Chapter 511

Are You Not Afraid She Might Turn Against You? The next day, Javier, Jade, and Zephiel boarded a plane together. During the flight, Zephiel said, "I heard that you returned William his authority. Are you not afraid that he might come back and bite you in the *ss?"

Javier smiled and replied, "He can go ahead and try. But do you think he'll dare to do anything like that when you're right there keeping tabs on him, you old fox?"

Zephiel knew that was not a serious answer, so he remained silent.

Feeling helpless, Javier gave him a serious answer instead. "He's still my relative at the end of the day. Plus, he didn't actually hurt me, so I can't possibly watch him drown in his sorrows any further, can I? Of course, it would be best if I could tame him. Then, we'd be able to work together and fight our enemies side by side.

"Him helping me would definitely be better than having some outsider help me. But...if he tries to take advantage of me, he's going to have to risk being bitten once more. Anyway, he's free to try and take that risk. After all, what would life be like without taking a few risks?"

"If he's determined to be a lion without fangs and be afraid of everything, he might as well stay back in his cave and hibernate. There won't be a single risk if he does this.

"Plus, he's still the one you love the most, so I can't bear to see you force a smile on like some bitter woman."

Zephiel instantly felt pleased when he heard this.

"Who are you calling a bitter woman, you d*mn brat? I'm going to whack you silly!"

The old fox picked up his pipe and was just about to whack Javier, but the latter hurriedly ran away. Meanwhile, the old fox had a smile on his face.

He knew that a big reason for Javier's actions was that he wanted to bring William over to his side and make him his assistant.

Javier was definitely fearless, but he would not put himself in harm's way deliberately.

Hence, Zephiel was genuinely pleased with his grandson. Regardless of whether Javier was his grandson or the Kerseys' family leader, his capabilities and kindness were almost perfect. "This is great... With a kid like Javier here in the family, I'm sure the Kerseys will be able to prosper for tens of years to come!" At that moment, Zephiel was beaming with glee...

After a few hours of flying, the plane landed on the Whites' island.

At that moment, Piers was already waiting at the airport with Renly by his side.

This was, of course, the kind of treatment Zephiel was worthy of receiving considering how many years he and Piers had been rivals and old friends. After he got out of the plane, Zephiel and Piers embraced one another in a rather passionate gesture.

“How the hell are you still alive, you old geezer? I’ve been ready to visit your grave for a long time.”

“You should hurry up and move on as well, you old fox. I’ve got a casket built especially for you out of the best mahogany, and it’s already infested with pests,”

The embrace might seem friendly and passionate, but the old men’s conversation wasn’t, as they were both essentially cursing one another to die.

However, it was exactly because of this conversation that they both seemed very genuine,

At least, from Jade’s point of view, the relationship between the two elders was far more genuine than the one Javier and Renly had.

Javier and Renly both seemed extremely polite and shook each other’s hands in a gentlemanly manner, followed by all sorts of pleasantries and consolation,

However, in reality, they both gripped each other’s right hand very tightly, seemingly unwilling to let go unless one of their hands broke first.

In the end, it was Piers who gestured for Renly to lead the way and made them end their silent battle, one that Renly would have ultimately lost. Initially, Renly had intended to clench Javier’s palm very tightly, but the latter had ended up having a hand as tough as iron.

Later on, his hand even turned into pliers, clamping onto Renly’s hand so tightly that he could still feel the pain! As he was leading the way, Renly placed his hand in front of him and massaged it while concealing it well with his body. However, it was still very embarrassing. Along the way, Piers and Zephiel were casually chatting, both seeming as friendly as though they had been best friends for many years. In fact, this was exactly what their relationship was like. If their surnames had not been different, they would indeed have been best friends.

However, things were different for Renly and Javier. Renly seemed to be trying his best to create the same kind of atmosphere, but Javier was only focused on wrapping his hand around Jade’s slender waist, which left Renly feeling a little stuffed. Fortunately, he was on his home turf, so he had the advantage of being the host that day.

