Chapter 2809

Chapter 2809

"I've been hiding a lot of things from you. what's strange about it?"

Catherine grinned and threw that remark casually. Her expression that was as cunning as a fox instantly made Shaun choke.

"Cathy, I never hide anything from you," Shaun said glumly.

"But every time you file a lawsuit, do you tell me your litigant's matters?"

Catherine refuted. "I always keep other people's secrets, not mine. I have no right to tell you about those. If you're so great, you can ask Chester. Let's see if he'll tell you."

Shaun looked helpless. He felt as though his wife and buddies were boycotting him. "It's unknown whether Chester will wake up."

"Don't worry. He will." After pausing for a moment, Catherine said, "They say bad people will never die."

Shaun was at a loss for words.

Catherine continued to comfort him, saying, "Look how wicked Sarah was. She only died after causing so much trouble. Although Rodney has turned into a fool, he's still fine. He's always laughing and is happier than US." « »

Charity woke up once again.

The doctor was giving her an injection. The back of her hand ached.

“Bear with it. I’ll be done in a moment.” The doctor fixed the syringe. “There are three bottles of medicine. After the infusion is done, remember to undergo a CT scan.”

“Alright. Thank you.” Max saw the doctor out.

This time, Charity felt that her head did not hurt as much as before. It seemed that she had become more conscious. “I remember that Steven and Taryn were in the car at that time. How are they now?”

“Both of them were seated at the front, so their injuries were minor.” Max consoled her. “They only scraped their arms a little. They’ll be fine after two days. The doctor said they need rest, so I didn’t ask them to come over to visit you.”

“That’s good.” Charity heaved a sigh of relief. “Although I don’t quite remember what happened, I should thank you for assigning Steven to be by my side, otherwise, I might not be here now.”

Max opened his mouth slightly. For someone who was conscious, he felt that Charity’s words were a slap on his face at that moment. His face was burning.

“Charity, I need to make something clear to you.” Max said with a hoarse voice, “Steven wasn’t the one who saved you this time.”

Charity was stunned, she lifted her head and stared at Max’s black eyes.

“It was Chester.” Max said reluctantly, “At that time, it was rush hour on the highway, so there were many cars. Steven kept trying to get rid of Huxley, but he failed to do it. He even caused some accidents in the process. Upon arriving at the bridge, Huxley hit you guys with his car. He attempted to crash your car into the river so that all of you would die together. At that crucial moment, Chester was the one who speedily drove his car toward Huxley and crashed Huxley's car, which prevented your car from falling into the river."

Charity did not move a muscle for a long time. She even forgot to blink.

The ward was so quiet that only the sound of their breathing could be heard.

Max stared unblinkingly at her. There were barely any emotions on her pale face.

After being quiet for half a minute, he asked, "Didn't you say that the traffic was congested at that time? How did Chester show up there?"

"He drove in the opposite direction of traffic on the highway for over 12 miles."

"How is he now?" charity asked after blinking.

Max lowered his head. "He was driving a sports car at that time. It rammed into a Land Rover at a speed of 120 miles per hour before crashing. The front end was completely damaged. Although the airbag protected him, the impact was so great that he's badly injured now. Apart from his head, his organs and legs all suffered a heavy blow. He's now in a coma where he remains unconscious. He's still in critical condition."

Chapter 2810

Chapter 2810

Charity tried her best to recall the situation after the accident.

However, the more she recalled it, the more her head hurt.

"Think about what happened to you." Upon noticing that she suddenly began to breathe rapidly, Max frowned and anxiously leaped to his feet. "I'm going to call the doctor."

"No need." charity said, "I just want to recall what happened before I was in a coma."

"If you can't recall it, just let it be." Max revealed a look of pity. "A lot of surveillance footage has been leaked on the internet."

"Where's Huxley?" Charity asked after some thought.

"He's dead."

Charity was speechless.

Max gritted his teeth and said, "After the first time Chester hit the Land Rover, the passersby and traffic police rushed over to save you out of the Audi. But Huxley, who was covered in blood, dashed toward you while holding a knife. Chester was the one who eventually hit Huxley, which caused him to fall into the river.

Chester was seriously injured only because he didn't manage to be saved in time. He forcefully pressed the accelerator despite being injured. Once again, a collision occurred."

Charity's eyes revealed a trace of confusion.

It was probably because she could not believe that the cruel Chester would risk his life in order to save her.

He had been selfish, had he not?

Did he know what sacrifice and love were?

Why did he not stay away from her?

Indeed, she did not want to be associated with him anymore.

"Although Huxley was a fugitive, Chester drove in the opposite direction of traffic in full view of everyone and even crashed into Huxley. What did the police say?" Charity quickly grasped the key point.

"Now, the Todd family is trying to sue Chester for intentional murder. The Todd family has powerful connections with both the police and the triads, otherwise, Huxley wouldn't have acted so unscrupulously. In particular, Huxley is the only son in the Todd family. But don't worry. Huxley was escaping the law at the time. Plus, many people witnessed how he attempted to kill you. with Shaun taking over the case, you won't lose."

Charity had faith in Shaun's capability. He could twist the facts in all the cases he accepted.

Nevertheless, the process would be quite troublesome as Chester was the president of Jewell Corporation. He would bring a lot of instability to the company, considering that he became embroiled in this kind of lawsuit.

"Will Chester die?" charity suddenly asked.

Max was stunned for a few seconds before he replied, "I'm not sure. He's still in the ICU department. It seems that he's in critical condition."

After a pause, he added with a low voice, "Do you want to pay him a visit?"

"Can I?" Charity's voice was slightly hoarse. "His family won't let me visit him. They probably hate me to the core."

Max was speechless at that moment.

Indeed, he heard that Chester's parents were agitated after they learned that something happened to their son. Chester's mother, in particular, had been howling outside.

If Charity went over, she would probably be told off severely.

However, he was surprised to find that charity was composed and that she could think of that.

"Well, you—"

"You may go home and rest." charity interrupted his sentence. "You have work. I can get a caretaker to look after me."

"Stop kidding. How can I feel at ease having a caretaker look after you?" Max said, "Mrs. Robbins already knows about this issue.

She's now flying over here with my mom. They should be able to arrive here the next morning."

Charity was suddenly dazed. Only then did it hit her that Eliza had a mother. Eliza's mother must have learned about the issue from the news.

Knowing what was on Charity's mind, Max said, "Mrs. Robbins sees you as Eliza, her only daughter. When she knew that something happened to you, she was definitely worried, what's more, I believe you won't want me to stay here and take care of you all the time. It's good that she's coming over."
