

The Ace at the Apex by Nine Linked Rings Chapter 645 ReadOnline

Chapter 645 Put Me Down To be honest, Candice wanted to be trained as an actor as well, but she really could not accept exchanging her future with her body. While she hesitated, Erin continued to say, "It's okay. It's all the same once you figure it out. Just like your previous boyfriend, were you sure you'd get married back when you were together? Didn't you sleep with him even when you weren't sure?"

"What happened? You gave him your most treasured first time, and he slept with another woman.

"What did you get? What else did you get other than a lie? "Compared to Javier, that guy is a sc*m. At least Javier's dishing everything out in the open for us regarding our choices for the future and money. These are what he can bring us, and there's no harm involved.

"Besides, you're not a virgin anymore. Why so uptight? It's not like I'm saying there's anything wrong with being chaste, but at least get that entry ticket first, then work hard on your own for the rest, right?"

"What are you working for if you can't even step into showbiz? What's the point of keeping your purity and honorable pride? For your next boyfriend to f*ck you up again? So you get hurt once more?"

Erin went on, each word going right to Candice's heart. There was even a moment she wanted to nod solemnly to agree with the former's opinion. It was just a matter of closing her eyes and lying on the bed. She could just treat it as a nightmare.

When it came to the time to decide, however, she found it hard to commit to the embarrassment. She could not give up on her honor, so she chose to shake her head lightly after some hesitation.

Before she could voice her refusal, Erin added, "Right, you've never felt the thrill when you have s*x, right? I'm telling you right now, I felt it just now. It was amazing."

Candice was so embarrassed. Why was Erin using everything she had to convince her? For real. Despite that...did it really feel amazing?

Candice did not end up agreeing but chased Erin out when the latter wracked her mind to coax her. She had to chase the girl out because she was worried she would be tempted if she continued listening to her.

Javie chuckled when Erin relayed the process to him on the phone with a huff. He could gauge that Candice had the mind to do it, but she was just being hesitant. He went to her personally after ending the call.

Candice was changing in her room as she contemplated what Erin had said. They were best friends, after all, and Erin was not setting her up. She was only thinking for the sake of her future. That was why Candice felt she needed to go to Erin in the afternoon and apologize to her so they could get past this. She did not want it to leave a bad taste with either of them and affect their friendship.

While she mulled over it, her door was knocked. Since she was thinking about Erin, she automatically assumed that it was the latter who knocked. Hurrying over and opening the door, Candice forgot that she was only wearing her underwear and a pair of transparent tights.

After opening the door, she could not help pausing when she saw Javier. "Why is it you?" Javier was too distracted to answer then because Candice, who stood before him, was really hot. He proceeded to invite himself into the room and... By the time everything ended, Candice was helplessly shy. "You jerk, why did you bully me? I'm going to kill you!"

Candice vented, but it felt incredibly coquettish, like the flirting between a couple. Even when she exerted all her strength, her punches on Javier did not hurt one bit. Javier pulled Candice into his embrace, wrapping his arms tightly around her slim waist...

The Ace at the Apex by Nine Linked Rings Chapter 646 ReadOnline

Chapter 646 You Were Given a Chance

Javier had successfully gotten his hands on both Erin and Candice. In spite of it, he was in no hurry to put both of them together that night, choosing to give them space to adjust themselves and let the two of them talk to each other.

The three of them stayed in the same hotel, with Erin and Candice staying in the same room and Javier in another room alone.

To pick both flowers and mash them together forcefully would only spark their reluctance. If they were allowed to brew and simmer on their own, the effect would definitely be different. There were a lot of things that did not require Javier to do them on his own. He only needed time, and time would solve everything... Before sunrise, Javier met Candice and Erin to drive up the mountain early the next morning. They were going to hike and watch the sunrise. It had been agreed upon the previous night.

After driving to the bottom of the mountain and parking the car, Javier accompanied Candice and Erin to start hiking.

Hiking was exhausting, especially to dainty girls like Candice and Erin. However, with Javier holding their hands in the middle, they felt endless motivation, not even whining about being tired as they pushed themselves. On the contrary, they secretly competed with each other, not wanting to be seen as weak in front of Javier.

Many others were hiking to watch the sunrise as well and were envious when they saw Javier had two beautiful women on his left and right.

“F*cking hell! How is this fair? We’re all men here hiking, and this guy has two chicks with him. Ugh, forget it. I quit. I’m going back to sleep. The more I hike, the sadder I get. This is emotional damage!”

“He has two pretty girls with him, and I have one ugly woman with me. Sigh, comparison is really the source of misery...”

There were various exclamations and laments, some verbalized and some thought in mind, but all of them were simultaneously envious of Javier. That was none of Javier’s concern, though, as his mind was only on the two delicate beauties around him. Just when he was going to ask about them, a bunch of delinquents showed up suddenly.

They were boisterous as they sprinted along the way, looking to be 16-17 years old. At that age, they were super pumped and in vigorous health. When they passed by Candice, a delinquent with naughty hands slapped her b*tt. “Cutie, nice cheeks. How do I get some?”

Candice was furious and embarrassed, but Javier looked at the delinquent before she could say a thing

“What’s the meaning of this?”

D

o

na Chance

The delinquent grinned. “Nothing. I’m just asking how to get some. I’d buy her for a night if she’s cheap.” There was no sign of remorse as he asked Javier after that, “How’s it? Is she a good f*ck? Tight? Did it feel good? Around how much per time?” Javier did not answer but pointed at Candice and told him, “Get on your knees and apologize to her.”

The delinquent snorted. "You f*cking fool. I'm being nice, and you ask me to apologize? You should ask around. Everyone here knows my name, and you'll be shocked if I tell you. I'm-"

Javier grabbed the back of the delinquent's neck and balled up another hand into a fist before punching the latter's head relentlessly. Within moments, the delinquent was staggering with a bloodied nose, obviously disorientated from Javier's punches. Javier kicked him to the ground and pointed at Candice again, telling the delinquent, "Kneel down and apologize to her."

The delinquent who fell on the step broke out of his daze and swiped his nose to find blood there.

"Motherf*cker! How dare you hit me!? Guys, beat him up!"

Six other delinquents beside them rushed up to Javier when they were summoned by the delinquent who had been punched. Candice was frightened and frantically said that it was fine while Erin tried to talk Javier out of the pickle they were in as well. Despite that, Javier kept them both behind him and beat up the delinquents who rushed up to him. The delinquents had all fallen to the ground in moans and groans within half a minute. No one dared get up again. Javier went to the side of the step and grabbed a stray palm-sized piece of granite before going to the delinquent who had slapped Candice's bottom. The delinquent was terrified then. Grimacing, he forced a smile. "B-Bro, I was wrong. I'm sorry. I'm sorry to your girlfriend too..." "Sorry? You weren't apologizing when I asked you to, yet you want to apologize now? Fat chance!"

Javier kicked the delinquent down and stepped on his arm with one foot. Without giving the latter any chance to react or resist, he hurled the granite down at him.

An agonized cry resonated in the mountain like a pig was slaughtered instantly... When Javier resumed hiking with Candice and Erin, the delinquent who had passed out in pain was already carried down the mountain by his friends. He was missing a right hand then-the part below his right wrist a mush.

