

Chapter 490

Do You Have the Heart? Javier did not care if Butch and the rest took action. It was not because he prepared himself long before this. He could easily handle them even without any preparation. However, before he could fight back, Audrey rushed forward and went in front of him, stopping Butch and his men. When Butch saw Audrey charging to the front, he asked with a smile, "Why did you come forward? Do you think I don't have the guts to hit you?" To be honest, Audrey did not even know why she had charged forward. She was even a little surprised deep down. What good would it do when she stepped forward at a time like this?

Butch obviously would not let it slide this time and would surely beat her up. She was indeed afraid of getting beaten up, but she had rushed forward anyway.

Audrey was terrified as she faced Butch's savage gaze. She did not know how to answer. Yet, she still refused to step back. She blocked Javier from Butcher and his men, stopping them in the way.

Et te

le

Peso

But at that moment, Javier pulled her from behind and pulled her to the back. "Why did you step forward? You squat to pee, so don't tell me that you can also do it while standing?" Javier's sentence made Audrey blush, and she was slightly annoyed. He was such a jerk. How could Javier speak like this in front of so many people?

Unfortunately, she had no chance to speak at all because when she was about to say something, Javier had already punched Butch in the face.

Javier's punch was much more powerful than Butch's earlier slap. It took just one punch for Butch to start seeing stars.

His vision also turned darker. He could not see anything clearly. It took a few seconds for him to recover. During this period, his men were yelling and clamoring loudly. It sounded like they were going to do something. Unexpectedly, they did not take any action, and it made Butch upset. "Are you guys blind? Your boss just got beaten. Don't you know how to fight back?!"

Butch looked around at those men behind him as he yelled at them bitterly, only to find that at this moment, they had already fled in fear, like a flock of birds.

Unfortunately, no matter where they ran, police officers were blocking them. As they looked around, the entire Hotel Garcia had been surrounded by the police in silence.

They had no idea when exactly the police came. By the time they discovered the presence of the police, it was too late for them to run. Some men even cursed in panic, "Why is this so different from what we see on TV? Don't police officers turn on the alarm when they come?!"

Javier expressed serious concern for the mafia bosses these days as the underlings were dumb. Hundreds of police officers swarmed and took all the people that Butch had brought along. It looked like Butch was still trying to run away, but Javier did not give him the chance to do so. with a bat and his hand, Javier slapped Butch on the back of his head. Butch lost his balance and fell, slamming his head on the ground. This time, it truly affected him. His vision went pitch black, and he could not see anything at all. It took him a while to get himself up, so the police officers ended up dragging him up. However, he was handcuffed in the next instant. In just a few minutes, Butch and his men were wiped out. The leading police officer approached Javier and apologized to him. After all, Javier had honorary citizenship awarded by the police chief himself, and he was also a key investor in the city. He expressed his deep apology for Javier's encounter with threats and danger related to the underworld. Later, he said that they would absolutely maintain a safe and pleasant environment in the city to prevent things like this from happening again.

Butch and the others were aggressive, but they left in a hurry in the end. All of them were taken away by the police, no exception.

Initially, some of the employees behind Javier were still startled, but they could not help applauding after seeing what had happened.

Applaud... Javier did not think there was anything to applaud about. Under his suggestion, Suzanne took the employees back. After everything in Hotel Garcia returned to normal, Javier looked at Audrey, who had not recovered yet. "Look, everything that should go away has gone away, and everything that should be captured has been caught. What are you still staring at, looking all dumbfounded?"

Audrey was a little stunned, but she still could not come back to her senses.

"What about those guys? They were so scary. Why did they suddenly get taken away?" Javier smiled. "It's pretty simple. They committed crimes! I brought in more people than them, so why didn't the police arrest me? As it turns out, police officers are in the service of the people indeed, Remember, in the future, look for the police if you're ever in danger. You can't go wrong"

Javier was not joking around. He really thought so, and he did just that,

When Running Man had informed him that Jordan would bring some thugs, he called the police.

He certainly did not care about those tens of thugs wielding knives and bats, but dealing with them himself would be completely different from having the police deal with them.

If he had to deal with them himself, he would just beat those thugs up so that they would not pick on others again.

However, since the police dealt with them, they would not be able to escape jail time once the police officers investigated everything about them. They could only wait in prison...