When they arrived at the living room, Javier and Jade chatted with the elders for a while before they proceeded to leave the living room. Renly did the same. After all, the youngsters would feel out of place staying there while the elders were talking.

After leaving the living room, Renly led Javier and Jade to the guest room to get some rest.

“Javier, you’ve had your arms wrapped around a beautiful lady throughout the entire journey, so don’t you think you should introduce her to me as well? Don’t you think you’re being a little disrespectful to her?”

When Renly brought up this topic, Javier smiled and replied, “Renly, don’t you think you’re being a little rude by calling the future female leader of the Kerseys a beautiful lady? That’s not very nice, is it? Don’t you think you’re being a little disrespectful to the Kerseys?” Renly was slightly stunned. He had thought that Javier had brought a beautiful woman with him purely because he wanted to pretend he was a carefree man. Hence, he had not even cared who the woman was because he had only been focused on what Javier was trying to do.

In the end, Javier was not trying to pretend to be anything at all. In fact, he was openly claiming that the woman next to him was going to be the future female leader of the Kerseys.

‘Does this mean that he’s here to announce her identity?!’

Surprised, Renly sized Jade up, and the latter generously extended her hand,

“Hello, my name is Jade. I’m Javier’s fiancée.”

This is definitely no f*cking greeting! She’s making the attack that Javier created an opening for!

Javier just announced that she is his, and she’s now pressing the attack by enforcing her status... This woman is definitely no mere pushover...

‘She can strike at the right moment with a swift and precise slash of her sword, leaving no chance for me to even regret my actions!’

Hence, Renly had no choice but to shake her hand in return. “I’m so sorry. I genuinely didn’t know you were Javier’s fiancé. This guy used to be so good at being a playboy that I didn’t even know who actually was his girlfriend, which is how this whole misunderstanding came about. Please don’t mind me.”

Renly’s apology was definitely a trap set up for Javier. He may have apologized, but he left what he thought was a flint that would spark a fire in Javier’s relationship.

To his surprise, Jade merely smiled and replied, “They were all nothing but a ploy to trick idiots. It’s only normal for men to have flings here and there. I believe you’ve also led such a life before, haven’t you, Renly? You can’t possibly be telling me that you’re as naive as I am,

are you?”

Renly smiled in embarrassment and said nothing more.

‘She’s definitely not an ordinary woman... No wonder she’s Javier’s woman! She’s just as despicable and dangerously smart as Javier!’

However, Renly was actually rather envious of Javier deep inside for finding a woman like Jade. After all, a woman like Jade was definitely someone a man could bring around without having to feel too worried. In fact, she was even the kind of woman who would bring her man a lot of respect, an essential type of woman that could enter a wealthy family.

Unfortunately, Renly had yet to find a woman like her.

Hence, Renly had no choice but to admit he was indeed lacking in comparison to Javier in this aspect. After heading to the guest room, Jade walked inside, but Renly pulled Javier back just as he was about to follow her.

Obviously, Renly wanted to speak with him in private.

However, Javier purposely feigned ignorance. "What's the matter? Are your guest rooms only for show? Or do I have to show you my identification before entering?"

Renly shot Javier a glare. "F*ck off! Your house is the one that's a hotel, not mine!"

As soon as he said that, Renly went on to ask Javier a serious question.

"I'm curious... Now that you've openly declared that Jade is your woman, what's going to happen to Angelina? Are you not afraid she might turn against you?"

"I don't mind telling you this, but if Angelina does decide to turn against you, I wouldn't mind making her my wife. Then, the Whites and the Soroys would team up to crush the Kerseys! If that happens, you'll genuinely only be left with Jade by your side."

This was what Renly was thinking and was curious to know, so he did not mind speaking his mind at all.

In fact, this was indeed a very deep question because it involved the stability of a family. 'Angelina has always wanted to become Javier's first wife, but that position has now openly been announced to be Jade's.

Angelina's the true person in charge of the Soroys, so there's no way she'll accept this without putting up a fight!