This was the price he had to pay to Javier. The latter had given him a chance, not once but twice, but the delinquent did not appreciate it. There was nothing he could do.

Erin commented softly as they hiked, "You were so aggressive just now!" Javier smiled. "Not really. It's just normal. There's no future between the two of you and me, but you're both my women for this week. No one's allowed to bully you except for me." His tone was nonchalant, but his intention was domineering That made Erin and Candice, who looked at each other, both see the similar emotion reflected in their eyes. What kind of man did a woman need in her life? One who was willing to protect her.

Chapter 646 You Were Given a Chance

It was unfortunate that Javier was only willing to spend a week with them. That left a small regret in them. However, it was also because of it that they were willing to share him. Who would want that long-term!? As they continued hiking, they encountered another accident-because of what happened with the delinquent earlier.

The Ace at the Apex by Nine Linked Rings Chapter 647 ReadOnline

Chapter 647 I'm Very Disappointed There was a security office on the mountain, and there were more than a dozen security guards in the office.

A reserve police officer was leading them. The officer, Dev Curran, happened to be the cousin of the delinquent Javier had beaten up.

When he found out that his cousin had gotten beaten up and his right hand had been pulverized, Dev was furious.

"F*cking hell! How dare he lay his hand on my man!? I'm going to shoot him dead!"

That being said, it was a complete lie because Dev was just a reserve police officer, and he had no right to carry a gun. "The group of so-called security guards was supposed to maintain law and order, but they were thugs, and Dev led them to stop Javier from going anywhere. "You're following us back for an investigation on suspicion of intentional torts!" Dev waved his hand, and more than a dozen thugs charged forward. They were ready to take Javier down.

Dev even touched the baton on his waist. He has already thought it through. If Javier fought back, it would be an assault on a police officer.

However, Javier did not fight back. Instead, he took out his cell phone and called Herschel to tell him that an officer arrested him on this mountain.

Candice and Erin were going to step up to explain the matter, but Javier stopped them. "It's alright. Wait for me at the hotel down the mountain."

Candice wanted to say something, but Erin stopped her.

After Javier was taken away, Erin said to Candice, "Don't worry about him. He's strong, and nothing's going to happen to him. Since he asked us to wait for him at the hotel down the mountain, let's just do as we're told."

Candice was still a little worried, but Erin pulled her forcefully. She had no choice but to follow her down the mountain.

When Javier was taken to the security office, Dev's expression immediately changed, and he showed his true colors.

"F*cking hell! How dare you pick on my cousin? You even destroyed his arm. I'm going to beat you to death, trust me!"

Javier sneered and said, "Keep it going. I hope you won't be begging me on your knees later." Dev was even more furious. He took out his baton and pointed it at Javier. "I'll be begging you? If I do, I'll be begging you not to beg me!" He then ordered the thugs around him, "Hold him down. I'll teach him a lesson."

A group of thugs swarmed toward Javier, but at that moment, he was no longer the same guy that had gotten arrested earlier. He refused to cooperate at all. Instead, he took action and took down all the thugs who charged at him. None of them could get up.

Dev was stunned. He never imagined that Javier could be so brutal in a fight.

Dev was horrified when he looked around and saw all his men lying down around him, while Javier stood there as if nothing had happened.

Even with the baton in his hand, it was difficult for him to muster enough courage at that moment.

"Don't f*cking move. If you do, you're assaulting an officer, and you-"

As he was muttering, there was a phone ring. It was Dev's phone.

Dev was cautious and had his guard up against Javier. When he realized that Javier had no intention of beating him up, he finally took out his cell phone.

"Sergeant... Yes, yes. I arrested a guy because he assaulted someone, and he... Ah, well, I've arrested him. Don't worry!"

After Dev hung up, he looked at Javier with a sneer.

"That was a surprise. You're a repeat offender. Even the sergeant has his eyes on you. He's going to come and deal with you personally."

"Fine. Just wait and see. We'll see if you'll ever act up again."

Dev had nothing else to say, and he did not dare to say anything about beating up Javier. What could he do? Half his men were still down after all this time. They were all whimpering and whining. Dev decided to lock everybody in the room, including Javier and his men. That would be safe. When the sergeant arrived, he would definitely be able to deal with Javier.

Sitting at the door, Dev quietly waited for the sergeant.

To his surprise, when the sergeant finally arrived, Dev realized that the chief was walking in front of the sergeant. "Chief Haines!" Dev hurried forward to salute.

Chief Haines glanced at him. "Are you Dev Curran?"

Dev quickly nodded. "Yes, Chief Haines. I'm Dev Curran, and I arrested the repeat offender!"

He had it all figured out. Since the chief came personally, the person he arrested and locked in the room must be someone prominent.

He must have done something great. When the time came, the chief might give him an excellence award. They might even make an exception for him, and he could become a civil servant!

If that were the case...Just the thought of it made Dev happy. He was on cloud nine.

However, he got a hard slap on his face in the next instant. He was completely dumbfounded. Dev covered his face, which was burning in pain, and asked in surprise, "Wait! What the h*ll is going on here? Chief Haines, why did you hit me?" "Why did I hit you? You have the nerve to ask me that? Hah! Sergeant Oneal, what a good man you mentored!" Chief Haines glared at Sergeant Oneal. He then ordered the men behind him to kick the door open before walking in. After entering the room, Chief Haines quickly stretched out his hands to grab Javier's hand. "Hello. Mr. Kersey, right? Welcome to our city. You're here to invest and inspect the project here, but I've failed to perform my duty as the chief to protect your safety and create a safe environment!

"The fact that we even troubled you to catch these offenders yourself makes me feel ashamed..

Chief Haines was being courteous as he talked to Javier. Dev was outside the room, and he was stunned when he heard this.

He asked the sergeant, stunned, "Sergeant, what's going on?" Sergeant Oneal gave Dev another hard slap across his face. He even added a kick this time, kicking Dev to the ground.

"Do you have any idea who this is? How dare you abuse your power to arrest him? Huh? He came here to invest, and your f*cking cousin harassed his girl. He went easy on him when all he did was beat him up!

"And your cousin has committed so many f*cking crimes. He robbed, stole cars, and even tried to sexually assault female students. Dev oh Dev. You're just a mere reserve police officer, but look at what you've done!"

Dev was completely stunned. He had no idea how all those things got out. He had clearly hidden it very well! However, it did not matter how well he could cover it up because the cat was out of the bag. Dev sank to the ground, and he had a feeling that he would be in trouble... In reality, his gut feeling was not wrong. When Chief Haines took Javier out of the office, he looked at Dev.

“Dev Curran, are you? You should go back to the detention center and talk about the fact that you covered up for a criminal. But before that, you’re fired from your position!”

After instructing his subordinates to take back Dev’s police uniform, Sergeant Oneal detained Dev and took him away. Dev freaked out. “Sergeant Oneal, Chief Haines, I was wrong! Please let me go. I was wrong.” Obviously, many things could go wrong in this world, but begging for forgiveness did not always work, especially since he had provoked Javier.

He wanted to ask for forgiveness? H*ll no! After Dev was taken away, Chief Haines held Javier’s hand again. “Mr. Kersey, why don’t we share a car? We can go to my place. I’ll arrange something in the afternoon. We could talk to the mayor, Mr. Humphrey, who’s in charge of the economy. We can talk about the investment.

