Chapter 2813

Chapter 2813

"What is Cindy trying to do? Chester doesn't even like her..." Freya got slightly huffy.

Charity and Freya used to be good friends with Cindy. 1

Over the years, Cindy grew to be as wicked as ever.

"Apparently, her blood is very rare. It's useful to Chester's mother because his mother has the same blood type as Cindy," Charity explained.

Freya snorted. "Is she trying to make Chester marry her purely for this reason? what a joke. If they were ever going to get married, they would've done it earlier."

Catherine, who had been quiet, suddenly said, "Now that Chester is disabled, this is a good chance, isn't it?"

Charity's hand subconsciously trembled while she was holding her phone.
"Chester..."

"Shaun has been staying by his side since last night. I took a look at Chester just now, and he seems to be out of danger." Catherine said, "Even so... one of his legs was hit many times in the accident, so he broke his bones. Only... the flesh is stuck together."

Charity blinked, she pursed her lips for a long time and stayed quiet. It was not known what was on her mind.

However, Freya screamed in surprise. "It's that serious, huh?"

"In fact, it was lucky that the hospital director rescued Chester immediately after he was sent to the hospital. At that time, Chester was bleeding profusely. He might have lost his life, never mind his legs. Fortunately, the director amputated his foot and performed transplantation of blood vessels, otherwise, his whole leg might have had to be sawn off."

Catherine hesitated for a moment before she said, "Having said that, it'll be hard for him to walk normally in the future."

"Is he awake?" Charity lifted her head. Her pale eyes were extremely dark. "If he is, ask Shaun to arrange for me to visit him."

Catherine could not help but steal a glance at Max, who was busy doing something with his head lowered. Then, she replied, "Wait for two days. Apparently, Chester can't even speak now."

The ward was silent for a while before she said, "But after you visit him, you need to be mentally prepared."

"What do you mean?" Charity asked, "Did he lose his memory?"

It was not because she was doubtful. In fact, she had lost certain parts of her memory after the accident.

"No. He's quite clear-headed. He's just... Anyway, you'll know once you see him." Catherine changed the topic. "Do you want to deal with the recording that has been shared online? It has brought a negative impact to your reputation so far."

"It's fine. Whatever. I'm no longer in the entertainment industry, anyway," charity said indifferently. "I don't care about all these things."

Upstairs.

Chester only opened his eyes at 6:00 a.m.

His head was kept in place. There were many tubes on his body. He could not speak, much less move.

His whole body hurt so much that he almost lost his breath.

He had never suffered so much in his life.

"Chester, you're finally awake." Cindy sat beside his bed and grabbed hold of his hand while weeping. "After Madam Jewell learned that something happened to you, she went to look for Eliza. Do you know what she said? she said that she didn't beg you to save her and that you were just a busybody. How cold-blooded she is! You ended up in this state in order to save her, yet she doesn't know how to be grateful. Madam Jewell was so mad that her illness flared up."

Chester's eyes moved, since he could not speak, he cast a glance at Ken.

"Miss Turner, please go back and rest. Don't disturb Young Master Jewell as he needs to rest." Ken was speechless. Cindy seemed to be concerned about Chester, but after being here for so long, she did nothing except for weeping.

'If you want to flatter Young Master Jewell, you should at least wipe off the bloodstains on his body.'

Although she did not say anything, her eyes revealed fear and disdain that she could not conceal when she looked at Young Master Jewell's injuries.

Chapter 2814

Chapter 2814

The moment Cindy saw Young Master Jewell's injuries the day before yesterday when he was sent to hospital for emergency treatment, she secretly hid and vomited, she did not even dare to approach him.

Ken saw everything.

Why would such a woman exist?

Although Young Master Jewell spoke harshly to her, he had always given her what she deserved.

If it had not been for Young Master Jewell, she would not have come so far.

Thankfully, Young Master Jewell did not marry her back then.

"I'm not disturbing him. I'm just keeping him company." Cindy said in a self-righteous manner, "What's more, Mr. Jewell and Madam Jewell told me to stay here. Both of you are just bodyguards, who knows if you both will bully him now that he can't move and speak?"

A hint of fury was revealed in Ken's eyes.

Cindy lifted her head and warned, "Now that Chester is in the hospital, please be clear who the head of the Jewell family is."

In other words, if Ken continued to talk back, Cindy could get Uncle Michael to drive him out at any time.

Anyway, with Chester's current state, he would still be disabled even when he recovered, unlike when he came out of jail.

Many people in the company must be unhappy about someone who could not act normally.

Furthermore, Chester's head, organs, and legs were injured. There was no way he could fully recover within one and a half years.

By the time Chester recovered, the time for him to shine would have gone.

As long as Cindy managed to win over Michael and his wife, Chester would not be able to do anything to her in the future.

Of course, even if Chester disliked her, what mattered most was that she secured the position of Young Madam Jewell.

Once she gave birth to one or two children for the Jewell family in the future, she would be able to secure her position in the upper class.

It would be unlike now, where some people might butter her up on the surface, but they secretly looked down on her.

Ken was angry.

Even so, he was aware that what Cindy said was true.

After all, Ken was merely a bodyguard.

"I don't care who the head of the Jewell family is."

Suddenly, a man's cold and masculine voice rang out at the door.

Shaun walked in with his grim, handsome face. "But this is Chester's ward. I forbid any riff-raff from coming and disturbing him."

Cindy began to panic.

Unlike Ken, Shaun had a powerful presence. With his sturdy figure and elegant aura, he subconsciously made people feel intimidated.

"Do you want to leave on your own or have me kick you out?" Shaun asked with enunciation.

Cindy was a little scared. However, at the thought that she had Michael and his wife backing her, she said reluctantly, "You're just Chester's friend, so you have no right to control me. What's more, if you treat Chester as your friend, you should keep him away from Eliza. If it weren't for Eliza, he wouldn't be disabled. After all, it's because Eliza is your wife's friend."

Shaun could not be bothered to act politely. He directly clutched the collar of her shirt and flung her out. "Cindy, you have nothing to do Chester. It's his choice to save or like anyone, and it has nothing to do with you. Stop kicking up a fuss. Chester isn't muddle-headed either. He's well aware of your intentions. You thought you would be able to secure the position of Young Madam Jewell once something happened to him, huh? Dream on and get lost."

With that, he slammed the door shut.

Ken said helplessly, "She's sure to look for chairman Jewell and Madam Jewell."

"Doesn't Chester have men? Make them guard the door." Shaun said indifferently, "Apart from doctors and caretakers, no one is allowed to enter."

Ken was torn. "But-

"Other than coming in to blame Chester for saving Eliza, taking pity on Chester for his disabled leg, and criticizing him for not being bothered about anything else except for Eliza, what else could Michael and his wife do?" Shaun interrupted him. "Also, Cindy has arranged for reporters to stay at the door to create the false impression that she has been staying by Chester's side and taking care of him ever since he's been admitted to the hospital."
