

Remarriage His Billionaire Ex-Wife By H.D. Cynthia

Chapter 241

Chapter 241

Before the emcee on stage could react, Terry had already rushed up to pull Jessica.

Lucas also reached out to pull Jessica. Jessica's wedding dress was heavy. She was first pulled by Terry and then by Lucas. She staggered a few steps, and the veil on her head loosened. With Lucas pulling it down, the veil fell off.

"That's not Jessica!"

Someone from the front row cried out. Suddenly, people all realized that the bride was not Jessica. They hurried to take out their phones to take pictures.

"It isn't Jessica! Heavens! The person who's marrying Mr. Thomas today is not Jessica!"

"It's Luna, Mr. Thomas' first love! What's going on? I thought this was Jessica and Lucas' wedding!"

"Oh, dear! Is today's wedding actually for Luna and Mr. Thomas? That's why not many Halls have shown up."

The bride on stage was not Jessica, which made the guests below the stage curious and shocked.

The bride on stage was not Jessica!

This fact not only shocked the guests but also Lucas and Terry.

Jessica did not expect that Terry would come up on stage. She thought Terry wouldn't be so impulsive, yet he still stood out.

Jessica was settling the old scores with the Thomas family, so she didn't want to get Terry involved.

Seeing him on the stage, Jessica called out to him in a mess, "Terry." Her voice was not loud. The venue was big, but Jessica was right down the stage. Terry had already seen her before she made a sound.

Jessica was wearing a plain long dress today. Her hair was tied up and she wore a pair of sunglasses.

No wonder no one noticed that Jessica was down the stage. With her attire, most of the guests thought that she was a star that came to liven things up.

Terry quickly reacted, turned around, and got off the stage, walking towards Jessica.

On the stage, Lucas also saw Jessica.

Noticing his gaze, Jessica no longer concealed her face. She directly took off the sunglasses on her face, revealing her delicate face.

Someone quickly recognized her. "Jessica's there."

"That is Jessica! The person on the stage is not Jessica! The bride is not Jessica!"

The surrounding people were all gossiping. Jessica and Lucas looked at each other for two seconds. There was a faint sadness in her eyes. Her red lips parted slightly and she mouthed, "Sorry."

Under the light, Lucas' face turned slightly pale. He turned his head and looked at Luna in her wedding dress. "What are you doing here?"

Luna looked at Lucas, her gaze falling on his red eyes, and the smile on her face froze. "I'm supposed to be your bride, Lou."

Luna could only pretend to be calm. The Thomas family would only recognize her once the wedding was done.

Half a month ago, when Jessica came to her with the offer of "cooperation", Luna thought Jessica was joking.

She didn't believe Jessica.

Jessica told Luna that both of them were just Justin's pawns. Justin was like an invisible hand moving them on a chessboard. But Luna still found it hard to believe Jessica.

After all, Luna had a history with Jessica, too.

However, Jessica called Luna yesterday, asking if she had made up her mind.

When Luna went out this morning, Trissy kept saying that this might be Jessica's trap.

If Jessica pointed out that Luna was the wrong bride in the process, Luna would be screwed, In due course, not only would the public criticize her, Justin wouldn't let Luna get away as well.

But when Luna saw Jessica, she suddenly believed her.

Luna didn't think Jessica was joking.

Thus, she changed into Jessica's wedding dress and put on her veil. As long as the wedding was over and Luna entered Thomas' place, her dream would be realized. Even if the Thomas family found out that she was not Jessica, they wouldn't drive her out, given the grand wedding. For the sake of their reputation, the Thomas family would still recognize her as Mrs. Thomas.

But Luna was not lucky enough. She could have succeeded if Terry hadn't shown up so early.

Now that the veil was off, everyone there knew she was not Jessica.

Lucas looked at Luna as if he was going to kill her.

Remarriage His Billionaire Ex-Wife By H.D. Cynthia

Chapter 242

Chapter 242

"WHAT ARE YOU DOING HERE?" Lucas said through gritted teeth while looking at Luna fiercely. There was no warmth in his eyes at all.

Luna could not help but shiver.

Luna was a bit frustrated but more terrified. She could only shift the blame to Jessica

"It... It was Jessica's plan."

Luna was telling the truth.

She didn't plot anything. All she did was follow Jessica's order and replace her on her wedding day.

However, Lucas obviously did not think that way. He looked at Luna with a grim face.

Lucas believed the farce was a scheme forged by Luna.

The bride was supposed to be Jessica, but now it turned out to be Luna.

The Thomas family had made itself a huge joke in the upper-class society.

The gossip among the guests became more and more intense. Nobody but Jessica knew what was going on.

After Terry got off the stage, he ran directly to Jessica

“Jessica.”

Jessica and Terry were surrounded by the other guests. Terry stood half a meter away from Jessica, gazing at her with his smiling eyes.

Terry didn't say anything, but his eyes seemed to have conveyed everything he wanted to say.

Then someone shouted from the distance.

Jessica came back to her senses and glanced in the direction of the voice.

Justin fainted, and Dwayne was calling the doctor.

The emcee on the stage froze at this unexpected situation. The bride was changed halfway during a wedding. What should the emcee do?