Javier immediately pulled his hand away, and without even glancing at Chief Haines, he walked down the mountain.

“I’m very disappointed with the investment background in your city. I’ve decided to withdraw my capital!” Chief Haines was stunned as he looked at Javier, who was far away. He was at a loss for words for a long time. Although Javier showed a bad attitude, he had the right to do so! On the contrary, the chief was dead worried. How was he supposed to explain this if the mayor found out that his men had just blown a massive investment?

The Ace at the Apex by Nine Linked Rings Chapter 648 ReadOnline

Chapter 648 She’s My Woman

After Javier went down the mountain, he headed straight to the hotel to meet Candice and Erin Candice was anxiously pacing back and forth in the room, but Brin was unfazed. She even had the mood to watch ‘TV.

“Oh, Candice Stop pacing back and forth. What’s that for? Nothing’s going to happen to Javier. Even if something did, what’s going to happen? He’s already made the call to Reivaj Group in front of us. If things do go south, it won’t stop us from going there and starring in a movie...”

Erin was still talking, but Candice was getting more anxious. "Erin, how could you act like this? Javier is our friend, after all. If something happens to him, we'll have to find a way to help him. Even if we're just friends, we should still help him, don't you think so?"

Erin chuckled. "Do you really take him as a friend? Well, I don't. At best, he's someone who can satisfy me financially and s*xually. I don't think you should worry about this at all because we'll be strangers again in a week, and that's totally fine."

Candice was about to say something, but the room door was pushed open at that moment, They had left the door unlocked so that the room could be well ventilated.

When Javier walked into the room, Candice hurriedly went to him. "Are you alright?"

Javier smiled and hugged Candice in his arms. "Were you worried that something might have happened to me? Are you worried about me? Have you fallen for me?"

Candice's face flushed slightly. She seemed even shyer, especially when Javier was holding her so closely. "No, I don't."

Javier had overheard the entire conversation when he was outside.

Logically speaking, Erin was right. What she said made complete sense because it was just a transaction of money and s*x, after all.

Should they talk about feelings? It was probably better to just talk about money, so Javier was not angry with Erin.

But when it came to how Javier felt about Candice, he closed the door and...

In the next seven days, Javier almost lost himself in the hands of those two women, which felt amazing

However, he liked Erin more. From time to time, he would get it on with Erin, and it would make her feel like she had gone to heaven and back

At times, Candice would feel a little jealous. She felt like Javier did not like her at all.

On the seventh day, Javier woke up in the morning and motioned to Erin. "Time to go. I've already informed them back at Medb. You can go see Lloyd, and he'll make the arrangements for you." Erin finally got what she wanted. She screamed with excitement and immediately gave Javier big kiss.

My Woman

“I’ll take my leave then. Don’t try to contact me again because I’m going to become a big star, and I’m going to be very busy. But don’t worry, maybe I’ll look for you one fine day if you ever pop into my mind. I hope you’re looking forward to it, my man!”

Erin was extremely proud. It was easy to tell from her speech or expression.

However, Candice, who was beside Erin, was not happy at all. She was calm when she got up and put on her clothes. She even seemed a little sad to have to part ways. Javier asked, “What’s wrong? Don’t you want to go?” Candice forced a smile. “I do.” But anyone could easily tell how reluctant she was. Obviously, she no longer wanted to be a part of the entertainment industry.

Erin noticed it too. She quickly stepped forward and grabbed Candice’s arm. “Stop acting like a fool. Hurry up and come with me. Let’s get into the entertainment industry, and we sisters will be supporting each other in the future. We’ll make a name for ourselves. The future belongs to us!”

As Erin said that, she felt a sense of excitement like she had never felt before. However, Candice did not seem to feel the slightest joy at all.

She forced a smile, then got up to go to the bathroom. At that moment, Javier suddenly pulled her back and hugged her in his arms. “Candy, have you actually fallen for me? You don’t want to leave me?” Candice shook her head, but she nodded slightly when Javier looked at her. She was shy, and her face was flushed. Even so, she had to admit that she had fallen in love with Javier.

When Erin saw that, she became anxious. “Candy, you’re such a fool. You’re going to have a bright future in the entertainment industry,”

Erin was going to say something, but Javier did it before her.

“Erin, go ahead. My Candy’s not going. She’ll stay with me.”

Erin was stunned. “What do you mean? What do you mean by ‘my Candy’?”

Javier replied, “It’s exactly what I meant. From this day on, Candy will be my woman.”

Erin was stunned, and so was Candice. She did like Javier, but she had never thought about becoming his woman.

However, she did not need to think about it at all. Moreover, she did not really have a say in whether or not she agreed.

Javier then asked for Candice’s bank card number and took out his cell phone.

“I may have to leave after a while, but you’re my woman, so I’m not going to let you keep working as a car-show model or go out to work. All you need to do every day is to dress up and look pretty.” “I’ll transfer 15 million to you later. You can buy whatever you like. If it’s not enough, call me.” Erin was shocked when she heard Javier say that. Subconsciously, she assumed Javier was just bragging. When she saw the notification on Candice’s phone, however, she was shocked. 15 million! It really was 15 million. She had been complacent about getting 150 thousand dollars more than Candice. Little did she know, Candice would get 15 million just by becoming Javier’s woman!

My Woman

Before this, Erin did not think much of Javier because he looked different from the photo of Reivaj Group’s chairman.

But now, it was evident that Javier was a bigshot!

He gave 15 million away at a flick of the finger, and Candice could still ask for more if it was not enough. She also wanted a bigshot like him!

Erin said embarrassedly, “Javier, I actually like you too, but I’m just too shy to say it.” Javier said, “Oh. If you’re too shy to say it, don’t say it then. Hurry up and take the car. If you get there late, there’s no direct transport to the airport.” Erin was taken aback. Why was she being treated differently from Candice? In terms of appearance, she was just as good-looking as Candice. In terms of her figure, she was more voluptuous than Candice. Why could Candice be Javier’s woman but not her? Although Erin did not ask, Javier could tell from the shock on her face.

“It’s simple. It’s because Candice is genuinely thinking about me, and you’re just thinking about my money “It’s obvious from what I heard when I first returned to the hotel that day.

“You made the right decision, so I don’t blame you. I won’t punish you either. “However, I like Candice’s decision more. That’s why I like her more, and that’s why she’s my woman. That’s all!” Erin was rendered speechless...

The Ace at the Apex by Nine Linked Rings Chapter 649 ReadOnline

Chapter 649 Someone Plotted It Erin was gone. Although she had made a mistake, she was still a smart woman.

She knew very well that she should quickly hold onto it when someone gave her something. Otherwise, she might lose what was given in the first place. After Erin left, Candice looked at Javier. "Why? I-I'm not exactly a pure woman..."

From Candice's point of view, whether she had been forced or she had initiated it, she did sleep with Javier. Furthermore, she had been satisfying Javier with the presence of another woman. Because of that, she had been thinking lowly of herself this whole time.

She felt like she did not deserve Javier, and she felt like she was an impure woman.

However, that was not how Javier saw people. He cared more about someone's quality.

The next moment, he took off his mask in front of Candice. At first, Candice was taken aback. She thought Javier's face had fallen off, like a horror movie.

