Chapter 862 Nathan Cross Sends Him An Invitation

Concurrently, all of Mr. Henry's men were defeated by Colin, as they now laid still, soaked in blood.

Before Mr. Henry could make light of the situation, Colin approached him, standing directly before his very two eyes.

Upon doing so, he soon lifted Mr. Henry, as if he were a chick, handing him over to Nathan.

Even though he appeared pale and terrified, Mr. Henry attempted to remain composed, as he yelled at Nathan sternly, "Fellow, do you know who I am? I'm Henry, one of the Five Overlords of the Underground in Johnstone City! My boss is Juno Packer, the well-known billionaire in this city! I'd advise you to release me this instant. Otherwise, your lives will come to an end, especially once our boss has arrived."

On the other hand, Nathan's lips curled up when he muttered, "I can release you. But before that, you've got to do me a favor."

Mr. Henry asked curiously, "What kind of favor do you require?"

Slowly, Nathan bit his lips as a signal to Colin.

In a mere second, Colin threw a kick as fast as lightning towards Mr. Henry's knee. As such, his left leg was severely broken.

Since he could no longer stand steadily, Mr. Henry kneeled, screaming like a swine.

He was bathed in sweat, while his face was contorted in a grimace of pain. After a while, he asked sobbingly, "B, what do you want me to help you with exactly..."

Nathan flashed him a smile and proclaimed, "I want you to make a phone call to your boss Juno Packer. Tell him that Nathan Cross sends him an invitation to come here now, to have a cup of tea."

Mr. Henry struggled to take out his phone, as he soon phoned his boss. As soon as Juno Packer answered, he mumbled pitifully, "Boss, I have some bad news. A young man called Nathan Cross has beaten the hell out of the security guards and my men. My legs are broken because of him too. He's now in the lobby of your hotel and wants to see you, for some tea. Please come here and save me."

As soon as Mr. Henry hung up the phone, he threw it away, rolling upon the floor in pain.

At the same time, he cursed Nathan and scolded him, "B, why didn't you tell me to call Mr. Packer right away? Why did you have to leave me crippled..."

After a while, Nathan admitted gleefully, as he was lighting a cigarette, "It's because he might've come faster, especially when he'd discovered that you were in pain."

Mr. Henry despaired upon hearing his reply.

Meanwhile, the staff and guests who had surrounded them glanced at each other frightenedly.

“Quick! Quick! Surround the area. Don’t let the troublemaker escape!” Soon, they were surrounded by a group of men, dressed in black suits.

All of them wore black gloves, appearing sturdy. As soon as they surrounded the lobby, they stood steadily, casting a stern look towards Nathan and Colin.

Numbering to over a hundred men, they were evidently well-trained bodyguards, who had gone through intense training.

After a while, everyone in the lobby could hear that the lift had opened.

A tall and imposing middle-aged man, who had grey hair, upturned eyes, and a protruding nose, soon exited the lift.

He was Juno Packer, the boss of Paradise Hotel and a prominent figure in Johnstone City.

Accompanying him was a dark-skinned elder, who followed behind him closely.

The elder, who wore a black suit, appeared as pale as a corpse. Looking particularly creepy, he exuded an air of terror, in his mere footsteps.

He was Soul Reaper, a martial arts master whom Juno Packer had hired. Juno Packer had paid him a hundred million, in order to get the man under his league.

Juno Packer approached them composedly and asked in a lighthearted manner, "Hehe, who is it who'd wanted to invite me over, for a cup of tea?"

One of his underlings immediately grabbed a chair for Juno Packer when he approached Nathan.

Sitting down before Nathan, Juno sized him up, flashing him a smile before he chirped, "I don't think we've met before, as I can't seem to remember you. How can I help you?"

Meanwhile, Soul Reaper and the hundred bodyguards focused their gazes upon Nathan and Colin.

Nathan was still composed, as he responded, "You might not know of me, but I'm certain that you're no stranger, to my father. Thus, I'm here to ask you about him."

