

When His Eyes Opened by Simple Silence Chapter 2060

Travis seems to have said something, but it seems that he didn't say anything.

What Travis meant was that Margaret didn't hurt Elliot?

But in this case, why did Margaret take Elliot away?

Avery: "Margaret took Elliot away for no reason, no matter what her purpose or motive was, I can't forgive her! Travis, you can get rid of yourself now, but don't let me catch you! Let me find out that you have something to do with this matter, I swear, I will never let you go!"

"Avery, since I dare to tell you that this matter has nothing to do with me, then I am not afraid of your investigation. You can't think of a reason yourself? I never ask about Margaret's laboratory. Even if I ask, she won't tell me. You may overestimate my influence on her. I made up my mind that I depend on her, so every time she asks me for money, she doesn't have to worry that I won't give it. Of course, she is not completely afraid that I will not support her, so she proposes to marry me. "

Travis told Avery about the matter.

Travis: "Do you still think that I have something to do with your Elliot? Hahaha!"

"This matter may have nothing to do with you, but you must know where Margaret is!" Avery just wanted to find Margaret and ask her to marry Travis immediately...

"Avery, stop being aggressive! I told you to find it yourself. Don't ask me! I won't tell you if you ask me!" Travis hung up the phone after finishing speaking.

The car stopped on the road.

Mike said, "Avery, do you know about the March Medical Award? There is still a month before this award will be announced. I heard that Margaret's biggest dream is to be awarded this award."

Avery followed Mike's words and guessed: " Do you think she went to the March Medical Award?"

"Yes. Let's go back first. I'll check to see if she really participated in the selection of this award." Mike said, "If she does participate in the selection of this award, it will not be difficult to find her in person..."

Avery nodded.

After Travis and Avery finished talking on the phone, the assistant stepped down.

Travis picked up his mobile phone, turned it on, and dialed another number from Margaret.

“Margaret, Avery ran to your company with a search and rescue dog today, and found Elliot’s scent in your company.” Travis told Margaret everything, “I didn’t expect her to do this.”

“What else did she say?” Margaret asked calmly.

“Death threat! She said that if we didn’t hand over Elliot, she would kill us.” Travis wanted to make a teasing smile, but the corners of his mouth were stiff and he couldn’t smile.

He never underestimated the power behind Avery.

Behind Avery is not only the Dream Makers Group, but also Elliot’s forces.

If this was in Aryadelle, Travis would have been dealt with long ago.

“Haha! Don’t pay attention to her. Let her worry. I have suffered no less than her over the years. What is she?” Margaret said calmly, “Travis, don’t be afraid, Avery’s mouth is ruthless. She didn’t dare to do anything to you. If she was really as powerful as she said, she would have taken action long ago. She didn’t suspect us only today.”

“Margaret, why are you so calm?” Travis replied. Margaret’s research and Margaret’s inner thoughts are indeed not well understood.

“Elliot is in my hands, what should I be afraid of?” Margaret said lazily, “Do you believe in her or in me?”

Travis: “Of course I believe in you.”

Margaret: “Well.”

Travis: “Well, then you should be clean, I won’t disturb you.”

Margaret: “Hmm.”

Mike sent Avery home, and after having lunch with her, he began to check the shortlist for the March Medical Award.

In the afternoon, Mike knocked on Avery's bedroom door.

Avery did not rest, but sat by the window to bask in the sun, with a very quiet expression on her face.

Mike knocked on her door and walked in, and asked, "Why didn't you sleep?"

"Can't sleep." Avery looked at him, "You didn't sleep either?"

Mike: "Well. It stands to reason that such a famous award must have its own official website and intranet. However, I...I didn't find anything. I suspect that they may not use the Internet, but the most traditional way of writing documents."

Avery: "It is indeed possible. To apply for this award, you need complete information...When Professor James Hough applied for this award, he prepared several cartons of materials. Maybe they did complete the entire selection process in a traditional way."

Mike: "Then we can't find out if Margaret has applied."

"She should have applied." Avery guessed, "She kidnapped Elliot, and she must have used Elliot to complete her experiment."

"What's wrong with Margaret? She wants to find someone to experiment with. There were so many people in the world, but she only chose Elliot, why? and She was not afraid that Elliot would be free in the future and kill her?" Mike felt horrified.

lit can't guess what Elliot has become now.

"Margaret hates Professor James Hough, and she also hates me. So Elliot...I was dragged down by me." Avery blamed herself, "Margaret should have transferred Elliot to a new place after I came to Bridgedale."

Mike: "If all this is Margaret's plan, and it is to win the Award, she will definitely not let us find Elliot easily."

Avery didn't answer. She was thinking about what Margaret did to Elliot. But she can't guess.

She could live in the basement and wait for rescue. It stands to reason that Elliot was taken away by Margaret before she was rescued, so Elliot must be alive at that time.