But she discovered that the truth was different from what she thought. She saw a very handsome face.

More importantly, it was the face that was always on the news and on TV. It was Reivaj Group's chairman!

Candice was stunned. "A-are you really Javier Kersey, the chairman of Reivaj Group?!" Javier nodded. "Of course. It's true." Candice was shell-shocked. She still remembered that during one of their conversations at night, Erin had said to her that if Javier were actually Javier Kersey of Reivaj Group, it would be great because she would not have to enter the entertainment industry. She could just hold onto him and live a luxurious life from then on.

But at that time, Candice had not even dared to dream about it. The chairman of Reivaj Group was young, capable, and handsome. Why would he like her? Therefore, she never had any expectations.

Little did she know, Javier was actually the chairman of Reivaj Group!

As she looked at Javier, who was sitting on the bed and smiling, Candice was shocked and anxious. She did not know what to do.

However, Javier did not need her anxiety. All he needed was her flirtatiousness, tenderness, and kindness.

He felt her kindness, and he had also experienced her flirtatiousness and tenderness many times, but it was never enough.

Javier stretched out his hand and caressed Candice's s*xy lace panties. "Candy, I really like this part of you, and I can't get enough of her. She belongs to me forever, okay?"

Candice could feel the change in her body. She was so shy that her face was blushing.

“Oh, don’t do this. Y-You...” Candice finally said, “I’m not worthy of you.” Javier did not care. “We’ll have to try it out before we find out if you’re worthy or not!” Candice did not understand what he meant, but Javier immediately pinned her down on the big bed and...

She realized what she was about to do, but it was embarrassing to spell it out loud!

In the next two days, Candice had truly become Javier’s woman. They went shopping, played, and spent a lot of time having fun together. It made Candice feel that she had just become the happiest woman in the world.

She did not care about money. All she knew was that it was her greatest joy to be one of Javier’s women.

She couldn’t care less about other things!

Two days later, Javier packed up in the morning and was ready to leave.

He had his own business, and Candice had to go home to see her parents.

They parted ways, and when Candice was leaving, she stared at Javier, wide-eyed and filled with reluctance.

She hesitated and said, “Can I go see you when I miss you?”

Javier smiled and said, “Of course, you can. You’re my woman, so of course, you should see me. I wouldn’t want you to go see someone else!”

Candice smiled. She did not ask for much. As long as she could see Javier when she missed him, she was happy with that.

After they hugged and kissed, Javier watched Candice enter the boarding hall before driving away.

The car sped the entire journey until he finally arrived back at the office in the afternoon of the same day.

When Javier showed up at the entrance of the office, he was welcomed by bouquets of flowers and applause.

It was to celebrate Javier's early completion of the tasks that were assigned by HQ. It was amazing. In fact, it was outstanding. Only Javier could complete such an impossible task! Moreover, he hadn't brought a team with him. He had done it all alone!

It had taken less than a month for him to complete the sales task that was assigned by the company, all by himself. He did the impossible! Initially, there were still people in the company who were not convinced about Javier, but now, he had completely won them over.

They had to admit that a position had nothing to do with age but with ability!

Platted It

As Javier was showered with flowers and applause, Tucker brought him to the office.

"Kersey, I don't think I need to compliment you on your ability. It's obvious, and everyone can see how amazing you are. But that's exactly why I feel sorry for you!" "Huh?" Javier was dumbfounded when Tucker suddenly said that. He could not understand what Tucker meant. Tucker had no intention of hiding it either. He got right into it. "Jayden Kempfer from HQ orchestrated this to get you. He claimed it was for your own good and asked you to be the leader of the development department, but in reality, everyone knew it was actually a trap. You have a background in sales, and yet, he assigned you to the development department..."

Tucker told Javier a lot more after that, but Javier could already tell where he was going.

Jayden Kempfer was the brother of Judd Kempfer, the man who had died.

Judd was dead, and even though Jayden could not find any evidence that it was related to Javier, he still suspected him intuitively.

Therefore, his scheme to get Javier was warranted.

After Javier understood the reason behind this, he smiled and patted Tucker on the shoulder.

"It's okay, Goldwater. I'm not even mad, so you shouldn't be either. You don't have to feel bad either. A screw can work anywhere just the same, so being assigned to the development department isn't a problem for me at all. Don't worry about it!"

Javier did not call Tucker "Mr. Goldwater" because, just like how Tucker had called him "Kersey" when he walked through that door, they were no longer superior and subordinate but friends.

One had to be truthful with friends, so Javier reassured him that he did not have to worry about it at all.

However, Tucker still felt sorry for him. As the boss, he had failed to protect his subordinate, and he had to go through that after he did something commendable. Tucker was truly disappointed. The old man and the young chap chatted in the office for a long time. Javier took the company's notice and left. It did not matter because Jayden's scheme actually worked in Javier's favor.

Javier had been wanting to learn more about the real estate industry. Since Jayden had taken the initiative to use his connections to transfer Javier to the development department, it saved Javier quite a bit of trouble. However, deep in his heart, he was also clear that Jayden was out to get him.

He knew for a fact that Jayden must have someone on his side that was working in the development department he was going to, and they must be waiting for the chance to plot against him.

Serena Fotted It

'Bring it on. We'll see who's more evil!'

It was just a scheme against him, and he was completely unafraid. Even if there were a big rock in front of him, he would crush it into dust instead of tripping over it!

How

Me

The Ace at the Apex by Nine Linked Rings Chapter 650 ReadOnline

Chapter 650 I Need You to Help Me

After packing up, Javier checked out of the room with his luggage and drove to the construction company in East China.

According to HQ's notice, he was sent to the construction company as a general manager. He would be the leader.

It may seem like an acknowledgment of all his achievements.

However, it was actually part of a scheme, and Javier couldn't be bothered by it. Just as he had said, even if there were a big rock in his way, he would crush it into dust! On the third day after receiving the transfer notice, Javier arrived at East China Construction, a company under Maple Court. After entering the office, Javier immediately went to see the assistant general manager, Dahlia Robins.

Dahlia was an amazing woman. Javier had looked into the company employees' backgrounds before coming Dahlia had been working for Maple Court for more than ten years, and she was a senior.

If it weren't for Javier's sudden transfer, East China Construction would have been hers.

Therefore, it seemed like Javier had taken her position away from her. However, after the investigation, Javier did not feel that way. He verified that Dahlia and Jayden were actually cousins.

Thus, Javier realized that Jayden was worried that it would be too obvious to promote his cousin, so he dragged him into it.

With Dahlia being here, Javier's job would definitely be difficult, and it would probably never be enough no matter what he did. Eventually, he would most likely have to leave. That way, it would be easier to explain it to the company. Dahlia had been working so hard for so many years, but she was still an assistant general manager. Thus, it was only natural for her to get promoted, and it would have nothing to do with her connections in HQ.

Since Dahlia was on Jayden's side, Javier should definitely deal with her first now that he was here.

When Javier entered Dahlia's office, she looked up at Javier and continued to work. She did not even get up.

After Javier closed the door, he said with a smile, "Ms. Robins, it looks like you don't even bother pretending in front of me. The only thing left for you to do is to openly declare your relationship with Jayden so that I'll know we're enemies, right?" Dahlia was stunned. She did not expect Javier to find out about her relationship with Jayden.