Juno frowned slightly as he asked, "May I know who your father is?"

Nathan replied calmly, "He is Mr. Cross!"

Cross? Juno was momentarily shocked as he soon asked, "Are you Zayn Cross's son from Northania?"

Nathan immediately continued, “Since you’re aware that I’m Zayn Cross’s son, you should also know why I’m here today.”

As soon as Nathan had finished, Juno raised his brows, giving off a sneer, “Are you here to collect more information about your father’s suicide? Hehe, wasn’t the announcement clear enough? Your father died because he’d jumped off the building!”

Meanwhile, Nathan grabbed a box of Dragon Cigarettes, as he took one out, casually. After lighting it, he smoked for a bit and responded calmly, “Mr. Packer, how much is your net worth?”

Juno felt that his question was odd. Nonetheless, he answered him anyway, “Well, I only have some properties worth over ten billion.”

Immediately, Nathan added, “Have you ever thought about jumping off from a building to commit suicide?”

At this moment, Juno replied furiously,

“Why would I choose to jump off from a building when I’m doing well now?”

Nathan nodded and chided, “That’s right. My father had a net worth of over a hundred billion, which was ten times more than your wealth. Besides, since the liver medicine that he’d invested in had become successfully invented, he would’ve possessed unlimited wealth in the future. Why would he jump off from a building, given that an ordinary person such as yourself wouldn’t do it?”

Juno Packer plastered on a poker face and merely stated, “As for this question, I think you should’ve asked him this, instead of me.”

As Nathan still sat on the couch, he smoked for a while again and replied, “I’d wished to ask him this too, but unfortunately, he’d passed away. Therefore, I had no other choice but to ask you this. A five-star hotel like yours surely has security cameras installed around every corner. So, I would like to request for the footage on the day my father jumped off, from the building.”

However, Juno merely waved his hand, answering dismissively, “When the police were here, I’d informed them that there was no footage of Mr. Cross because some of our security cameras had happened to malfunction on that unfortunate day.”

Much to Juno’s surprise, Nathan responded, “I’m not a police officer, and I’m not here to reason with you. What matters is that I believe that you are in possession of the footage.”

Juno could not help but stare at Nathan in disbelief when he heard it.

As he grew increasingly furious, Juno sneered, “Hehe, it appears that I’ve got no choice but to admit that there is some footage. I suppose that I’ll have to hand it over to you.”

Nathan agreed, “That’s right.”

Moments later, Juno flashed him a wicked

A slight frown appeared upon Nathan's face, as he asked, "What do you want?"

Suddenly, Juno yelled, "I want twenty billion! I'll hand the footage to you immediately if you're willing to pay me twenty billion upfront."

Nathan's lips quirked up when he replied, "Twenty billion for the footage? You really have the guts to ask for it."

However, Juno ignored him and sneered, "Boy, I understand that you're here to investigate the cause of your father's death. However, this footage might drag the Chamber of Commerce of the West into the mess. I'm actually risking my neck, offering to sell it to you."

Dad's death is indeed related to the Chamber of Commerce of the West! Even though Nathan had suspected as much, he was still slightly shocked, hearing the news from Juno.

Nathan calmed his raging nerves as he reasoned, "Twenty billion is too high a price. How about offering me a better more reasonable price?”

Nevertheless, Juno was apparently displeased as he replied impatiently, “Boy, we’re not in a market, and you shouldn’t bargain with me. Alright, I’ll give you a chance to propose a price. I’ll give you the footage if I’m satisfied with it. However, if I’m not satisfied with it, our deal will be struck off. Besides, I’ll finish you off so that you can meet your father.”

Nathan glanced at Juno, who was very arrogant. Then, he moved his gaze toward the bodyguards, who appeared hostile.

After a while, he admitted smilingly, “I can propose a price only once? Alright, Let’s see how much I would propose!”

As Nathan was speaking, he took out a black wallet, filled with several black cards inside.

