

Apex Chapter 504

Chapter 504 Very Brave Another half a month passed.

Javier finally received a call from home, but it was not from Zephiel-it was William.

“Javier, I’m sure you’ve heard about Uncle Arthur from grandpa, so I won’t say more to you. Grandpa’s about to hold a family meeting to talk about Uncle Arthur. Hurry and come back!”

William sounded grim and even vaguely aggrieved. Was he mournful about Arthur betraying the family? Javier found it a little unbelievable. He called Zephiel after ending the call with William, only to find that Zephiel’s phone was turned off. He also could not get through to the old man’s butler.

It did not sit right with Javier, but he dared not think further about the worst, afraid that he would think of scenarios he could not accept. Nevertheless, he called Mackenzie. The latter was the holder of their family’s underground forces and was absolutely loyal to the old fox.

“Mackenzie, William asked me to return home for a family meeting, saying that it’s grandpa’s order, but I can’t get through to grandpa or his butler.” Mackenzie’s reply was low in tone. “I was just about to call you for this. A few minutes ago, William told me the same thing, asked me to hurry and head back, and said that you’d go back too. I’ve also called Mr. Kersey Sr., but the outcome’s the same as yours.”

It was a family meeting, and Mackenzie was summoned back as well? It was absurd. The agenda of the family meeting was about Arthur. Why would Mackenzie be wanted? So he could bring some men and kill Arthur?

That was impossible. Even if Mackenzie were honestly asked to do that, he would only be a phone call away. Why would he be needed back on the island? With Mackenzie and Javier going back, it would be just nice to wipe them all out if something were to happen.

While Javier pondered about it, Mackenzie spoke. “I’ve trained up an assistant on the island. He looks like he’s at odds with me, but he’s completely loyal to me. I’ll know what’s up once I ask about the island’s firearms.”

It surprised Javier as he did not expect Mackenzie to have such a hidden card. Despite that... How should he put it? His hidden card was quite open.

The island was the Kerseys’ island, after all. What Mackenzie did was could easily misperceived as though he had ulterior motives. When he told Javier now, though, his dedication was apparent. He was doing it to prevent a sabotage against the Kerseys.

By training an assistant who was at loggerheads with him, the other party would contact the assistant once they were up to something. The assistant who appeared to be against Mackenzie would contact him in secret and instantly let him know the truth.

In fact, the call Mackenzie made to Javier several minutes later proved it.

“William has put under house arrest anyone under Mr. Kersey Sr.”

House arrest!? This was no different from a rebellion. It shocked Javier.

He knew that William was brazen but did not expect him to dare do something so treacherous.

The old fox was obviously the king if the Kerseys were like a kingdom. To have house-arrested the king and his guards was truly an act of “bravery”!

“He uses all outsiders. ‘They’re probably the force William has trained up outside. He has also locked up our people, and I can’t contact my assistant. He’s just informed me of the news through a secret channel.”

Javier did not mull over what secret channel it was. Professionals had their ways of doing things. He did not know about Mackenzie’s ways but was not going to ask either. He was the most worried about the old fox’s safety.

When he asked about it, Mackenzie was unsure. His assistant was locked up, so he could not go see the old fox or his men.

Mackenzie then told Javier that he would make arrangements for armed men to go to the island and remove William’s weaponry and that Javier should not hurry to go back. How could Javier not be in a hurry, though?

D

“Kenzo, I have to get involved in this. Who knows if William’s men are among those men under you? It’s better to be careful. I’ll get someone else to do it. You just have to head back yourself. I’ll get others to do the job.” In spite of it, Mackenzie came prepared. “Don’t worry. I have a team under me that Mr. Kersey Sr. has personally authorized. Only Mr. Kersey Sr. and I know about it. I won’t send anyone else. The only thing I haven’t decided is to go to the island by sea or air.” There was no need for consideration. Naturally, going to the island by sea was safer and more convenient. Based on the Kerseys’ force prior to this, forget a submarine, it would not even be a problem to go to the island in a nuclear – powered submarine. However, the old fox was on the island right now. This was a delicate situation, and it was highly possible to have set the fox to keep the geese. It was not at all impossible for others to wipe the Kerseys out when they were summoned to help in the beginning. Javier contemplated and asked Mackenzie to hold on. He called Angelina after that. Angelina was the only one who was both someone he trusted and capable. Moreover, his trust in Angelina was not just purely due to their relationship. The Soroys were basically in the same boat as they were.

It was simple. If the Soroys took the chance and exterminated the Kerseys, they would be doomed as well. The Whites would not miss this chance. In the name of avenging the Kerseys, the Whites would eliminate the Soroys who were monopolizing the power off the face of the earth. The Whites would then take its place completely. Javier believed that Angelina was well aware of this possibility, so he called her. “I want submarines!”