However...

"You know that, so what? You won't be here for long anyway. Your position shall be mine!" Javier did not refute. He nodded in agreement instead. "Okay, not only will my position be yours, but I can also be yours. So, for the sake of your unique charm, why don't we get it on right here?"

His words astonished Dahlia. She was a very beautiful woman indeed, and because she was 40, she had the charm that came with age.

She was in the office all year round, and that made her even more elegant, especially when she was in her office attire and s*xy black pantyhose. She seemed extremely alluring.

However, Dahlia would never accept such suggestive and obscene comments!

The next moment, she slammed the desk and stood up angrily. Her tone of voice was accusatory as she said, "B*stard. You're such a jerk!" Then, Dahlia also expressed that she would file a complaint with HQ about how shameless Javier was acting. However, Javier waved his hand. "Calm down, calm down. Let's talk about business first. It won't be too late to file a complaint after we're done talking about business."

Javier then took a few documents out of the folder under his arm and gave them to Dahlia.

Dahlia glanced at them, and she was so stunned that she simply stood still.

Those documents were about her husband's corruption and bribery. Her husband used to be the sub-district chief but died in the line of duty while dealing with a fire.

For that reason, the local media had published extensive reports, calling him a hero. The media had also been spreading the news everywhere. However, the pictures of the documents in the file clearly showed that it was purely a coincidence that he had been at the scene at the time. He had actually been drinking with someone next door when the neighbor's house caught fire and burned him to death...

Javier did not know how he managed to become a hero afterward, and he did not bother to investigate. The evidence he had was enough to pull Dahlia's dead husband off the altar. "What do you think will happen if your daughter finds out that her father isn't a hero but someone corrupt who's despised by the entire nation? What do you think will happen if your daughter lost her bonus college entrance exam scores she received because they thought her father was a hero?"

Javier did not give Dahlia too many "what ifs", but these two were enough to scare Dahlia.

Her daughter's academic performance was not great, and her college entrance examination scores were not good enough for her first-choice college. She had only managed to be accepted to the college thanks to the brownie points of being the hero's daughter. If something like this got exposed... Her daughter's bonus scores would definitely be taken away, and her husband would definitely be pulled off the altar to be criticized by the public. She and her daughter would never be able to hold their heads up in the future. Dahlia was terrified. She would never allow that to happen.

FAY TO Help Me

Dahlia quickly tore up the documents. She had the instinct that there would be no threats if she tore them.

Javier smiled at her when she did that. "That's just a copy. I can give you as many copies as you want, so tear them up as you like!"

Javier's words made Dahlia feel fearful. She would never allow something that terrible to happen.

Thus, she took a deep breath and said to Javier as calmly as possible, "I don't have to help Jayden, and I can help you get settled in with your current position. I'll give you credit for all my achievements in the future, so don't tell anyone about it."

Javier sneered. "Are you kidding me? Do you think I give a hoot about your achievements? Do you think I'm afraid of the fact that you're helping Jayden? Oh, please, even if you're helping him, go ahead. I won't stop you. You can do so if you think you can deal with me.

"Jayden is nothing. In my eyes, he means nothing at all. Only you would think he's something.

Javier's attitude was very arrogant, and he did not care about Jayden at all. In fact, it was true. Why should he be afraid of Jayden? Jayden was nothing! If he were to use everything he had, the entire Maple Court would never be able to handle it, let alone Jayden.

Dahlia was stunned for a moment when Javier said he did not want any of that. "Then what do you want?"

Javier walked closer and sat on Dahlia's desk. He looked at her, face to face.

"I want you to help me."

Dahlia frowned. "You just said you didn't need my help. So what do you mean!?" Javier waved his hand. "Calm down. There are different types of help. I need you to help me here."

As Dahlia's gaze followed the direction of Javier's finger movements, she noticed Javier's lower body...

The Ace at the Apex by Nine Linked Rings Chapter 651 ReadOnline

Chapter 651 Utterly Shameless “No way. Dream on! I’ll never do that with you. Absolutely not!” Dahlia flipped out when she saw the suggestive spot Javier was referring to.

She would never do something like that. It had been more than six years since her husband passed. There had been an endless stream of men who tried to pursue her during those six years, but she had never given anyone a chance. She refused to give them any opportunities in business either.

One could say that she had mastered unwavering tenacity in the past six years. Javier nodded when he saw Dahlia’s determination. “I did some investigation on you too, so I’m not going to force you. However, you need to lower your head because I hate seeing people with their heads held high when they’re in front of me. It hurts me to see that, so I have to press their heads down. “So, to prove your sincerity, please lower your head!” Dahlia was a grown woman, so she knew exactly what Javier meant. Her face flushed, and she immediately refuted, “You’re so shameless. You’re a j*rk and a b* stard!”

Javier smiled. “You’re quick to judge. If it weren’t because you’re working with Jayden against me, I wouldn’t have investigated you. Cut it out. You started it, so don’t blame me for acting shamelessly.

“In this world, there are actions and consequences. It wouldn’t make sense for you to stab somebody in the back and not have them fight back, right? “I think you should have thought about it when you decided to work for Jayden! “If you haven’t thought about it...Maybe you should think about it now?” Javier was neither annoyed nor angry, but his words could kill.

On the contrary, Dahlia, who had been agitated the entire time, did nothing at all.

It was not because she did not want to, but because she simply could not. At that moment, she even began to regret promising her cousin, Jayden, that she would help him deal with Javier.

Just as Javier had said, if she hadn’t been malicious in the first place, Javier would not have gone against her.

However, there was no use feeling sorry now. The only thing she should do was to figure out a way to deal with the matter at hand.

After thinking about it, Dahlia said, “I can give you the money to go out and find yourself a woman.”

Javier chuckled when Dahlia tried to bribe him with money. This world could be such a crazy

to51 Utterly Shameless

place sometimes!

“Dahlia, you have no idea how rich I am, and I can guarantee that your money is nowhere as much as mine. So, don’t try to negotiate with money. Lower your head quickly. I like your sexy little mouth.” Dahlia was furious after being verbally harassed again and again. The bluish veins on her forehead were bulging as she yelled, “No way! That is absolutely impossible!” Javier suddenly realized something. He turned around and walked out of the office. “Fine. You’re louder, and you’re always right. Let’s leave it at that, then. Anyway, it’s not my daughter who will get kicked out of university, nor is it my husband who will get removed from the altar. I’m not going to get insulted and mocked, and I certainly won’t be the person who’ll never be able to hold their heads up in society again.”

Javier left, and he was not pretending. He was leaving and was already in front of the door, opening the office door.

But just then, Dahlia freaked out and quickly ran forward. Her heels were clicking as she ran and grabbed Javier immediately.

“I’m begging you. I’m sorry for going against you, but please let me go. I’m already 40. There are young girls that are way more beautiful than me out there. Stop picking on me, will you?”

“I will not.”

Javier’s answer was very straightforward. “If saying sorry worked, there would be no need for justice in this world.”