Well, no one knew the answer.

After Justin fainted, the scene became even more chaotic.

Lucas jumped down from the stage and went up to Jessica. “I'll look into it.”

With that, he turned and hurried to Justin.

He didn't know if he was really worried about Justin or if he was afraid of learning the truth from Jessica.

Jessica looked at Lucas' back and lowered her head.

Hannah couldn't help but walk over and give Jessica a thumb-up. “Amazing, Jessica. What a splendid move you've just made!”

Even though Hannah was not among the smartest people, she had figured out what was going on now.

Jessica glanced at her and said, “let's head out now.”

There were over 5,000 people at the venue. Jessica didn't want to be blocked by the beholders.

Then Jessica glanced at Terry and said, “Not until we get out of here.”

Terry nodded and escorted Jessica out of the wedding venue.

Along the way, many people found Jessica, but no one dared to stop her.

Morgan was delighted to see Justin faint. If it weren't for the reporters, Morgan would have gone up to the stage and said a few words.

When Jessica and the others walked out of the hotel, there were already some well-informed reporters rushing over. Seeing Jessica coming out the reporters were all put on edge. They rushed over to Jessica.

"Miss Hall, may I ask why you are not the bride tonight?"

"Miss Hall, what happened tonight, is it because of Miss Cheek?"

"Miss Hall, what do you make of what happened tonight?"

Jessica was rushing her way out. Yet she stopped when she heard those questions. Terry stopped, too, but he didn't stop shielding her with his hands, not letting the reporters touch Jessica.

Jessica took off her sunglasses and said, "I have nothing to say."

Hannah, who was walking in front, saw Jessica stop, so she also stopped. She turned back to look at Jessica, who was surrounded by reporters. Just as she thought that Jessica was trapped by the reporters and could not get out, she heard Jessica's voice.

After Jessica finished speaking, she did not stay any longer and got through the reporters and got into Hannah's car.

Hannah had just closed the car door and was about to drive away when she realized something.

Terry was still standing beside her car. Though he wasn't in Hannah's way, his eyes kept glued to Jessica, who was sitting in the passenger's seat.

Hannah clicked her tongue and found the scene a bit weird. She tilted her head and turned to Jessica. "Jess, would you care to take Terry's car?"

Jessica chuckled. "Why don't you just get out of the car and let Terry drive your car?"

Remarriage His Billionaire Ex-Wife By H.D. Cynthia

Chapter 243

When Hannah heard what Jessica said, she wanted to say something but stopped short when she noticed that the reporters were approaching.

Hannah knew it was not the perfect time for joking, so she drove away with Jessica right away.

Not long after the car drove out of the hotel, Hannah looked at the rearview mirror and could not help but snort. "Well, well, Jess. You're indeed something. I think Terry is quite obsessed with you."

Jessica also saw the car that was closely following through the rearview mirror. She looked up slightly and said, "Eyes on the road. You were stopped by a cop last time you drove me, weren't you?"

Hannah found it hard to argue. How could Jessica tease her like that? Every time!

Hannah didn't dare to provoke Jessica anymore. Just then, the traffic light turned green, so Hannah started the car again and drove forward.

Fifteen minutes later, the car stopped outside Jessica's apartment.

Hannah pursed her lips and said, "Alright, I won't disturb you any longer."

Hannah knew that Terry must have had something to say since he had been following them all the way here. Thus, Hannah decided to leave them alone.

Jessica rolled her eyes. "Alright, go back and enjoy the gossip."

The news of what happened tonight must have already spread. Jessica wondered what comment the netizens would make.

Jessica had just gotten out of the car when she saw Terry.

Before the wedding started tonight, she paid attention and did not see Terry among the guests. Jessica thought that Terry would not show up tonight. Yet she did not expect him to suddenly appear during the ring exchange.

Jessica actually did not want to make a scene at the wedding today. Justin had plotted against her, so she wanted to fight back.

As long as Luna was married to Lucas, things would be different. Even if Justin wanted to drive Luna away, he would have to stand the pressure. In that case, Justin would have to suffer a lot.

Yet what happened tonight was also fine. The conflict burst out in advance. It was reasonable that Justin fainted at the wedding.

From another perspective, Jessica knew that Lucas would be so mad at her. But the wedding was not completed, after all.

Thus, deep down, Jessica still felt relieved.

Even though Jessica knew that there wouldn't be any chance of Lucas and her getting back together, Jessica didn't regret what she had done.

But still, Jessica still felt a bit sorry for Lucas.

Thus, Jessica didn't stop Terry from unveiling the fake bride. Instead, she let him uncover the lie.

Having thought of that, Jessica was in a much better mood.

"Anything you wanna tell me?" Seeing that Terry was silent, Jessica took the initiative to speak.

Terry shook his head with a smile. The smile in his brown eyes was gentle as if he wanted to drown her in his smile.

Jessica could barely hold herself back after a single glance at his smiling eyes.

Terry paused and added, "Although I knew that you might not be the one on the stage, I still couldn't control myself."

He believed that Jessica was not going to remarry Lucas.