Besides, Juno had also noticed that one of the black cards had happened to be an Amex Black Card.

This card had no credit limits. It could be used, almost anywhere in the world! Hence, Nathan Cross could actually spend more than ten billion at a time.

Juno was excited when he imagined that he could blackmail Nathan.

However, he was soon shocked to see what had happened next.

Nathan took out two coins from his wallet and placed them on the table. He then uttered gleefully, "Mr. Packer, I would like to propose two coins in exchange for the footage."

What? Juno was exasperated when he stared at the two coins Nathan had thrown aside, onto the table.

He immediately thumped the table and yelled, "Boy, are you trying to fool me?"

Nevertheless, Nathan still affirmed smilingly, "I'm not fooling you. I'll pay you two coins to receive the footage."

Juno laughed in anger as he yelled, "Soul Reaper!"

The next moment, Soul Reaper, who also wore a black suit, came out slowly and announced, "Boss, I'm here!"

Juno pointed at Nathan and demanded, "Kill him now!"

Soul Reaper grinned wickedly and complied, "Yes, boss."

Once Soul Reaper had finished, he moved swiftly towards Nathan.

He was as fast as lightning, so much so that everyone could only see a silhouette, rushing towards Nathan.

Meanwhile, Juno and his men felt a rush of excitement, witnessing the scene unfolding before them.

Although this was not their first time witnessing Soul Reaper in action, he had yet to disappoint them, always causing them amazement by his sheer speed.

Suddenly, blood gushed out of Soul Reaper's chest before he could reach Nathan.

Shrieking in pain, he fell like a wild goose shot by a bullet. He died almost immediately.

What?

Juno and his men could not believe their eyes, seeing Soul Reaper weltered in blood, falling victim to death.

At this moment, Juno glanced at Nathan, fearfully.

Meanwhile, Nathan flipped around the remaining coin on the desk as he mocked, "Mr. Packer, I've already proposed the price to you. Now, are you willing to sell the footage to me?"

Juno stared at the coin in Nathan's hand before shifting his gaze towards Soul Reaper, who Nathan had killed, using another coin.

He could sense the imminent danger ahead!

If I dare to refuse his request, Nathan might fling his coin at me, like a bullet, piercing my heart, bringing an end to my life.

He swallowed his saliva and relented grudgingly, "I'll take the offer. I'll give the footage to you in exchange for two coins just as you'd proposed."

Soon, Juno asked one of his underlings to take a USB flash drive downstairs.

After that, Nathan requested for Juno to provide him a laptop, playing the footage immediately, upon receiving it.

The footage was about the cocktail party organized by the Chamber of Commerce of the West, which Zayn Cross had attended that night.

The hotel was crowded with many prominent figures in the city, who wore formal and graceful suits or dresses.

Since it was merely security footage, there were only images, without sound.

As Nathan fast-forwarded it to watch the footage, he noticed that many guests had greeted Zayn. Hence, it appeared that Zayn was highly-respected when the cocktail party had started.

Besides, there seemed to be nothing unusual about the cocktail party.

However, several prominent figures in the Chamber of Commerce of the West invited Zayn over, to a room, when the cocktail party was about to end.

Unfortunately, the security cameras failed to record the situation after Zayn had entered the private room.

After pausing the footage, Nathan pointed at it and asked Juno Packer coldly, “Why were there no security cameras after my dad and those from the Chamber of Commerce of the West had entered the private room?”

Juno sneered, “Well, as you know, those are the prominent figures in the Chamber of Commerce of the West. Everything they’d discussed in the private room was certainly trade secrets. Do you think they’d have wanted to have such a discussion, in a room full of security cameras?”

Nathan believed that Juno was telling the truth... There were no security cameras in the private room.

Therefore, he fast-forwarded the video and continued watching it.

Then, a man, with a mustache, wearing a suit, helped Zayn walk, traveling to the blind spot of the hotel's security cameras.