“You made a mistake, so you must accept the punishment you deserve. “Also, I don’t hate that you’re 40. You look more attractive than those young and beautiful girls out there. You also have a better character and appearance. I like women like you. So, what do you say?” Javier did not give Dahlia any options, but it was quite obvious that Dahlia only had one choice. She could either say yes to Javier or bear the cost of her mistake. Thus, Dahlia lowered her head shamefully after being silent for nearly a minute. Dahlia had had unwavering tenacity for six years, but at the end of it all, she had to bend over for a mistake that offended Javier.

The next moment, Dahlia blushed and stretched out her hand to Javier in a hurried breath. Her hands were fair and beautiful, but they could not stop trembling. They were trembling out of humiliation and regret.

She could not stop her tears from falling. No one knew why she was crying, not even herself.

Because as much as she hated Javier, she knew she deserved it...

Her fair little hands gradually crept closer as they trembled. As her hands inched toward Javier's belt, her fingertips were already on his button.

Chapter 651 Uiterly Shameless

However, at that moment, Javier suddenly grabbed her arm. When Dahlia raised her head curiously, Javier nodded and kissed her tiny, rosy lips.

Dahlia desperately tried to get out of it, but she could not escape Javier as he continued kissing her wildly.

The passion and dominance were something Dahlia had never accepted for the past six years. She was very confused and had no idea what to do. After trying to break free but to no avail, she simply stopped resisting and started taking it in... After ten minutes of kissing, Javier let go of Dahlia's lips, but his hands were still wrapped around her tiny waist. Javier looked at Dahlia's gorgeous face up close and said, "You're beautiful and sexy. I do want you, but I'm not going to threaten you with your husband's affairs. I'll make you beg me to want you." Dahlia's face flushed. She did not know if it was because of Javier's words or if she felt the shame from the kiss earlier. However, there was one thing she was certain about. "I will never beg you for it! You can wait your whole life!"

Javier bit her rosy lips again. "Baby, are you sure?" It was an innuendo, and Dahlia felt it before her body. She pushed Javier away, embarrassed. "I'm not talking to someone as shameless as you!" Javier nodded. "Well, you can certainly do that, but I think work still needs to be done. Is it time for me to introduce myself?"

Dahlia knew exactly what Javier meant, so she did not refuse this time. Dahlia fixed her outfit, and when her blushing went away, she took Javier out of the office. She was going to convene a meeting for the company's top management so that she could announce Javier's position as the new general manager. But just as she was walking in front, Javier's voice suddenly sounded from behind. "Dahlia, your hips are so sexy. They sway when you walk, and your beautiful legs look so sexy in a pantyhose."

Dahlia's blush that finally went away immediately appeared again.

She wished she could strangle Javier to death. How could anyone be such a j*rk? It was awful.

However, something even more awful happened after Javier's new position announcement.

After everyone had left the conference room, Javier grabbed her.

“Baby, I’ll come to your house tonight, and you’d better not reject me. If you do, I’ll send those documents to the media nationwide.” Dahlia was abashed. How could this happen? How could Javier be so utterly shameless!?

The Ace at the Apex by Nine Linked Rings Chapter 652 ReadOnline

Chapter 652 Javier’s Tricks Dahlia believed that she would never find anyone as shameless as Javier. Unfortunately, she had no choice. Javier pressured her, and all she could do was be nice and beg for mercy. “My daughter’s at home, so it’s inconvenient for me to bring a stranger home. Can you be considerate of me?” Javier nodded solemnly. “Yeah, I am being considerate of you. That’s why I got someone to gift your daughter a return flight and seven-day tour through a lucky draw. I think she’s probably heading to the airport now.” Dahlia was stunned. She did not expect that to happen at all. In fact, her cell phone rang shortly after, and it was from her daughter. “Mom, I’m so lucky! I won a lucky draw, and the prize is an all-paid seven-day trip to Miamee! It’s awesome!” Dahlia was anxious when she found out that her daughter was leaving. She quickly said, “Honey, you shouldn’t trust those lucky draws out there. It’s all a scam. If you want to go, I’m going to pay for it next time”

Dahlia was still talking on the phone when her daughter replied, “Mom, don’t worry about me. It’s not fake. I won them at the travel agency downstairs our house. They did a lucky draw to give back to regular customers. Didn’t we travel somewhere last year? That’s how I won! I’m so happy! “Mom, I’ll talk to you later. The trip is very sudden, and I have to take a car to the airport right now. Bye!” Before Dahlia could finish speaking, her daughter hung up the phone. She was dumbfounded and completely oblivious of how Javier had done all that. He had sent her daughter away so easily. When Dahlia looked at him, Javier pointed at his head. “You and Jayden are not as smart as me. You should be thankful that you are elegant and have a gorgeous face and a good figure. Otherwise, I would have tricked you, and you’d fall for it.” Javier had no intention of being humble at all. Dahlia also came to the realization that Javier was not boasting when he said that.

For a mere 500 to 600 dollars, he had managed to trick her daughter into traveling all the way to Miamee.

If he really wanted to take her down, he would probably not even need to spend more than 5,000 dollars.

She also thought Javier’s trick could be used as a precedent in business.

Chapte: 652 Javier’s Tricks

After recalling what Javier had done before, Dahlia could not help but have respect for him. She truly admired him.

In this regard, she was indeed inferior to Javier because he had too many tricks up his sleeves.

However, that would not be a reason for Javier to stay at her place tonight!

The next moment, Dahlia said, "I simply can't let you stay at my place tonight. Besides, you said you wouldn't threaten me with those documents to sleep with you. Are you going to go back on your word!?"

"Go back on my word?" Javier waved his hand with a smile. "Of course not. I won't break my promise. I just want to stay at your place. "Well, you know I just got here. I don't have a place to stay, and I don't have any necessities at all. The key is I haven't found a place that will settle my meals and accommodation, so I need a place that can take care of me like a nanny. Do you get it now?"

Dahlia got what he meant, but that pissed her off even more. She initially thought that Javier was thinking about her. Although he was a little shameless, it at least proved her beauty. But she now realized that Javier only saw her as a nanny who would take care of his everyday life! The more she thought about it, the angrier she felt. Dahlia glared at Javier. "Do you know that you have this magic that makes me want to strangle you to death?"

Javier asked in surprise, "That's magical. Why do women tell me that it felt so good they could die, but you just want to strangle me to death? Is there something wrong with the way we interact? Should we try something different?"

Dahlia admitted defeat. Fine. He just wanted to live at her place and make her a nanny.

She was willing to do it as long as it was not an intimate relationship between a man and a woman.

Still, she also had a request. "You can't carpool with me to and from work. I don't want people to make assumptions if they see us." Javier nodded solemnly. "Of course. I can afford a car..."

When Dahlia got off work, she saw Javier's car.

Javier could certainly afford it, but she could not. A Rolls-Royce Cullinan could easily cost hundreds of thousands. Her Audi A7 seemed like nothing at all.

However, she was relieved after thinking about it. They would not have to share a car when they went to and from the office.

Dahlia drove in front, and Javier followed behind her.

However, Dahlia had a cunning thought while she was on the road. She turned the car into sports mode. In the next instant, there was a loud revving sound. Dahlia's driving skills were good. After a close chase, Javier was nowhere to be seen.

Lilauiel DDZ Javiers Tricks

When Dahlia could no longer see Javier's car in the rearview mirror, her face was filled with pride.

