Charity was awakened by her secretary's call while she was still asleep.

"President Robbins, things are bad. The company's distributors are all asking to terminate their contracts."

"I'll go to the company immediately." Charity just changed her clothes and rushed over.

When she arrived at the company, the employees were unmotivated to work. They were standing together and deep in discussion.

"The company is so unlucky. It was messed up because of Manager Green previously. The rotten apple was finally removed, but distributors are creating a stir again."

"How are the company's products going to be sold without distributors? Our sales weren't good from the beginning anyway."

"I heard President Robbins wanted to get star athletes to be our endorsers, but they all rejected."

"The company is in a bad situation. A celebrity doesn't know how to manage a company at all. I think we should quickly switch companies."

As Charity walked in, those employees immediately went silent. They backed off and did not say anything else.

“Gather each department’s senior managers to the conference room for a meeting now.”

Charity gave instructions.