Not long after that, the crowd was panicked, as Zayn fell off from the building.

After watching the footage, Nathan took out the USB flash drive. He then glanced at Juno and murmured, "I have one last question. Who's that man with a mustache who'd helped my father to walk?"

Juno replied, "His name is Harrison. He's one of the members of the Chamber of Commerce of the West, and he is known as the Scavenger."

Nathan frowned when he asked, "The Juno continued as if he were laughing, “That’s right. He’s called the Scavenger because he is in charge of eliminating everyone who’d gone against the Chamber of Commerce of the West.”

Since Nathan got his answer, he stood up and thanked blandly, “Thank you for your information, Mr. Packer. I think that I’ll be staying in the West for several more days. Please get a nice suite for me so that I don’t have to waste my time looking for another hotel.”

What did he say? Juno and his underlings looked at Nathan in disbelief.

As a matter of fact, Nathan Cross had killed Soul Reaper, injured many of Mr. Packer’s men, and bought something from him with two.

In other words, he showed complete disregard to Mr. Packer!

The beautiful manager, who wore a formal dress nearby, came up to him immediately and asked politely, "Boss, how may I help you?"

Juno urged her, "Get the best suite for Mr. Cross. He wishes to stay in our hotel."

Lily Gibbs glanced at Nathan curiously and replied softly, "Yes, boss!"

Much to their surprise, Juno shook his head as a sign to stop them from doing anything.

One of his men could not help but ask, "Boss, he is too arrogant. Why don't you allow us to take him down?"

Juno soon appeared grumpy as he pronounced coldly, "Take them down? Mr. Henry and his men were crippled, while Soul Reaper was killed once he'd flung a coin effortlessly at him. Do you really think you can take them down? I'm worried that once the fight starts, not only will you guys be unable to take him down, rather, I'll die along with everyone too."

At this moment, Mr. Henry, who was unable to walk anymore, laid on the couch while uttering weakly, "Mr. Packer, he'd bullied us and showed us complete disregard. Do we really have to let him go?"

Once Mr. Henry finished, Juno's lips quirked, as he sneered, "Nathan obviously wants to investigate the cause of his

We don't have to take revenge against him by ourselves. On the contrary, we merely have to wait patiently, watching him get killed by the Chamber."

After Lily led Nathan and Colin to the presidential suite, she greeted them again and left.

Hence, only Nathan and Colin were left in the suite.

Nathan stood before the French windows, as he overlooked the city and mused emotionlessly, "My dad had jumped off this hotel and died a week ago. Colin!"

Colin answered right away, "Yes, sir!"

Nathan then commanded him, "Find the Scavenger and bring him here. I want to meet him in person."

Colin replied, "Understood."

The music played in the grandest VIP room in Fairyland Club was deafening.

Inside the room, Harrison and his friends enjoyed the party with many beauties, who were highly paid.

While biting a cigar, Harrison stuffed a pile of one-hundred notes into a lady's collar, asking gleefully, "Is it enough? Take off your clothes now!"

After a while, the lady, who appeared both excited and embarrassed, began to undress.

Harrison and his friends laughed aloud as they watched the scene before them.

Later, one of his friends could not help but ask, "Harrison, did you make a lot of money recently?"

Harrison grinned and replied, "I took on a job given to me by the bosses in the Chamber of Commerce of the West. I happened to make some money along the way. Hahaha!"

Everyone in the room could not help but say, "Harrison, please give us an opportunity too. If the bosses from the chamber have other jobs, please bring us along."

Before Harrison could respond, someone suddenly kicked the door down.

When everyone inside the room was startled, the Elite Eight entered neatly, standing on both sides separately.

After Colin made his slow entrance, he glanced at Harrison and asked coldly, "I believe you're Harrison, the Scavenger of the Chamber of Commerce of the West. Our Master wants to see you."

What? Nathan's henchmen had brought Harrison back?