What research does Margaret do with a living person, and can he win the March Medical Award?

“I have to see if there is anyone I can contact on the March Medical Award jury.” Avery didn’t want to wait for a moment.

“You got up so early today, take a rest first. I’ll go and find out the list of judges. The list of judges should be easy to find. I’ve got the list and I’ll give it to you immediately.” Mike put his hand on her shoulder, “This matter will come to light soon, you must recover quickly.”

“Then you go to the list.” Avery’s eyes flashed with anxiety, “I feel like I will see you soon. Elliot’s gone, I can’t sleep... As soon as I close my eyes, I can’t help thinking about him...”

Mike: “I understand how you feel. Ben Schaffer will be here soon. We will be sure when the time comes. I can rescue Elliot.”

Avery: “Well.”

Avery lay down on the bed and stared at the light outside the window without blinking. After watching it for a while, her eyes were so stinging that she couldn’t bear it, so she closed her eyes.

After a while, her breathing gradually became even.

Mike saw that she was asleep, so he was relieved to leave her room.

In the evening.

Mike got the list of the judges of the March Medical Award and handed the list to Avery.

Avery looked at a name on the list, and her eyes gradually lit up.

“Do you know the people in there?” Mike asked. “They’re all old professors.”

Avery nodded: “There is a professor inside, I have seen it before.”

Mike: “Then do you still have his contact information?”

Avery shook her head: “I met him with Professor Hough at the time. The professor Hough has his contact information, but I don’t.”

"Then let's go to the old professor directly!" Mike said, "Which professor are you talking about?"

"Mike, I'll find him myself. I can find him." Avery put away the list and changed to a light topic, "I slept well in the afternoon."

"You haven't slept for a few hours, so you slept now?" Mike glanced at her, "but you look good. It is indeed better. The doctor will come to give you an infusion later, and you can rest well tonight. Even if you want to go to the old professor, it will be tomorrow."

"Well. I won't go out tonight." After a nap in the afternoon, Avery's mood was much calmer.

Anyway, there were important clues. Margaret could hide for a while, but not forever.

After a month at the latest, Margaret will appear.

After dinner, Avery made a video for Layla.

Layla quickly picked up the video.

Layla: "Mom, I had a dream last night, I dreamed about Dad!" Layla received the video with excitement on her face, "Dad said he would be back soon! He said he was hiding on purpose, making us anxious, Let us know how important he is...if only everything in the dream was real."

"Layla, even if the dream is not real, it must be infinitely close to reality."

"Did you dream about Dad at night?" Layla asked curiously.

Avery: "Yes! Your dad dreams of me every day. Sometimes he says he's lost, but he tries to get back to us, and sometimes he tells me he misses us."

Layla frowned, "Ah? How could Dad get lost? I really want to bring Dad back."

"I'll bring him home." Avery's mouth raised, "Is Robert wake up? Mom is missing him very much."

"Mom, my brother has caught a cold these two days and hasn't gone to school. He must still be sleeping." Layla took the phone and walked towards Robert's room, "It's been cooling down here for the past two days, so my brother has a cold."

"Does Robert have a fever? Did you give him any medicine?" Avery was worried.

"No fever. Just a runny nose and a cough." Layla walked to the door of Robert's room, opened it carefully, and glanced inside.

“Mom, my brother is still sleeping!” Layla turned the camera to the back and showed her brother a look on the big bed. “When I get back from school at night, I’ll make a video call for you. Mom, don’t worry for brother. It’s just a small cold, and it’ll be fine in two days.”

“Well, Layla, how is your Teacher Larson?” Avery was a little worried that Katalina would be embarrassed by her family or Norah for exposing the truth.

“Teacher Larson is very good! Mom, why do you care about Teacher Larson all of a sudden?” Layla thought for a while, and a smile appeared on the corner of her mouth, “Uncle Aqi has been good to Teacher Larson these days!”

Avery: “Well, Teacher Larson has helped us a lot.”

“That’s it! Then I have to thank Teacher Larson.” Layla said, wondering, “What kind of help did Teacher Larson help us?”

“Didn’t Aqi tell you? Teacher Larson told us a few days ago that Norah did the accident with your father in Yonroeville.” Avery said to her daughter, “I’ve almost found your father. If we can find your father successfully, we will thank Teacher Larson.”

Layla: “Wow, Teacher Larson is so nice. I knew she was definitely different from a bad woman like Norah!”

“Layla, at present, you, Teacher Larson, have indeed helped us a lot. But your mother still wants you to remember that it is essential to be wary of others. My accident with your father in Yonroeville is a painful lesson.” Avery taught, “At any time, you should never be alone. You are different from ordinary girls. There are countless pairs of eyes staring at you in the dark, some kind and some malicious.”