"I didn't ditch you, but you just couldn't catch up. I guess you'll find yourself a place tonight!" Dahlia was excited as she drove all the way back home. However, as soon as she arrived in her neighborhood, she found Javier standing in front of the door of her unit, waving enthusiastically to her. "Hey, you're back, Ms. Robins. You drove way too slow. I've been waiting so long that I'm almost done with this cigarette." Dahlia looked at the cigarette butt in Javier's hand. He was right. It was almost done. She was confused. How had Javier caught up, even overtaking her? As she headed upstairs, Dahlia suddenly realized how stupid she was. Javier had made her daughter win a lucky draw at the travel agency downstairs. He certainly knew where her place was. She had been smug enough to think she could get rid of Javier. It turned out to be the biggest joke ever.

He did not even have to go after her. He simply drove to her place... Dahlia went upstairs with a cold face and an awful mood while Javier followed her closely. Fortunately, she did not run into any acquaintances when they took the elevator. They went straight to her unit's level, and the door opened.

After opening the door, Javier took off his shoes and walked on the wooden floor. He went next to the couch.

Dahlia did not bother paying Javier any attention. She thought she could just treat him like he was invisible. All she needed to do was to prepare an extra set of utensils during dinner.

However, at that moment, Javier, who was sitting on the couch, suddenly said, "It smells so good. It smells like you."

Dahlia did not understand what he meant, but it sounded risqué.

When she turned around and looked, she was embarrassed. Javier was holding her shoes. He held them up to his nose and sniffed eagerly.

The Ace at the Apex by Nine Linked Rings Chapter 653
ReadOnline

Chapter 653 No One Is Born a Genius Javier's words and actions made Dahlia feel the urge to strangle him to death.

She was right. Javier did have a power that almost seemed magical. It made her want to strangle him alive.

But in reality, Dahlia could only imagine. She could not touch Javier at all because she had very little strength. She was as weak as a kitten. If it were not for Javier, who decided to let her go, she would not have been able to get away from him at all.

She was furious when she found out why Javier had let her go. He said, "I'm hungry. Go cook something."

Dahlia felt a strong urge to kill him. He was being suggestive just a second ago, yet he was now treating her like a nanny. She was furious and thought she must have committed a terrible sin in her past life to have to end up with Javier in her present life.

Dahlia went to the kitchen to cook in rage, and Javier followed behind her shortly after.

Dahlia was startled. She had a feeling that Javier had bad intentions when he was behind her. She would be riddled with the worry that he would lift up her skirt from time to time.

But in fact, when she turned around, she realized that Javier was not paying any attention to her. He was looking at his phone.

"What's going on? I read in the documents that the houses our company built were reported? What happened?" Dahlia heaved a sigh of relief when she found out that Javier was talking about work. She then said angrily, "It's Reivaj Group." Javier was confused by her reply. "What's wrong with Reivaj Group? What do they have to do with this?"

"The Reivaj Group's construction company. It was all because of them. They were trying to take our business away from us by destroying our reputation." Javier was even more dumbfounded. Wouldn't he know if his own company was involved in real estate?

It was true that they were involved in the real estate industry, but Doug was responsible for it in another city, and it had yet to be developed!

Besides, they were not going against Maple Court. They outsourced to other construction companies. Why would they bother causing any trouble here?

Javier said curiously, "But I heard that Reivaj Group has never set up a construction company here?"

Dahlia glanced back at Javier. "I guess what you heard wasn't very accurate then. Reivaj Group hasn't just established a construction company here, but its scale is pretty big. It became our strongest competitor in just two years." This made Javier even more puzzled. Where did this construction company come from? He asked Dahlia for more information. She called and asked the secretary to prepare a copy of the documents and send them to her via email.

Chapter 653 No One Is Born a Genius

By the time Dahlia finished cooking dinner, she had received the documents. When she asked Javier to have dinner, he ignored her. It was as if he hadn't heard her. He simply started studying the documents. Dahlia did not mind sharing a table with Javier for dinner, so she started eating.

But when she finished dinner, she realized that Javier was still studying the documents. Dahlia thought about it and shouted at Javier, "It's time to eat!" She was not concerned about whether Javier was hungry or not. She just thought that it was time to clean the dinner table. However, Javier waved his hand and did not speak. He continued to study the documents in front of the computer. "He's acting like he's all capable. He's not done studying on the computer yet.." Dahlia mumbled and started packing up the leftovers. She thought about it and decided that Javier could do as he pleased. If he did not want to have dinner, so be it.

Javier ended up not eating. Even when she took the risk and went to the bathroom to shower, Javier still sat in front of the computer. Dahlia was surprised. Could Javier be that serious? When Dahlia approached him, Javier was still writing and scribbling. He wrote down all the names of the employees from Reivaj Construction, including their positions, achievements, etc. He even had time to analyze their characters.

Dahlia was shocked to see notes with such details.

She thought that Javier was just a salesman. Little did she know, Javier was also quite successful in the construction industry. Of course, he was studying the company's leaders because he wanted to defeat them. There would be no other reason for him to do that.

However, Dahlia had no idea how Javier would deal with it. What she was sure of right now was that Javier was by no means a fool.

From time to time, Javier would fiddle with his phone. Dahlia did not know what he was doing with his phone, so she stopped caring. She thought that Javier would eventually feel hungry when he was done. She could easily warm dinner up again if he did since he was so serious about his work. But Dahlia fell asleep while waiting. She lay on the couch and slept for several hours. She realized that it was four in the morning when she opened her eyes. At that moment, Javier was still working next to the computer.

Chapter 653 No One Is Born a Genius

When Dahlia just woke up, she was taken aback because she was afraid Javier might have taken advantage of her while she was asleep.

But in reality, he did not. Not only had Javier not taken advantage of her, but he had also covered her with a thin blanket.

When she looked at Javier, who was still working hard next to the computer, she could not help but think, 'Success doesn't just come for no reason. I can never compete with his determination and hardworking spirit.'

However, Dahlia thought about it in her heart and would never say it out loud. She did not want to praise Javier since he had been picking on her so much.

At that moment, Javier got up and stretched. By chance, he saw Dahlia, who had just woken up.

"You're awake. You should go sleep in the bedroom. You'd better not catch a cold in the living room."

Dahlia got up, put on her slippers, and prepared to go back to the bedroom.

When she walked to her bedroom door, she suddenly asked, "Mr. Kersey, are you hungry?" She had come to terms with Javier's identity because she addressed him as "Mr. Kersey". She probably asked him if he was hungry simply out of kindness and intuitive concern.

Javier smiled. "I'm not hungry. Get some rest, don't worry about me."

After sending Dahlia back to the bedroom, Javier lay on the sofa. He had everything thought out. When he woke up the next day, he was determined to visit Reivaj Construction.

He wanted to see the b*stard who had the nerve to scam the public using Reivaj Group's name.

When Dahlia returned to the bedroom, she peeked through the crack of the door. She was relieved upon seeing Javier lying on the sofa.

To be honest, she was still a little afraid that Javier would suddenly break into her room. After all, Javier had shown strong intentions of wanting her during the day. But at that moment, she discovered that Javier was someone who was honest and had self-control. She suddenly felt as if she did not really know Javier. In her eyes, Javier seemed like two different people-one being so pompous to the point of being hateful, while the other was hardworking and did not care to put that on display.