After Juno settled his nerves, he immediately instructed his men to display every security footage available, in the hotel.

In one of the monitors, he saw that Colin and the Elite Eight had arrived at the presidential suite, with a disheveled-looking man in tow.

Since there were no security cameras in the presidential suite, Juno and his men watched, until they brought Harrison into the suite, shutting the door.

Meanwhile, Juno was stunned for a moment before he exclaimed, "My goodness! Harrison is one of the more prominent figures in Johnstone City, respected by both the police and the Underground. He works directly for the top bosses in the Chamber of Commerce of the West. However, Nathan must be powerful, since he was able to bring him here, that easily! But I don't really get it.

What does Nathan Cross want, by bringing Harrison here?"

Nevertheless, none of his underlings could answer his question.

Juno began to feel a sense of bad omen and regretted his decision, in allowing Nathan to stay. Nathan Cross is a ticking bomb in my hotel!

In the presidential suite, Nathan sat on the couch and smoked in the living room.

When the Elite Eight stood straight, Colin pushed Harrison forward, to meet Nathan as he pronounced in a deep voice, "Master, Harrison is here."

Meanwhile, Harrison looked at Nathan shockingly and yelled, "Boy, who the hell are you? Do you know who I am? Have you thought about the consequences of bringing me here?"

After a while, Nathan tapped his cigarette on the ashtray and uttered composedly, "Well, you're Harrison, the executioner of

As soon as Nathan finished his sentence, Harrison was startled. Why does he dare to touch me, even as he is aware of who I am?

Then, Nathan continued, “Allow me to introduce myself. I’m Nathan Cross, and Zayn Cross is my father.”

He is Zayn Cross’s son!

There was a sense of nervousness in Harrison’s eyes, once he heard Nathan’s words.

However, he settled himself quickly and pretended to be clueless as he asked, “So, you’re Zayn Cross’s son. But why have you brought me here, given that I’m not exactly close to your family?”

Slowly, Nathan stood up and glanced outside the window as he admitted grimly, “My father had jumped off the hotel seven days ago. What was the topic of discussion, that he had, with the top guns

Though anxious, Harrison still pretended to be calm and sneered, "D, I don't know what you're talking about. If you have any questions about your father's death, ask a police officer. Don't disturb me because I'm busy."

Harrison started to tremble in fear. "What are you guys going to do to me?"

Harrison explained, "They are Fletcher Harvey, the president of the Chamber of Commerce of the West, along with Mark Ziegler and Jeremiah Donne, the two elders."

Sitting in the office in the hotel, Juno Packer grew increasingly uneasy. He stood up suddenly, grabbed the phone, and called Fletcher Harvey, the President of the Chamber of Commerce of the West.

If something bad had happened to Harrison in his hotel, he would not be able to bear the consequences.

When he dialed the number, a pitiful scream sounded from outside the window. A human figure fell rapidly from the sky, crashing down onto the streets below. It was none other than Harrison.

Juno's eyes widened instantly!

Fletcher's voice sounded from the phone.
"Hello, Mr. Packer. What's the matter?"

Juno's expression soon morphed into one of terror. His voice trembled as he reported, "Mr. Harvey, something bad has happened. Harrison, your subordinate, fell from the building."

Fletcher heard about how had Nathan come, torturing Harrison and pushing him off the Paradise Hotel.

His expression turned grim as he uttered coldly, "Hmph! Harrison died in the same manner as Zayn. By doing this, Nathan is declaring that this will be the start of his revenge."

Juno asked timidly, "What should I do now, Mr. Harvey?"

Fletcher replied coldly, "Don't bother about this. You don't need to call the police either. We'll settle Nathan ourselves."

Feeling extremely bitter, Juno agreed softly, "Yes, sir!"

People continuously died, in his hotel. Even though he could bribe the media to exclude their reports about such deaths, the news would still spread inevitably. His hotel would be affected for a long time.

