

Episode 464

Allow Me to Say a Few Words On the oth day after Hayden's arrest, all of Blissful Medical Group's assets ended up in Javier's possession.

Originally, it would not have taken such a short time to get it done, but Javier had personally found the chairman of a certain economist.

Javier had made his intentions very clear...He wanted to build a research center and a medicine – manufacturing company worth billions of dollars in their city, and Blissful Medical Group had the perfect foundation for it.

The chairman immediately approved the matter based on special circumstances.

When a leader did things for the sake of his people, if a highly-valued investor walked right up to their doorstep, it was a really wonderful occasion. After all, it would resolve their employment issue and result in more taxable revenue.

Thus, thanks to the special circumstances, everything got resolved extremely quickly, and Javier took over Blissful Medical Group successfully.

That day, Javier and Herschel arrived at the medicine-manufacturing company.

Javier wanted to take a look at this new company he had just acquired himself and see whether the facilities inside could be used or not.

He was going to purchase whatever was needed and have it installed in the company if what was inside was nothing but junk. He did not want to face any delays because of this. In fact, everything inside the manufacturing company was pretty decent, and the equipment was brand-new, imported stuff.

'I suppose it's only understandable...Hayden probably bought all this equipment with the latest technology as a gimmick so that he could bring up the price of his stocks the moment his group went public. Then, when the price was high enough, he would transfer all his stocks and walk away with everyone's money.

Meanwhile, the majority of those who bought his shares would not be major companies but minor investors, so they would all be forced to commit suicide.

'Many companies earn money through this method, so there's no shortage of it in this world, which is one of the reasons I refuse to let Reivaj Group go public.'

After Javier was done visiting the manufacturing company, he already knew what he was going to do, so he told Herschel to prepare to leave.

However, right at that moment, a group of six stopped Javier and Herschel at the car park's entrance. The man leading the group had slippers on and a cigarette in his mouth.

"What are you two doing here? What have you stolen? Hurry up and take it out!"

The six men seemed like they were taking care of the factory. Javier and Herschel looked at one another and laughed. Then, Javier told the man with the slippers, "I'm from Reivaj Group. I've come to take a look at the facilities.” The leader in the slippers was Ronnie Paige, Hayden’s cousin. He had originally been the person in charge of the medicine-manufacturing company,

However, now that Blissful Medical Group had been acquired, it was only natural that he was no longer in charge.

Thus, Ronnie had been left with no choice but to form his own team to take care of the factory, making the rounds every day.

His way of thinking was actually very smart... No matter who the owner of the company was, the employees still needed to work.

Now that he had formed a large group of employees to stand watch at the factory, it would not be that easy for Reivaj Group to take over when they arrived.

So, how were they going to take over if Ronnie was still the person in charge there? Of course, Reivaj Group could choose to give up on taking over.

After all, Ronnie was not afraid of Reivaj Group reporting them to the police. He had many men at the factory, so the law could not be enforced when everyone was an offender.

Thus, Ronnie had predicted that Reivaj Group would have no choice but to surrender to him, restoring his position as the person in charge of the factory.

His plan was actually pretty good, and Ronnie was now waiting for the entire thing to succeed with a smile on his face.

Sure enough, Reivaj Group had indeed sent someone there that day...

“I see. So you’re the chairman of the group. Hello there! I’m the person in charge of this factory. You can call me Ronnie. I know this place like the back of my hand, so you can ask me anything you want. I’ll be more than happy to help.”

Javier was secretly smiling when he heard this.

He then asked, “Excuse me for asking this, but what was your university major?”

Ronnie subconsciously replied, “Driving and Maintenance. Why?”

Javier chuckled and asked, “In that case, how did you manage to become the person in charge here? I don’t see how your major has got anything to do with manufacturing medicine. Do you?”

Ronnie felt rather unhappy at that point.

“How did I manage to become the person in charge here? Based on the fact that everyone here looks up to me as their boss! I’m the leader of this crew and the one who looks after this factory!

“I can also tell that you’re looking down on me! Fine! You can forget about taking over this place! You’re not going to enter this factory again!”

Javier was in stitches when he heard Ronnie’s upstanding declaration!

He turned around and looked at Herschel. "Does that count as a threat?"

Herschel nodded his head. "That was an outright threat, He's gathered all those people for his own personal benefit and he intends on carrying on being the person in charge of this factory, He doesn't care what goes on with the manufacturing side. All he cares about is getting his money by being in power."

Sure enough, Herschel could accurately understand the situation, and Javier thought so as well!

Thus, he told Ronnie, "Right then... How about you gather everyone here and I'll ask them to see if they're willing to accept you as their leader. If you prove that you do indeed have leadership qualities, I'll report this back to headquarters. "However, if they aren't willing to accept you as their leader, I will have no choice. Do you accept this?"

Ronnie remained silent, grabbing his chin as he pondered this.

Javier chuckled and went on to say, "We're going to have to resolve this one way or another. You can't expect this to drag on forever since the chairman of our headquarters won't come here personally to understand your purpose for becoming the person in charge of this place, right?"

Ronnie thought about it for a moment and agreed, so he waved his hand at Javier with a leader's demeanor.

"Follow me!"

Ronnie led the way, while Javier followed him with his hands behind his back. Herschel followed them, walking next to Javier with a huge smile on his face.

However, he was smiling because he was waiting to see an idiot get bullied.

After a while, Ronnie arrived at the factory's main hall, which was his team's so-called office.

At that moment, there were more than 100 people inside. Ronnie walked up the stage and extended his hand to silence everyone.

Sure enough, he did have some kind of pull over those people, as everyone did fall silent and look at him on the stage.

Ronnie was very pleased with how organized and in sync everyone was. It seemed as though he had achieved the best results through rehearsal.

He wanted to show the person from Reivaj Group just how powerful he was inside that factory.

Then, Ronnie told everyone, "A chairman from Reivaj Group has come here. He wants to know if I'm worthy of carrying on being the person in charge of this place. What do you all think?" "Yes, you're worthy!" As if he already knew what their answer was going to be, an indescribable pleasure welled within Ronnie's heart when he heard everyone's cohesive answer. 'So what if you're from Reivaj Group? Will you be able to get closer to them than I am?

'After all, we've been working together for ages. You could even call us a family!'

Seeing everyone's response, Ronnie looked at Javier very happily.

“What do you think? Will you be able to report back to your headquarters now?”

“Hang on, there’s no rush. Allow me to say a few words!” Javier walked up to the stage after he spoke to Ronnie. Javier looked at the people below the stage and said, “I have two things to say to everyone. First, my name is Javier Kersey, and I am the chairman of Reivaj Group. Anyone who doesn’t recognize me can look me up on the Internet.

“Second, those of you who want to work with me, stand to my left. Those of you who choose to work with Ronnie, stand to my right. Let’s begin!” With these two very simple sentences , Javier was able to shock everyone. In fact, Ronnie was dumbfounded! He had never thought that the person he had just threatened today would be the very man who had easily brought his cousin to ruins... Javier Kersey!

Err...’