People would normally call someone like Javier a genius.

However, only those who knew what happened behind the scenes would understand how hardworking the genius was. 'Hopefully, he won't turn into that j*rk from during the day again...! Dahlia sincerely hoped so, but what happened the next day was a slap of reality. She was lying in bed when she felt a little itch on her feet. She then felt it on her calves. When the tingling sensation reached her thighs, Dahlia suddenly realized something was off.

ther 653 No One Is Born a Genius

After six years of being alone, it made her extra sensitive, and she could tell what an illusion was and what was real.

Thus, she suddenly opened her eyes. She was shy when she saw Javier lying on top of her...

The Ace at the Apex by Nine Linked Rings Chapter 654 ReadOnline

Chapter 654 Who the H*ll Do You Think You Are!? "Javier!? Get off of me, you *sshole!"

Dahlia kicked and pushed Javier away when she realized that he was lying on her. She was helplessly trying everything she could to get him off her and ended up looking rather panicked.

Javier smiled and got up but proceeded to talk about serious matters, ignoring Dahlia's frustration completely.

"I will take a trip down to Reivaj Construction today and deal with this competitor."

Dahlia hurriedly pushed down the part of her pajamas that Javier had flipped open the moment the latter got off her. She then shot him a glare filled with hatred and was very annoyed when she said, "In your dreams! Do you think you're able to eliminate whoever you want to? Who the h*ll do you think you are!?"

Javier replied, "At the very least, the only thing you'll be able to do is to lie in bed and let me have my way with you if that's what I want from you."

Dahlia was infuriated when she heard this, but there was nothing she could do about it. When she thought further about it, she realized that she could not retaliate at all.

"Alright. I'm hungry. Hurry up and go make me something to eat." After Javier left, Dahlia angrily grumbled, "You can starve to death for all I care!"

She could not understand how Javier could look so motivated and awake despite having slept much later than herself and even woken up earlier than her. In truth, she did not understand that this was all thanks to her.

Why would Javier flirt with her so early in the morning? That's because he wanted to stimulate his brain through excitement.

After breakfast, Javier directly drove off to Reivaj Construction. Looking at the Cullinan driving far off into the distance, Dahlia spitefully said, "You'll never succeed, I'm sure of it!"

'If it was that easy to eliminate a company, I would've had Reivaj Construction destroyed long ago before you could even have the chance to make your move.'

Alas, Dahlia had greatly underestimated Javier's capabilities. She might not be able to succeed, but this did not mean Javier could not.

Soon, Javier arrived at Reivaj Construction, which very intriguingly had the exact same company logo at the entrance as Reivaj Group.

'How is it that nobody's managed to notice a company so openly and boldly impersonating my own company?'

But now that I've found it, there's no more reason for it to exist any longer.'

After parking the car at the company's entrance, Javier met up with Jackson Linwood, the person in charge of this impostor company.

ant 654 Who the H+|| Do You Think You Are

Javier had done a background check on Jackson and found that he was a descendant from a wealthy family who somehow used Reivaj's name to build his company thanks to a certain "expert". Moreover, he had made a rather decent development by using Reivaj Group's reputation over the past two years. Jackson was standing in his office with a woman sitting on his office chair when Javier found him.

The woman seemed to be in her late twenties with a beautiful face and a voluptuous body. However, her arrogance was even more apparent in comparison to the former two. "I told you about this long ago, so why didn't you listen to me!? Answer me!" Jackson was very embarrassed. "I..." He kept on mumbling for a while but could not give the woman his reasoning.

It was right at that moment when the door was pushed open, and Javier walked in. Jackson, who was initially being taught a lesson, immediately vented all of his frustration when he saw Javier. "Who the f*ck do you think you are? How dare you come in here without knocking!? Don't you know where this is!?" Jackson had spoken very rudely, but Javier was no better as he instantly gave Jackson a huge smack upon approaching the former. "Try talking to me like that again. I dare you." "You f*cking—"

Javier sent Jackson another huge slap that left the latter dumbfounded and confused.

Jackson was usually the person who would behave arrogantly, but he was now stunned after being slapped twice in a row. Jennie Sage, the woman sitting on the office chair, stood up and shot Javier a cold stare. "What do you think you're doing?"

Javier glanced at her and said, "Relax, it's not your turn yet."

After that, Javier turned back to Jackson and gave him another slap. Jackson's ears were now ringing from being slapped when he heard, "Do you know why I've slapped you?"

Of course, Jackson had no idea and was stunned speechless from the three slaps he had received. 'How the h*ll am I supposed to know why!?' Javier punched the living lights out of Jackson without giving him a chance to try and explain. Coincidentally, two staff members came into the office to report something and rolled up their sleeves when they saw their employer being beaten up. Seeing that the staff members were charging at him, Javier left all three of them, including Jackson, lying on the floor in a corner, not daring to move anymore.

Santot 654 Who the Hill Do You Think You Are!

"Despite being a man, you've chosen to stoop so low that you would have to listen to a woman's orders. Do you exist in this world to prove to everyone that there's such a term as a useless loser?"

Indeed, Jackson was nothing but a loser in Javier's eyes.

According to the information he had obtained from his background check on Jackson, Jennie was his stepmother. No matter how arrogant Jackson usually was, he would surely be on his best behavior in front of Jennie because she was much "smarter" than him in terms of business knowledge and schemes. Because of this, Jennie had him dancing around her fingertips. However, to Javier, these were petty parlor tricks that would not amount to much in the business world.

As such, it would seem that Jennie was the one who came up with the idea for Reivaj Construction. Javier approached her after he was done dealing with all three losers. He wrapped his arm around Jennie's slender waist without wasting a moment and brought her out of the office.

Jennie struggled the entire journey, but she failed to escape Javier's grasp.

She did call for security to help her simultaneously, but they were of no use except for being sandbags that ended up on the floor. Finally, Jennie stopped her meaningless struggles after she was shoved into the Cullinan. In fact, she had no intention of trying to flee. Instead of making those meaningless efforts, she would rather stay behind and find out what Javier wanted.

Sitting in the front passenger's seat, Jennie asked Javier, who was now driving, "Who are you?"

Javier replied, "Javier Kersey." "You're the chairman of Reivaj Group!?" Jennie's heart instantly sank, but she quickly shook her head fervently. "Impossible! I've seen his photograph before, and you're definitely not him!"

Not trying to conceal his identity anymore, Javier took off his mask and instantly left Jennie shocked at the scene.

An indescribable feeling welled up within her now that she knew that Reivaj Group's chairman had personally come to see her.

In conclusion, this feeling she was feeling might have been awkward since it was a fact she had impersonated Javier's company.

Javier turned around and glanced at Jennie. "Have you finished asking your questions? Because I've got some for you now." Jennie was a very intelligent woman, so she instinctively said, "I only borrowed Reivaj Group's name to develop our company. We only used your reputation, but I assure you that we haven't cut any corners quality-wise." Jennie was trying to express how she had not blemished Reivaj Group's good reputation. However, this concept was not going to fly in Javier's mind as he replied, "Are you telling me that I won't be considered to have done anything lewd with you if you strip yourself completely bare, but I don't do anything to you? Does this mean you haven't made any actual losses then?" Jennie was left feeling embarrassed.