The only thing he wished for, was that the Chamber of Commerce of the West would not create such a huge ruckus when dealing with Nathan. Otherwise, his hotel would lose all of its business!

Fletcher Harvey quickly summoned the two other elders of the Chamber of Commerce of the West, Mark Ziegler, and Jeremiah Donne. They discussed how to deal with Nathan.

Mark spat furiously, "Nathan Cross is going overboard! How dare he kill our men?"

However, Jeremiah relayed, "We've already taken control of Zayn's liver cancer medicine project. It's going to be sent to the FDA for approval soon."

"Nothing must go wrong at this juncture. We must settle Nathan, that eyesore, as soon as possible."

Narrowing his eyes, Fletcher muttered slowly, "Nathan's at the Paradise Hotel right now. Who should we send to deal with him?"

Mark suggested, “Mr. Harvey, don’t you have a very impressive subordinate named Furies?”

“Since Nathan could kill Harrison, he’s probably quite capable too. You should just send Furies over to deal with him.”

Furies!

He was a terrifyingly powerful assassin. When he was a child, he was trafficked to the West and sold to an assassin organization.

The assassin organization in the West trained top assassins by an elimination procedure.

Firstly, they would gather tens of thousands of children and train them together, teaching them the skills of combat and assassination.

Then, they would force the children through rounds of eliminations to battle against one another. The remaining children were the victors, and they became the top assassins of the organization.

There were thousands of children training alongside Furies that year.

After ten years of training, he was the only one left.

Having worked as an assassin in the West for over ten years, he had gone numb from killing people.

After being tired of working as an assassin, he returned home, with the help of Fletcher Harvey.

After returning home, Furies realized that his relatives were gone.

Hence, he stayed by Fletcher's side willingly and served as his personal assassin.

In other words, Furies was Fletcher's most powerful weapon!

When Fletcher heard Mark's suggestion to send Furies to deal with Nathan, he was shocked. He mused thoughtfully, “We don’t need to mobilize Furies just to deal with Nathan, right?”

Mark replied, “Mr. Harvey, we need to be sure.”

Jeremiah smiled and agreed, “Yeah. We’ve already taken control of the liver medicine project and we’re going to send a prototype for approval soon. Then, we’re going to release it in the market and strike it big. Nothing wrong can happen at this juncture.”

“Send Furies to kill Nathan. Although we’re using our trump card to defeat a measly enemy, we must ensure that nothing goes wrong.”

When Fletcher heard what they proclaimed, he made his decision and yelled, “Neville!”

A sleazy man entered instantly. With a flattering smile, he asked, “Mr. Harvey, how may I be of service?”

Chapter 870 The Attack Of Furies

In the presidential suite of Paradise Hotel, Nathan had just received a call from Penny. She had just arrived at the airport with Kylie and wanted him to pick them up.

Hanging up the call, he smiled bitterly.

When Colin saw that, he was stunned.
“What’s wrong, General?”

Nathan shook his head, looking as if he was at a loss for words. “Penny and Kylie, along with a few members of Cross Group’s senior management, have arrived at the West. They told me to pick them up.”

Colin was stunned. “Oh! Madam is here!”

Nathan smiled bitterly. “She said that they are here to find a suitable agent in the West to help Cross Group market the liver cancer vaccine in the West.”

“Actually, that’s not her real motive. After knowing that I came here to investigate my father’s death, she came over because she’s worried.”

Colin was at a loss for words too. He whispered, “Madam is just concerned about you!”

Nathan waved his hands. “Go and prepare the car with the Elite Eight. I’ll change into another set of clothes before coming down.”

Colin and the Elite Eight answered simultaneously, “Yes, sir!”

After changing his clothes, Nathan exited the room and walked straight to the lift.

Ding!

The lift doors opened quickly and he walked in.

At that moment, a dozen men wielding sharp knives dashed out from both ends of the corridor. Yelling, they charged into the lift.

Immediately, the lift doors closed slowly.

At Paradise Hotel’s lobby, Neville stood in