But even so... Even though he knew that she was just putting on a show, he still could not see her and Lucas exchanged their rings.

Jessica did not see this coming. She glanced at Terry, trying to say something. But before she could speak, Terry asked, "Jessica, don't love him anymore, okay?"

Jessica found Terry's request familiar. She had told herself the same line millions of times.

But in fact, she could not control whom to love at all. Jessica sneered, mostly at herself. Then she looked at Terry and asked, "If you don't want me to love him anymore, who do you suggest I love? You?"

Terry hadn't expected Jessica to say that. He paused for a moment, and after he reacted, he lowered his head and smiled. "I'd love that."

When he smiled, there was light in his eyes and in the light was Jessica.

Jessica felt a little uneasy under his gaze. She turned her head away and said, "It's getting late. I'd probably go up and get ready for bed."

"It's 8:30 pm." Terry looked at his watch and then looked up at Jessica.

It was actually still early, and Jessica's excuse was indeed a little clumsy.

Feeling a little embarrassed, she glanced at Terry and said, "Or, come up for a cup of coffee?"

Terry lowered his eyes and smiled. "Alright."

Jessica wasn't picky about coffee. Thus, she brewed what she usually had for Terry. She used some milk, too.

"No sugar."

Terry looked at her. "Perfect for me."

Remarriage His Billionaire Ex-Wife By H.D. Cynthia

Chapter 244

Chapter 244

Jessica's dress was very revealing, so she had to straighten her back after taking a seat.

The phone she had placed on the table constantly lit up. It was the message from Hannah.

However, since Terry was with her, Jessica decided to reply later.

Terry took two sips of coffee and broke the silence. "That night you told me that what happened five years ago was not the reason why you married Lucas."

Jessica would have forgotten about it if Terry hadn't brought it up again. She had asked Wendy to look into what happened that night, but she found nothing

Later, she gradually forgot what happened that night. It was nothing more than an accident.

When nobody mentioned it, Jessica didn't feel so curious.

But people were all curious. Now that Terry mentioned it again, her curiosity was raised again. "I asked my secretary to look into it, but I got nothing."

Jessica raised her eyebrows, "So what on earth happened that night?"

That night, Jessica didn't have a sober mind. Everything was in a daze after Jessica entered that room. All she knew was that the next day she woke up, Lucas was lying beside her, naked. She could only assume what had happened the previous night from what she had seen.

Terry looked at her with mixed expressions in his eyes. Terry had always wanted to ask Jessica a question. He hedged a bit before he asked, "What if the man that night wasn't Lucas?"

Hearing that, Jessica's face changed a bit. "So, who was it?"

If it was not Lucas, who was it?

That was the first time Jessica was tricked.

Terry suddenly fell silent. He looked at her with mixed feelings.

3

Jessica's face turned grim, too. Though she was willing to marry Lucas at that time and her willingness had nothing to do with what happened that night, she still couldn't stand the possibility that the man that night was not Lucas. Who was it then? A nasty old man?

Thinking of that, Jessica suddenly felt sick and couldn't help but retch.

Seeing that, Terry hurried to pull out a tissue and gave it to her. "Jessica..."

Jessica waved her hand and looked up at him. Her almond eyes were a bit red, and the veins on the back of her hand bulged. "Terry, tell me, who was it?"

"It was him."

"I'm gonna make him..."

Jessica stopped short when she heard what Terry had said.

Jessica froze and looked at Terry in disbelief. "What did you say? You were teasing me, weren't you?"

Terry didn't speak. He just looked at her.

Then he sighed and said, "It was Lucas. I just want to know, if it weren't him and it was me, would you have been willing to get to know me? But given your reaction just now, I think I know the answer."

He paused for a moment. "I know this is not the right time to mention that night. It's too vile."

Then, Terry got up and walked directly to Jessica's side. He raised his hand to take a tissue and gently pressed it against the corner of her eyes. "But still, I'd like to take the chance and be with you."

He didn't conceal his intention at all. Looking at him, Jessica didn't even know what to say.

Jessica leaned forward a bit when Terry approached her to remove a fallen eyelash of hers.

When her red lips touched his cheek, Terry could feel his fingertips tremble slightly. His Adam's apple moved a bit and he raised his eyes to look at Jessica.

Only then did Jessica realize that the two of them were too close.

Jessica subconsciously took a step back, but the red lipstick mark on Terry's cheek reminded her of what had just happened. Jessica saw the red mark on Terry's face and couldn't help but feel embarrassed. Her heart beat fast. She didn't dare to look at Terry again. "Can you please head back now?"

She wanted to be left alone for some time.

Terry looked at her for a moment. "Sure."

With that, Terry stood up and looked down at Jessica, who was sitting on the sofa. Seeing Jessica's lowered eyes and her bashful look, Terry couldn't help but touch where Jessica's lips had touched his face.

Even though it was nothing more than a touch, Terry still felt haunted.

Terry shifted his gaze and looked at Jessica's red lips. He felt a bit horny and even his gaze turned weird.

He wanted to kiss Jessica. But in the end, he didn't let his desire take the better of him. Terry withdrew his gaze and said gently, "I'll see myself out, Jessica."